

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at <http://books.google.com/>

Mr. Robert W. Chambers'

Greatest Romantic Novel

THE RECKONING

12mo, Ornamental Cloth, $1.50

A Romance of a Spy, a Lover and a Soldier in the Revolution

"A stirring story, one of the writer's best."

—Chicago Record-Herald.

"Many human types of that period and some historic characters appear in the pages, and there are Indian raids and much adventure to diversify and lend interest to the plot."

—Los Angeles Times.

"Readers who enjoyed 'Cardigan' and 'The Maid-at-Arms' will find the same atmosphere, and often the same characters and locations, in the new book. 'The Reckoning' is a story which will do much to enlarge his following."

—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

D. APPLETON & COMPANY, 3 Publishers, 3 NEW YORK

"Scraggy looked like a forlorn hope lost in a fog." From "Mr. Scraggs," by HENRY WALLACE PHILLIPS. Published by The Grafton Press, N. Y.

"LIKE a forlorn hope lost in a fog."—That's the way his friend Red Saunders tried to explain Scraggs.

It doesn't explain much if you don't know Ezekiel George Washington Scraggs, late of Missouri, later of Utah ("I've been a Mormon," Scraggs explained; but Red said that was nothing to bank on in dealing with Zeke), and latest of North Dakota.

Scraggs' melancholy is only skin deep; and the more mournful he is the more joyful you get; the longer his face the broader your grin. The kind of humor that makes you laugh till the tears come—that's Scraggs; the kind that makes you say: "there's a lot of sense in that"—that's Scraggs, too.

And then the story! Some people WRITE stories—little four by five plots, parted in the middle, symmetrical, lovely. Scraggs TELLS a story. He tells it because he can't help it. Your real story-teller is born, and not every minute either; and THAT'S Scraggs, too.

You can't have the blues, and you don't worry about the crops, and you really don't care whether the ticker ticks or not when you read Mr. Scraggs.

It will be ready in book form on January 15th; the title is

Mr. Scraggs

The author is Henry Wallace Phillips, who wrote "Red Saunders." The price is $1.25. Eight illustrations from special drawings; one of them in colors for frontispiece.

NOTES IN SEASON.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have published a new illustrated edition of Burns's celebrated poem, "The Cotter's Saturday Night," with twenty-one full-page drawings by A. S. Boyd, a well-known Scotch artist.

DODD, MEAD & Co. have in preparation a story of Harrow, by Horace Vachell, author of "Brothers," which is said to be alive with delightful character studies and interesting events; also, "The Girl with the Blue Sailor," by Burton E. Stevenson, author of the popular "Marathon Mystery," etc.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have in preparation "Northland Heroes," by Miss Holbrook, author of "The Book of Nature Myths," etc., giving a narrative of the Norse romance of Fridtjof's Saga and of the exploits of Beowulf; a volume of "Selections from Newman," edited by Dr. Maurice Francis Egan, of the Catholic University at Washington; also, an edition of "Bacon's Essays," with an introduction by Professor Mary Augusta Scott, of Smith College, who was recently decorated by King Leopold, of Belgium, "for distinguished literary merit."

THE GRAFTON PRESS, New York, will publish on the 15th inst. "Mr. Scraggs," a new novel by Henry Wallace Phillips, author of "Red Saunders." The collection of stories of which the volume is made up records characteristic incidents in the career of a man whose ambition, according to "Red Saunders," who introduces his friend to the reader, it was to be "the head of the hull Mormon Kingdom," and who married "right and left" until driven to desperation he cut loose and ended in a State where a man's importance is not weighed by the number of his wives. Though obliged to view life from the standpoint of a pessimist, Mr. Scraggs's melancholy is only skin deep, and the longer his face becomes the broader becomes the grin of his reader. The Grafton Press have just ready the ninth revised edition of the useful "Postal Dictionary," compiled from official sources by Edward St. John.

BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY will shortly issue a novel by Herbert Quick, entitled "Double Trouble, or, Every Hero His Own Villain," which introduces about every fad and fancy of the overwrought, restless brains and theories of the day in the United States from East to West. The hero is a respectable young banker, of Wisconsin, of literary and artistic tastes, who meets with a strange experience on a sleeping car that drives him to an oculist in New York City for explanation. The plot is most involved, dealing with double identity and mystery of all kinds. The publishers have gotten out a special limited advance edition dedicated to the book-sellers throughout the land "who are ever kind to their inventions." By way of keeping up interest in the startling tale it is printed half way through and the book must be begun from the other end to be read right side up. This plan of binding helps the publishers' assertions that "the book is bound to attract equally whichever way you look at it," and that "it shows a new way to make ends meet in promoting books." The author has written "Aladdin & Co." and "In the Fairyland of America," and has imagination of the most active and erratic kind.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk **, and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger†. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Sizes are designated as follows: P. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (xmo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Th. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fc. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Bacon, Edgar Mayhew, and Wheeler, Andrew Carpenter. Nation builders: a story. N. Y., Eaton & Mains, [1905.] c. 3-196 p. D. cl., $1.

Under the above title, the writer groups the itinerant preachers of Methodism, who went out to possess the American frontier a century ago. The plan of the book was suggested by Andrew Carpenter Wheeler, at one time a well-known New York journalist and dramatic critic, who, towards the end of his life, gained some fame as a novelist under the pen name of "G. P. Mowbray." Mr. Bacon who finished the work has included Mr. Wheeler's chapters on Henry Bascom, etc.

Henry Clay Trumbull, for many years editor and proprietor of the Sunday School Times, was born June 8, 1830, and died Dec. 8, 1903. In his busy life he wrote a number of books, of which the titles fill a page. Charles Gallaudet Trumbull who writes the introduction says: "What the world at large could not know of Henry Clay Trumbull, and what no man can tell of himself, this book reveals. As editor, writer, explorer, expositor, chaplain, missionary, the world has known him; now it may know him as something better than all these."

The Chancellor of Nebraska Wesleyan University offers his papers as suggestions towards lives of true Christianity. There are sixteen chapters dealing with important items of Christian conduct. Between the chapters are quotations from well-known authors, all leading to deeper searchings of the heart and devout prayers.

Little, Mrs. Archibald. Round about my Peking garden. Phil., Lippincott, 1905. 2+284 p. il. O. cl., *$5 net.

China and the Chinese have long been subjects of study with Mrs. Little. Her experiences of travel and her researches are contained in a life of "Li Hung Chang," in two descriptive works, "The land of the blue gown," and "Intimate China," and in two romances, "A marriage in China" and "Out in China." The present work is the result of new material gathered on revisiting Peking in 1900, after the Boxer outbreak. First she describes her Peking garden; following are chapters on: How the court came back to Peking; Official and rank distinctions; An imperial funeral; Pekingese dogs and gold and silver fish; The western hills; Seaside resorts; Imperial hot springs and the Ming tombs; To Kalgau and the Mongolian grass land; Among Peking palaces; The Hailing, or Western truths; Lama and Confucian temples; To Port Arthur, etc.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JANUARY 6, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

ENGLISH BOOK AUCTION SALES IN 1905.*

THE English book auction season of 1905, as recorded by J. H. Slater in his latest volume of "Book Prices Current," was remarkable for the large number of scarce and valuable books offered. Of late years some twenty-five or thirty single volumes, or works, have each, as a rule, realized $500 or upwards during the course of a season. This figure, however, during the past year has been greatly exceeded. The Shakespeariana alone, as Mr. Slater points out, constituted a formidable list. One copy of the first folio made its appearance, nine of the second, one of the third, and seven of the fourth; and, in addition, there were twenty-five early 4tos, or 8vos, inclusive of the "Merry Divil of Edmonton" and that precursor of "King Lear," which was printed for Simon Stafford for John Wright in 1605 under the title of "The True Chronicle History of King Leir and His Three Daughters, Gonerill, Ragan and Cordella."

The following table, prepared for "Book Prices Current," gives a summary of the more important Shakespeariana sold, with the prices realized. Ordinary copies and collective editions—of which there were a large number—and more particularly a variety of acting versions, all presentation copies from

Othello, 4to, some leaves in facsimile, 1630..	90
King John, 4to, title defective, stained, 1622.	79
Merry Divil of Edmonton, 4to, 1617.....	69

Some of these copies were, of course, in better condition than others, but Mr. Slater has not thought it necessary to give minute details in this respect.

This is, as stated, a formidable and altogether exceptional list, in itself sufficient to make this volume of "Book Prices Current" a notable addition to the series. There are, however, a considerable number of other books, equally interesting and valuable, which it would, under the circumstances, be illogical to omit. These are, as before arranged with reference to the prices realized, the more expensive volumes being placed first:

	Realised.
Mentz Psalter: Fust and Schoeffer's Psalter, folio, boards, 1459.....	£4,000
Holy Bible: Burns's Family Bible, with inscriptions, folio, 1766.....	1,560
Caxton: Booke called Caton, 10 15-16 in. by 7¾ in., 3 blank pages missing, 1483.....	1,350
William Tyndale: Pentateuch, 6 in. by 3¾ in., some leaves defective, 1530.....	940
Countess of Pembroke: Tragedie of Antonie and Mornay's Discourse of Life and Death, 12mo., perfect copies, in one volume, original vellum, 1595-1600.....	560
Sir Philip Sidney: Countess of Pembroke's Arcadia, blank leaf missing, 4to, 1590....	450
Nicholas Vignier: La Bibliothèque Historiale, 3 vols., bound by Clovis Eve, folio, 1588..	305
Chaucer: Works, vellum copy, Kelmescott Press, 1896.....	300

	Realised.
Glanville: De Proprietatibus Rerum, folio, some leaves defective, Wynkyn de Worde, n. d. ....	£251
Defoe: Robinson Crusoe. Farther Adventures and Serious Reflections, 3 vols., stained, calf, 1719-20. ....	250
Edmund Spenser: Faerie Queene, 2 vols., 4to, Welsh Words printed, old calf, 1590-96	220
Holy Bible: Bible with reputed signatures of Shakespeare, 1611. ....	210
Cockburn: In Dominicam Orationum Pia Meditatio, Laing's copy, small 8vo, morocco extra, 1555. ....	201
Higden: Polychronicon, folio, old calf, very defective, Caxton, c. 1483. ....	201
Valturius: De Re Militari, printed on vellum, first ed., five leaves supplied from a paper copy, 1472. ....	200
L. Bayly and other authors: Practice of Pietie, etc., 6 vols., 8vo, "Travelling Library," bound, probably by S. Mearne, 1636-40. ....	200
James I.: Basilikon Doron, vellum, first edition, 4to, 1599. ....	174
Metastasio: Opere, 12 vols., arms of Marie Antoinette, 4to, 1780-82. ....	165
Edmund Spenser: Faerie Queene, 2 vols., 4to, blank space for the Welsh words, morocco, 1590-96. ....	160
George Redford: Art Sales, extensive MSS. additions, 1881. ....	160
Scott: Waverley, 3 vols., boards, 1814 (another set in boards realised £181 on July 19). ....	150
William Blake: Marriage of Heaven and Hell, 4to, morocco, n. d. ....	150

In addition, twenty-six other works realized £100 or over, but less than £150, and on a calculation it is found that, including the Shakespeareana, the books contained in the second list, and the other works which it has not been thought necessary to quote, but which realized £100 and upwards, as much as £24,351 was obtained for 60 works.

As regards the general run of books the season for 1904-1905 has not been altogether satisfactory, the average working out at £2 17s. 2d., as against £2 9s. 3d. in 1903-4, a phenomenally bad year; £3 2s. 10d. in 1902-3, £3 3s. 4d., in 1901-2, and £3 7s. 10d. in 1900-1901, the last-named being the highest so far recorded. It is evident from this computation that an average of £2 17s. 2d. is, under the circumstances, anything but satisfactory. It discloses the fact, as Mr. Slater points out, that while some few books of a very special kind have realized abnormally high prices, the vast majority must have suffered severely. Such indeed proves, on investigation, to be the case, for, leaving the 69 high-priced works out of the calculation, the average stands no higher than about £2 5s. 9d. Ordinary books have dropped very greatly in value. Works on bibliography, sport, theology, history and military subjects, as well as old poetical works, have, on the whole, barely maintained last year's position, though an increased interest has been taken in the early editions of the plays of the old dramatists. Everything else has, however, much headway to make. Works of fiction show a great falling off in numbers, as well as in value, and the same remark applies to books classed under the headings of voyages and travels, natural history (in all its branches), the fine arts, topography and views in Europe and the East. The Greek and Latin classics are hardly, a few exceptions apart, worth mentioning, and Americana are conspicuous by the infrequency of their occurrence. It may be said with every confidence that the season 1904-5 has proved one of the best of recent years for buyers who are compelled by circumstances or content to forego the collection of curiosities and to pin their faith to books which are desirable and, at the same time, comparatively easy to acquire.

THE STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE ANNUAL MEETING.

THE annual meeting of the Stationers' Board of Trade was held on the afternoon of the 2d inst., at rooms of the Board, 97 Nassau Street, New York City, Henry C. Bainbridge, the president, in the chair. There were present or represented by proxy forty-seven firms.

The president read the following address, which, upon motion, was received and ordered entered in full upon the minutes:

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

In presenting the thirty-first annual address of the President of this organization I want to congratulate you upon the excellent general condition of our Board. We are free from debt, redemption fund intact, and have a handsome surplus. Every department is well organized, with an efficient head, all work harmoniously under the direction of our secretary, who is responsible to the officers. This condition is very satisfactory to your officers and adds much to the pleasure of serving you.

We have had several resignations from our membership during the year, but new members have come in to enable us to show a net increase for the year of three.

Information Department.—Our members have very generally used this department during the year. While few have exceeded the two hundred limit, many have obtained their full quota of reports. Our records have never been in as good shape. We can report on almost any concern of importance in our own or in any kindred lines, and these records are being continually revised and kept up to date. About 1700 special circulars referring to important trade changes have been sent to our members besides our Weekly Circular, of which over 7800 have been issued.

Collection Department.—The report of the Executive Committee shows that the record of this department is excellent. It has been very generally used, and has collected an unusually large amount of money. In connection with this department we have a form of demand notice for collection of claims, which we sell at 40 cents per hundred. These can be sent direct to debtor, and if claim is paid you avoid the payment of fees, and members who have used them have found it a very effective means of collecting past due claims, particularly so for small amounts. The draft system has been quite generally used with effective results by our members. In cases when the draft has been paid to the bank it has only put them to an expense of 2 per cent. for collecting. If members would make a more extensive use of this system they would find it one of the best and cheapest means of collecting their past due claims. We would suggest to those who have not done so that they make use of it at the first opportunity.

Bankruptcy Department.—By comparison with the showing of the year's work for 1904, I find that about the same number of failures and bankruptcy cases have been placed in our hands, as well as a like number of claims; but the net amount realized in cash is far in excess of previous years, viz., about 50 per cent., and this, of course, has largely increased our revenue in the way of fees, as shown by the treasurer's report, being about 40 per cent. to 50 per cent. more than last year.

The largest case that was placed in our charge during the year was the Philadelphia Book Store Co., whose indebtedness amounted to about $29,000 and assets about $35,000, and we controlled nearly all the claims, aggregating $24,000, and thereby were successful in having a representation in the receivership proceedings of two co-receivers out of the three appointed by the court, who handled the matter in such a judicious and satisfactory manner that a dividend was declared by them of 80 per cent., and thus enabled us to pay about $16,945 to the creditors we represent; and from certain accounts now in hands of the receivers for collection we expect in the near future, say six months or more, to receive another dividend sufficient to pay the creditors in full. We particularly mention this, as it shows the efficacy of concentrating claims in such matters and having all the creditors work together so that the best results possible may be accomplished, especially so through bankruptcy by the appointment of a proper trustee, etc. We find, however, that some of our members, when they receive a request from an outside attorney, who frequently does not represent us, they forward their claim to him instead of sending it to this office, which in some instances we know of has proven detrimental to their interests, and I, therefore, would suggest that in all matters of this and similar nature that members immediately forward their claims to this office. Our secretary has had large experience in handling bankruptcy, failure and adjustment cases, and when it is necessary for him in the interests of creditors to investigate the matter personally by proceeding to the locality where the failure has taken place, he is ready at all times to immediately proceed to same for the purpose of investigating the failure and ascertaining the best action to take in the premises.

During the past year death has removed from our ranks the following who were, or had been, connected with our Board:

John McLoughlin, of McLoughlin Bros., who died April 27, 1905.

Andrew J. C. Foye, formerly of Jos. Dixon Crucible Co., and at one time treasurer of our Board, who died May 26, 1905.

David F. Davids, president of Thaddeus Davids Co., who died August 26, 1905.

John H. Mabie, of the firm of Mabie, Todd & Bard, who died October 10, 1905.

John F. Anderson, Jr., of the former firm of J. F. Anderson, Jr., & Co., died Thursday, January 19, 1905. Mr. Anderson was one of the first members of our association, having joined us in November, 1877.

In accordance with our yearly custom the books of the office have been examined by R. L. Cuthbert, the well-known accountant. His report is on file and is eminently satisfactory. The first week in October I attended, as your representative, the first annual convention of the National Association of Stationers and Manufacturers at St. Louis. The National Association honored this Board by electing John A. Walker to the office of first vice-president, and your president to the office of auditor.

Your dinner committee has arranged to hold the annual dinner on Tuesday, February 6, at the Waldorf-Astoria. Among the guests who have accepted an invitation to be with us are the Hon. Herman Metz, Comptroller of New York, and the Rev. Lindsay Parker. This is an excellent start, and assures you that the affair will be fully up to our usual high standard.

I again thank the trustees and the employees of the office for the uniform help and courtesy extended to me, which has done so much to make my work as president a pleasure.

The following reports were then read and approved and ordered to be entered in full upon the minutes:

REPORT OF EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

As chairman of the Executive Committee of the Stationers' Board of Trade, I take pleasure in submitting the following report for the year 1905:

INFORMATION DEPARTMENT.

The reports on file in this department to January 1, 1906, number 80,416. At the present time we have revised reports of the standing and credit of 63,358 dealers, of which 2585 are new names received during the year.

From January 1 to December 31, 1905, we have furnished to members 16,150 reports, as against 16,015 during 1904.

INFORMATION (REPORTS) APPLIED FOR.

Inquiries of correspondents.....	6,087	5,921
Requests of dealers for statements....	4,377	4,752

INFORMATION (REPORTS) RECEIVED.

Reports from correspondents.....	5,789	5,772
Statements received.....	2,611	2,861

During the year 1905 we sent to members for information 5075 inquiries. In 1904, 4966 were sent. Letters written number 1042, as against 1098 in 1904. Weekly Circulars issued from this department during the year were 7825, in addition to which there were also issued 1640 special circulars.

This department was used by 106 members in 1904, and during the year 1905 by 108.

Various members have obtained 114 reports in excess of the limited of 200 per year.

COLLECTION DEPARTMENT.

In the collection department there have been received for collection during the year 4376 claims aggregating $180,568.21.

Collections to the amount of $58,346.85 have been made through the office, and nearly $40,000 was paid direct to members as the result of notice from the office and attorneys.

1553 claims have been closed by collection through the office, by attorneys, or paid direct to members.

3208 claims were sent to attorneys during year.

742 claims amounting to $37,993.77 were settled direct.

524 claims were settled through attorneys.

267 claims were settled through the office.

1046 claims were returned uncollectible.

146 claims transferred to the Bankruptcy Department.

1733 claims are still open and in process of collection, 2745 claims having been disposed of.

There have been received 17,048 letters and 32,544 written.

There have been received during the year 247 drafts, which are included in the number of claims received, aggregating $11,558.42, of which 46 have been collected, amounting to $2,168.14. The remaining 17 unpaid drafts were turned over to our attorneys for collection.

BANKRUPTCY DEPARTMENT.

During the year 1905, 316 new cases, including 888 claims amounting to $143,050.90, were opened in this department.

29 cases (55 claims) amounting to $4343.18 were paid in full.

10 cases (12 claims) amounting to $1007.30 were paid direct.

157 cases (597 claims amounting to $78,924.35 were compromised or settled through the bankruptcy court.

92 cases (196 claims) amounting to $13,865.41 were returned as worthless.

4 cases (4 claims) amounting to $647.10 were withdrawn.

4 cases (4 claims) amounting to $252.79 were settled by return of goods.

Creditors have been paid through this department proceeds of $54,970.05, not including the $1007.30 which was paid to them direct.

There have been 6544 letters received and 7525 were written, also 7599 circulars were sent to creditors.

In addition to the correspondence of this department, there have been 353 general letters received and 945 written.

Through the Collection and Bankruptcy Departments there has been collected and disbursed $114,324.20. This does not include $37,993.77 paid direct to members. This makes a total paid of $152,317.97.

The books have been audited monthly and bills have been passed and paid regularly each month; besides, the certified accountant for the Board, R. L. Cuthbert, has audited the books to December 1, and, according to the certified report as rendered by him, were found correct.

The year ended with a balance of $5504.07 in the treasurer's hands. This amount, less the dinner fund account and estate receipts undistributed, leaves the amount at disposal of the treasurer $5024.62.

Your Executive Committee suggests that all our members use their best efforts towards increasing the usefulness of the Board and enlarging its membership, so that the year 1906 will prove more prosperous than any previous year.

JAMES C. AIKIN,
Chairman Executive Committee.

The Board next elected the following trustees for the ensuing year: James C. Aikin, of Aikin, Lambert & Co.; Thomas P. Bacon, of J. B. Lippincott Co.; Henry C. Bainbridge, of Chas. T. Bainbridge's Sons; William B. Boorum, Jr., of Boorum & Pease Co.; Charles S. Cooke, of Cooke & Cobb Co.; Eberhard Faber, of Eberhard Faber; Stephen Farrelly, of American News Co.; William Keuffel, of Keuffel & Esser Co.; Charles S. Kiggins, of Kiggins & Tooker Co.; Charles McLoughlin, of McLoughlin Bros.; Lawrence W. Sanders, treasurer of D. Appleton & Co.; Lyman B. Sturgis, of The Macmillan Co.; David A. Tower, of Tower Mfg. & Novelty Co.; Miles Vernon, of S. E. & M. Vernon; John A. Walker, of Jos. Dixon Crucible Co.; Samuel Ward, of Samuel Ward Co.; Frank D. Waterman, of L. E. Waterman Co.; Franklin Weston, of Byron Weston Co.

Election of officers, committees, etc., for the ensuing year will take place at the regular monthly meeting of the trustees, to be held on Tuesday, the 9th inst., at which time also the following applications for membership will be presented and acted upon: Kronheimer & Oldenbusch Co., or, K. & O. Co., Brooklyn.

PHOTOGRAPHIC PRINTS WITHOUT SUNLIGHT.

A NEW process for making photographic prints without sunlight is described by Professor Robert Kennedy Duncan in the January number of Harper's Magazine. The process is peculiarly applicable for the easy production of beautiful "carbon" prints, and the article contains a reproduction of one which was made in less than two minutes. The new method, which is fully described so that the reader may try it for himself, has just been put on the German market, under the name of the "Catatype Process." It was devised by Professor Ostwald and Dr. Gros, to whom Professor Duncan is indebted for the practical demonstration given at the works of the Neue Photographische Gesellschaft, at Steglitz. Professor Duncan will be for some little time on the Continent, as he has undertaken a commission in behalf of Harper's Magazine to find out how far America has been outstripped by the Continental countries, and especially by Germany, in the practical application made by their great industries of the most recent and wonderful discoveries of science.

THE "B. C. T." COMES OF AGE.

THE BROTHERHOOD OF COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS, on the evening of December 28, met in the Myrtle Room of the Waldorf-Astoria, New York City, to celebrate its twenty-first birthday. At eight o'clock about seventy members and their guests took their places in the beautifully decorated room, followed by the president, John H. Black, and his staff. At each plate lay a handsome souvenir menu, showing on its title page an excellent portrait of the founder of the Brotherhood, Charles A. Plummer. A copy of "In Bohemia," by J. C. Harvey, was donated by H. M. Caldwell Co., and a champagne cork match box was distributed to each one present as a souvenir. Mumm & Co. for the twenty-first year sent, with their compliments, a consignment of their wines, and the E. H. Gato Company again made a generous donation of their cigars. After coffee had been served Brother Black, in a brief speech, welcomed the gathering, referring touchingly to the founder of the Brotherhood, and expressing the hope that the membership of the organization might in the years to come hold together as loyally as in the past.

At this point several ladies, among them Mrs. Black and her niece, entered the room to grace the speech making, and were courteously greeted. Mrs. Nestor Lattard, Mrs. Black's niece, favored the company with several songs that were applauded to the echo.

The secretary then read the roll-call of the officers of the Brotherhood, homage being paid to those who have passed into rest—"checked through"—by respectful silence. A further tribute was paid to the dead, by displaying at the center of the guests' table, the regalia of Colonel John H. Ammon, the first representative of the booktrade to become the president of the Brotherhood, and that of H. J. Epping, its seventeenth president, whose death occurred on May 21, 1905.

John Hovendon, chairman of the Souvenir Committee, next claimed the attention of the gathering, and in a happy address on behalf of the Brotherhood presented to John H. Black a very handsome silver loving cup, inscribed with the monogram of the B. C. T., and the date of the twenty-first dinner. Brother Black at first was fairly dumb with surprise; but recovering himself, he warmly thanked the Brotherhood for this token of their esteem.

The "Historian" of the Brotherhood was then called upon for an account of the organization, which is given below:

THE BROTHERHOOD OF COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS, 1885-1906.

Man, in his healthy condition, is a gregarious animal. When he alienates himself from his fellows he becomes a misanthrope, and is shunned by man, woman and child. By the very choice of his profession a commercial traveller gives evidence that he is a companionable man, whose heart beats warm with sympathy and neighborly impulses; he is less likely, perhaps, to form hide-bound clubs than his sedentary associate, because everywhere he goes he finds a ready-made club and warm welcome. His fellow members travel on every railway train, and reside in every city, town and hamlet through which he may be obliged to take his way. It is little wonder, then, that the commercial travellers representing the book and stationery houses in New York and its vicinity did not recognize the necessity of forming themselves into a close society until long after the second half of the 19th century had passed down the ages. Then, one season, during the holidays of 1885, Charles S. Plummer, than whom no better friend or more sociable companion ever walked upon earth, said to a number of his intimates, "all the world is on a holiday, why not the 'boys.'" And so, quietly and without much parade, there came about an event that was referred to in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for December 19, 1885, as follows:

"During the past few weeks there has been noticeable considerable agitation among the travelling men connected with the book, stationery and kindred trades in New York City. There has been evident a restlessness among this usually placid body of men, which at this time of the year—all ships being in port, and the work of loading and unloading over-seemed wholly without justification, and fears were entertained by the families and friends of many that everything was not as it should be with the 'boys.' 'B. C. T.' seemed to be the complaint, and what is more, it was contagious. The secret leaked out when a neatly engraved pasteboard was circulated bearing the following inscription: '1885—first Annual Banquet of the Brotherhood of Commercial Travellers, at Morelli's, 8 West 28th St., New York City, Wednesday evening, December 16, 1885, at 7 o'clock.' To the left-hand corner of the card was attached a miniature facsimile of a regulation trunk marked 'C. & F., New York, 251 lbs.,' and as mottoes, 'Competition is the life of trade,' 'There is no such word as fail,' 'After toil comes rest,' and 'Let us all pull together.'"

Such, in brief, was the first published announcement that the Brotherhood of Commercial Travellers had been born and christened. The banquet held in the cosy parlor at Morelli's was a complete success, so well and faithfully had all concerned in the launching of the craft pulled together.

There were present at the first dinner upwards of 100 as fine-looking men as could be found anywhere in whatever trade or profession. The president, genial, wholesouled Charles S. Plummer, seconded by the vice-president, Charles E. Hopkins, gave the right hand of fellowship to the incoming guests, and turned them over to H. C. A. Gibbs, the secretary. Samuel Eckstein, the treasurer, George W. Knott, Benjamin Howe, R. L. Thomas, Charles J. Ritter, and George L. Cornwell, who constituted the Reception Committee, and who contributed not a little to the success of the affair by seeing to it that all were made acquainted in the shortest time possible. The speaking was good, though often—well, let us say, "mellow." The toasts, "The Brotherhood of Commercial Travellers, united by closer and more enduring bonds than railroad ties," "Buyer and Salesmen," "Hotels and their Accommodations," "Railroads and Extra Baggage," "The Commercial Traveller, a Modern Necessity," and "The Press," were responded to by Colonel John H. Ammon, John H. Black, George W. Knott, John A. McQuillan, C. E. Hopkins and Andrew Geyer in the order named. The company broke up after joining Brother William J. Kelly in singing his prime favorite—"Vive la Compagnie."

The hope, expressed earlier in the evening by the president, Brother Plummer, that the Brotherhood "would grow larger and stronger, and outlive the present generation," re-echoed in the breast of every man present as he wended his way home to prepare for the trials, defeats and victories that another year might have in store for him.

We shall note how that hope was realized.

Of that early band there are few who would not have resented the imputation that the time would come when they would fail to "pull together," come weal or woe. And yet, such is the uncertainty of human resolution that time witnessed the defection of some of those even who most persistently reiterated on several occasions that "so long as another man of the Brotherhood was alive and willing," they would once a year, during the holiday season, "spread their feet under the mahogany with him and drink to the health of the Brotherhood." To-night their places at this banquet table are occupied by others, though not less worthy and enthusiastic guests, to maintain the integrity of their boast to drink to the health of the Brotherhood, which to-night is within sight of the eve of "Coming of age."

Another year had come to its close when the "B. C. T." came together on the evening of the 29th of December, 1886, this time at Mazetti's, 102 West 49th Street, under the presidency of Brother Charles E. Hopkins. On that occasion, at a preliminary meeting the question of establishing a permanent club-room was discussed, and a standing committee appointed to report on the subject—a committee, which, by the way, "stands" to this day without a report.

The speeches were introduced with a parody on the ballad "In the Days of Old. When Knights were Bold," sung by Brother H. C. Bainbridge. the verses of which were as follows:

In days of old,
When tramps were bold,
And "Drummers" got poor pay,
A Traveller bold,
With Samples old,
Sang merrily his lay
Sang merrily his lay:
"I have these goods to sell!
If I don't, the boss will raise—well,
Then what care I, though death be nigh,
I'll sell the stuff or die!"

The shades of night
Were falling fast.
And this day's work was done.
He'd seen the trade,
Sold bills that paid,
And thought he'd have some fun,
He thought he'd have some fun.
So, dressed up in his best
Dress suit and clean white vest,
Cried, "What care I, though death be nigh, I'll have some fun or die."

An auction was held under the auspices of Brother Plummer to dispose of a handsome autograph album containing the autographs of the members of the Brotherhood, the sale of which realized nearly double the amount needed to wipe out the deficit incurred in getting up the banquet.

On this evening, also, was inaugurated the pleasant ceremony of investing the retiring president with an elaborate gold and ivory gavel suspended, in each case, from a distinctively colored ribbon, which has been observed until the present time. This insignia has been worn with as much pride by each retiring president of the Brotherhood as were worn the spurs or his lady's scarf by the Knights of old.

The third and the fourth dinners were given, respectively, on the 28th of December, 1887, and 27th of December, 1888, both at the Metropolitan Hotel.

Colonel Ammon occupied the chair on the former occasion, and William J. Kelly on the latter. There were present as guests at the third dinner J. C. Harvey, Wallace Bruce, J. Foord and Adolf Tuck, and at the fourth dinner Carl Levison, Joe Howard, Jr., Marshall P. Wilder, E. S. Savage and Russell B. Harrison, son of the then president-elect of the United States, who in a witty speech denied the "soft impeachment" that he was a bookseller, inasmuch as his sales consisted chiefly of playing cards, poker chips and "guns."

The fifth dinner, given at the Hotel Marlborough, on the evening of December 30, 1889, under the direction of President J. F. Hitchcock, was the first of a number of successful dinners. The dinner was in the nature of a family affair, celebrating, as it did, the wooden wedding of the Brotherhood. No professional speakers had been invited, but each had an opportunity, if he wished, to say something pertinent. There was no dearth of "talk."

1890.

At about this time the Brotherhood had weathered a crisis; some of its members dropped off and others were lukewarm in their support. However, the "old guard" was undismayed, and a year after, on the 30th of December, 1890, fifty of the members of the "B. C. T." and their friends again met at the Marlborough for a love feast, again under the chairmanship of J. F. Hitchcock, who later resigned the chair to John H. Black, the toastmaster. Mr. Hitchcock before retiring congratulated the Brotherhood upon its growth and the beginning of practical work. He dwelt with considerable earnestness upon the desirability of establishing an "Immediate Relief Fund," which might be drawn upon when needed, and which would do away with the necessity of taking up collections or circulating subscription sheets. Gustav Tuck, C. E. Hopkins, W. B. Walker, Colonel Ammon and others spoke briefly, and Edward Salt favored the company with several songs.

The seventh dinner was again given at the Marlborough on the evening of December 30, 1891, presided over by John A. McQuillan. On this occasion Brother J. F. Hitchcock, in a touching speech, called up the memory of Charles Plummer,* the founder and first president of the Association, whose portrait (kindly lent by his widow) stood at the head of the table decorated with smilax, as did also the emblem and the menu of the first banquet. Samuel Gabriel was called upon for a few remarks, to which he responded, closing his speech with a suggestion that in their hour of gladness they remember the poor. A proposition was made to take up a collection for the fund of the Hospital Saturday and Sunday Association, which was enthusiastically received, the result being over fifty dollars. Other speakers were Horace S. Ridings, John H. Black, Jonas Langfeld and G. W. Knott.

The eighth dinner at the Marlborough, on the 28th of December, 1892, was attended by fully 100 persons. In the absence of the president, Brother Trabue Van Culin, John H. Black presided. There were present as guests Will Carleton, the Hon. W. Waller, ex-governor of Connecticut, J. C. Harvey, John G. Hart, vice-president of the Commercial Travellers' Club, James D. Mandeville, vice-president of the Tenderloin Club, and Professor Truman.

In the course of the evening Brother Black announced to the members of the Brotherhood that the Commercial Travellers' Club desired to have them affiliate with the latter club, and called upon Mr. George W. Knott, the president of the club, to further enlighten the assembly upon the subject.

Mr. Knott briefly told the history of the Commercial Travellers' Club, which in 1890-'91 began with a membership of six and no capital, and a year later numbered three hundred, had a well-appointed club-house with twenty-two rooms, hired for five years at a rental of $4000 per year and a reserve fund towards building a house of its own. The ambition of the club, Mr. Knott continued, was to draft into its membership the 250,000 travellers throughout the United States (of which 116,000 belonged to New York City) and in time to establish a chain of commercial travellers' clubs to reach from Portland, Me., to San Francisco, Cal. He cautioned the commercial men present not to overlook the desirability of combining together for the protection of their interests and those of their employers quite as much as for the comfort and pleasure they might enjoy through such clubs; that as their employers now figured their expenses a part of their salaries, every movement on their part that enabled them to reduce expenses would accrue to their benefit in the shape of increased salaries quite as much as it would to the profit of their firms. A portion of this saving might be accomplished through pressure which a united effort of a majority of the travellers could bring to bear on railroad companies and the proprietors of hotels; another portion might be saved by a greater exercise of economy and a recognition of the fact that the money they were spending was not in fact money belonging to others, but might become a part of their own salaries if they were inclined to work to that end. Finally he explained that it was the desire of the club of which he was president to have as its members the whole of the Brotherhood, and that it would to that end waive the question of initiation fee. He also showed that this would not necessitate the extinction of the Brotherhood as a separate organization, but, on the contrary, that it would help to make the parent organization—for so he regarded the "B. C. T."—stronger, in that it gave them a permanent home which, with its necessarily restricted membership, it would otherwise probably never be able to obtain. The proposal seemed to meet with general approval, and after the banquet a number of members registered their names for admission into the Commercial Travellers' Club.

The ninth dinner, also at the Marlborough, on the 28th of December, 1893, was attended by the largest number ever present on these occasions—covers being laid for 110 guests. The president, John H. Black, as usual, presided in a most acceptable manner. Among the guests who entertained the Brotherhood on that occasion were J. C. Harvey, who read a humorous poem relating the career of a museum freak, in which book and stationery trade terms were used with a happy and telling effect; Will Carleton, E. Russell Throckmorton, John L. Shepherd and P. Daly, the comedian of "Kelly the rolling-mill man" fame, who tried to live up to his motto, "be a gentleman, let it be ever so painful."

1894.

We now reach the tenth anniversary held on the 27th of December, 1894, with President John Hovendon in the chair. The banquet-room of the Marlborough was thronged with a merry company and the best of spirits prevailed. The president, in his opening address, said that "the Brotherhood reports favorable progress, and having weathered its most critical period is bound to grow in strength and influence. Its charitable work, though done so modestly that outsiders are hardly aware of it, is considerable. As a factor in building up the esprit de corps among its members, its work is not to be slightly regarded. And as a real, solid comfort to its members at the end of each year, why, it is regarded as a tremendous success by all who meet with it on the occasion of its annual banquet." As usual the speakers were recruited from those present, and many new stories and "chestnuts" were passed around. The guest of honor was the present Mayor of New York, the Hon. George B. McClellan, then president of the Board of Aldermen.

In 1895 the "B. C. T." found themselves on the evening of December 27 in one of the dining rooms of the Manhattan Athletic Club at Fifty-fifth Street and Madison Avenue, under the leadership of their president, Jonas Langfeld. There they were treated to a vaudeville show, which proved an entire success. By this time the "old guard" had been thinned out considerably through death and desertion. However, the "B. C. T." kept its front boldly and was undismayed.

The twelfth gathering found the "B. C. T." back again at the Marlborough on the 29th of December, 1896, with Horace S. Ridings as president. The city governments of New York and Philadelphia were represented by the Mayor of New York, William Strong, and the Hon. Edwin S. Stuart, ex-Mayor of Philadelphia, who to the trade is better known as "Leary's." Besides these there were present the Hon. Mr. Goldenhorn, of the New Jersey legislature; Lee Fairchild, the "Artemus Ward" of the Pacific Coast; Thomas Ballantyne, a professional entertainer, and others. On the whole, this was the most dignified entertainment ever provided by the Brotherhood.

The thirteenth dinner, held on the 28th of December, 1897, at the Marlborough, with President Albert D. MacMullen, showed a falling off in attendance—only thirty-eight being present. However, those present made up in spirits what was lacking in numbers, and the time went quickly enough. J. C. Harvey brought down the house by reading an original poem, which he called "With the Boys of the Brotherhood." It abounded in clever "hits" on almost all the members present, which were enjoyed as much by those at whom they were aimed as by the rest of the company. Mr. Harvey was followed by Thomas Hutchinson, who sang several songs very acceptably. Then followed talks by James O. Bates, H. M. Caldwell, A. Growoll, Horace Ridings, W. J. Kelly, J. H. Black, and several songs by John Solomon.

The fourteenth dinner on the 28th of December, 1898, at the Marlborough, found about thirty-five present. Many were absent, the president, H. M. Caldwell, among the number, on account of illness. Mr. Hovendon acted as chairman. After dinner had been served, Brother Hovendon called attention to the fact that, owing to changes in business conditions, many of the members of the "B. C. T." were obliged to make trips even earlier than ever, and that for this reason it might become necessary in the future to change the date of the dinner, and possibly, the form of entertainment. His regrets at the absence of the President of the Brotherhood were warmly seconded by all present, and Brother Caldwell's health was drunk standing. On this occasion word was received from Brother McQuillan, whose condition was reported to be quite hopeless.

The fifteenth gathering of the "B. C. T." degenerated into a beefsteak orgy, at Walter

D. Gilman's. Bedford Ave., near Fulton St., Brooklyn on the 27th of December, 1899. F. T. J. Nunan was president, and Alderman J. H. McInnis, long connected with the book-trade, Thomas Ballantyne and Mr. Sumner entertained the company. Alderman J. H. McInnis was to speak to the toast, "The Issue of the Day," but he confined himself to the issues of the hour, which, he thought, were to enjoy in full measure the opportunity of meeting socially and for the exchange of friendly greetings, promising ample police protection to those who might need it on their way to the wilds of Manhattan. Mr. Ballantyne at intervals regaled the company with amusing stories, and Mr. Sumner, one of the guests of the Brotherhood, sang acceptably several popular ballads, the Brotherhood joining in the chorus.

On the 27th of December, 1900, the Brotherhood had touched bottom in Healy's Dungeon, Columbus Avenue and Sixty-sixth Street, where another beefsteak orgy was held to the tune of a "coon band," under the presidency of A. F. Turner. The historian would, if he could, expunge the memory of this faux pas of the "B. C. T."

1901.

On the evening of December 30th, 1901, fifty-seven of the Brotherhood of Commercial Travellers assembled in the cosy dining-room of the Hotel Wallace, at 121 Fifth Avenue, to discuss the seventeenth annual dinner given by the Brotherhood. After dinner the president, H. J. Epping, congratulated the "B. C. T." upon having roused itself again, and upon having risen Phenix-like from the caves of the West Side to feast in gilded halls on the avenue of greatest reputation in the city. He trusted, that, having started so auspiciously in the new century, the Brotherhood would for many years maintain its organization on a high level of dignity and sociability. The rest of the evening was taken up pleasantly by those master entertainers, J. C. Harvey, Tom Ballantyne and Professor Hutchinson.

The eighteenth dinner was given on the evening of December 29, 1902, at the Kensington Hotel, Fifth Avenue and Fifteenth Street. Though the weather was wretched, forty-five enthusiasts put in an appearance in the gayly-decorated dining-room in the rear of the café. The Committee of Arrangements had made ample provision for the comfort and entertainment of their guests, in which they were ably assisted by the Reception Committee.

After the excellent dinner of eight courses had been disposed of, F. T. J. Nunan, chairman of the Souvenir Committee, claimed the attention of the Brotherhood, and in a felicitous speech presented to the outgoing president, Clarence A. Caldwell, the badge of his office, an ivory gavel, suspended from a green and red watered silk ribbon, the colors being those of the "Queen's Own" of Canada, of which Mr. Caldwell, a Canadian by birth, was an officer. Mr. Caldwell responded briefly and was lustily hailed as a "jolly good fellow."

Among the speakers were James L. Ford, author of "The Literary Shop," etc.; Henry A. Collins and George McLeod, representing the Canadian trade, and John H. Black. A. Growoll reviewed the history of the Brotherhood from its beginning in December, 1885, until the present time, which was suitably complemented by remarks by W. J. Kelly, the senior president of the Brotherhood present on this occasion. The speaking was interspersed with music, and song and story by Messrs. Graham and Lester.

The nineteenth dinner was given on the 20th of December, 1903, once more at the Marlborough Hotel, the favorite resort of travelling men. There were present upwards of fifty persons, and Brother John Bacon presided.

Among the speakers of the evening was J. C. Harvey, an old friend of the Brotherhood, who concluded his remarks by reading a poem, using as his text the line from John Boyle O'Reilly's poem, beginning with "I'd rather live in Bohemia." We quote, with permission, the opening and closing stanzas:

"I'd rather live in Bohemia than in any other land,"
So spake the soul of the poet, with the touch of a master hand.
The dear old white-haired singer is at rest beneath the sod,
But that which was best and brightest, his song-soul,
now with God.
Can never die in Bohemia, for he laid before her shrine
A wreath of rhyme immortal, with the burst of a thought divine.
He linked all the past and present in a glorious today,
And warm hearts beating truly, he crowned with a wreath of bay.
And for us who knew and loved him, what else is there left to do,
But to stand here to-night in Bohemia, and swear that his words rang true.

This is the real Bohemia, where a bit of pasteboard white,
And—a name—is enough to gather the friends that you see to-night;
This is the real Bohemia, where a joke must have its point,
And a jest that is only vulgar means a man's nose out of joint.
The vagabonds of Bohemia we recognize as we should,
But they dare not cross these portals till the vagabonds make good.

And once inside of Bohemia, what hope ye there to find?
Not only those who can listen when bright mind
answers mind,
But those who can thrill your senses and lift you to the skies,
On the wings of song till you enter the gates of Paradise.
For vassal and King in Bohemia have natures strangely blent,
Where God-given gifts are plenty and the greatest—Temperament.

And they who are blessed of Heaven with its only foretastes here
Are swayed by the wings of Fancy and subject to atmosphere,
Reflecting the moods of the moment, of joy, or sorrow, or pain,

But ever the smile to cheer you like the sunshine
after the rain.
That's why I love Bohemia, where the masks are laid aside,
And a warm heart beating truly is never a thing to deride.
Oh! "I'd rather live in Bohemia than in any other land,"
I'd rather be poor in Bohemia than rich in a palace grand!
Apart from the friends that love us and reckon us at our worth,
I tell you, boys, Bohemia—is the only place on earth.

Colonel William E. Dougherty of the United States Army, commandant of Fort Columbus, at Governor's Island, who was present with several of his staff, responded felicitously to the toast "The Army," and A. Growoll spoke on "The Drummer—His Mission and Ideals." The speaking was interspersed with stories, music and song, generously provided by Thomas Ballantyne and a quartette.

The twentieth annual dinner of the Brotherhood was given on Friday evening December 30, 1904, in the College Room of the Hotel Astor. It was first intended to give the dinner in the Yacht Room, but the room being found too small the Brotherhood and its friends were seated in the larger College Room. This room, decorated with exquisite frescoes symbolic of various phases of college life, college arms and insignias, etc., was brilliantly lighted and gayly festooned with flowers and holly. Upwards of fifty persons were present, and presided over by Charles Walton, affectionately known to his many friends in the trade as "Pop" Walton. After the coffee had been served, Mr. Walton, in addressing the gathering, thanked the Brotherhood warmly for the many tokens of affection received by him throughout his connection with the fraternity of travelling men, and trusted that the bond of sympathy that held the organization of the "B. C. T." together for nearly a generation would grow stronger and endure for another generation and beyond. With a touching reference to the brethren who had been called to rest during the past year Mr. Walton closed his remarks. Mr. Tibbits, an old friend of the Brotherhood, then favored the company with a number of vocal selections and some well-told stories. A. Growoll, John H. Black, William B. Walker, Jonas Langfeld and John Hovendon were among the speakers.

As the dinner was opened by observing the time-honored custom of singing "Auld Lang Syne," so was it closed for the twentieth time by singing "Vive la Compagnie," Brother William J. Kelly leading.

The Brotherhood of Commercial Travellers has to-night for the twenty-first time come together to renew old, and to form new friendships. And it has come together and been held together not for any material benefit or sordid consideration, but through sentiment alone. This sentiment has been kept alight as a sacred flame by the little band who stood at the cradle of the Brotherhood, for the encouragement of the young men who are to come out of a new generation to knit closer and ever closer these fraternal relations without which man descends to the estate of "dumb driven cattle." May this element of sentiment be kept aflame to warm the hearts and to cheer the prospects of generations of commercial travellers yet to come; then the work of those who have laid the foundation and builded the structure of the "B. C. T." thus far, will not have been in vain, and a better day will dawn because of their labors.

"The King is dead, Long live the King!" The "old guard," having nursed this organization from infancy to the dawn of manhood, considers this a fitting time to entrust its further growth to younger, if not abler, hands. As this will be a task of no mean importance and responsibility, the transfer of the Brotherhood of Commercial Travellers to the youngsters must be performed by one who was intimately concerned in its birthing and nurture, and therefore able to give advice and caution to the new custodians. And who so fitting to perform this service among the many able ones present on this occasion as the Grandfather of the Brotherhood—at least, in point of seniority of office—Brother William J. Kelly. The historian in closing would advise the new régime to "screw its courage to the sticking-place and it will not fail."

After songs and stories by William Tompkins, William Redmond and Frank Fogarty, James Clarence Harvey, the poet laureate of the Brotherhood, read the following poem:

WE SALUTE YOU.

We boast to-night a stripling who has grown,
In sturdy strength, at last, to man's estate.
The years of boyhood have so swiftly flown,
The veterans present almost hesitate
To give the reins of power, the driver's seat,
To one so unacquainted with the run,
And yet they come to-night, to proudly greet
Their stalwart infant, aged Twenty-one.

In Ancient Rome, upon the bloody sands,
The gladiators turned to Caesar's throne
And greeted him with high, uplifted hands,
While wild beasts rent the air with growl and groan.

"Oh! Caesar! We who are about to die, Salute you!" And in very truth,
To-night we hear a somewhat similar cry:
"We aged men, now step aside for youth."

When England's king bestows Victoria's cross,
That guerdon sought for by the bravest men,
These are the words with which the gift is given,
Words rich in thought, beyond all tongue or pen.
"Upon your breast is placed Victoria's cross,
Because distinguished valor has been shown,
In presence of the enemy and this Shall make respect from all mankind your own."
That little symbol, which the unclosed hand
Might easily hide from all men, if it would,
Bears testimony to more than duty done
And gives the hero England's gratitude.
He who has won his country's noble gift,
And bends beneath the royal accolade,
Recalls the while the roll of musketry,
The glittering flash of sword and sabre blade.

He sees around him, swarthy, smoke-stained foes,
With muscles knotted in the heat of strife;
He knows each glance foretells the sweep of death,
Each thrust an end to throbbing, human life.
He feels again the torrent of his blood
That sweeps along his veins, like fiercest fire:
He sees the avenue of slaughtered dead,
That stood between him and his heart's desire.

Then comes the flush of pride when royalty
 Forsakes the throne to take him by the hand.
 He hears: "Well done! Oh! faithful unto death:
 No more obey, but rise and take command."
 He may recall that stern, old Scottish law,
 Which held supreme, that rigid, simple plan,
 That "He should take who has the power to take
 And having taken, let him keep who can."

Great men have sprung from such a law as this,
 Because against a tide of wilful wrong,
 Breast high they stood and swept all things aside
 And stood their ground because God made them strong.

The days of muscle, though, have passed away,
 Save as it serves to prop the o'erworked brain,
 And intellect to-day sits on the throne,
 'Gainst which brute strength still strives but strives in vain.

Each man can win, however weak his arm,
 If not a cross of bronze, a golden crown,
 Who bravely girds his armor for life's fray,
 Who meets the foe and fearless fights them down,
 "Distinguished Valor," these the watchwords are,
 And enemies are lurking everywhere.
 No life so narrow but the chance is given
 To win renown, to nobly do and dare.

The battle need not be of smoke and fire,
 Of blood stained steel and whistling shot and shell.

It is enough to go where honor calls,
 Stand by the right and do your duty well.

Now the world will not ask what you're going to do.

It will ask of you: "What have you done?"
 And it stands at your elbow to question your deeds,
 From the rise to the set of the sun.

It will judge and misjudge. It will praise and deride.

If you stand at the front for awhile.
 But, be wary. The distance is not very wide
 Between the world's frown and its smile.

The man who is courted to-day for his wit,
 For his humor, to-morrow is spurned,
 And the lesson he thinks he has mastered to-day
 To-morrow must all be unlearned.

It is not enough to be known by the world.
 You must prove that you're worth being known,
 Or just when you grasp at the bubble of Fame,
 Like a Will-o-the-wisp, it has flown.

The mightiest rock will be shivered at last,
 If you strike with persistence and zeal.
 The sun's steady rays, when the Winter is past,
 The earth, 'neath the snowdrifts reveal.

There is no royal road to the goal of success.
 You must labor and struggle and strive,
 And the progress that marks every effort sublime
 Will keep Hope, the soul's refuge, alive.

There are failures to face, in this work-a-day world,
 Disappointments that worry and sting,
 But back of them all are the motives divine,
 And this is the lesson they bring:

Our yesterdays are blocks with which we build,
 Foundations for the structure of to-day,
 And our to-morrows are but fleeting clouds,
 The breath of circumstance may blow away.
 Were we to labor for ourselves alone,
 Small need for aching brow and weary brain.
 We strive and struggle for posterity
 And hope to widen manhood's great domain,
 Who seeks for self, tears down where he should build.

Who builds for others wins the wreath of bay;
 Our yesterdays should then be broad and strong,
 To hold aloft a glorious to-day.

If we were mortal, life were spent in vain,
 So brief it is, so full of toil and tears,
 But, since immortal, Oh! How grand to know
 Each noble effort lives eternal years.
 Ambition. Hope. Faith. Duty. Tender love,
 Each one, to help us, has its place within.
 Awake from dreams! The sun illumines the sky.
 And bids us let our bigger lives begin.

JAMES CLARENCE HARVEY.

Brother William J. Kelly then closed the exercises of the evening by turning over to "the youngsters" the management of the affairs of the Brotherhood in the following short address:

"Twenty-one years may seem a long time to many of you, but for the 'old guard' of the Brotherhood, as we look back, it seems as if it were but a yesterday. I want to speak to-night for my colleagues here, the remnant of the men who sat down twenty-one years ago around the table of old Morelli's and pledged themselves, there and then, to an ideal—which was to foster a fraternal spirit and to create a Brotherhood for the craft. Our presence here to-night is sufficient evidence to you that we, at least, have kept that pledge, and we are proud of the fact that we may be with you and see the Brotherhood a living thing. We have just heard a new name sounded in this banquet hall to-night, namely, 'the youngsters,' and I take it for granted that our historian, Brother Growoll, means the young stalwarts of this organization, headed by Cupples, Roach and that youngster of all the youngsters, Hovendon. That name will stick to you until you have served the term the 'old guard' has served, and when you have a record of another generation behind you you will be entitled to retire with the rank of veteran. I want to say to you boys that while the mantles of these Elijahs fall on your shoulders to-night, you must not think that we will be like the prophet of old—translated. 'Not on your life!' We will be here and strive mightily with you, and give you a hustle for the business of the road. And as the years roll around, and our president calls us 'from labor to refreshment,' we will be here in our places to eat and drink with you, and to make merry around the table of our Brotherhood.

"One word more, and that is a voice from the 'side lines.' Boys, the old veterans have played the game, and to-night we pass you the ball; take it with a grip of steel and carry it down the line of the field of time, and make as many good goals as the boys have done who have played the game before you."

The company then broke up, joining Brother Kelly in singing "Vive la Compagnie."

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

AMERICAN BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE sixth annual convention of the American Booksellers' Association will be held at the Hotel Victoria, Broadway and Twenty-seventh Street, New York City, May 15 and 16. The banquet will be held at the rooms of the Aldine Association, Tuesday evening, May 15, at 7 o'clock.

The officers hope to make this meeting the most successful in the history of the Association, and therefore give this early notice so that its members may arrange their business accordingly.

Full details of the convention and banquet will be announced later.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE will give a Ladies' Night on the evening of January 17. Among the entertainers will be Mr. and Mrs. Barclay Dunham, who have kindly consented to favor the League with their song-talk, entitled "Some American Song Writers." E. P. Lyle, the author of "The Missourian," has also promised to assist in entertaining the League.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY have just added to their Library of Popular Fiction an edition, in paper covers, of Mrs. Amelia E. Barr's novel of New York life, entitled "Girls of a Feather."

JOHN W. LUCE & Co. have in preparation a "Musical Dictionary," by Nathan Haskell Dole, which is intended especially to meet the wants of those desirous of understanding the descriptive programmes distributed at concerts.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & Co. announce that Anna R. Brown Lindsay's little book, "What is Worth While," has just reached the 250th thousand mark, and that they are called upon to reprint the book in constantly increasing editions.

THE death of Henry Harland will arouse interest in the special autograph edition of his latest published story, "My Friend Prospero." This édition de luxe, which was brought out at the time of the publication of the regular edition by McClure, Phillips & Co. has a colotype portrait signed by the author. It is a limited edition of 500 copies, of which a few remain.

WILLIAM J. KELLY, representing McLoughlin Bros., will start next week on his annual Canadian trip, to be gone till the end of February. Mr. Kelly will carry a number of new and very attractive lines, to which others will be added from month to month, his firm having decided to distribute its publishing throughout the year, instead of reserving all its publications for the fall season.

DEHAVAN S. MILLER, Watertown, N. Y., formerly of the bookselling firm of D. S. Miller & Co., has just brought out a volume of his war reminiscences, entitled "Drum Taps in Dixie." Mr. Miller went to the front during the war between the States as a drummer boy when only thirteen years of age, and his book therefore is said to be equally interesting to the veterans and to the younger generation.

THE OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS has just brought out a scholarly and complete edition of "The Poetical Works of William Blake." The text is taken verbatim from the manuscript, engraved and letterpress sources, with variorum readings and extensive bibliographical notes and prefaces by John Sampson, the librarian of the University of Liverpool, an enthusiastic and painstaking student of Blake's writings.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY are about to bring out a book by Dr. R. A. Torrey, the evangelist, entitled "How to succeed in the Christian Life." Dr. Torrey in his introduction says that he needed a book to put in the hands of those beginning the Christian life and not finding one was driven to prepare this, and he issues it in the hope that it will be useful to young converts and older ones, too, who have made no Christian progress.

RAOUL RENAULT, Quebec, Canada, has just published a work written by him, entitled "Débuts de l'Imprimerie." In the fourth chapter, entitled "Développements de l'Imprimerie," M. Renault gives an account of the introduction of printing in America, including the beginnings of printing in Canada. The work, which is illustrated with portraits of the early printers and facsimiles of their work, is limited to 300 numbered copies at $1 each. (74 p. sq. 8°, pap.)

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish shortly "The Long Arm," a new story of adventure by Samuel M. Gardenhire, author of "The Silence of Mrs. Harrold." Le Droit Connors, one of the characters in the author's former book, is the central figure in the forthcoming book. They will also bring out this month the eleventh volume of their American Nations Series, being entitled "The Federalist System," by John Spencer Bassett, Professor of History in Trinity College, N. C. The volume deals with the first year of our national life under the Constitution and the problems of international relations which at that time were fraught with great peril.

McLOUGHLIN BROTHERS will publish in February the initial volumes of a new series to be entitled the Young Folks' Colonial Library. These volumes in this series are designed not only to amuse the young reader, but also to supplement materially the study of the history of their country, particularly that part concerning the war for independence. The books will be bound in cloth, small 12mo, stamped in colors, with lithographic frontispieces and will be supplied with numerous illustrations in tints. The first volumes will be "The Story of John Paul Jones" and "The Story of Ethan Allen, the Green Mountain Boy," both by Percy K. Fitzhugh. Other volumes in preparation are "The Story of General Francis Marion, the Bayard of the South," and "The Story of Montgomery."

THE CENTURY COMPANY will publish shortly "In Old Bellaire," by Mrs. Mary Dillon, author of "The Rose of Old St. Louis." Bellaire is the name of a little southern Pennsylvania town, where the story is set. A lovable New England lass, a dashing Southern soldier, and the delightful family of the president of the Bellaire college are among the dramatis personæ. They have also nearly ready two new volumes of their American State Series, entitled "Local Government in the United States," (cities excepted,) by Professor John A. Fairlie, of the University of Michigan; and "American Legislatures and Legislative Methods," by Professor Paul S. Reinsch, of the University of Wisconsin. They have also in preparation a "Brownie Primer," intended for the very littlest readers, with illustrations from Palmer Cox's Brownie book, but entirely new text; and a new issue in their Educational Series, entitled "Advanced Civics," which treats, in addition to more familiar topics, of the care of the poor, labor disputes, secret ballots and the duties of a voter, civil and constitutional liberty, and the American spirit, giving the New York law against bribery as an appendix.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

L. FRANK BAUM is spending the holidays in Italy and revising a new book of "Fairy Tales" for publication this year by the Reilly & Britton Company, of Chicago. He is said to have completed arrangements to make a trip up the Nile for a thousand miles. When he returns to this country next summer he will write a new series of tales about characters drawn from "The Fairies of the Nile."

ANDREW CARNEGIE will spend the winter at Cumberland Island, Ga., with the intention of writing his autobiography. It is reported that he has invited his former partners in the steel business to furnish him with data and reminiscences. It is said Mr. Carnegie will begin with his humble birth, trace his efforts to obtain knowledge from the library of Colonel Anderson, of Allegheny, and give in detail his rise from messenger boy to head of the steel industry.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

The Publishers' Weekly

Recognized as the representative of the publishing and bookselling interests in the United States. Contains full weekly record of American publications, with monthly indexes, cumulated quarterly, news of interest concerning the book trade, lists of "Books Wanted," (an advertising feature which each subscriber can use without charge to the extent of 100 lines per year,) etc., etc. Subscription, $3.00 a year; to foreign countries, $4.00 a year.

The American Catalog (New Series) 1900-1905

Vol. I contains a five-year cumulation, Jan. 1, 1900-Jan. 1, 1905, giving in one alphabet, by author, title and subject, information of the books issued during the years covered by this period. It also contains a directory of over 3800 publishers, with street addresses. 8vo, half morocco, $7.50.

Vol. II or Supplementary volume gives the full-title entries with annotations printed in the Weekly Record of The Publishers' Weekly, cumulated into an alphabet for each year, i.e., into five alphabets 1900, 01, 02, 03, 04. This is planned to answer the demand of such libraries, bookdealers, and others as want the full material of The Publishers' Weekly bibliographical system in available shape. 8vo, half morocco, $7.50. The set of two, $12.

Of the previous series of THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE, quarto size, the earlier volumes are out of print. We have remaining a few copies of the volumes 1890-95 and 1895-1900, bound in half morocco, $15.00 each.

The Publishers' Trade List Annual

Contains the latest catalogues of upward of 200 American publishers, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm-names, with smaller lists at the end of the volume. Indispensable to every one who has any interest in the sale or purchase of books. Large 8vo, cloth, $2.00.

Indexes to the Publishers' Trade List Annual. The original volume contains an index, by author, title and subject catchword to the lists of the 246 publishers represented in THE TRADE LIST ANNUAL for 1902. This, with The Supplementary Indexes for 1903-1904, in two alphabets (1589 8vo pages, double column, nonpareil type), can be had in cloth, with thumb indexes, price $7.00. (Only a few copies remain.)

The American Educational Catalogue

Contains a price-list of the text-books in use in the United States, arranged alphabetically by author's or editor's name, and a detailed subject-index, referring from each specific subject to authors of books on that subject. (Published annually.) 8vo, leatherette, 50 cents.

The Library Journal

Official Organ of the American Library Association. Chiefly devoted to library economy and bibliography. Established in 1876. Published monthly. Subscription $4.00 a year, postpaid; single numbers, 35 cents. Price to Europe or other countries in the Union, 16s. a year; single numbers, 1s. 6d.

The Library Index to Periodicals and Current Events

Published monthly, with a quarterly cumulation (indexing the periodicals taken in most libraries, large and small). Subscription, $3.00 per year. Single monthly numbers, 25 cents; quarterly numbers, 50 cents each.

The Annual Literary Index

Including Periodicals, American and English; Essays, Book-Chapters, etc., Bibliographies, Necrology and Index to Dates of Principal Events. Edited, with the co-operation of members of the American Library Association and of The Library Journal staff, by W. I. FLETCHER and R. R. BOWKER. (Published annually) 8vo, cloth, $3.50.

English Catalogue of Books (Annual)

Containing a complete list of all the books published in Great Britain and Ireland in the calendar year, with index to subjects. (London, Sampson Low, Marston & Co.) 8vo, cloth, $1.50.

Directory of Publishers, 1905

Contains names and addresses of 3876 firms and individuals who issued books in the U. S. from Jan. 1, 1900 to Jan. 1, 1905. (Reprinted from The American Catalog.) 8vo, leatherette, red edges, $1.00.

The Profession of Bookselling

A handbook of practical hints for the apprentice and bookseller. By A. GROWELL, managing editor of The Publishers' Weekly, author of "A Bookseller's Library." "Three Centuries of English Booktrade Bibliography," etc. Parts 1 and 2. 8vo boards, each $2.00. (Concluding part in preparation.)

Publications of Societies

A provisional list of the publications of American scientific, literary and other societies, from their organization. Compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER. Schedules nearly 1,000 societies issuing publications, and gives title-entries of all their publications, as far as data could be obtained from the societies and from libraries. 8vo, paper, $2.50; cloth, $3.00.

State Publications

A provisional list of the official publications of the several States of the United States from their organization. Compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER. Part 1: New England States. ## NOTES IN SEASON.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have just ready E. Phillips Oppenheim's new novel, "A Maker of History," and "The Sage Brush Parson," by A. B. Ward, fully described by us a week ago.

GEORGE W. JACOBS & Co. offer as appropriate gifts for the Valentine season special editions of "Phases, Mazes and Crazes of Love," by Minna Thomas Antrim; "Shakespeare's Sweetheart," by Sara Hawks Sterling; and the Love Tale Series, five volumes, including English, Irish, Scotch, German and American love tales. These books are daintily bound and tied with a ribbon and supplied with a special card "To My Valentine."

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. have just brought out, after many delays, the authorized edition of Dr. C. G. Schillings's remarkable book, "Flashlights in the Jungle;" also, an elaborate book on "The Country Home," by Charles Edward Hooper, a practical manual, profusely illustrated, with definite plans and suggestions for every feature of a country house. They will bring out on the 17th inst. Miss Ellen Glasgow's novel, "The Wheel of Life," a story of life in New York City, in which the brilliant frivolity of society is set forth, and the character of a real man is made attractive; also the seventh instalment of "The Dog Book," which will be completed in March.

DODD, MEAD & Co. will publish on the 20th inst. "Barbara Winslow—Rebel," by Elizabeth Ellis, which is not, as the title might imply, a Civil War story, but a tale of adventure and romance, the heroine of which is not afraid of either men, mice or devils. The book will have several full-page illustrations, with a clever little drawing at the end of each chapter, and will be attractively bound. They have in preparation "The Patriots," a story of the war between the States, 1861-1864, by the Rev. Cyrus Townsend Brady; "Americans of 1776," by James Schouler, author of "Schouler's History of the United States," an original study of life and manners, social, industrial and political, before the Revolutionary period; also, a sequel to "Pam," in which the career of Pam will be traced through her absorption in the artistic and bohemian side of London, and her life in Ireland, to its most satisfactory and happy conclusion.

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. will publish on the 15th inst. a collection of stories entitled "Vrouw Grobelaar and Her Leading Cases," by Perceval Gibbon, who represented the London Standard in South Africa during the Boer war. Mr. Gibbon puts his dozen odd tales in the mouth of old Vrouw Grobelaar, a fat and garrulous Boer grandmother with a penchant for moralizing, who adorns her advice to her brood with grim and mysterious folk-lore tales, half Dutch and half Kaffir, that have an uncanny power suggestive of De Maupassant. The superstitions of the natives and the religious bigotry of the Boers saturate her narratives, but she puts into them also a geniality and humor that make her a sort of South African Uncle Remus. They will publish at the same time "Foster's Complete Bridge," a concise handbook of the game, into which is gathered everything that a player could possibly need, or wish, to know; also, a work on "The Cost of Competition," by Sidney A. Reeve, whose argument tends towards an advocacy of a socialistic state.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk **, and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (16mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tl. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fo. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Brody, H., and Albrecht, Karl, eds. The New-Hebrew school of poets of the Spanish-Arabian epoch: selected texts, with introd. notes and dictionary; ed. by H.

Brody and K. Albrecht; English tr. of the Introduction, etc., by Mrs. Karl Albrecht. N. Y., Lemcke & Buechner, 1906. 10+217 p. O. cl., *$2 net.

Text is in Hebrew. The editor's preface says: "In undertaking the task of selecting and editing the present series our aim has been to fill up the void, the existence of which must have been painfully felt by all who have ever wished to promote the study and intelligent appreciation of a branch of literature which embodies the thought and sentiments of many minds of rare distinction and gifts." A sufficient number of examples have been included to illustrate amply all the more important kinds and classes of poetry employed. Great pains have been taken to give the text correctly.

Brown, Gerard Baldwin. The care of ancient monuments: an account of the legislative and other measures adopted in European countries for protecting ancient monuments and objects and scenes of natural beauty and for preserving the aspect of historical cities. As yet there has been no book in English or German on Grieg. The French have Closson's brochure, published in 1892, and the Norwegians have Schjelderup's work, published in 1903, which is devoted more to analyses of the composer's work than to facts about his life. The author is a personal friend of Grieg, and spent some time in his Norwegian home. Grieg came in contact with Ole Bull, Liszt, and all the celebrated musicians of his time, and much anecdotal material is included. Gives full list of Grieg's works.

Gibman, Laurence. Edward Macdowell. N. Y., J. Lane Co., 1906. 6+80 p. por. D. (Living masters of music; ed. by Rosa Newmarch.) cl., $1 net.

Edward Macdowell was born in New York City on December 18, 1861. He studied music at the Paris Conservatory, Stuttgart and Frankfurt. He began to compose at an early age. This little book is chiefly devoted to a critical analysis of his works. Macdowell resigned from the chair of music in Columbia University in 1902 and since then has suddenly become the victim of a mental and physical paralysis that has robbed America of one of its men of pronounced genius. Of this sad fact the book gives no hint. Gives complete list of Macdowell's works, several portraits and pictures.

Gore, Ja. Howard. A manual of geography: a handbook for the use of teachers and pupils, designed to be used as a guide to the study of politico-relief maps; il. by Franklin J. Albrecht, F.R.G.S. Chic., Central School Supply House, [1905.] c. 192 p. maps, 4°, cl., $1.25.

Israel, Erastus Rowley. A fool in theology. Arden Park, N. C., [Hackney & Moale Co.,] [1905.] c. 164 p. O. pap., 50 c.

The author prefaces his criticisms of the Bible with the information that he was once a "preacher," and believed in the divine inspiration of the Bible. His views in his old age have all changed. While he still believes in an "Almighty Creator," he doubts all that the Bible is thought to teach—the devil, hell, its authenticity, etc.

The career of the Sieur de la Salle (the discoverer of the Mississippi) in a measure links the exploits of his compatriot Champlain, in the north, with those of Cabeza de Vaca, De Soto and Coronado, in the south and southwest, and thus fittingly closes the heroic period of Spanish and French exploration in North America. The various documents reprinted in these two volumes are found in French's "Historical collections of Louisiana," pt. 1, Shea's "Discovery and Exploration of the Mississippi Valley," and his "Early voyages up and down the Mississippi." The editor has followed closely the texts of these volumes, excepting where a careful collation with later editions of these same documents has shown a better reading.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYFOLDT.

JANUARY 13, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE PRINTERS' STRIKE.

FOR the first time within the recollection of the present generation the publishing trade has been obliged to face a so-called "tie-up" of their interests by a labor organization. By direction of the International Typographical Union, the union printers in New York, on the 2d of January, struck for an eight-hour day with nine hours' pay and a "close shop," the number of men who actually went out on strike being estimated at upwards of one thousand. Since that time, of the 247 printing offices in New York City manned by members of the local union, two hundred of the smaller offices helplessly gave up the struggle a day after their men went out. Of this number, twenty-six were members of the Typothetæ, an organization of master printers. Within a week Harper & Brothers, the Funk & Wagnalls Company, Frank A. Munsey, the Success Company and several other concerns have surrendered, reserving, however, a forty-eight hour week, under which plan the men can work ten or eleven hours a day on publication day, the employers by working them six or seven hours on other days keeping within the forty-eight hour limit. As the men are paid by the week this diminishes the hours of overtime for which they would have been paid under the straight eight-hour rule.

Among the stronger and larger establishments to hold out are the printers for the Century Company, Doubleday, Page & Co., the S. S. McClure Company, the Hill Publishing Company, I. H. Blanchard & Co., the Knickerbocker Press, William Green and the Butterick Company, who had been preparing for months to meet the situation, and who have succeeded in securing enough men to continue their work.

Inasmuch as there are estimated to be 98,531 members of the printers' unions in the United States, including, presumably, the better class of workmen, as against 92,800 non-union printers, the situation at present is a critical one, and fraught with many complications. The Typothetæ, before the strike was initiated, expressed itself hopeful of meeting the situation without loss of time. A school for printers was opened in New York for the instruction of machine compositors, and steps were actually taken for forwarding work on the magazines three months in advance, and for printing commercial stationery, etc., against future call. But, inasmuch as a considerable portion of the work on magazines, the advertising, for example, must be done by hand by trained and experienced workmen, the result is still in doubt, though the master printers are hopeful of victory.

The principal argument against the present demand of the printers' unions is that the apparently insignificant demand of one hour a day less for each individual will in the aggregate add considerably to the cost of manufacture. It has been variously estimated that the increase would add as much as twenty-two per cent. and not less than ten per cent. to the prices in vogue up to December 31, 1905. While the proposed readjustment of the relations between employers and workmen does not pecuniarily benefit the individual workman, its definite effect would be to increase the number of workmen for the same amount of work, or, incidentally, to increase the proportion of overtime charges. Aside from the fact that such an increase would render large printing establishments in cities unable to compete on ordinary plain work with printing concerns in smaller or rural communities, the increase on work that cannot be sent any considerable distance away from home would mean a very serious loss to firms undertaking such work, or the imposition of a burden upon a class who either cannot or will not assume it. The tendency for some time, at least, will be to reduce the amount of printing rather than to increase it, and so in the long run the burden will likely enough have to be borne by the strikers themselves. It is reported that certain large advertising concerns, who are now spending $50,000 and upwards, have declared their intention to deduct the increase from the gross amount of their bills and to keep them down to the amount of their old appropriations. That will be unfortunate for business all along the line; but war—is war!

There is another phase of the strike which by the Typothetæ is considered more vital even than the reduction of time—in fact, is considered to be at the bottom of the strike—and that is the question of the “close” or “open shop.” While most of the employing printers have no grievance against organization by their employees, they are unalterably opposed to the petty and tyrannical interference by the unions with the direction of their shops in particular, and to the Typographical Union's avowed policy to prevent American citizens from earning a living unless they bind themselves by a hide-bound oath to their organization.

CARMEN'S MIXED COPYRIGHT.

THE popularity of Bizet's “Carmen,” according to the London Daily Graphic, “is as great in Germany as in any other country, and German bandmasters are looking forward to playing that favorite music without payment to the composer's representatives on and after New Year's Day. Bizet died in 1875, and the Franco-German Convention provides that authors' and composers' rights in their works cease after thirty years. But, though the composer of ‘Carmen’ is dead, and one of the librettists, Meilhac, is also, the other, M. Ludovic Halévy, is alive and well. Hence a legal question has arisen, and a German court has decided that the music may be played, but that the words may not be sung, without payment. An opera is thus declared not to be a harmonious whole, but to consist of two distinct parts, words and music, in each of which its own particular parent has his own particular rights.”

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE has made definite arrangements for their Ladies' Night to be held on the evening of the 17th inst., with the following entertainers: Mr. and Mrs. Barclay Dunham, who, as already announced, will entertain the company with a sing-a-log, entitled “Some American Song Writers;” Eugene P. Lyle, Jr., author of “The Missourian;” the Rev. Robert E. Knowles, author of “St. Cuthbert's,” a remarkably successful first novel, the soul of good humor, whose oratorical powers are known throughout the length and breadth of Canada; also, Edmund Vance Cooke, author of the charming “Chronicles of the Little Tot,” who has cancelled several engagements and is coming from the West specially to entertain the League. The entertainment will begin at 7 o'clock sharp, and unless those who wish to be present notify Francis Gilman, care Charles Scribner's Sons, on or before January 15, no provision can be made for them at the table. The tickets for the ladies are $2 each, and must also be accounted for by the 15th inst.

PITTSBURG BOOKSELLERS' AND STATIONERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE PITTSBURG BOOKSELLERS' AND STATIONERS' ASSOCIATION will give their annual banquet on Tuesday evening, January 23. A hearty invitation to attend is extended to all in any way connected with the book and stationery trades. The committee hope to see all the old faces and many new ones around the banquet table.

STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE.

THE annual dinner of the Stationers' Board of Trade will be given on February 6, at 6:30 P.M., at the Waldorf-Astoria. Tickets are $6.50 the plate, and may be obtained from the members or at the rooms of the Board.

OBITUARY NOTES.

WILLIAM MARSHALL FITTS ROUNDS, secretary of the New York Prison Association from 1883 to 1902, died January 3, at Acushnet, Mass. Mr. Rounds was born in Pawtucket, R. I., March 26, 1845. Graduating from the Harvard Medical School, he entered the ranks of journalism, leaving that to engage in prison reform work. He was the author of several novels, including “Achshah,” “Hal, the Story of the Clodhopper,” and “Rosecroft,” all portraying New England rural life. He was connected with both the New York and National Prison Reform Associations for many years, and organized the Order of St. Christopher, a non-sectarian body, for reformatory work. He was at one time associated with the Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale in the publication of The Lend-a-Hand Record.

PATRICK JOHN KENEDY, senior member of the firm of P. J. Kenedy & Sons, publishers of Catholic books, at 5 Barclay Street, New York City, died suddenly in this city on January 4. Mr. Kenedy was born in 1843, at 44 Centre Street, New York City, where his father kept a bookstore. He attended the Christian Brothers School in Canal Street, and for a time sang in the choir of old St. Patrick's Cathedral in Mott Street. After leaving school he took a position in his father's store in Centre Street, which was subsequently removed to Mott Street and then to Barclay Street. He succeeded to the business at his father's death, and steadily developed it, adding an important publishing business that increased to such an extent that in time he took over the whole building at 5 Barclay Street. In 1895 Pope Leo XIII. appointed Mr. Kenedy publisher to the Holy Apostolic See. He leaves a widow, three sons and four daughters.

HARRISON WILLIAM WEIR, the artist and author, died at Appledore, Kent, Eng., on January 4, aged eighty-two, having been born May 5, 1824. He was widely known as a painter of birds and animals, and his death removes the last of the original staff of the Illustrated London News. He helped in the making, either by pen or pencil, of more than 120 books. Of these he considered the chief to be "Our Cats, and All About Them," a quite unusual work, which long has served in England as the basis for judging at cat shows. He established the first cat show at Crystal Palace, with the purpose of arousing interest in the higher breeding of this domestic pet, so well succeeding that the money value of cats rose tremendously. He was also a poultry fancier, and another remarkable work, "Our Poultry, and All About Them," occupied his attention for nearly twenty years. It contains thirty-seven colored pictures and 350 drawings in black and white.

DR. WILLIAM RAINEY HARPER, president of the University of Chicago, died on January 10, after an illness of over three years. Dr. Harper was born July 26, 1856, at New Concord, Muskingum County, O. He was educated in Muskingum College, a Presbyterian institution, from which he was graduated with the degree of A.B. when only fourteen. He devoted himself principally to the study of Hebrew, and after three years of private work in that direction went to Yale to devote himself to philology and the Indo-Iranian and Semitic languages. After filling positions in various educational institutions he became professor of Semitic languages at Yale. In 1891 Dr. Harper was chosen president of the University of Chicago, which, founded in 1856, had succumbed to the burden of debt, and was being reorganized by the American Baptist Education Society, whose most generous patron was John D. Rockefeller. In a few years Dr. Harper succeeded in turning the affairs of the university into a favorable direction until now the property and endowment are valued at over $17,000,000, the students number 3000, and the faculty 361. Dr. Harper's activity did not confine itself to college channels. He was unceasingly productive along literary lines. He was the author of "Elements of Hebrew," "Hebrew Method and Manual," "Elements of Hebrew Syntax," "Hebrew Vocabularies," "An Introductory New Testament Greek Method," "A Teacher's Manual for an Inductive Latin Primer," "The Prospects of the Small College" and "Elements of Latin." He also founded and edited The Biblical World, The American Journal of Theology and The American Journal of Semitic Languages and Literature, all of them published at the university.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

DR. WILLIAM OSLER, the eminent medical authority, it is authoritatively stated, has resigned the regius professorship of medicine in Oxford University, England, and will return to Johns Hopkins University about the middle of January. Dr. Osler and his wife, who is a great-granddaughter of Paul Revere, spent Christmas in Boston. His new book, "Counsels and Ideals from the Writings of William Osler," has just been published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE quarterly Forum, January-March, contains an able review by Professor W. P. Trent, entitled "New Editions of Franklin." The bulk of the article is devoted to the first volume of "The Writings of Benjamin Franklin, Collected and Edited with a Life and Introduction by Albert Henry Smyth," whose careful, scholarly work receives good, critical praise.

QUESTIONED as to the ownership of Tom Watson's Magazine, Mr. Watson recently stated to a special correspondent of the New York Times: "The only question which can be of interest to the public is this, that Tom Watson's Magazine is my magazine, as it purports to be. My contract gives me full control over the magazine, and it is mine because I dictate what it shall publish and what it shall not publish. Town Topics owns a majority of the stock, but not all of it. I own a large block, and there are other stockholders. But it does not matter in the least who owns the majority of the stock. I am the magazine. Without me the stock isn't worth a red apple, and they know it."

BUSINESS NOTES.

NEW YORK CITY.—Frederick A. Stokes Company are now in their new quarters at 333-341 Fourth Avenue, at Twenty-fifth Street.

NEW YORK CITY.—J. F. Tapley Company, bookbinders and printers, have removed to 531-535 West Thirty-seventh Street. Their new quarters run through the block north to 532-536 West Thirty-eighth Street, and are equipped with every facility to manufacture books expeditiously and at short notice.

NEW YORK CITY.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against C. T. Brainard & Co., of 9 and 11 East Sixteenth Street, by the Merchants' National Bank, a creditor for $2984, on a note dated August 31, 1904, of the company, which was indorsed by the Merrill & Baker Company. It was alleged that the company is insolvent, and on January 2 admitted in writing its inability to pay its debts. It was stated that the creditors were less than twelve in number. The company was incorporated on February 7, 1902, with a capital stock of $100,000, and was an adjunct of the Merrill & Baker Company.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

R. F. FENNO & Co. will publish on the 20th inst. Fred M. White's new story, "The Weight of the Crown."

HENRY HOLT & Co. will publish at once a new edition of Champlin's "Young Folks' Cyclopædia of Common Things," the text of which has been largely rewritten and brought to date. Many new illustrations have also been added.

THE CENTURY COMPANY will issue early in February a new novel by Anne Douglas Sedgwick, author of "The Confounding of Camelia," etc. The title of the book will be "The Shadow of Life," and the author herself ranks it as the best work she has ever done.

BRENTANO's have brought out the French edition of "Vers le Coeur de l'Amerique," ("The Heart of America,") by Charles Wagner, author of "The Simple Life." The volume contains the impressions of the author's visit to America last year, and is of especial interest to all readers and students of the French language.

THREE novels appeared in dramatized form on the New York stage this week—"The Clansman," by Thomas Dixon, Jr., at the Liberty Theatre; "The Redemption of David Corson," by the Rev. Charles Frederick Goss, at the Majestic; and "Cashel Byron's Profession," by George B. Shaw, at Daly's, with James J. Corbett, ex-heavy weight champion of the United States, as the star.

D. APPLETON & Co. have in preparation a work entitled "The Real Triumph of Japan," by Major Louis Livingston Seamon, who describes in detail the effectiveness of the Japanese Medical Corps and hospital service; also, a story entitled "A Lady in Waiting," by Charles Woodcock Savage, in the form of a diary, written by an aristocratic young girl just before and during the Paris Revolution.

L. C. PAGE & Co. have just brought out "The Passenger from Calais," a detective story by Arthur Griffith. Next month they will publish Morley Roberts's new novel, "The Idlers," which on its appearance in England received much attention, its exposition of the "smart set" in London being compared to Mrs. Wharton's treatment of American society life in her "House of Mirth."

E. P. DUTTON & Co. will publish shortly an American edition of "A Life of Walt Whitman," by Henry Bryan Binns, with facsimiles of manuscript, etc.; "Napoleon's Love Story," by Gasiorowsky; also, "The Letters of Richard Ford, (1797-1858)," a famous nineteenth century scholar and author of a "Handbook of Spain," the model of the modern guide book, edited by Rowland E. Prothero and fully illustrated.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have in preparation for publication early in the spring "The Fall of Tsardom," by Carl Joubert; "Consumption, its relation to man and civilization," by Dr. John Bessner Huber; "Heroes of Discovery in America," by Charles Morris; and several works of fiction by such well-known authors as E. F. Benson, Louis Becke, and Mrs. A. Maynard Barbour, author of "That Mainwaring Affair," etc.

THE UNIVERSITY PRESS, of Sewanee, Tenn., has published Milton's "Ode on the Morning of Christ's Nativity," with an introduction by Dr. Glen Levin Swiggett, head of the Department of Modern Languages at the University of the South. The edition has several initial letters by Arthur H. Noll. A special edition on Japan paper and bound in morocco boards has illuminations by the Sister Superior of the Order of St. Mary, in Tennessee.

THE JOHN LANE COMPANY announce that the recent supplement to the International Studio, "Mansions of England in the Olden Time," can no longer be supplied in the paper edition. In future this book can be supplied in cloth only, and beginning with February the price will be advanced to $5 net. They are publishing for the Transatlantic Society in America, of Philadelphia, a reprint of "International Misapprehensions," part of a chapter taken from James Fullarton Muirhead's book on "America, the Land of Contrasts," setting forth an Englishman's view of his American cousins.

THE legend that Poe wrote "The Raven" in the Fordham cottage in New York was supported for a time by the exhibition of a stuffed raven in one of its rooms; but the legend is set at rest in the introduction in the unique four-volume India Paper edition of Poe's works recently published by A. S. Barnes & Co. It appears that "The Raven" was published in 1845, and it was not until 1846 that Poe took up his residence in the Fordham cottage, where he lived from 1846 to 1849. It was in the Fordham cottage, however, that Poe wrote "The Bells" and "Annabel Lee," and other poetry, as well as some of his prose tales.

A. S. BARNES & Co. will publish shortly "In the Days of Scott," by Tudor Jenks, a new volume in the popular Lives of Great Writers Series, which tells the life stories of the great authors, in whom every one is interested from the personal point of view. As Mr. Jenks says in following the story of Scott, the reader is taken from the reign of George III. to that of William IV., and from the times of the American colonies to those of Andrew Jackson. It was in Scott's life time that steam and electricity became known, and to these agencies is due many of the most notable changes which make the present world so different from that into which the "Wizard of the North" was born.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish shortly "The Problem of the Old Testament," by the Rev. Dr. James Orr, a scholarly study of the subject, which, in 1905, was awarded the Bross prize of $6000 at the University of Chicago; "Musical Poems for School, Kindergarten and Home," containing a number of Eugene Field's most popular poems, set to simple and attractive music by Caro S. Senour, so that it may be sung by children in the lower school grades; also, a "Robert Louis Stevenson Reader," selections from Stevenson's prose and poetry suitable for children of six and eight years of age, edited by Catherine S. Bryce, supervisor of primary schools at Newton, Mass. They have just imported a one-volume edition of Byron's Poems, revised and edited, with a memoir, by Ernest Hartley Coleridge; "Whitaker's Almanac," for 1906, which is also brought out in an abridged edition, bound in paper covers; "The Faerie Queene," in the Carton Series; also, "Hebrew Ideals,"

Pt. 2, Genesis, by James Strachan, a new issue in the Bible-Class Handbook series.

THE twelfth and final volume of the "Jewish Encyclopedia," originated and edited by Dr. Isidor Singer, will shortly be published by the Funk & Wagnalls Company. When its editor, in the summer of 1891, at Paris, planned his work, convinced that the old Jewries of Europe felt too weak to launch it, he hoped that the honor of its execution would be craved by the young and vigorous American branch of the house of Israel. But, as Dr. Singer recently wrote to the New York Sun, "strange as it may seem, neither the Jewish Publication Society of Philadelphia, with its nearly 5000 members and its board of directors composed of the richest and most influential Hebrews of the United States, nor any other group of my coreligionists felt strong enough, on their own hook, to carry the great burden. A Christian house had to step into the breach; and, honor to whom honor is due, the Funk & Wagnalls Company, with its executive committee composed of Lutherans, Roman Catholics and Methodists, deserves the full credit for having enriched American literature with a pioneer work unique in its kind and, according to the competent judgment of the foremost academicians of Europe, epoch making in the history of Oriental studies.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will publish on February 15 a timely book on "How to Buy Life Insurance," by "Q. P.," whose articles on "Life Insurance Machine" in The World's Work have attracted considerable attention. This is said to be the first book actually written for the policy-holder, prepared in the light of all the astonishing revelations by the Armstrong committee; "Recollections of Thirteen Presidents," by Captain John S. Wise; also, "The Lady and the Ladder," by Harrison Garfield Rhodes. Their list of late winter and spring books includes "Curayl," by Una L. Silberrad; "Letters and Recollections of George Washington," "The International Cook Book," by Alexander Filippini; "Man, the Social Creator," by Henry D. Lloyd; "Under the Arch," by Lady Henry Somerset; "The Frog Book," by Mary C. Dickerson; "How to Make a Fruit Garden," by S. W. Fletcher; "Hero Tales Every Child Should Know," edited by Hamilton W. Mabie; "A Woman's Heart," by Elizabeth Rathbone; "Dixie After the War," by Myrta Lockett Avery; "Daffodils," in the Garden Library; "Songs of Schooldays," by J. W. Foley; "The Book of Juliana," by Katharine Holland Brown; "Cotton," by C. W. Burkett; "Birds Every Child Should Know," by W. L. Finley; and "The Spur," by G. B. Lancaster.

AUCTION SALES.

JANUARY 18, 19, 3 P.M.—Library of William Harvey, of Ohio, containing a remarkable collection of first editions of English and American authors, extra-illustrated and association books, etc. (611 lots.)—Merwin-Clayton.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplaced, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

Choice Gifts for Valentine

THE ORIGINAL LETTERS

A book of unique interest, containing a portion of the original diary of Cupid and considerable private correspondence, a pressed flower which a certain young man kept for many years; also some newspaper clippings which witness to the truth of what Cupid writes. The original leaves of Cupid's diary are fastened in the book. Fully illustrated with several full-page and many smaller illustrations by Rosalie Arthur. Bound in white leatherette, with cover design in red. The Valentine Edition is tied with a red ribbon bow, and a large Red Heart embossed with "Valentine Greetings" on the box.

9½ x 12.....75 cents

CUPID'S GAME WITH HEARTS

A collection of letters and documents telling a most interesting story.

It is planned on original lines. In place of telling a story like the average novel, the story is told by the means of letters and documents. First a letter, written on a sheet of note paper, then a telegram or newspaper clipping is pasted in the center of a page, each telling part of the story till the final conclusion is reached by the clipping from a society newspaper announcing the marriage. The book is daintily bound and fully illustrated with many full-page drawings.

The Valentine Edition is put up with a ribbon bow and a large Red Heart embossed with "Valentine Greetings" on the box.

BOOK OF FRIENDSHIP

This is one of our especially attractive gift books. Choice quotations on friendship have been carefully selected from prominent authors and arranged artistically, with initial letters and border design colored by hand. The printing is on Japan, giving a pleasant, mellow effect. The binding in ooze leather is especially recommended.

SONNETS FROM THE PORTUGUESE

The most beautiful love sonnets in the world are these captivating verses by Mrs. Browning. This new edition places them before the public in a new dress, and indeed an exceptionally fitting one. Every page is charmingly decorated with color sketches. It is certainly one of the finest gift books we have had the pleasure of presenting.

Foster's Complete Bridge

R. F. FOSTER

C All the lovers of Bridge will be glad to know that we have brought out the most complete and concise handbook on the game ever published, into which is gathered everything a player could possibly need or wish to know. It will serve the beginner as an introduction to the rudiments of Bridge, and assist the expert with suggestions on the science and strategy of play. It explains thoroughly every accepted style and theory of play, while making itself the special champion of none. Fine colored diagrams in the text of sample hands, illustrating the points made, and a complete set of rules add much to the value of the volume.

Cloth, small 12mo. Gilt Edges. Illustrated with Colored Diagrams

Postpaid, $1.60. Net, $1.50

Vrouw Grobelaar

PERCEVAL GIBBON

C Rarely has a short-story volume appeared so much out of the rut, so full of the definite genius for dramatic story-telling, as this book of South African folklore tales. Vrouw Grobelaar, a garrulous, old Boer grandmother, is filled to the brim and running over with the superstitions and traditions of the Kaffir Dutch farmers in the Veldt. She puts into her tales, with which it is her custom to adorn her advice to her family, the grimness and power of De Maupassant and the genial humor of our delightful Uncle Remus. Even the most jaded reader will confess their striking originality.

Cloth, 12mo., $1.50

The Cost of Competition

SYDNEY A. REEVES

C A clear and searching inquiry into the economic and moral evils that result from the excessive commercial trend of modern civilization. The author's analysis discloses that abnormal rewards for their labor are given to the traders, the commercial class, who thus rob the producers. His argument leads to the conclusion that some form of barter should be substituted for money exchange; and this ranks him among the socialists, economists and followers of Edward Bellamy.

EARLY SPRING PUBLICATIONS

In Vanity Fair

By Eleanor Hoyt Brainerd

A brilliant tale of FACT unmatched in fiction. While this book relates importantly for the first time the "inside story" of women's fashions, it accomplishes, also, vastly more. It is a remarkable pen picture of the environment which gives the fashions birth. A book for men as well as women.

Fully Illustrated. $1.50 net. (Postage 15 cents.)

The Invisible Bond

By Eleanor Talbot Kinhead

A novel of the Kentucky of to-day. The theme is the influence of two women, superbly pictured and powerfully contrasted, on the life and career of the hero. It is a story of uncommon power.

Illustrated in Colors by C. Allan Gilbert. 12mo, $1.50

Where Speech Ends

By Robert Haven Schauffler

A novel of the Symphony Orchestra, involving a love story of great beauty and spirit. It has the atmosphere of music, and carries an introduction by HENRY VAN DYKE.

Illustrated. 12mo, $1.50

Scarlett of the Mounted

By Marguerite Merington

This is a highly humorous and extremely dramatic tale of the Klondike, with a heroine from the far East. An extremely happy and compelling story.

Mr. Winston Spencer Churchill's life of Lord Randolph Churchill

"Mr. Winston Churchill's life of his father will not disappoint the high expectations which have been formed of it. It is a story rich in incident of the most romantic career in modern politics. . . . He keeps before him the single aim of explaining a character which was in many respects obscure, and giving us the clue to its brilliant and baffling manifestations. The charm of the book is that it places the central figure in exactly the setting that it demands. The scene is crowded with figures; the great game is played in the grand manner; we hear the hum of voices in the house and the applause at the public meeting. The biographer unfolds his story with as little comment of his own as may be, but it tells the more on that account, and his mere narrative becomes, as it proceeds, a masterly analysis of Parliamentary strategy."—Westminster Gazette, London.

List

By MORLEY ROBERTS

Author of "Rachel Marr," etc. Illustrated in colors. $1.50

An arraignment of the vices of the idle rich. The best work of a master in the art of writing absorbing fiction

The London Literary World Says:

"It does for the fast set of London society what Mrs. Wharton in 'The House of Mirth' did for the same social class in America. It is an altogether powerful and merciless dissection of modern society by an exceedingly keen surgeon."

The New York Sun Says:

"It is as absorbing as the Devil and just as interesting. Mr. Roberts gives us the antithesis of 'Rachel Marr' in an equally masterful and convincing work."

Professor Charles G. D. Roberts Says:

"It is a work of great ethical force."

NOTES IN SEASON.

BRENTANO's announce a new edition, in two volumes, of Bernard Shaw's "Plays Pleasant and Unpleasant," with a special introduction by the author.

A. WESSELS COMPANY will publish at once "The Struggle," a strong arraignment of the trusts, by Sidney C. Tapp, of Atlanta, Ga., the author of "The Story of Anglo-Saxon Institutes, or, the Development of Constitutional Government."

THE AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY have just brought out in their Library of Popular Fiction Anna Katharine Green's strong novel, "A Matter of Millions." They will bring out on the 25th inst., in the same series, "The Beads of Lasmer," by Amelia E. Barr.

L. C. PAGE & Co. have just ready Major Arthur Griffiths's new book, "The Passenger from Calais," a clever detective story, full of novel situations and striking climaxes. They will publish, as already announced, on February 1, "The Idlers," by Morley Roberts.

THE DIRECTORS OF THE OLD SOUTH WORK, Boston, have just brought out three timely additions to their series of Old South Leaflets, (numbers 161-163,) namely, "Franklin's Boyhood," from the autobiography; Franklin's "Letters on War and Peace;" and Franklin's "Plan for Western Colonies." An earlier leaflet, No. 9, contains Franklin's "Plan of Union," adopted by the Albany Convention in 1754.

A. C. MCCLURG & Co. will publish about the 1st of February a new edition of the Baroness von Suttner's famous book, "Ground Arms!" ("Die Waffen Nieder"), which was issued by them some years ago, and has been out of print. The recent award of the "Nobel Peace Prize" to the author for the influence her book had in bringing about The Hague Tribunal has led to inquiries from all quarters for the story.

DODD, MEAD & Co. will publish in the spring "Geraldine," a new story by Beatrice Haraden, author of "Ships That Pass in the Night," etc. The story has a bookish interest from the fact that some very pretty satire and comedy are developed in a dialogue of the bookworms that delve in a great dictionary undertaken by the hero of the story, but which progresses at a snail's pace. The title of the story of Harrow, by Horace Vachell, announced a week ago, is to be "The Hill," the hill being Harrow Hill.

MOFFAT, YARD & Co. have in press a book for men as well as women, entitled "In Vanity Fair," by Eleanor Hoyt Brainerd, in which the author gives the "inside story" of women's fashions and, what is more important, gives a remarkable picture of the environment which gives the fashions birth; "The Invisible Bond," by Eleanor Talbot Kinkead, a novel of the Kentucky of to-day, with illustrations in color by C. Allen Gilbert; "Where Speech Ends," a novel of the symphony orchestra, by Robert Haven Schaufler, with an introduction by Henry Van Dyke; also, a highly humorous story of the Klondike, by Marguerite Merington, entitled "Scarlett of the Mounted." When this firm, a year ago, started in the publishing business they had not a single contract with any author, their intention being to first develop their art department; before the end of the year, however, the books that came to them seemed too good to turn away, and they wound up a most successful year with eighteen titles of books, pictures and calendars on their list.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

★ The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk **, and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price. **©

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.: translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A.: Augustus; B.: Benjamin; C.: Charles; D.: David; E.: Edward; F.: Frederic; G.: George; H.: Henry; I.: Isaac; J.: John; L.: Louis; N.: Nicholas; P.: Peter; R.: Richard; S.: Samuel; T.: Thomas; W.: William.

- Hopkins, Nevil Monroe. Experimental electrochemistry. N. Y., D. Van Nostrand Co., 1905. c. 14+284 p. il. O. cl., **$3 net.
- "It has been the aim of the author to produce a book that will prove useful in both the lecture room and in the laboratory. Although a work upon the subject of electrochemistry must presuppose a working knowledge of chemistry and electricity, it has been the object of the writer to introduce the subject as clearly as possible, dealing with chemistry and electricity without assuming too much on the part of the student. The book is so written that it may be read through as a history by the student, presenting theory and practice together, with the introduction of an ample number of experiments to supply experimental evidence for the theories advanced."
- Preface. Bibliography chronographically arranged. (12 p.) Index.
- Horne, Abraham R. Horne's Pennsylvania German manual; how Pennsylvania German is spoken and written; for pronouncing, speaking and writing English. 3d ed., enl. Allentown, Pa., T. K. Horne, 1905. c. il. por. 12°, cl., $1.

- Aims to describe the functions and organization of the trust company as it exists in the United States to-day. Its history, which dates from the granting of the first trust company charter in 1822, has already been told in a number of interesting papers and addresses, and is therefore not repeated. Practical experience, consultation of all available literature, the examination of trust companies in various parts of this country, and conferences with their officers, have helped to make a composite picture. The forms and systems described are those which have commended themselves to the authors' judgment as best adapted to the needs of the average trust company. Bibliography (6 p.)
- La Jeunesse, Ernest, Gide, André, and Blei, Franz. In memoriam: Oscar Wilde; [three essays:] tr. and introd. by Percival Pollard. Greenwich, Ct., Literary Collector Press, 1905. 6+107 p. S. ed. limited, bds., $1; flex. leath., $1.25.
- Two French and one German tribute to Oscar Wilde are given describing his last days in Paris where he died in 1900. Percival Pollard knew Oscar Wilde intimately and gives a sympathetic sketch of this erratic, unfortunate genius.

Contents are divided into chapters on: The Dark Continent; The dark peoples and their customs; A religion of darkness; what of the night! The morning cometh! The religion of light; Heralds of the dawn; Daybreak. Each chapter is followed by a series of questions, so the work may be used as a text book. Bibliography (5 p.)

Negro (The) and the elective franchise: a series of papers and a sermon; by Archibald H. Grimke, C: C. Cook, J: Love and others. Wash., D. C., American Negro Academy, 1905. 85 p. O. (Occasional papers.) pap., 35 c.

The American Negro Academy was organized March 5, 1897, by the founder, Rev. Alex. Crummell, for the promotion among negroes of literature, science and art, the fostering of higher education, the publication of scholarly works and the defense of the negro against vicious assaults. The papers here given deal with the meaning and need of the movement to reduce Southern representation; the potentiality of the negro vote North and West; the migration and distribution of the negro as affecting the elective franchise; the negro and his citizenship, etc. Although favoring the negro the tone is calm and the arguments thoughtful.

pendices on some old masters and art historians. N. Y., G. E. Stechert & Co., 1905. 135 p. il. O. cl., **$3 net.

Author is professor of Chinese, in Columbia University, N. Y. City. In his preface, he says "Whatever the results may be, the scraps now offered in the shape of desultory notes, dotted down by their author a dozen years ago for the purposes of reference when forming a collection of scrolls and sketches of the old art city of Yang-chou on the Grand Canal near Chink'iang, will not be found quite useless in the hands of foreigners bent on similar pursuits. . . . The main part of the present paper is devoted to some painters of the Manchu dynasty. I say 'some painters,' because the number of those I might have mentioned is endless."

Hopkins, Nevil Monroe. Experimental electrochemistry. N. Y., D. Van Nostrand Co., 1905. c. 14+284 p. il. O. cl., **$3 net.

"It has been the aim of the author to produce a book that will prove useful in both the lecture room and in the laboratory. Although a work upon the subject of electrochemistry must presuppose a working knowledge of chemistry and electricity, it has been the object of the writer to introduce the subject as clearly as possible, dealing with chemistry and electricity without assuming too much on the part of the student. The book is so written that it may be read through as a history by the student, presenting theory and practice together, with the introduction of an ample number of experiments to supply experimental evidence for the theories advanced."—Preface. Bibliography chronographically arranged. Kirkbride, Franklin Butler, and Sterrett, J. E. The modern trust company, its functions and organization. N. Y., Macmillan, 1905. c. 11+309 p. O. cl., **$2.50 net.

Aims to describe the functions and organization of the trust company as it exists in the United States to-day. Its history, which dates from the granting of the first trust company charter in 1822, has already been told in a number of interesting papers and addresses, and is therefore not repeated. Practical experience, consultation of all available literature, the examination of trust companies in various parts of this country, and conferences with their officers, have helped to make a composite picture. The forms and systems described are those which have commended themselves to the authors' judgment as best adapted to the needs of the average trust company. Bibliography (6 p.)

A sheet of paper blown by a young Englishman, from the window of a railroad car, standing on the line of the state railroad in the forest of Pozen is the cause of the whole story. It is a tale of mystery which cannot be anticipated without spoiling the interest. The scene changes from Paris to Devonshire, England. Two mysterious disappearances from a Paris hotel, that are not explained until the very end, keep the curiosity of the reader at the highest point. Detectives and diplomats, and important officials of England, France, Germany and Russia, have a place among the characters.

Prynn, W: Mr. William Prynn: his defence of stage-plays; or, a retraction of a former book of his called "Histriomastix," London, printed in the year 1649. [Greenwich, Ct., Literary Collector Press, 1906.] 8 p. sq. D. ed. limited, bds., $1.

William Prynn an English Presbyterian lawyer, pamphleteer and statesman, was born in 1600 and died 1669. In 1633 he published "Histriomastix," a pamphlet against stage plays in which he criticised the king and queen, for which he was imprisoned and lost both his ears in the pillory. In 1649 he changed his judgment on public stage performances and printed this pamphlet. Charles II. appointed him Keeper of Records in the Tower of London.

Quick, Herbert. Double trouble; or, every hero his own villain; il. by Orson Lowell. Indianapolis, Ind., Bobbs-Merrill Co., [1906. Ja.] c. 5+320 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A story of double identity. Florian Amidon, a young western banker, meets with a railroad accident which blots out all memory of the past and he only recovers consciousness of his real self five years later on his way to New York, when he discovers he is known as Eugene Brassfield, President of the Brassfield Oil Co., of Bellevue, Penn., and has been doing business at Bellevue during the missing years. Endeavoring to learn just who he is, he consults a clairvoyant and occultist, who claims to solve all mysteries. With the aid of hypnotism and occult measures, his strange life is gradually disentangled, the results being both startling and amusing.

Reich, Emil. The failure of the "Higher criticism" of the Bible. Cin., Jennings & Graham, [1906.] c. '05. 3-203 p. O. cl., $1 net.

Of the five chapters of the present work the first two chapters appeared in the Contemporary Review, and the other three form the substance of various lectures given in London, Edinburgh and elsewhere. Dr. Reich is an eminent scholar and historian. As he says in the Preface, he is not a clergyman nor does he serve the ends of any ecclesiastical party. "He searches for nothing but truth. Many years ago he fully believed in the 'scientific character' of higher criticism; but having learned more about life and reality by means of extensive travels and varied experience he has come to the conclusion that Higher Criticism is bankrupt as a method of research, and pernicious as a teaching of religious truth. It is a perversion of history and a desecration of religion. . . . This little book . . . is intended not only to destroy the 'scientific' spell of Higher Criticism, but also to construct the right method of comprehending the Bible."

Simmott, Mary Elizabeth. Annals of the Sinnott, Rogers, Coffin, Corlies, Reeves, Bodine and allied families; ed. by Josiah Granville Leach. Phil., printed for private circulation by Lippincott, 1905. 270 p. il. por. facsim., 4°, buckram, $5; ¾ levant, $10.

Snow, Mrs. Ella. Sunshine Challed; a wonderful little book for little children, big children, and parents. Chic., Snow Publishing Co., [1905.] c. 21-126 p. il. por. sq. D. cl., *60 c. net.

Donald Sheridan Challed, the only grandchild of the author, tells this little story of his baby life in simple words for young people. The sketch is followed by a selection of verses, carefully compiled for children of all ages.

Spargo, J: A socialistic view of Mr. Rockefeller. Chic., C. H. Kerr & Co., [1905.] c. 15 p. por. D. pap., 5 c.

Gives a truly pathetic spectacle of the richest man in the world. The writer regards Rockefeller as a victim of the great blind law of progress, obliged to stagger on and leave the same tragic fute as heritage to his son. The heavy responsibility of great riches is pictured from a socialistic point of view.

Spencerian practical writing speller. N. Y., American Book Co., 1906. unsp. O. pap., 48 c. per doz.

Standish, Burt L. Frank Merriwell in England; or, fun and peril on foreign shores: [a sequel to the Merriwell stories.] N. Y., Street & Smith, [1906.] 3-256 p. D. (Medal lib.) pap., 10 c.

Steel, F. A. A book of mortals: being a record of the good deeds and good qualities of what humanity is pleased to call the lower animals; collected by a fellow mortal, (F. A. Steel.) N. Y., Macmillan, 1905. 16+144 p. il. Q. cl., $3.

Argument for the immortality of animals, deduced from a collection of animal stories illustrating the close kinship between man and the animals, and the superiority of animals in many cases. The human virtues and vices find their counterpart in the animal world. The book is divided into three parts: pt. 1, What our fellow mortals [animals] are; pt. 2, What animals have done for man; pt. 3, What our fellow mortals are doing. Illustrated by many full-page reproductions of noted pictures and enclosed in decorated covers.

Stevenson, Rob. L: Books which have influenced me: a paper contributed to The British Weekly, May 13, 1887. Greenwich, Ct., Literary Collector Press, 1905. 3-24 p. sq. T. (Collector reprints.) ed. limited, bds., 50 c.

A monograph, on the production of the cotton material known as "khaki" used for soldiers' uniforms in the Transvaal and in the disturbances in China. A great deal of experimenting was gone through to obtain the color sought, which had to be the color of the soil. All the processes used are here described in detail, and illustrated with a small piece of the "khaki" pasted on the page, showing exactly the innumerable shades resulting from certain mixtures of dyeing stuffs.

Thomas, Allen Clapp, and Thomas, R: H; M.D. A history of the Friends in America. 4th ed., rev. and enl., by Allen C. Thomas. Phil., J: C. Winston Co., 1905. 3-246 p. D. cl., $1.

First published by the Christian Literature Company in 1894. The work is a sketch of the history and doctrines of the Society of Friends in America, based on an independent examination of original records, documents, contemporary histories, journals and other materials. This 4th edition has been printed from new type, which has afforded the opportunity to make many changes in the text. The narrative also has been brought up to date.

Thorpe, Fred. The young snake charmer; or, from rustic to gentleman: [a story of adventure.] N. Y., Street & Smith, [1906.] 3-219 p. D. (Bound-to-win lib.) pap., 10 c.

Warville, G: W. A treatise on the principles and practice of the action of ejection and statutory substitutes. Chic., T. H. Flood & Co., 1905. c. 58+679 p. O. shp., $6.

Whipple, Leander Edmund. Mental healing. 5th ed., rev. and enl. N. Y., Metaphysical Publishing Co., 1905. c. 21+280 p. por. D. cl., *$1.50 net.

First published in 1893. The present (fifth) edition is largely elaborated and revised, and in the author's opinion made more helpful.

Wilde, Oscar. Poems in prose. Greenwich, Ct., Literary Collector Press, 1905. 4-49 p. sq. T. (Collector reprints.) ed. limited, bds., 50 c.

Contents: The artist; The doer of good; The disciple; The master; The house of judgment; The teacher of wisdom. Short stories.

Wilde, Oscar. The portrait of Mr. W. H.: a problem of the Shakespeare sonnets. Greenwich, Ct., Literary Collector Press, 1905. 4-100 p. sq. T. (Collected reprints.) ed. limited, bds., 50 c.

Many of the most passionate sonnets of Shakespeare are dedicated to W. H. It is supposed these initials stood for the Earl of Pembroke. Cyril Graham held the theory that W. H. was William Hewes, a young actor who had played women's parts in Shakespeare's plays. He committed a forgery of a portrait to prove his theory and then committed suicide in shame. The author makes out a clear case for William Hewes, but his friend Erskine and he both remain doubtful.

Wilde, Oscar. The soul of man under socialism. Greenwich, Ct., Literary Collector Press, 1905. 3-120 p. sq. T. (Collector reprints.) ed. limited, bds., 75 c.

Wilde believed in socialism and its special influence on individualism. He thought property and poverty led to sacrifices of one person for another. His thoughts are startlingly put at times, but there is food for much meditation in the treatise.

Winship, G: Parker, ed. Boston in 1682 and 1699: a trip to New England, by Edward Ward, and A letter from New England, by J. W.; reprinted, with an introd. and notes, by G: Parker Winship. Providence, R. I., [Club for Colonial Reprints,] 1905. 98 p. 4°, hf. vellum, $4.50.

Limited to one hundred copies.

Young, Ja. Making up [for the stage;] drawings by Edgar Keller. N. Y., M. Witmark & Sons, [1905.] c. 179 p. il. pors. D. cl., $1.25.

Treats of the "making up" for the stage; especially addressed to professionals, students of dramatic schools and amateurs. Begins with a history of the art of making up; tells of the various requirements—such as paints, creams, putty, etc.—for a successful make-up; goes into methods of make-up, special chapters being devoted to features and types and nationalities. The last section embraces interesting talks on make up by prominent professionals. All illustrated generously with diagrams, pictures, portraits, etc.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JANUARY 20, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE FRANKLIN BI-CENTENARY.

THIS week, on the 17th of January, on the occasion of the bicentenary of his birth, the world halted in its march for a brief space to render homage to the memory of Benjamin Franklin—a homage in which the representatives of the book trade should have taken a leading part; for, great as this "many-sided" American was as a scientist, as a diplomat, as a writer, as a philosopher and moralist, he was always first and foremost a printer and publisher and bookseller. From his very boyhood "the trade" had a great fascination for Franklin, and it was his bookish inclination that determined the elder Franklin to make his Benjamin a printer, although he already had one son in that calling. Up to his death he was always interested in the art of printing, and his dearest friends and most intimate acquaintances were members of the craft. Indeed, so strong was his attachment for "the trade" and profession that even in preparing for death he began his last will and testament with the words: "I, Benjamin Franklin, printer;" and the epitaph which he wrote for himself also defined him as printer, and used the analogy of a book "to appear once more in a new and more elegant edition, revised and corrected by the Author."

By precept and example, at a time when everything connected with letters and the book trade was at low ebb and greatly in disrepute, Franklin elevated the calling of printer, bookseller and journalist to the dignity of a profession—a profession honored by and in turn honoring him by raising him to positions of responsibility and trust. It is exceedingly difficult indeed to speak of this patron saint of the modern American book trade without resorting to superlatives; and yet, so far as our profession is concerned, Franklin was first in almost everything that made it great.

Franklin was the first to found a newspaper, in the modern sense of the word, in America—The Pennsylvania Gazette—of which he was the first editor as distinguished from the newsgatherer. Up to this time the so-called newspapers were made up of news contained in private correspondence or in foreign newspapers from three to six months old, and rarely had an editorial opinion. Franklin's superior arrangement of his paper, his new type, some spirited remarks on the controversy then waging between the Massachusetts assembly and the provisional governor, Burnet, brought his paper into immediate notice. The influence which he was enabled to exert by his pen through his paper, and by his industry and good sense, bore abundant fruit during the seventeen years, from 1729-1746, when he stood at the head of journalism in America. The Gazette was edited in every sense of the word by Franklin alone for nearly twenty years, and then, for eighteen more, in conjunction with David Hall.

Franklin was the first to illustrate a newspaper. This was by a rude cut made to illustrate the Siege of Louisburg.

He issued the first of our humorous periodicals—the "Poor Richard's Almanac"—the earliest and most popular of comic almanacs. It has been printed at least four hundred times, in almost every spoken language, and is to-day as popular as ever.

He was the first American writer to gain recognition in the world of literature, his autobiography being still widely read in many languages, and regarded as a classic.

He was the first to encourage Baskerville, and through him correct and well-printed texts, and the improvement of the art of typography generally, abroad as well as in this country.

He was the first in this country to consider the possibilities of duplicating type matter by stereotyping; forty years later we hear of him instructing Firmin Didot, one of the grandsons of François Didot, the founder of the famous French printing house, and giving him new notions of this process, which Didot put into practical operation, in 1795, when printing his edition of Callet's "Tables of Logarithms."

Among other things, not to extend the list, Franklin encouraged John Walter in his logographic printing experiments, and, shortly before his death, suggested that Walter establish a newspaper to be printed by this new method. Walter followed the suggestion and promptly started the London Times, "the Thunderer" of a later day.

To Franklin the world of letters is indebted for founding the first literary club in America, the Junto, out of which grew The General Magazine, the first magazine to be published in this country, and the Philadelphia Library, an institution in existence to this day, which was the first lending library, not only in America, but in the world.

Franklin was the first to establish a high school, or academy, in Philadelphia, which in 1779 was called the University of Pennsylvania, and is now the great institution under that title.

He was the first to found a philosophical society in Philadelphia, which still exists as the famous American Philosophical Society.

He was the first Postmaster-General of the United Colonies in 1775, and, later, of the United States, and sketched the plan upon which, practically, the post-office of this country has since been conducted.

He was the first to recognize the possibilities of printing and bookselling in this country, and assisted printers to establish themselves in five different colonies, remaining their silent partner until they had fully met their obligations. As a printer at the case, as a bookseller trundling his printed wares in a wheelbarrow to his customers, as a diplomat in England and in France, and in the high places which he filled with a simple dignity in his native country, Franklin was ever intent upon furthering and elevating the cause of literature in the new republic. He found it abject and servile or impotent; he closed his eyes upon it independent and powerful, with its face turned to ever-increasing independence and power. And for his service in this direction the book trade and its allies owe him an everlasting debt of gratitude.

HALL CAINE ON THE PROFITS OF PLAY-WRITING.

Discussing the profits of play-writing with a representative of the Evening News, Hall Caine is reported to have said: "I am nearly £1000 out of pocket over the dramatization of 'The Prodigal Son,' and my latest experience is that a successful play does not bring me nearly as much money as a successful book. I have found that the writing of a book pays far better than a play, and does not involve me in a tenth part of the worry."

MASTER PRINTERS CELEBRATE FRANKLIN'S BIRTHDAY.

THE Master Printers' Association made its fifth annual dinner at the New Grand Hotel, in New York City, on the evening of January 16, a celebration of the 200th anniversary of the birth of Benjamin Franklin, and extolled him not only as one of the great Americans, but as an American pioneer in printing. Among the speakers were the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Codman, of Brooklyn, who spoke on "Our Debt to Franklin;" John R. Dunlop, who talked of Franklin as a politician; D. J. Crary and George H. Ellis. Mr. Ellis, who came to the dinner late, said he was just off the firing line in the printers' strike. He spoke of a telegram which had been sent to Washington recently which read: "Typothetæ broken to pieces. Will give details when smoke clears from firing line." "We are on the firing line yet," he added, "and the Typothetæ have not gone to pieces yet. We believe in Franklin's motto, 'Equal rights for all and special privileges to none.' I for one have no use for the open shop as pictured by labor unionists, as a place opposed to a union shop. Our idea is for a true open shop, open to unionist and non-unionist alike. When the trades unionist says that the open shop is one closed to union labor it is only because he makes it so by refusing to enter it and work with men who desire to be free."

AMERICAN BOOK AUCTION SALES IN 1905.

WITH the eleventh volume "American Book-Prices Current"* virtually begins a new series, most of the more important records of the preceding volumes having been incorporated in a single alphabet in the larger compilation, "Auction Prices of Books." It is true that, as the "Auction Prices of Books" is limited in its scope by the fixing of a minimum price of $5 for the lot, and as, for various reasons, other lots were discarded in making up the larger work, and as autographs and manuscripts are entirely beyond its scope, the annual series is not by any means rendered useless for the period covered by the greater work. Least of all is this the case with the volumes for 1903 and 1904, both of which were issued after "Auction Prices of Books" was well under way, and, in the case of the volume for 1904, in large part in type. The selection from these years is less extensive, though a place was found for most of the important items.

The steady increase of the material—the present volume contains more than 75 per cent. more than the first volume, published in 1895—has obliged the editor to resort to some form of condensation, and he has therefore decided to adopt for this and future volumes the arrangement followed in "Auction Prices of Books." The name of the author, or, in the case of anonymous books, the first words of the title are set in black-faced type. The author's name is followed (in the case of the first record under an author) by the title of the book. Other titles by the same author are preceded by a dash. These titles are arranged in alphabetical order. This first portion of the description is general and applies, as in "Auction Prices of Books," to all copies of the same book. Following this general description is the specific description of the copies of the book as sold, each lot beginning a new line. This specific description is made up of (1) a description of the binding; (2) some notes as to condition, extra plates or autographs inserted, large paper or other special editions, former ownership, etc.; (3) the name of the sale, when a name was given on the catalogue; (4) the initial of the name of the auctioneer under whose management the sale took place; (5) the date of the sale; (6) the lot number in the original sale catalogue; and (7) the price realized. The usual subject index has been dropped altogether; yet as the general arrangement is almost entirely plainly alphabetical, and as the work is chiefly consulted for the purpose of learning the prices brought at auction by particular books, this index has been of little practical use, and so its omission to gain space for the more important material seems to be justified.

The editor notes the addition to the small number of auction houses in this country of the Merwin-Clayton Sales Company, an organization made up principally of the former employees of the old house of Bangs & Company and their predecessors, which began business at the end of 1904. He is also obliged to mention the loss which the trade has suffered in the death, on November 9, 1904, of Mr. Charles F. Libbie, for nearly thirty years the head of the well-known Boston house. Previous to starting in business for himself Mr. Libbie had been connected with the older houses of Leonard & Co. and George A. Leavitt & Co.

A review of the sales of the season shows a dearth of great libraries. Parts II., III. and IV. of the Hurst collection, sold by the Anderson Auction Company in November and December, 1904, and March, 1905, was, perhaps, the most important single library offered for sale at auction during the season. Aside from the Hurst library there were few collections offered which will go down in history as important sales of collectors' books.

The library of John Kendrick Bangs, sold by the Merwin-Clayton Co., in February, 1905, included some interesting collectors' books, as did the collection described as the library of the late Arthur Mason Knapp, of Boston, with additions, sold by Libbie & Co., also in February. Equally good or better items were included in sales made up of lots consigned by various owners. These miscellaneous sales made up the greater part of the season's business.

Autographs and manuscripts make up a larger part of the 1905 volume of "American Book Prices Current" than ever before.

Some of the best manuscripts have been included in book sales, notably a number of fine items in the Hurst collection. There were, however, several important autograph sales, such as the Carson collection, sold by Mr. Henkels in October, 1904; the Botta collection, sold by Libbie & Co., in November, 1904; the Barton, Mercer and Milligan papers, sold by Mr. Henkels in January, 1905; two portions of the J. H. V. Arnold collection, sold by the Anderson Auction Co., in February and March, and two portions of the collection of James Grant Wilson, sold by the Merwin-Clayton Sales Co. in April and May.

Mr. Livingston's record this season has been compiled from 152 catalogues, comprising a total of about 116,000 lots, of which 10,793 lots were books. This is a considerable increase in number of lots and number of catalogues over last season, though it does not quite equal the corresponding totals for 1903.

This annual work as a supplement to the "Auction Prices of Books" assumes a new importance, and is bound to become of increasing value to all who buy and sell books.

A SCHOOL FOR JOURNALISM.

THE UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI has made what may be considered the first practical attempt of an American college to teach journalism as law, medicine and other professions are taught. The principal features of the instruction are a series of lectures by newspaper men from the leading journals of the country and actual newspaper writing under the direction of one of the teachers of English who has worked as a reporter on a large city daily. Three lectures have already been delivered, by Captain Henry King, of the Globe-Democrat; Shailer Mathews, of the Word To-Day; and William E. Curtis, of the Chicago Record-Herald. The lectures will be continued throughout the year. Among those yet to speak are: Melville E. Stone, general manager of the Associated Press; J. A. Graham, St. Louis (Mo.) Republic; George S. Johns, St. Louis (Mo.) Post-Dispatch; Samuel Bowles, Springfield (Mass.) Republican; B. B. Herbert, National Printer Journalist, Chicago; Thomas F. Millard, war correspondent; Dante Barton, Kansas City (Mo.) Star; M. E. Moore, Chicago Inter-Ocean; W. B. Taylor, Kansas City (Mo.) Star; Walter B. Stevens, special correspondent; George B. Longan, Kansas City (Mo.) Star; Homer Bassford, St. Louis (Mo.) Republic, and B. E. Bradley, Chicago Inter-Ocean.

THE LONDON TIMES GIVES NOTHING FOR NOTHING.

APROPOS of the London Times book club scheme the Academy says: "But for what has happened in the past we should have been surprised to see the Times giving its countenance to a clap-trap heading such as this: 'How to read the newest books without buying them or paying for the use of them.' It appears as the title of a booklet that is being circulated widely and it is surely belied by the opening sentence, which begins as follows: 'Our offer to give without charge, to any one who subscribes to "The Times" for a year,' etc. It must be obvious to the meanest intelligence that any one accepting the offer does 'pay for the use' of the books supplied by the book club, although like some commissions and discounts in business the payment is included in the payment for something else. The Times may be right in declaring that the public gets a present advantage in excess of what it formerly got for its threepence a day, and it might be argued that the same result is arrived at as if the price of the paper had been lowered—a hateful alternative that must be avoided by all means."

BEST-SELLING BOOKS IN ENGLAND IN DECEMBER.

ACCORDING to the London Book Monthly the following books have been most in demand during December:

Beaujeu, by H. C. Bailev.

Jules of the Great Heart, by Laurence Mott.

The Silent Passenger, by G. W. Appleton.

A Lonely Flight, by A. M. Diel.

The Fulfilment, by Edith Allonby.

Miss Desmond, by Marie Van Vorst.

Memoirs of Dr. T. W. Evans.

With Flashlight and Rifle in Equatorial Africa, by C. G. Schillings.

OBITUARY NOTES.

JOSEPH T. HALL, a retired book dealer, died January 4, at the home of his daughter, Frances E. Hall, 565 Chauncey Street, Brooklyn, N. Y. Mr. Hall was born in Ireland on August 3, 1818. For many years he was in the employ of Harper & Brothers, and later with D. Appleton & Co., and the Methodist Book Concern.

SIR MOUNTSTUART ELPHINSTONE GRANT DUFF, author of "Notes from a Diary," etc., died January 12, in London. Sir Mountstuart was born in Eden, Aberdeenshire, Scotland, February 29, 1829, and after graduating from Balliol College was called to the bar. He entered Parliament in 1857, and from 1868 to 1874 was Under-Secretary of State for India. Later he became Secretary of the Colonies and Governor of Madras. It is as the author of "Notes from a Diary" that Sir Mountstuart is most widely known. The first volume appeared in 1897, and the sixth in 1904, the intermediate ones in 1898, 1899, 1900 and in 1901. He had adopted the custom of keeping a diary when eighteen years old, and allowed no day to pass without some entry. A quarter of a century after he began to keep it he read over what he had written and decided to extract what would be of interest to other persons than himself, the result being a famous work. He was also the author of "Studies in European Politics," "A Political Survey," "Elgin Speeches," "Notes of an Indian Journey," "Ernest Renan," "Miscellanies, Political and Literary," and "Out of the Past." He also edited a "Victorian Anthology."

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

THE AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION held its annual meeting on the afternoon of the 10th inst. Owing to a misunderstanding as to the date of the meeting but a few members above a quorum were present. No business of importance was presented. The resolutions of the American Booksellers' Association regarding the placing of fiction on the net basis, and the extension of the period of protection from one to two years were introduced, but were referred back, without discussion, to the Board of Directors, with instructions to report later.

It was voted to increase the membership of the Board of Directors from nine to twelve, the three new directors to be elected at a special meeting of the Association to be called some time next month. The officers of the Association will be elected by the Board of Directors, also in February. Messrs. Daniel Appleton, Frederick A. Stokes and George P. Brett, whose three-year term as members of the Board of Directors had expired, were re-elected.

The Association was reported to be in good condition financially and intact as to membership, with the exception of the firm of L. C. Page & Co., whose withdrawal took place January 1.

It was reported that the time for appeal from Judge Parker's decision by the Macy's had elapsed, and that it now looks as though the suit had been dropped.

LADIES' NIGHT AT THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE.

THE Ladies' Night given by the Booksellers' League on the evening of January 17, at the rooms of the Aldine Association, was attended by upwards of 150 members and their guests, and, altogether, was one of the most successful entertainments given by the League.

The speaking was introduced by the president, Frederick D. Lacy, who welcomed the guests in a happy speech. Reminding them that the day also marked the two-hundredth anniversary of Benjamin Franklin's birthday, he called upon A. Growoll for remarks on the subject. Mr. Growoll briefly outlined the many services rendered by Franklin to the cause of letters in general and to the book-trade in particular. The Rev. Robert E. Knowles, author of "St. Cuthbert's," next held the audience spellbound by an oratorical flourish that swept the gamut of human emotions from the gay to the grave, which was followed by hearty applause. Mr. and Mrs. Barclay Dunham's sing-a-log was also much enjoyed. Mr. Dunham illustrated the work of three American composers and song writers—Foote, Macdowell and Nevin—giving a brief biographical sketch of each composer, describing his work and by rendering some of their songs, Mrs. Dunham taking upon herself the larger share of the singing. Edmund Vance Cooke, a copy of whose charming "Chronicles of the Little Tot," with the author's autograph, was presented to each lady present, with the compliments of its publishers—the Dodge Publishing Company—fairly brought the house down with his inimitable rendering of his own verses about children and some stories in imitation of French and German visitors to American sights. Eugene P. Lyle, Jr., author of "The Missourian," with an account of a "Journalist Astray," that is, utilizing his blue pencilled stories as book material, brought a most enjoyable evening to a close at about half-past eleven. The arrangements for the dinner, the attentions paid to the guests, etc., left nothing to be desired and reflect much credit upon the entertainment committee.

STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Stationers' Board of Trade, held on the afternoon of the 9th inst., the following officers and committees were unanimously re-elected for the ensuing year:

President: Henry C. Bainbridge.

First Vice-President: James C. Aikin.

Second Vice-President: Charles S. Kiggins.

Secretary and Treasurer: Herbert M. Condit.

Executive Committee: James C. Aikin, chairman; Frank D. Waterman, Eberhard Faber, Lyman B. Sturgis, Miles Vernon, the President, ex officio, and the Treasurer, ex officio.

Arbitration Committee: Charles McLoughlin, chairman; Stephen Farrelly, Franklin Weston, David A. Tower, William B. Boorum, Jr., William Keuffel, and the President, ex officio.

Kronheimer & Oldenbusch Co. were elected to membership.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

BRAND WHITLOCK, who succeeded "Golden Rule" Jones as Mayor of Toledo, Ohio, and as leader of the "Golden Rule" party, is the author of a number of novels, including "The 13th District," "Her Infinite Variety" and "The Happy Average," all of them realistic studies of life in the Middle West. He is now reported to be writing another story dealing with the under world of thieves and "crooks."

FREDERIC HARRISON, who has been engaged for some time on a dramatic version of his novel "Theophano," now announces that his labor is complete. There is an excellent prospect that the play will soon be staged in London. "Theophano" is a story of the crusade of the tenth century. It was published by the Harpers somewhat over a year ago, and received the unusual distinction of being enthusiastically reviewed in The Nineteenth Century by no less an authority than John Morley.

H. W. BOYNTON, author of "Bret Harte," in the McClure-Phillips Contemporary Men of Letters Series, declares that the most minute search of all documents and inquiries among persons who knew Bret Harte have enabled him to fix definitely the rumors of Harte's Jewish ancestry. Clement Shorter, editor of The Sphere, takes issue with Mr. Boynton, and declares there is no doubt about the matter. He writes to an inquirer: "I may state that my final authority for Mr. Bret Harte's Jewish origin is his daughter, Miss Ethel Bret Harte, for whom a fund was recently raised in London. Mr. Bret Harte in his family circle recalled as a small boy being taken to see the old grandfather, who was a very strict Jew, and never entirely forgave his son for marrying a Christian."

THOSE who are writing biographies of the late Henry Harland will probably fall into the common error and state that his birthplace was St. Petersburg. Such is the information given in "Who's Who," but Mr. Harland himself is the authority for the statement that it is inaccurate. Mr. Harland was born, as "Who's Who" states, in 1861, but the question of the place is complicated by the fact that Mr. Harland himself disagrees with the records. Before a court of law Mr. Harland would have had to confess that he was born in prosaic Brooklyn, which except under oath he was never willing to admit. He always claimed Norwich, which he called "the rose of Connecticut," as the place of his nativity. He explained this disagreement with the records by saying that he preferred to have been born in Norwich because he liked the place, and had not been consulted about being born in Brooklyn anyhow.

The Jewish World, of London, states that the various rumors about the Jewish origin of the late Jules Verne, the famous French author, which were recently denied by his son in Le Figaro, of Paris, have been confirmed. In the Gazeta Narodowa, of Warsaw, a correspondence has taken place which shows that Jules Verne was originally called Olszewicz, and was born of Jewish parents in Plock, Russian Poland. His father, according to M. Sokolow, editor of the Hebrew daily Hasephira, of Warsaw, was known as "the pious German," on account of his fashionable attire. The son, however, left the country, turned Christian, adopted the name of Verne, and, although he seems to have been a Pole by nationality and by preference, he subsequently became a thorough Frenchman.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Printing Art for January contains an article on "The New Humanistic Type," by Charles Eliot Norton, with examples of type with which the University Press, of Cambridge, is now experimenting, contrasted with facsimiles of several manuscript pages produced by the Humanistic Scribes in their best work; "Library Printing," by John Cotton Dana, with a number of illustrations; also an editorial note on the "Responsibilities That Attach to Printing." The object lessons in typography are unusually full, including reproductions of the prize designs of the Printing Art's catalogue title-page competition, typographic exhibits composed at several printing offices, color plates, etc.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

OSCAR WEGELIN, 29 West Forty-second Street, New York City, has in press "A Bibliography of the Separate Writings of William Gilmore Simms, of South Carolina, 1806-1870." The work, compiled by Mr. Wegelin, will contain complete, line-for-line, titles and paginations of all the known works of Simms. The edition will be limited to 125 copies.

THE OFFICE OF THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY has just brought out the third part of "State Publications," compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. Bowker. This section of the work covers the publication of the States stretching from the west bank of the Mississippi to the Pacific coast, with the exception of Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas, (which belong naturally to the group of Southern States to be covered in Part IV.) as well as the present organized Territories of Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Hawaii, the unorganized Indian Territory and the District of Alaska. The fourth and concluding part will contain the record of the fifteen States not yet covered in the three parts thus far published.

THE SOCIETY OF PRINTERS, which is giving an exhibition in honor of the bi-centenary of Franklin's birth at the Boston Public Library, has published in connection with this exhibit a handbook entitled "The Development of Printing as an Art." The handbook is a running comment on the exhibit, which is planned to illustrate the art of making books progressively from the work of the manuscript writers and illuminators to the products of the modern printing press, including the processes by which illustrations and paper are made. Each section and period has an introduction and the more important exhibits are more or less fully described. The handbook is artistically printed and has a permanent interest apart from its use in studying the exhibit. (4+94 p. 8°, pap.)

THE INTERNATIONAL INSTITUTE OF SOCIAL BIBLIOGRAPHY, under the business management of Dr. Hermann Beck and Hermann Hasse, of Berlin, and Dr. J. Hanauer, of Frankfurt-on-the-Main, has recently established itself at 17 Spichernstr., Berlin. The object of the institute is to cultivate bibliographical as well as historical and critical studies in the department of social science, to note all new publications in this department, and to publish all such studies and notes in a periodical organ of the institute, as well as to issue at irregular periods monographs and collected works dealing with social science. Among the works which the institute proposes to publish are a bibliography of the bibliographies of social science of all countries; a bibliography of trusts; a bibliography of the woman question; a bibliography of labor organizations and a bibliography of the administrations of cities.

WILLIAM ABBATT, 281 Fourth Avenue, New York, proposes to issue a complete index to The Magazine of American History, from 1877 to 1893. Every student who has had occasion to consult the bound volumes of Mrs.

Lamb's famous magazine has felt the need of a separate index covering the whole work, from January, 1877, to its end in September, 1893. Every librarian, also, will appreciate this handy form. It will be printed in type two sizes larger than the old index found in each volume, and will be exactly the same size in itself, so as to agree perfectly with the bound volumes in appearance. As soon as a reasonable number of subscriptions have been received the printing will be begun and the copies delivered as soon as possible thereafter. The volume will contain between 325 and 350 pages, and will be printed from type which will be distributed after printing. The price has been fixed at $7.50 net.

BUSINESS NOTES.

CHARLESTON, ILL.—H. Mackett, bookseller, has sold out to Mrs. Nellie Peters.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—The Minneapolis Book Concern has been incorporated by J. A. Frost and Gustaf W. Seashore.

NEW YORK CITY.—Frederick Warne & Co., finding their present quarters too small for their growing business, have taken the entire second loft of the same building, 36 West Twenty-second Street.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The American Baptist Publication Society on January 23 will remove to temporary quarters at 1630 Chestnut Street, pending the erection of their new building.

The new building, which will be six stories, will occupy the northwest corner of Seventeenth and Chestnut Streets, with a frontage of 45 feet on Chestnut Street and 170 feet on Seventeenth Street. The building will be begun early in the spring, and when completed will be occupied entirely by the Society.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—John Joseph McVey, for fifteen years at 39 N. Thirteenth Street, will remove on March 15 to 1229 Arch Street, five doors east of Thirteenth Street, N. Mr. McVey for some time has needed more room for the proper housing and display of his large stock of rare books. His new quarters offer ample room for both these requirements.

SHARON, PA.—An explosion occurred in Denko's bookstore on January 2. When Mr. Denko entered the store he detected the odor of gas. He struck a match near a gas burner and a terrific explosion followed. The interior of the store was wrecked and every window in the building shattered. Mr. Denko is in a serious condition, and is now in a hospital.

TEMPLE, TEX.—J. E. Harvey has sold his bookstore here to R. S. Maldrop, of Rockwall, and has gone to Dallas to take charge of a bookstore recently purchased by him in that city.

TROY, N. Y.—Arthur M. Allen, bookseller, has removed to larger quarters, at 452 Fulton Street, six doors west of his present location. The new store will be known as "Allen's Bookstore."

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

JOHN H. BLACK, representing the firm of McLoughlin Brothers, has started on his trip for the Pacific coast. Charles Miller, representing the same firm, is on his way West to visit the jobbing trade.

D. C. HEATH & Co. will publish shortly a collection of German student songs, entitled "Deutsches Liederbuch für Amerikanische Studenten," edited by Professor A. R. Hohlfeld, of the University of Wisconsin.

JOHN A. BACON, for the past nine years connected with McLoughlin Brothers, has joined the selling organization of Andrew Dougherty, playing card manufacturer, New York, and will represent that house in the Far West.

THE BURROWS BROTHERS COMPANY last week entertained their staff at the Colonial Hotel in Cleveland. About 120 were present and were entertained by Edmund Vance Cooke, Clarence T. Odell, George Olney and others.

JOHN MURRAY, London, announces a new volume of biographical sketches by Sir Theodore Martin, which will contain chapters on David Garrick, William Charles Macready, Rachel Felix, the great French actress, and Baron Stockmar; also "The Jottings of an Old Solicitor," by Sir John Hollams, whose reminiscences touch many celebrated cases in the English courts.

THE SCUDDER BROTHERS COMPANY, Cincinnati, O., will issue early in February a new

"Eclectic Practice of Medicine," by Rolla L. Thomas, M.D., Professor of Practice of Medicine in the Eclectic Medical Institute, Cincinnati. This work will embrace over 1000 octavo pages, and will contain two full-page lithographs, five full-page color prints and fifty illustrations in black.

THE CENTURY COMPANY will publish next month a new novel by Miss Bertha Runkle, author of "The Helmet of Navarre," to be entitled "Tolna," the heroine of which is a successful singer at the Metropolitan Opera House, and the scenes and characters of which are all of New York City. They have in preparation a character study, set on an island off the Nova Scotia coast, entitled "Uncle William."

HARPER & BROTHERS will bring out next month the initial volume of a series of humorous works to be entitled Mark Twain Library of Humor. The series is to be edited by Mark Twain, whose aim it will be to include not only representative selections from the works of those whom the world has long recognized as fun-makers, but to give full and rightful place to all writers who, while working in a wider field, have yet given expression to the purest humor. The first volume will be called "Men and Things."

GINN & Co. have just published a "Home Geography of New York City," by Gustav Straubenmüller, District Superintendent of Schools in New York City. This work is a particularly effective application of the principle of beginning with the child's immediate environment and with this as a foundation lead him on to a wider knowledge. The book begins with the pupil's immediate surroundings and proceeds to describe in detail the topography of each borough. The history of the city is also discussed, and the narrative is made more real by numerous illustrations and bird's-eye views.

REILLY & BRITTON, Chicago, announce that Mr. Baum's new book for young people, to be published by them later in the year, will be entitled "John Dough and the Cherubs," and will be similar in general characteristics to the author's famous "Wizard of Oz," though radically different as to characters and plot. John R. Neill, of Philadelphia, whose illustrations for "The Land of Oz" received so much praise, is at work on the illustrations for the new publication, which will be very elaborately printed throughout in three colors. Mr. Baum, by the way, will not start on his Mediterranean trip until the 27th inst.

OWING to the necessity for most careful comparison and collation of the new translation of "Champlain's Voyages," which Professor and Mrs. E. G. Bourne are preparing for The Trailmakers series, the standard library of history and exploration, of which Professor J. B. McMaster is consulting editor, the publishers, A. S. Barnes & Co., will delay publication of this important work for a few weeks. While Champlain's first volumes have been translated in limited editions, privately issued, his last and largest volume, which contains practically a summary of his discoveries in the New World, has not been translated before.

THOMAS WHITTAKER has just published a brief exposition of the Ten Commandments, adapted to present-day conditions, entitled "The X Commandments in the XXth Century," by the Rev. Dr. H. Martyn Hart; a popular résumé of Christian teaching, entitled "Rightly Instructed in God's Holy Word," by the Rt. Rev. Dr. Beckwith, Bishop of the Episcopal Church of Alabama, with an introduction by the Rev. Dr. W. P. Du Bose, Dean of Sewanee Theological Seminary; also, "A Church Calendar," for 1906, which is a weekly calendar "according to the usages of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America," giving the order of service for every day, and "quotations upon the Christian life and the church's way."

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will publish early next month "The Lady and the Ladder," by Harrison Garfield Rhodes. The ladder up which this delightful American widow clammers is, of course, the social one, and her experiences in trying to climb it make entertaining reading. They will publish in March under the title of "Letters and Recollections of Washington" Washington's correspondence with Tobias Lear, his confidential secretary, and the latter's diary of the last days of the first President of the United States, much of which will now for the first time be published; also, "The International Cook Book," by Alexander Filippini, for many years the chef at Delmonico's, containing nearly 3500 recipes arranged in diary form, with a menu for each meal of every day in the year. In April they will publish in their Nature Library "The Frog Book," by Mary C. Dickerson.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. have in preparation the first volume of "A History of the Society of Jesus in North America, Colonial and Federal," by Father Thomas Hughes, S.J., covering the period from the first colonization to 1645; a work in two volumes, by Dr. Shadwell, on "Industrial Efficiency," a comparative study of industrial life in England, Germany and America; "The Tradition of Scripture," by Dr. William Barry, the initial volume of The Westminster Library, a series of manuals for Catholic priests and students, edited by Mgr. Ward, president of St. Edmund's College, and Father Thurston, S.J.; "Aspects of Anglicism, or, a Comment on Certain Incidents in the Nineties," by the Rt. Rev. Dr. Moyes; "Plant Responses," by Jagadis Chunder Bose, Professor in Presidency College, Calcutta, India; also "Plants and Their Ways in South Africa," by Bertha Stoneman, of Huguenot College, Wellington, South Africa.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY have just ready "The Secret of Heroism," by W. L. Mackenzie King, Deputy Minister of Labor of the Dominion of Canada, a book written as a memorial to his assistant, Henry Albert

Harper, who lost his life in rescuing a young woman who had fallen through the ice; "As Jesus Passed By," by Gipsy Smith, the English evangelist, who is really a gypsy and is shortly coming to this country to conduct meetings for the Congregational churches; "The Vision of the Savoy," by Winifred Graham, containing in the form of a semi-religious story some of the newest experiences of telepathy; "The Collected Poems of Wilfred Campbell," which have appealed so much to Andrew Carnegie that he has purchased a sufficient number of copies to be distributed to the hundreds of libraries he has established; and a new edition of R. A. Torrey's "How to Promote and Conduct a Successful Revival."

B. W. HUEBSCH, New York, has brought out a volume of essays by C. F. G. Masterman, literary editor of the London Daily News, entitled "In Peril of Change," which is full of suggestive thoughts on the tendencies of English civilization and its dominant ideals, and points out recent changes which have occurred in these and the people who have had most influence in the changes. Among the things in England most in peril of change are mentioned the landed system, the established church and the popular religion. Estimates are given of the influence of W. E. Henley, J. Henry Shorthouse, Henry Sidgwick, Frederic Myers, George Gissing, Spencer and Carlyle, Disraeli and Gladstone. The writer has filled public offices involving large opportunities for the study of social and economic conditions, and has contributed extensively to the leading English reviews. His book is a fine sociological study of modern life that must make his readers think.

F. E. HAFELY, formerly of the firm of E. & J. B. Young & Co., has opened an office at 27 East Twenty-second Street, (Room 21,) New York, for the sale of a series of secular or non-sectarian Wall Texts, suitable for home, school, public hall or office use. The texts are handsomely printed in black and red or illuminated, on a heavy white board mat, plate marked, with either a cord or ribbon hanger. There are now ready eight numbers,  $7\frac{1}{8} \times 15\frac{3}{4}$  inches in size, entitled "House Blessings," "The Whole Duty of Man," "Work is Honorable," "Love Labor," "The House Beautiful," "Christ, the Head of the House," "Holiness" and "Present Duties." There are also six larger cards,  $12\frac{1}{4} \times 19\frac{1}{4}$  inches in size, entitled "It's Worth Trying," "Ten Things for Which no one has Ever yet Been Sorry," "Energy the Motive Power," "With Good-will Doing Service," and "Work While it is Day." The larger size retails for fifty cents and the smaller for twenty-five cents. Further numbers will be added in time. The cards are good stock and have been well received wherever introduced.

THE LITERARY COLLECTOR PRESS, Greenwich, Conn., is getting out some very neat reprints of books and essays which have made themselves a name in literature. Among those that have already reached us are Robert Louis Stevenson's "Books Which Have Influenced Me," first printed in The British Weekly, May 13, 1887; Montaigne's essay entitled "Of Books;" "Mr. William Prynne: His Defence of Stage Plays," first printed in 1649 as a retraction of a former book, "Histrio-Mastix," which was against public acting; and three books by Oscar Wilde: "The Soul of Man Under Socialism," "Poems in Prose," six short stories; and "The Portrait of W. H.," an essay claiming to identify the "W. H." to whom so many of Shakespeare's most passionate sonnets are addressed as the young actor Will Hews, who first created the parts of Juliet, Rosalind, Beatrice and Desdemona on the English stage. Another book devoted to Oscar Wilde is made up of three essays by Ernest La Jeunesse, André Gide and Franz Blei, all separately entitled "In Memoriam: O. W.," and prefaced with an introduction by Percival Pollard. This is a new copyright book, as is also "Bookbinding for Bibliophiles," by Fletcher Battershall. All these publications are very neatly printed and bound in grey boards with white labels.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY have just ready "The Bible and Spiritual Criticism," Dr. Arthur T. Pierson's Exeter Hall (London) lectures for 1904, which is a companion volume to the author's "God's Living Oracles;" also, a new book by Leander T. Chamberlain, president of the Evangelical Alliance of the United States, entitled "The True Doctrine of Prayer," with a foreword by Dr. Huntington, of Grace Church, New York. They will bring out in March a new book by Mabel Barnes-Grundy, entitled "Hazel of Heatherland," a picture of English rural charm which under the title of "The Vacillations of Hazel" was received with a good deal of enthusiasm by the English critics; also, "Social Progress," edited by Dr. Josiah Strong, which has been thoroughly revised and augmented with many new statistics. They have in preparation an attractive book on "Landscape Painting and Modern Dutch Artists," by E. B. Greenshields, of Montreal, an enthusiastic student and collector of landscape paintings, particularly those by the modern Dutch school of art; also, "The Country Town—a study of rural evolution," an important sociological work, by Wilbur L. Anderson, of Exeter, N. H., with an introduction by Dr. Josiah Strong, in which the author traces the deterioration of the country town and suggests remedies for its salvation.

A. C. McCLURG & Co. are planning for 1906 an interesting list of books covering a very diversified field. The list will include several striking volumes of fiction, an admirable list of works for libraries, some beautiful gift books, and a select few of entertaining juveniles of an original sort. Although the details of their list are not as yet perfected, their plans for their spring fiction include a historical romance entitled "Nicanor: Teller of Tales," which will be brought out as a companion volume to their successful novel, "For the White Christ," with pictures in full color and decorations by the Kinneys; "For the Soul of Rafael," a picturesque and dramatic story of an old Spanish mission town in Southern California, by Marah Ellis Ryan, which will have some altogether unusual and unique photographic illustrations of a kind seldom hitherto used for book illustration; also, a new novel of Irish life by Katharine Tynan, author of "The Dear Irish Girl," "Julia," etc., who can always be counted on for a delightful story, with four graceful illustrations by George Alfred Williams. Among the more serious books will be a new and very timely work on Panama and South America by a competent observer, who has written an authoritative word on the subject; an interesting volume entitled "Hawaiian Yesterdays;" a notably important book on "The Future Life," and a collection of Shakespearean essays by the distinguished scholar, Dr. Maurice F. Egan. The work on Remenyi, the violinist, announced for publication last fall and postponed, has been carried over to the spring. There are, we understand, a number of other titles of value and distinction. For the fall it may now only be stated that Randall Parrish's remarkably popular series of romances will be augmented by a new story, in which the Custer massacre will provide the dramatic climax; a sombre and powerful tale of mediæval Italy, entitled "Ridolfo: the Coming of the Dawn," by Egerton Williams, author of "Hill Towns of Italy;" also, a brilliant character novel of English social life by Netta Syrett called "The Day's Journey," with four illustrations by Jay Hambidge. Arrangements are being made with two of America's foremost illustrators for pictures of Mr. Parrish's new story and for "Ridolfo." They also announce that they have another ms. from Mrs. Dye, author of that remarkable chronicle of Lewis and Clark, entitled "The Conquest," which will probably be published in the fall under the title "Ranald McDonald."

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplaced, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors. It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precaution; as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

The Silver Pin

By ALFRED WILSON-BARRETT

A Book of Mysteries

A story of how a young Londoner, just back from the war in South Africa, opposes himself successfully to the Scotland Yard men in a murder case.

A story of one of the deepest mysteries that ever baffled the detective force of London, with a love story of vital interest interwoven.

A story that will hold the oldest novel readers to the very end, because they cannot foresee the outcome.

A story full of dash and "go."

The United States in the Twentieth Century

By PIERRE LEROY-BEAULIEU

Translated by H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

The author shows a remarkable understanding of the social, economic, and political resources of the country and a close sympathy with American conditions.

"An amazingly instructive volume. The book is a mine of information, thoroughly assimilated and co-ordinated for the use of Americans, even more it would seem than for the French for whom it was originally written. There is nothing else in existence that approaches it in thoroughness."—The Evening Mail, New York.

A Thrilling Detective Story

The Castlecourt Diamond Case

By GERALDINE BONNER

Author of "The Pioneer," "Hard Pan,"
"To-morrow's Tangle," etc.

"A detective story at all times possesses certain inexplicable and alluring charms. The name of Miss Geraldine Bonner (who has already established a creditable reputation by some of her previous stories) as the author of 'The Castlecourt Diamond Case,' should be guarantee enough that it will not be lacking in entangling plot or exciting interest. As the purpose of a detective story—which is to hold the reader in suspense—would be destroyed if even the slightest inkling of the plot were divulged, it would be unfair to thus handicap this story at the very outset. Therefore our lips are tightly sealed as to what it is all about."—New York Times Saturday Review.

12mo, Cloth, $1.00

By the Author of "The Boy Problem," etc.

WILLIAM BYRON FORBUSH

The Boy's Life of Christ

With the same vividness and movement that is found in the favorite juvenile biographies of popular heroes the author portrays the heroic Jesus. He is seen playing the games of boys; camping out with the fishermen; sailing the lake in the storm; braving the enmity of the mighty; dying like a soldier for a holy cause. The book is dramatic; made of short sentences, crisp descriptions, plenty of dialog. It approaches the divine Jesus through human greatness.

"Dr. Forbush could not write a dull book on any subject, but when he brings the Fair Boy of the first Christian Century to the boys in the twentieth century—to tell the story and to apply it—he is at his best. The boys and the publishers, and the fathers and mothers are all to be congratulated."—Bishop John H. Vincent.

Senator Albert J. Beveridge says of David Graham Phillips's Great Novel

“‘The Deluge’ must be dramatized, for it is life; life brimming to the cup’s edge, quaffed to the cup’s dregs---the power of human power and emotion at white heat, the thrill of battle at its fierce climax of bayonet thrust and throat clutch; the love of woman and woman’s inexplicable caprice---all this and more like it make ‘The Deluge’ mesmeric in its fascination.”

The GREAT REFUSAL

By MAXWELL GRAY

Author of "The Silence of Dean Maitland"

12mo. Ornamental Cloth, $1.50

This is the story of love given up for an ideal, of the struggle of a modern rich young man to do better than the rich young man in the Bible who refused to give up his riches to gain the kingdom of heaven, and "went away grieved" at his own refusal. It is a study of modern plutocracy. The young man learns by hard experience that one man cannot overcome the laziness of a nation and that economic laws are as immutable as the laws of health. But at the last he sails away to the coast of South Africa to found a modern Utopia, and takes with him the girl he really ought to marry.

A WORK OF IMMENSE IMPORTANCE

FUTURE LIFE

In Ancient Wisdom and Modern Science

By LOUIS ELBÉ

THIS is the authorized translation of the famous book which has been creating so wide a stir in scientific and religious circles throughout France, under the title "La Vie Future." It will be received with equal interest here, and will arouse very general discussion, as the subject is one which is engaging, not only scientists, but laymen, in ever-increasing numbers. This volume offers for the first time a complete presentation of all the available evidence hitherto available only in the most scattered and inaccessible forms. With great care and exactness M. Elbé has arranged a plain statement of the discoveries, theories, and ideas of the greatest investigators, together with his own illuminating views and comments, and a mass of authentic information regarding the beliefs of the primitive races.

There is a constantly-increasing demand for works in this line, and book-sellers will appreciate the reception which will be waiting for so great a book as this—probably the most important ever published.

Double Trouble

The first comedy novel based on dual personality.

In one "state of soul" the hero is a quiet retired business man, a lover of books, proud of a Puritan conscience.

In the other he is a breezy promoter of the Middle West, loud, sporty, rakish.

When both careers cross paths there follows a series of mirth-making situations, farcical confusion.

Through all runs a love story of bewitching tenderness.

What the Reviewers SAY

"Romance lovers will do well to mark 'Barbara Winslow, Rebel' down on their lists."—N. Y. World.

"A frankly romantic story, buoyant, eventful, and in matters of love exactly what the heart could desire."—N. Y. Sun.

"Barbara is one of the first arrivals of the opening year on the romantic stage of fiction, and is an entrancing creature."—Boston Herald.

"'Barbara Winslow' should be one of the favorite books of the year, and one of the best sellers."—New Haven Journal-Courier.

"Here is Barbara Winslow, coquettish, fickle, light-hearted and gay, but daring in the face of danger and true as steel."—N. Y. Mail.

"The dialogue in this pleasing romance is notably sprightly and clever, the situations are interesting, and the action is rapid—a clever story of a fascinating heroine."—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

NOTES IN SEASON.

MOFFAT, YARD & COMPANY will shortly publish Eleanor Hoyt Brainerd's "In Vanity Fair," a book telling of the origin and exploitation of fashions in woman's dress, a field in which she is a recognized authority. Social phenomena of extraordinary kinds are at the foundation of fashion, and the book offers a revelation of human nature, vanity, extravagance, shrewdness and enterprise seldom studied against so fascinating a background. They have also just ready "The Invisible Bond," a novel by Eleanor Talbot Kipkes, a strong story of present day life in Kentucky, illustrated in color by C. Allan Gilbert.

L. C. PAGE & Co. will publish on the 15th inst. a new novel by Lilian Bell, entitled "Carolina Lee," the story of a fascinating American girl, born and educated in Paris, who at the beginning of the story rides on the top wave of success in New York society. A financial catastrophe leaves her without means excepting an old rundown plantation in Virginia, which she proceeds to rebuild, her efforts being crowned with surprising success. The book will have a frontispiece in color after an oil painting by Dora Wheeler Keith. They also announce under the title of "Stand Pat" a collection of the interesting humorous poker stories contributed to the New York Sun by David Curtis, the author of a technical book on the game of poker.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS begin their spring publications to-day with a volume of stories by Cy Warman, called "The Last Spike, and Other Railroad Stories." The book includes seventeen stories, including love stories, ghost stories, stories of adventure and heroism and of all kinds of life on trains and railroads dealing with conductors, trainmen, engineers and passengers. These are considered to be the best stories that Mr. Warman has ever written. They have also just ready the book which was awarded the Bross Prize, ($6000,) by the Lake Forest University in 1905, entitled "The Problem of the Old Testament." It is by Professor James Orr, and is said to be a remarkably clear and able work on this subject, intended for laymen as well as for scholars. The committee which made the award was composed of Professor Ladd, of Yale, Professor Ormond of Princeton, and Professor Wright, of Oberlin, and they unanimously agreed on this book as unquestionably the best of all submitted.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & COMPANY will publish on February 17 "Individuality and Immortality," an essay by Professor William Ostwald, of Leipzig, who has finished his course of lectures at Harvard University and is now giving a series at Columbia University, New York City, before returning to Germany. On the same date they will bring out the first work of fiction for this year, written by Miss Margaret Morse, a story of nature and two nature lovers, man and woman, of peculiar temperament and ideals and perfect affinity, which will be called "The Spirit of the Pines." The house is also printing the nineteenth edition of Clara Louise Burnham's "The Right Princess," the fifth of "Routine and Ideals," by Le Baron R. Briggs; the fourth edition of "A Third Century of Charades," by William Bellamy; a third edition of "The Ancient Grudge," by Arthur Stanwood Pier; and second editions of Morton Dexter's "The England and Holland of the Pilgrims;" of William Vaughan Moody's "The Fire Bringer;" and of Albert H. Tolman's "The Views About Hamlet."

While this volume of the "American Art Annual" conforms in its general plan to previous issues, the reports of paintings sold at auction have been made easier for reference by a single classification under the name of the artist, arranged alphabetically, of all paintings sold at public auction for $100. and over, since October, 1903. Special attention is called to the fact that dates of birth and death and the nationality of artists are given in this list. The biographical directory of painters, sculptors and illustrators is followed by a list of the sculptors and one of the illustrators. The directory of writers and lecturers on art has a supplementary list of daily newspapers that devote space to art matters. Besides there are other valuable features such as lists of art books and art magazines published in 1905-6; Obituaries; Scholarships and prizes; Exhibitions; Reports of art galleries and societies, etc. Illustrated with reproductions of twenty page pictures of recent art works or paintings.

Benson, E: F. The angel of pain. Phil., Lippincott, 1905. 364 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

A beautiful English country place is the scene of Philip Home's courtship of Madge Ellington. Philip is rich, cultured and in every way desirable as a husband, but Madge does not love him. Lady Ellington, her worldly mother, persuades her, however, to accept him. An artist friend of Philip is painting her portrait, and just on the eve of her marriage she discovers that they love each other. Philip is thrown over and the tragedy of the book occurs. There is a third man in the story—Tom Merivale—who is a strange character. He lives outdoors and can make himself understood by a bird or a beast.

Bishop, Heber Reginald. The Bishop collection. Investigations and studies in jade. In 2 v. v. 1, Investigations and studies in jade; v. 2, Catalogue. N. Y., [De Vinne Press,] [1906.] 2 v., f°. (privately printed.)

- Chamberlain, Leander Trowbridge. The true doctrine of prayer: with foreword by W: R. Huntington, D.D. N. Y., Baker & Taylor Co., 1906. c. '05. 10+179 p. D. cl., **$1 net.
Dr. Huntington, rector of Grace Church, New York, says: "The author has been singularly wise in his choice of a method. It is the method Coleridge employed in his 'Aids to reflection,' and the Hare brothers in their 'Guesses at truth'—the method of aphorism. Instead of formal chapters, after the conventional fashion, we have a logical succession of detached and semi-detached paragraphs, each one of which presents a truth which no one who desires to think deeply about prayer can afford to lose out of sight."
- Clarke, Mrs. Mary Bayard Devereux. Poems by Mrs. Mary Bayard Clarke; with a sketch of her life by Winchester Hall. N. Y., Broadway Publishing Co., [1905.] c. 31-193 p. por. 12°, cl., $1.

- Dillon, Mrs. Mary. In old Bellaire; with il. by C. M. Relyea. N. Y., Century Co., 1906. [Ja.] c. 7+363 p. D. cl., $1.50.
Bellaire is a small college and barracks town in southern Pennsylvania where feeling ran high in the days previous to the Civil War because of the presence of many Southern students. Here comes Eunice Harlowe, a demure, Quaker-like New England school teacher, and as a member of the family of the college president she is brought in contact with the gay, careless social life of the town. Naturally a love story evolves and the staunch little Northerner finds she has to choose between patriotism and the love of a man of whom her principles do not approve. The war tries out the dress from the souls of all.

- Du Bois, Mary R. J., comp. The pleasant thought year book: pleasant and profitable thoughts taken from a large number of authors and arranged for every day in the year. New Haven, Ct., Tuttle, Morehouse & Taylor Co., 1905. c. 4+120 p. 16°, pap., 75 c.
- Eastman, H. Parker. The negro, his origin, history and destiny; containing a reply to "The negro a beast." Bost., Eastern Publishing Co., [1906.] c. '05. 448 p. D. cl., $2. The opening chapters are devoted to a criticism of Prof. Carroll's work, "The negro a beast," Prof. Eastman entirely refuting his arguments. Further on he attempts to reveal and demonstrate beyond all question the origin of the negro; to trace his history from the beginning to the present, and to state what he believes to be the true solution of the "race problem." A sketch is given of Prof. Eastman's life by J. M. McLeod.
- Edwards, Tryon. Our country, historic and picturesque: a complete story of its development and progress from the first discovery by the Northmen to the present time. - Glasgow, Ellen Anderson Gholson. The wheel of life. N. Y., Doubleday, Page & Co., 1906. [Ja.] c. 6+474 p. D. cl., $1.50.
While the scene of this novel is New York City and several of the characters are society people, it is not a society novel. It is rather a story of temperaments than of incident, and interest centering in a half dozen mismatched men and women, their loves, infidelities and jealousies. The chief woman character is a girl from Virginia who has published a volume of poems. She is loved by four men, and it is her fate at first to choose the least worthy. Old-fashioned New York around Gramercy Park has been cleverly studied and there is a glimpse of the literary world.

- Griffiths, Arthur G: F: The passenger from Calais. Bost., L. C. Page & Co., 1906. c. 6-287 p. D. cl., $1.25.
The story is largely told by Colonel Basil Annesley, an English officer on leave of absence. He seems to be the only passenger on the Engadine Express from Calais to Basle, until on the eve of departure, a lady, with her maid and baby come on board. This is the beginning of an ingenious story, in which a baby is being spirited away by a divorced woman from her late husband. Detectives follow in a pursuit through Europe. Twin sisters, exactly alike, add to the mystification. Author of "The queen's shilling" and other novels.
- Gumckel, J: E. Boyville: a history of fifteen years' work among newsboys. Toledo, O., Toledo Newsboys' Association, [1905.] c. 7+219 p. D. cl., 75 c.
Story of the organization and development of the Boyville Newsboys' Association formed in 1892, presumably in Toledo, by a man who saw in the wild, much abused newsboys so much ill-directed energy. From the smallest beginning the association has grown to a membership of hundreds, being a self-governing society, pledged only to abstain from swearing, lying, stealing, gambling, drinking liquors and smoking cigarettes.

- Holmes, Gordon. The Arnelcliffe puzzle. N. Y., E: J. Clode, 1906. c. 6+326 p. D. cl., $1.50.
A wealthy English baronet is found dead in his library. Indications point to death by slow poison. Suspicion is thrown on the dead man's secretary, whom he has named as heir, and on his agent. Scotland Yard detectives, and an English barrister, an American financier, and a physician who is an expert in poison effects, are drawn into the case, which develops many surprises, not the least of which is the final confession of the murderer. A love story helps along the plot.

Opens with an article on "Houseboating in America," by the editor, pointing out the progress made in houseboating in the United States, and making known the opportunities American waters afford for enjoyment of the houseboating life; following is a paper by E. E. Thomas on "Houseboating in England," one on "Interior fitting and furnishing," by A. B. Hunt and "The inside route to Florida," by Captain T. I. Smith. Many examples of various kinds of houseboats are described and illustrated, such as the sailing houseboat, the stationary houseboat; the steam power for houseboats and gasoline power for houseboats.

Hunt, W. Holman. Pre-Raphaelitism and the Pre-Raphaelite brotherhood. N. Y., Macmillan, 1905. c. 2 v., 28+512; 14+493 p. O. cl., per set, *$10 net.

A history of the inception and development of the Pre-Raphaelite school of painting of which William Holman Hunt was one of the leaders. The movement belonged to the last half of the past century, and was an attempt to return to nature, or truth in art. Besides Mr. Hunt, Rossetti, Ford Madox Brown, Millais and other English artists who afterwards became famous, were members of the brotherhood. The work is rich in many interests. It not only goes into the motives and ambitions that inspired the Pre-Raphaelites but is full of details and anecdotes which describe and illustrate numerous interesting personalities; both artists and literary people were included in the author's acquaintance, and he tells much that one is glad to know about Tennyson, Thackeray, Dickens, Gladstone and others equally noted.

The value of walking as an exercise depends entirely on its being properly done. Dr. Latson indicates clearly the evils of improper walking and how to walk correctly, all of which is made clear by half-tone illustrations showing correct and incorrect ways. A set of exercises for promoting ease and grace in walking is given, with illustrations.

Lea, H. C. A history of the Inquisition of Spain. In 4 v. v. 1. N. Y., Macmillan, 1906. [Ja.] c. 12+620 p. O. cl., **$2.50 net.

We are already indebted to Mr. Lea for "A history of the Inquisition of the Middle Ages" (3 v.) and other carefully written works along the same lines. In the present work he traces the character and career of an institution which exercised no small influence on the fate of Spain and indirectly upon the civilized world. He also includes a brief sketch of the Portuguese Inquisition, which earned a reputation even more sinister than its Spanish prototype. The work opens with the accession of Ferdinand and Isabella, and is divided into two books. Book 1, "Origin and establishment" has chapters on: The Castilian monarchy; The Jews and the Moors; The Jews and the Conversos; Establishment of the Inquisition; The Kingdoms of Aragon. Book 2, "Relations with the state," contains chapters on: Relations with the crown; Supereminence; Privileges and exemptions; Conflicting jurisdictions; Popular hostility.

These ten modern "Plagues" are divorce, amusements, municipal misrule, corrupt journalism, lynching, social impurity, our city carnivals, murder—self and others, gambling, and intemperance.
- McCrady, Rev. E: Apostolic succession and the problem of unity; [introd. by Theodore D. Bratton.] Sewanee, Tenn., University Press, 1905. c. 8+163 p. D. cl., $1.10.
Discussion of the doctrine of Apostolic succession as held by the Roman Catholic and Greek churches as well as by many members of the English and Protestant Episcopal churches. The author thinks it can be only accepted as a plausible theory and can never be demonstrated as an incontestable fact. It is this theory which is the real bar to Christian unity in that it discriminates against the validity of the sacraments as administered by the Protestant bodies. The author also states arguments against the proposed change of name of the Protestant Episcopal church to the American Catholic church.

- Masterman, C: F. Gurney. In peril of change: essays written in times of tranquillity. N. Y., B. W. Huebsch, [1906.] 15+331 p. D. cl., $1.50.
Author is Fellow of Christ's College, Cambridge, and literary editor of the London Daily News. The essays estimate the forces which are making for change throughout the world but especially in the England of the last generation. A reaction has set in from the radical views of the last few decades. The author criticizes literature and politics, their possibilities and short-comings and gives short sketches of the influence of Henley, Shorthouse, Henry Sidgwick, George Gissing, Disraeli, Gladstone, the great religious teachers (Temple, Westcott, Creighton, Dolling), Shaw, Wells, Maeterlinck, etc. It is a book to make earnest men think. Many of the essays have already appeared in English periodicals.

- Merejkowski, Dmitri. Peter and Alexis: the romance of Peter the Great; sole authorized tr. from the Russian. N. Y., Putnam, 1906. c. 4-556 p. D. cl., †$1.50.
Completes the author's trilogy—"Christ and Anti-Christ," of which the former volumes were "The death of the gods" and "The romance of Leonardo da Vinci." The three novels may be read separately, being connected only by a strong underlying idea. Through many historical episodes, often brutal and revolting, a psychological study is made of the Romanoff family. Peter, though called the Great, is shown as a man of violent temper, self-indulgent and cruel; his unfortunate son Alexis is compared to the present Tsar Nicholas. It is a sketch, vivid and true, of classes and conditions, of court and society, of peasants and wild religious beliefs in Russia at the beginning of the eighteenth century.

Grammar and vocabulary prefaced by explanatory notes of the dialect of the Ibaloi, an Igorot tribe living in the Province of Benguet, Luzon, Philippine Islands. The second paper, filling some seven pages, is an examination and study of the Bataks who are found in the interior of Palawan, an island of the Philippine group. Illustrated by many full-page plates from photographs taken by Dean C. Worcester and Merton L. Miller.

Schillings, C. G. Flashlights in the jungle: a record of hunting adventures and of studies in wild life in equatorial East Africa; tr. by F. Whyte; with an introd. by Sir H. H. Johnston; il. with 302 of the author's "untouched" photographs taken by day and night. N. Y., Doubleday, Page & Co., 1906. c. 30+782 p. por. O. cl., *$3.80 net.

Mr. Schillings's many journeys to East Africa to study the country and its beasts and birds are here recorded. He hunted the elephant, the rhinoceros, hippopotamus, buffaloes and crocodiles, giraffes, zebras, lions and leopards, and other equally fear-inspiring creatures. To photograph them in their night retreats, he resorted to the flashlight with remarkable success, securing a series of pictures such as has never before been seen. His remarkable insight into animal life and sympathy with all wild creatures make his studies of their habits of exceptional value. The beauty of the scenery and the life of the natives are also carefully presented.

Snider, Denton Jaques. Feeling psychologically treated and prolegomena to psychology. St. Louis, Mo., Sigma Publishing Co., [1906.] c. 132+5-402 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The third volume of the author's discussion of psychology, the other volumes having dealt with intellect (psychology and psychosis) and the will and its world. These books form part of a series called "The new system of thought" that has successively taken up The history of philosophy, Institutions, and Aesthetic. The Prolegomena, or introduction to psychology fills about 130 pages, after which comes the examination of feeling subdivided as Elemental, Finite and Absolute. The author believes that psychology is in a fair way to become the universal science, uniting and psychically re-creating all the other sciences.

Stallcup, J. Calhoun. A refutation of the Darwinian conception of the origin of mankind. Tacoma, Wash., Allen & Lamborn Printing Co., 1905. c. 9-119 p. O. cl., gratis. [Ed. limited to 200 copies.]

An argument against the theory of the origin of man as set forth by Darwin, and supported by Tyn-dal, Huxley, Spencer, Haeckel and others. The author's conclusions are that man is a recent comer on earth, and that the evidence is overwhelming that he appeared at the closing of the last catastrophe to the world within ten thousand years of this time, when all living things then on the earth were destroyed. That life upon the earth was again re-instituted by contact with the sun's heat, with the dense vapors enveloping the earth, etc. The 200 copies printed are intended for free distribution among personal friends, to the public libraries, the priests, preachers and scientists.

Stevens, Horace J. Copper handbook; covering the history, geography, metallurgy, finances, geology, chemistry, glossary, statistics of copper. 1905 ed. Houghton, Mich., Horace J. Stevens, 1905. c. 882 p. 8°, buckram, $5; mor., $7.50.

Taylor, W. Purves. Practical cement testing. N. Y., Myron C. Clark Publishing Co., 1906. c. '05. 8+320 p. O. cl., $3 net.

Designed primarily for the use of the student, the novice, and the practical operator in conducting actual routine tests of cement to determine its suitability for purposes of construction, but both the expert and the engineer who directs this work may also find useful information. The general scope of the book covers a description of the properties of cement, the objects of the various tests, the methods of conducting them, the common influences and errors that are most likely to affect the determinations, and the practical interpretation of the results which are finally obtained. No attempt has been made to consider the practical use of cement and concrete except in so far as the conditions of actual work regulate the use of the various tests, while the data given are also applicable more to the conduct of tests than to the final use of the material."—Preface.

Tennyson, Alfred, Lord. In memoriam; annotated by the author. N. Y., Macmillan, 1906. [Jaro.] c. 265 p. 16°, cl., $1 net.

Important edition, because it contains author's notes now published for the first time. Introduction by the present Lord Tennyson giving views of the poem by Gladstone, Westcott and Henry Sidgwick and throwing much light on the religious views of Tennyson. Throws new light on some of the oft discussed intricate meanings of a poem widely considered the greatest of the nineteenth century.

Thorne, Guy. A lost cause. N. Y., Putnam, 1905. c. 10+206 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The author of "When it was dark" has written another religious novel, dealing with present-day aspects of the Christian religion. The special theme relates to certain practices which have caused dissension between different branches of the Anglican church—that is the high and the low church—and with the influence of ardent religious convictions on character and conduct.

Tower, Olin Freeman. The conductivity of liquids: methods, results, chemical applications and theoretical considerations. Easton, Pa., Chemical Publishing Co., 1905. c. 4-182 p. tables, diagrams, 8°. (Study of chem., ser. 1.) cl., $1.75.

Toser, A: Edmonds, ed. Catholic church hymnal. N. Y., J. Fischer & Bro., 1905. c. 14+241 p. 16°, cl., $1.

Tracy, L: Karl Grier: the strange story of a man with a sixth sense. N. Y., E. J. Clode, 1906. 6+323 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Karl Grier had many gifts, among them the gift of understanding the crude language of nomads and that of animals—but above all was what was called his "sixth sense"; by this he was enabled, after going into a trance, to see into far distant countries, and to describe the actions and appearance of people he had never met, even retelling their conversations. He is made use of by his friends and helps them to unravel many mysteries, and throw light on many dark deeds. There is a love story interwoven.

Triggs, Oscar Lovell. The changing order: a study of democracy, series 1. Chic., C. H. Kerr & Co., 1906. c. '05. 3-200 p. D. cl., $1.

Papers, many of which have appeared in literary magazines. Contents: Democratic art; The esoteric tendency in literature, Browning; Subjective landscape art, George Inness; The critical attitude; An instance of conversation, Tolstoi; A type of transition, William Morris; The philosophy of play; Democratic education; "Where is the poet?" The new doctrine of labor; The sociological viewpoint of art; The philosophy of the Betterment Movement; Industrial feudalism—and after; The workshop and school; A school of industrial art; The philosophic and religious ground, Walt Whitman.

Van Zile, E: Sims. The last of the Van Slacks: a story of to-day. N. Y., Street & Smith, [1906.] c. '91. 2+325 p. D. (Eagle ser. of popular fiction.) pap., 10 c.

Vassall, H: R:, [Third Lord Holland.] Further memoirs of the Whig party, 1807-1821; with some miscellaneous reminiscences by H: R: Vassall, Third Lord Holland. N. Y., Dutton, 1905. 15+420 p. pors. O. cl., *$5 net.

"The four books or chapters under consideration deal with years fraught with interest for the student and lover of history. Full details are given of the Prince Regent's negotiations with the Whigs in 1809 and 1812, and a rapid sketch of the principal events and incidents of the last decade of the reign of George III. Lord Holland, however, distinctly states that the aim and objects of his labours were to record any incidents, anecdotes, or intrigues which were not generally known at the time, and which were unlikely to be found in the recognized histories, periodicals, or journals."—Editor's Preface. At the commencement of each chapter has been placed a short sketch of the history of the period in question.

Visscher, W: Lightfoot. Rattles and rhymes: a rattling good book with up-to-date things in it, for children of all ages; pictures by Joe Scheuerle. Chic., Bowen & Co., 1905. c. 87 p. il. 16°, cl., 75 c. Short stories and verses.

Walker, Ernest. Beethoven. N. Y., Brentano's, 1905. 195 p. S. (Music of the masters; ed. by Waking Dry.) cl., $1.

Contents: Chronological table of Beethoven's life; Bibliography; Choral music; Solo vocal music; Music connected with the stage; Orchestral works; Music for solo instruments with orchestral accompaniments; Chamber-music without pianoforte; Chamber-music for pianoforte and other instruments; Pianoforte sonatas; Smaller works for pianoforte; Beethoven's music as a whole; Complete list of Beethoven's works. (9 p.)

Ward, A. B. The sage brush parson. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1906. [Ja.] 4+390 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

The sage-brush parson is a young Englishman, an itinerant Methodist preacher, who suddenly finds himself in a Nevada mining town. His dual nature made up of religious fervor and human passion makes it impossible for him to strike a balance between his idiosyncrasies. He falls in love with a wealthy widow, and later is convicted of the murder of his wife and child who have followed him from England to induce him to return. The story has a happy conclusion, however.

Watson, E: Willard, M.D. Old lamps and new, and other verse; also By Gaza's gate: a cantata. Phil., H. W. Fisher & Co., [1905.] c. 13-114 p. D. cl., $1.

Watson, Elizabeth Lowe. Song and sermon. Cupertino, Cal., Elizabeth Lowe Watson, 1906. 187 p. 12°, cl., $1.

Poems and sermons by the "pastor" of a spiritualist congregation in San Francisco.

White, Fred M. The weight of the crown. N. Y., R: F. Fenno & Co., 1906. c. '04. 2-319 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

Centers in the theft and subsequent appearances and disappearances of some incriminating papers having to do with a small European Kingdom of Asturia, ruled by a dissipated king and his noble consort. Most of the action takes place in London during three or four days and involves an English diplomatist, a queen's messenger, Asturian officers and Russian spies and adventurers who are striving to bring Asturia under Russian control. Two girls amazingly alike play important parts in a plot full of intrigue and thrilling situations.

Wilder, F. W. The modern packing house: a complete treatise on the designing, construction, equipment and operation of a modern abattoir and packing house, according to present American practice, including formulas for the manufacture of lard and sausage, the curing of meats, etc., and methods of converting all by-products into commercial articles. Chic., Nickerson & Collins Co., [1905.] c. 581 p. il. por. diags., cl., $10; mor., $12.

Williams, Gardner F. The diamond mines of South Africa. [New ed.] N. Y., B: F. Buck & Co., 1905. c. 2 v., fronts. il. pors. maps, plans, 8°, cl., $15.

Wills, Anthony E. Benjamin, Benny and Ben: a farce in one act and one interior scene. N. Y., Dick & Fitzgerald, 1906. [Ja8.] c. 37 p. 12°, pap., 15 c.

Wilson, E: S. Political development of Porto Rico. Columbus, O., F. J. Heer, 1905. c. 156 p. il. pors. map, 12°, cl., $1.

World (The) almanac and encyclopedia, 1906. N. Y., Press Publishing Co., New York World, [1906.] c. '05. 608 p. D. pap., 25 c.

Wright, Théodore F. The spiritual Exodus. Bost., Massachusetts New-Church Union, 1905. c. 8+288 p. S. cl., $1.

"In preparing these studies of the Book of Exodus the writer has made use, for the literal meaning, of the recent researches of archaeologists and exegetes, and, for the spiritual meaning, of the interpretation given in the 'Arcana Coelestia,' anonymously published in London in the years 1749 to 1756, and known to have been written by Emanuel Swedenborg."—Preface.

Yates, J: T: Graham supplemented: a practical aid to the thorough mastery of shorthand: being a series of review exercises in the abbreviating principles and word-signs of the Graham system, for students and amanuenses. Jamestown, N. Y., Jamestown Business College Association, Ltd., 1905. c. 69 p. 16°, pap., 50 c.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ATLANTA, GA.—William C. Warfield has succeeded L. H. Putney as manager of the Southern branch of the Macmillan Company.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS.—The business founded in 1850 by Edwin Dresser & Co., and so long and favorably known as the Cambridgeport Diary Company, has been legally changed to The Standard Diary Company. The management remains as heretofore—Edwin Dresser, president and general manager; Albert S. Parsons, treasurer; J. Augustine Wade, superintendent, and Sumner Dresser, trade representative.

CINCINNATI, O.—The Queen City Book Company has leased the store at the corner of Vine and Gano Streets.

CLEVELAND, O.—H. F. Babbitt has sold his entire interest in the Babbitt & Crummel Company to George B. Rogers, who will immediately assume an active interest in the business. The company will continue in the same location, 253 Euclid Avenue.

DULUTH, MINN.—The Chamberlain-Taylor Company has succeeded Chamberlain & Taylor, booksellers.

NEW YORK CITY.—The affairs of the United Educational Company will come up for examination before William H. Willis, referee in bankruptcy on February 9, at 80 Wall Street.

PERRY, OKLA.—J. C. Glaiser, bookseller, has been succeeded by H. P. Wetzel.

PITTSBURGH, PA.—R. S. Davis & Co., booksellers, who for years have been located on Fifth Avenue, will remove, on April 1, to the four-story building at 441 Wood Street, where they will have excellent facilities to display their fine stock of books, stationery, periodicals and toys.

AUCTION SALES.

FEBRUARY 5, 3 P.M.—First editions of English authors, finely illustrated books, etc., chiefly from the library of W. C. Coe, of Chicago. (337 lots.)—Anderson.

FEBRUARY 6, 3 P.M.—Rare books from the library of the late Professor Charles Short, of Columbia College, also, a collection of bibliographic works from a public library. (469 lots.)—Merwin-Clayton.

FEBRUARY 7, 8, 3 P.M.—Miscellaneous. (616 lots.)—Anderson.

FEBRUARY 14, 3 P.M.—Selections from the library of General Rush C. Hawkins, comprising incunabula, Franklin imprints, Grolier Club publications, etc. (232 lots.)—Merwin-Clayton.

FEBRUARY 20, 21, 8 P.M.—The general book stock of John H. Wills, who closed out his business last November. The stock includes fine editions, school and college books, public documents and back number magazines. (626 lots.)—James W. Ratcliffe, 920 Penn. Ave., Washington, D. C.

PICK-UPS.

AN AUTHOR'S CONFESSION.

In these days of publishers' confessions and their discussions of the relations of publisher and author, there is a special pertinency in Captain Harry Graham's humorous foreword to his publishers, (Fox, Duffield & Co.,) in his new volume of verse, "More Misrepresentative Men."

"My publishers, make no mistake,
You have in me an avis rara,
So write a princely cheque, and make
It payable to bearer;
I love you, as I said before,
But oh! I love your money more!"

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

FEBRUARY 3, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE COMMERCIAL TRAVELLER ON THE ROAD.*

RAILWAY TICKETS AND HOTELS.

THERE are all sorts of ways and means by which a commercial traveller may arrange for his transportation, transfer of baggage, etc., that differ in almost every State of the Union, and for which no lasting rule can be laid down. In the days gone by, a traveller was able to save considerable money if he knew a friendly scalper; but his chances through this channel are now so slim that, as a rule, those who are obliged to travel "on time" must be content to use the thousand-mile tickets issued by the railway companies, or the so-called "Higbee ticket," good for five thousand miles over different lines of roads, enabling the traveller on one ticket to go from any point to any point. The passenger pays full rate for his ticket, supplied with coupons, which, in most cases, he must sign in the presence of the conductor every time he boards a train. These coupons, when cancelled, are awarded a rebate by the company issuing the ticket at the rate of ten dollars each thousand miles. While this system involves a certain amount of red tape, it nevertheless saves time in making trains in a rush and during crowded hours.

As to hotels, it is safe to say the best is none too good—not so much from the viewpoint of personal comfort as for the tone it lends to the house the traveller represents. In this respect, however, it may be necessary to compromise with one's dignity and resort to the next best; yet, unless it be "Hobson's choice," that is, if there be only one hotel in the town, it is never wise to put up at what is drastically referred to as a "cheap-and-nasty." In most hotels arrangements may be made for show rooms, so that the traveller is enabled during a stay of several weeks to display his line undisturbed and "room" in another part of the hotel. It is perhaps superfluous to note in this connection that quarters at a hotel should be bespoken on the European plan, and that the "greenhorn" may ask of the clerk at what rates he is being entertained. False modesty in this particular might become expensive, inasmuch as travellers are usually entitled to a favored rate.

When stopping at "Commercials," that is, hotels frequented by commercial travellers, the young traveller, as well as the veteran, often finds opportunities that are offered nowhere else of coming into the closest touch with his colleagues. Indeed in this way friendships are formed that endure a life time. And for this reason we would caution the novice against a too hasty judging of his new-found brethren and against stilted stiffness and cold formality. Among the commercial travellers there are wide divergences of characteristics; there necessarily must be such. Some members of the brotherhood shiver and shudder at the freedom of conversation sometimes carried on by its members after the labors of the day have ceased—men who have no appreciation of humor or wit—to whom the humor of a Sheridan, a Curran, Theodore Hook, Thomas Hood, or the well-known anecdotes of Dr. Abernethy and others, are as a foreign tongue, and associated with distasteful ideas and misunderstood lives. As in the outer world, so in the inner and smaller world of the fraternity of commercial travellers will be found representatives of narrow views, and well-meant but misplaced judgment of the acts and doings of those around them. If an individual does not smoke, there is no necessity for his giving statistics to prove that the money spent for tobacco might do much more good if spent in other directions, which may or may not be true. It all depends upon the point of view. The total abstainer—a good man, and one who often does a great deal of good work—need not be a bore to his fellow travellers. In many cases much good has been done by personal example in right living. But it is dangerous to set up an "Ebenezer" for one's fellow men, in season and out of season. There is danger, as we have said, of such a man becoming a bore; and a bore, no matter how good his intention may be, is a nuisance not tolerated in any company.

PACKING AND LEAVING HOME.

After making up his route, the traveller turns his attention to packing the samples which he has selected with great care and judgment. In the end he will find that his eyes have been larger than the capacity of his trunks, and that discrimination is needed to get all within the available compass. Books must be packed solidly, and, after laboring for some time, it will often be found that room must be made for still other books that are needed. It may be necessary to pack and re-pack the trunk several times before all that is needed can be included, and often it may be necessary to carry one or two books in a grip or in the hand. After the traveller has actually started it may take a week or longer to discover just how his samples may be most advantageously stowed away. After that the work of unpacking and packing becomes a mere matter of routine.

At last the time comes for leaving home—for every conscientious man the most trying period of all his work. He passes out to face possible dangers, accidents, sickness and privations, leaving his lonely family day by day anxiously watching his route. In some respects the family left behind by the traveller bears the harder portion of the separation. The traveller is kept busy all the time; he meets many old friends and forms new acquaintances who often smoothe the way for him; whereas those he has left at home miss the companionship of the absent one and are in daily dread of bad news. Of course, the traveller often must endure lonely hours at large hotels and elsewhere en route when, overwhelmed for the time with defeats or bodily ailments, he cannot come into touch with a kindred spirit with whom to exchange confidences. Yet new places and faces help him over the rough places, while those he leaves behind must meet their difficulties under the old surroundings, deprived of the counsel and aid of their breadwinner abroad.

COLLIER'S NOT GUILTY OF LIBEL.

THE sensational trial of the suit for libel brought by Judge Joseph M. Deuel, of the Special Sessions of New York City, against Norman Hapgood, editor of Collier's Weekly, resulted in the acquittal of Hapgood. The jury reached this verdict, practically without deliberation, on January 27. It will be remembered that the action was brought against Collier's by Judge Deuel because of its criticism of the Judge for his connection with the business management of Town Topics while on the bench, in violation of the charter of New York City, which provides that no Justice of the Court of Special Sessions shall "carry on any business, or practice as an attorney or counsellor-at-law in any court in this city," . . . "but each such Justice shall devote his whole time and capacity, so far as the public interest demands, to the duties of his office." The case was conducted on most extraordinary lines, because although it was in form a trial of Mr. Hapgood, it was in reality a trial of Colonel William D. Mann and Justice Joseph M. Deuel for their management of Town Topics. At the conclusion of the trial Colonel Mann was arrested on a warrant charging him, as alleged, with having committed perjury while testifying in the trial. Pending examination Colonel Mann, who denies the allegation, was released on bail, which was fixed at $10,000.

WHO PRINTED THE "CATHOLICON?"

THE annual monograph of the Gutenberg Society, the fourth of the series, published recently, deals with the question as to who printed the James de Balboa "Catholicon," a sort of exposition of the Faith, the two earliest issues of which have usually been attributed to the press of Gutenberg. One of these issues is dated 1460, but both are regarded as books produced by Gutenberg at Mayence after the trouble with Schoeffer had led to an abrupt dissolution of their partnership. Dr. Gottfried Zedler, librarian of the National Library at Wiesbaden, in this monograph deals with the dated issue of the "Catholicon," which has been the subject of considerable controversy. While it is generally supposed to have been printed by Gutenberg a respectable number of authorities, on the other hand, attribute it to another printer, usually to Schoeffer. Dr. Zedler reviews the articles that have been written on the subject of the printing of the "Catholicon," and points out that the majority of modern writers attribute the book to the press of Gutenberg. The epoch-making studies of Schwenke placed the matter on a different footing, as he came to the conclusion that Gutenberg was not the printer. In the opinion of Dr. Zedler, however, the words at the beginning of the concluding paragraph in the "Catholicon" clearly prove, to his mind, that Gutenberg was the author of the type. The words "Altissimi presido . . . Quique numero sepe parvulus reuelat quod sapientibus celat," Dr. Zedler claims, only have sense if the inventor himself is speaking. Gutenberg, following his usual practice, does not advertise himself by name in these lines, as Fust and Schoeffer were wont to do, but leaves it to the reader to discern that this beautiful concluding paragraph can refer only to himself, although he attributes the merit of his invention to a gift of the Almighty. Even if this concluding paragraph did not exist and was not, in the opinion of Dr. Zedler, the most important document left for enabling an idea of the deeply religious and unassuming personality of Gutenberg to be formed, it would be still possible to give him his due. By comparing the "Catholicon" type with contemporary and later type in the fifteenth century, it can be seen that no other letter is equal to it in imitating the artistic missal script of that century, and that it is similar to other work of the Master. Dr. Zedler concludes his pamphlet with an investigation of the technical processes involved in the production of the type, and with a review of the work of Schoeffer, etc., all of which is fully illustrated with facsimiles.

The society's fourth annual report is rather more elaborate than usual, and contains a paper by Heinrich Wallau on the art of Gutenberg, illustrated by reproductions from old engravings, etc. Wallau appears to have no hesitation in concluding that Gutenberg's knowledge of the goldsmith's art would naturally have led him to become, not a xylographer—as some of the opponents of his claim to be considered the first printer have assumed—but a genuine founder of movable types, with which he probably experimented before the middle of the fifteenth century.

THE ARMSTRONG INSURANCE INVESTIGATION REPORT.

THE dissension over the printing of the report of the Armstrong insurance investigating committee came to a head in the New York Senate, on January 25, when Senator Armstrong, the chairman of the investigating committee, introduced a bill appropriating $20,000 for the printing of the report, and Assemblyman Cox introduced the same bill in the Assembly. Senator Armstrong charged that the Brandow Printing Company, the State Printer, had "held up" the report until it could also print a private edition which it expected to sell at $150 a set, thereby making from $60,000 to $100,000 profit, in addition to the appropriation for the work from the State. To block this movement Assemblyman Cox secured a copyright on the report. A. S. Brandow in reply denies that there has ever been any desire on the part of the State Printer to delay the delivery of the work, and that, in order to facilitate it, he made arrangements with a New York printer, at a considerable advance over what the State was obliged to pay him to do the work. As a verification of this statement Mr. Brandow said that the entire testimony is well along toward completion, that five volumes have been completed and that the balance of the testimony will be printed and bound ready for delivery early next week.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

THE REV. WASHINGTON GLADDEN, author of "Where Does the Sky Begin?" "Witnesses of the Light," "Social Salvation," etc., will be seventy years old on February 11. Mr. Gladden is moderator of the National Council of Congregational Churches.

HILAIRE BELLOC, author of the remarkable study of Danton and a book about Robespierre, has written a "Life of Marie Antoinette," which will shortly be published by Methuen & Co. He has also contributed to The International Quarterly for January, (Fox, Duffield & Co.), a criticism of Taine's so-called scientific method of writing history, illustrating it with Taine's treatment of Danton in his "Origines de la France Contemporaine."

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Book-Lovers' Magazine, v. 6, pt. 1, published by Otto Schulze & Co., Edinburgh, will contain an account of "The Signet Library, Edinburgh," by W. K. Dickson; "Notes for a Whistler Bibliography," by T. R. Way and G. R. Dennis; "A Theory of Book Prices," by Alfred W. Pollard; "Mr. Whistler's Names, Addresses and Birthplaces," by S. D. Shallard, and other articles of bookish interest.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

H. K. FLY, who for two years has been with the Bobbs-Merrill Company, has made an engagement to travel for the G. W. Dillingham Company.

D. C. HEATH & Co. have nearly ready for school use an abridged edition of Taine's "Ancien Régime," with notes and vocabulary by Professor W. F. Geise, of the University of Wisconsin.

WILLIAM M. EDWARDS, for years with M. A. Donohue & Co., and well known to the booktrade, has severed his connection with that concern and will in future represent David McKay, of Philadelphia. Mr. Edwards will leave in a short time on a Western trip reaching to the Pacific coast, with a largely-increased line, including many interesting items.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have in preparation Nelson Lloyd's "Six Stars," full of quaint humor and vivid character drawing; the fifth and concluding volume of George Santayana's "The Life of Reason," entitled "Reason in Science;" "The Development of Palestine Exploration," wherein Frederick Jones Bliss gives a full account of archaeological research in Syria and Palestine; also, James Hardy Rores's "The Apostolic Age in the Light of Modern Criticism," an able and scholarly book designed for layman or theologian.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY will publish attractive Valentine editions of "Romances of Old France," by Richard Le Gallienne, a companion to "Old Love Stories Retold," and "The Poet, Miss Kate and I," a book by a new author, which made a splendid start in the Christmas season. There will also be continued the Valentine edition of "Old Love Stories Retold." The two new Valentine editions will be put up in most attractive boxes, the covers of which will be a representation of the old fashioned deep, lace valentine, in the centre of which will appear the covers of the books—both landscapes in these cases, and lending themselves admirably to the adaptations. They have in preparation a volume entitled "Folly," by Edith Rickert, whose "Reaper" attracted wide attention a little over a year ago.

J. S. OGILVIE PUBLISHING COMPANY call special attention to Ogilvie's Fun Books, of which there are ten numbers, recently taken over from The Arkell Publishing Co.: "A Job Lot of Jokes," "Uncle Sam's Jokes," "Uncle Sam's Joker," "Listen to This," "Foolish House Sayings," "Somethin' Doin'," "Sailors' Yarns," "That Reminds Me," "A Trip to Laughland," "Weber and Fields' Funnyisms," "Roger Brothers in Funville." The books are full of pictures and nonsense of humorous quality, and will no doubt sell rapidly. They are constantly adding to their long list of popular plays, which now contains 79 numbers, and their Comic Post Cards are also selling steadily. This house also has on its list many of Richard Henry Savage's most popular stories as well as several of Nat Gould's, Guy Boothby's and T. W. Hanshaw's.

DODD, MEAD & COMPANY will publish this month a clever automobile story by Mrs. Louise Cosser Hale, entitled "A Motor Car Divorce," with most satisfactory plot and irresistible humor, just the book to read aloud. The author's husband has furnished the 36 pretty landscapes with which the book is illustrated. They also announce for this month "A Lame Dog's Diary," by S. Macnaughton, whose hero is really a soldier who at Magersfontein, during the Boer War, was shot in both legs. His devoted and clever sister devotes herself to cheering his helplessness. A young widow advises him to keep a diary after he tires of wood carving and worsted work, and through this pastime comes the satisfactory climax. Bettina von Hutten's sequel to "Pam," entitled "What Happened to Pam," will be published in April.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will publish on February 15 Upton Sinclair's long expected novel, "The Jungle," a daringly realistic novel of the sordid working and living conditions in Chicago; which appears under the name of Packingtown. The writer spent seven weeks studying the stock yards alone, and he reports the conditions there a menace to the health of the civilized world. The first edition will be very large, and a large edition is also already sold to Australia. The publication of "How to Buy Life Insurance," by "Q. P.," has been postponed until February 23. The book treats a policy as merchandise, and tells customers how to buy intelligently. It will give information not hitherto available in so simple a form. The complete "Dog Book," by James Watson, will not be issued until May 10. It will be in two massive volumes, a worthy companion to "The Poultry Book" of last year.

HENRY HOLT & COMPANY will publish during the month an authorized vocabulary edition of Ferdinand von Saar's "Die Steinklopfer," edited by Dr. Charles H. Handschin and Professor Edwin C. Roedder, of the University of Wisconsin. This is supposed to be the first "labor" novel published in German literature. Its author is an Austrian, the creator of the Austrian short novel. The story tells of two stonebreakers on the great mountain railway. They have just concluded a contract with the Hon. D. S. Alexander, a New York Congressman from Buffalo, and a member of the Committee on the Judiciary, for "The Political History of New York State." The first two volumes, covering the years 1774-1861, may be expected in the early spring. The author's work is said by competent judges to be not only sound historically, but enriched by highly vivid character studies. Auerbach's "Villa on the Rhine," which took the world by storm forty years ago, continues its steady sale in James Davis's translation, and has just been sent again on its periodical trip to the press.

THE proceedings of the recent Inter-Church Conference on Federation will be published by the Fleming H. Revell Company during the month of March. The report will be a six hundred page volume, with a great many illustrations, and will contain a complete record of the acts, resolutions, committee reports and the text of the addresses. Of these there were about seventy-five, including those from such speakers as Justice Brewer, Dr. Henry van Dyke, Bishops Doane, Galloway and Fowler, John Wanamaker and Judge Grosscup. This alone would make the volume of extraordinary value. The publication of the "Proceedings" is in no sense a private enterprise. It is part of the work of the Conference, designed to extend its influence, and to carry its message to those unable to attend all of its sessions. The details of publication are in charge of a special committee appointed by the Conference Executive Committee, and the manuscripts were prepared and arranged by an editorial committee, of which the Rev. Drs. M. E. Dwight, William H. Roberts, E. B. Sanford, and John B. Devins and W. T. A. Demarest are members.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish on the 8th inst. Ottilie A. Liljencrantz's new novel, "Randvar the Songsmith," the basis of which is the legend connected with the old stone mill or tower at Newport, R. I., one of the most interesting landmarks in America, which is supposed to date from 1000 to 1100 A.D., and is thought to mark Norse civilization of the new world. They will shortly issue the initial volume of a series of novelettes to be brought out under the editorship of W. D. Howells and H. M. Alden, the editor of Harper's Magazine, which is to include only the best, the most interesting, and, in the judgment of the editors, the most lasting work of our leading American writers. The title of the first volume is "Their Husband's Wives." They will also publish this month a work entitled "Evolution the Master-Key," by C. W. Saleeby, author of "Cycle of Life," in which the author reviews the progress of the doctrine of evolution since it was first postulated by Herbert Spencer in his "First Principles" over forty years ago, and shows how all the discoveries of the twentieth century, especially that of radium, only make possible to a greater extent the demonstration of this fundamental law.

THE BURROWS PUBLISHING COMPANY, Cleveland, have now ready volume 2 of Elroy McKendree Avery's important "History of the United States," and announce that volumes 3 and 4 will follow at shorter intervals. It has been found necessary to extend the great work to fifteen volumes, the twelve originally planned not being sufficient for the original scope of the work. Those who have already subscribed will receive the fifteen volumes at the price of the original twelve, and new subscribers upon the basis of fifteen volumes will obtain the set at that rate even should it be found necessary to extend the set by another volume yet, that is to sixteen volumes. The publishers are confident that this extension of the work will result in a betterment of the series, because they will be under less necessity of skeletonizing or omitting, and can give the same incomparable treatment to the map and illustrating that has been attained in the early volumes. Another romance of the new South appears in "Stanton White," by Dr. Asa Zadel Hall, presenting the educational and social reform of the South and the intricate difficulties of the race problem, which the story shows must be settled through the North and South if there is to be a practical enduring race uplift.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have regard for times and seasons in offering two dainty giftbooks for Valentine Day remembrances. Ralph Henry Barbour's "An Orchard Princess" is an idyl of young love amid the spring blossoms. It is prettily bound in decorated cloth and enclosed in an ornamented box, while the numerous illustrations in colors with charming marginal designs, are by James Montgomery Flagg. "Miss Cherry Blossom of Tokyo," the Japanese romance by John Luther Long, appears in a lovely new edition. Its nine full-page pictures are in colors, as are also the many smaller Japanese pictures printed in the tints of old Japan. Cherry blossoms decorate the lining papers, the cover is characteristically Japanese and the volume is encased in a tasteful box. This house has also just published a second edition, illustrated, of that exciting tale of politics and love, "The Wife of the Secretary of State," by Ella Middleton Tybout; and will issue immediately a new novel by E. F. Benson entitled "The Angel of Pain," wherein the author tells the story of a great sacrifice for love. It is interesting to note how far away from his "Dodo" period Mr. Benson has come in this book and "The Challoners."

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS announce for immediate publication, "From a College Window," a collection of papers that have appeared serially in the Cornhill Magazine, with six additional essays. These papers were written by the anonymous author of "The Upton Letters," who now proves to be Arthur C. Benson, of Magdalen College, formerly master at Eton College, well known for his poetical work, the lives of Tennyson and Rossetti, etc. "From a College Window" is essentially a collection of familiar essays in which the reader is brought again under the spell of the singularly interesting and attractive personality that made itself known in "The Upton Letters." They have also nearly ready in the Crown Theological Library, "The History of Early Christian Literature," by Professor Hermann von Soden, translated by the Rev. J. R. Wilkinson, a concise, comprehensive study chiefly of the rich literary heritage which the first two generations of Christians left behind them in the form of the collected books of the New Testament; "The Sacred Cup," an interesting novel, by Vincent Brown, author of "A Magdalen's Husband"; "A Son of the People," a new story by the Baroness Orczy; also, "All That Was Possible," a new novel by Howard Overing Sturgis, author of "Belchamber," with a frontispiece, in colors, by Frederick Simpson Coburn.

JOHN LANE COMPANY, (The Bodley Head,) are publishing this week "The Cleansing of the Lords," by Colonel Frank Graham Wintle, which rests on the passing of an act of Parliament to remove from the House of Lords all peers who have not shown the required efficiency as rulers of their country, and to supply their places with active patriots regardless of their native born rank. The author has opportunity for an amusing but thoughtful picture of English political and social life. A large African ivory trust influences the situation and its consequences. They have also just ready "Selections from the Poetry of John Payne," by Tracy and Lucy Robinson. John Payne is chiefly known as a translator from the Arabic, Persian, Italian and French, his rendering of the "Arabian Nights" and of the poems of Villon being especially famous. His original work, however, was specially commended by Horne, Tennyson, Browning, Rossetti, Swinburne and others of highest rank among the poets. "Lilliput Islands and Innocents' Revels," by W. B. Rands; and "A Year of Songs for a Baby in a Garden," by W. Graham Robertson, are two juveniles in verse, the former edited by R. Brimley Johnson, and both artistically illustrated. The interest of the world in the present conference at Algeciras draws special attention to "The Truth About Morocco: an indictment of the British Foreign Office," by M. Aflalo, with introduction by R. B. Cunningham Graham, which appeared about a year ago. Mr. Aflalo has for many years been connected with the government of Morocco, and he writes with authority of the true motives of France, Germany and England regarding this northwestern corner of Africa.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word (Cash).

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors. It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

A POPULAR POET

Mr. Edmund Vance Cooke, author of "Chronicles of the Little Tot" and "Rimes to be Read," has the rare gift of being able to reach the hearts of the people. Those who were fortunate enough to hear him at the Booksellers' Dinner in New York claim for him a great success. We have reason to have faith in Mr. Cooke's work, for it has the quality that appeals to the masses. It is original, bright and direct verse of unfailing interest. Few of the modern poets are his equal, and none better.

But what does the public say? Why, we could print pages. Here's one letter from Rev. Bernard Lee—a long one—but worth reading every line:

"DEAR SIRs:

"In reply to yours of January 20th, relative to 'The Chronicles of the Little Tot,' by Edmund Vance Cooke, I must say that not for many a day have I enjoyed such pleasure as that in which I read his beautifully delightful book through.

"My attention was drawn to his book first by Mr. M. J. Lyons, of T. Pillot's store (Houston, Tex.), who showed me the piece called 'The Moo-Cow-Moo.' I came home and the words were ringing in my ears. A few days later he sent me a leaflet with 'The Moo-Cow-Moo' on it. I read it to our school children who were delighted, and on my rounds among my people, did not fail to recite it for the little ones, who are my favorites in every family—I could not resist getting the book—aye, several of them, as many as five—and had not near enough to give my little friends during the holidays. I could not keep a copy while the children were hungry for them.

"Every page of the book is good. It is all so real—so redolent of joy and youth, so childlike, so pure and clean. Such lessons can be taught young and old by it, that I would fain have every 'little tot,' and grown-up folks as well, read it and enjoy it.

"When I go to Houston again I shall see Mr. Cooke's other works, and, no doubt, will be obliged to thank you soon for having referred me to such sources of pleasure and innocent fun.

"Respectfully yours,

"BERNARD LEE."

From [New York] Journal of Commerce,
January 30, 1906.

In the book department of the H. B. Claflin Company extensive buying has been going on by retailers for their "after-inventory clearing-up sales." Books of all kinds where the purchaser sees a good profit are disposed of for these sales. By advantageous buying the department has acquired a big stock of paper-covered novels, standard works, with 100 titles to choose from. These books are disposed of in quantity lots, often as low as 2 cents apiece. The department is making a specialty also of a line of paper-stories in their stationery section on which they control the exclusive rights.

Dainty Gifts for Valentine's Day

An Orchard Princess

By RALPH HENRY BARBOUR

"As a gift to a debutante chum, or to any beloved girl, no book that was ever written could be more acceptable than this story of a lovely young artist whom Love met and wooed in an orchard."

The illustrations, by James Montgomery Flagg, are printed in colors, and dainty designs in tint are on every page. Attractively bound in cloth, in an ornamental box, $2.00.

Miss Cherry-Blossom of Tokyo

By JOHN LUTHER LONG

An especially beautiful edition of this popular novel. It has nine full-page illustrations in colors, and on each page are Japanese pictures printed in the tints of old Japan. The lining papers are decorated with cherry-blossoms; the cover is characteristically Japanese, and the volume encased in an ornamental box. Cloth, $2.50.

JUST PUBLISHED—SECOND EDITION

The Wife of the Secretary of State

By ELLA MIDDLETON TYBOUT

"There is adventure and excitement in every paragraph, and the action is as rapid and fascinating as the most jaded novel reader could require."

Illustrated. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

TO BE ISSUED IMMEDIATELY

The Angel of Pain

By E. F. BENSON

Mr. Benson, who got so far away from the humorous frivol and sentimentality of "Dodo" in his powerful story, "The Challoners," has gone still further in this, his newest book.

The story of a great sacrifice for love, splendidly told.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT CO., Philadelphia

KARL GRIER

By LOUIS TRACY

The Arncliffe Puzzle

By GORDON HOLMES

Just as an indication—of the only four novels reviewed in the New York Globe on Saturday, January 27th, one was about “Grier,” one was about “Arncliffe.”

Conspicuously entertaining fiction is the reason these two stand out from the many.

Look them over—you will agree, and to your own profit.

The Dawn of a To-morrow

By FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT

With eight illustrations in colors by F. C. Yohn. 12mo. $1.00

THIS wonderful story which aroused such comment and enthusiasm during its publication in Scribner's Magazine will be brought out in most attractive form with illustrations in colors, and will be one of the most striking and important books of the year.

It sounds a note of cheer, of inspiration, of practical idealism.

NOTES IN SEASON.

G. W. DILLINGHAM Co. have just ready "What Men Like in Women," by E. J. Hardy, author of "How to be Happy Though Married;" "Love Letters That Caused a Divorce," by Mrs. A. E. Aldington; and "The Opal Serpent," a detective story by Fergus Hume, whose "Mystery of a Hansom Cab" and its popularity is yet well remembered. The house has also purchased from the Federal Book Co. their stock and rights of publishing of "Katherine's Sheaves," by Mrs. Georgie Sheldon Downs.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish February 24 "Six Stars," the story of a little Pennsylvania village, by Nelson Lloyd; "The Dawn of a To-morrow," a new story of power making for human cheer, by Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, with illustrations in color by F. C. Yohn; "The Development of Palestine Exploration," by Dr. Frederic Jones Bliss; a second revised edition of "The Reformation," by George Park Fisher, emeritus professor of ecclesiastical history in Yale University; and the long announced "String Figures, or, Cat's Cradle in Many Lands," by Caroline Furness Jayne, a book of unique information containing all that is known of the native games played with a string loop, with ethnological introduction by Alfred C. Haddon, 16 full-page plates and upwards of 900 diagrams.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just ready "The Portreeve," by Eden Phillpotts, the first volume of "The Road in Tuscany," by Maurice Hewlett, being the sixth volume in the limited Large Paper edition of Hewlett's works; "English Grammar for Beginners," by Dr. James P. Kinard; "City Government for Young People," by Charles Dwight Willard; and a new edition of Butcher and Lang's "Translation of Homer's Odyssey." They will publish next month a new novel by Owen Wister, author of "The Virginian," to be entitled "Lady Baltimore," the scene of which, unlike those of the author's former books, is a historic city, and the life portrayed is that of the most refined and cultivated society. They have also in active preparation "The Garden, You and I," by "Barbara," who wrote "The Garden of a Commuter's Wife," who is now known to be Mabel Osgood Wright.

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & COMPANY head their long list of spring publications with a new story by C. N. and A. M. Williamson, of automobile fame, entitled "Lady Betty Crosses the Water," announced as an Anglo-American story. This will be followed by "In Our Town," sketches from the editorial sanctum of a small Western community, by William Allen White; "Pets and Other Critters," humorous animal tales, by Henry Wallace Phillips, author of "Red Saunders;" "The Four-million," clever stories of New York, by O. Henry, author of "Cabbages and Kings;" "More Stories of Married Life," by Mary Stuart Cutting; "Memoirs of a Person of Quality," by H. H. Wallis; and "Pigs is Pigs," a humorous novelette by Ellis Parker Butler. In more serious vein are promised "The Life of a Star," stage reminiscences by Clara Morris; "Enemies of the Republic," investigations in State government corruption by Lincoln Steffens; "Commercial Machiavellinism," with a sketch of the life of John D. Rockefeller, by Ida M. Tarbell; "Wayside Talks," by Charles Wagner; "Foster's Complete Bridge," by R. F. Foster; and "Franklin in History," by William Macdonald.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

☞ The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk **, and the word net follows the price. Child, Ja. Erwin. Child's history of Waseca County, Minnesota; from its first settlement in 1854 to the close of the year 1904; a record of fifty years; the story of the pioneers. [Waseca, Minn., Ja. E. Child,] 1905. c. 847 p. pors. O. cl., $4; hf. mor., $5.

Up to the date of its settlement Waseca County was a portion of that extensive region known as Blue Earth County. Not a single white man then had a habitation within its borders. Its solitude was invaded occasionally by some hunter and trapper, and by wandering bands of Sioux Indians. The soil was unusually rich, and it abounded in every kind of bird and wild game. The details of its settlement by white men are of more than local interest. The story is of brave endurance of privation, of perseverance in the face of apparent defeat, and of final triumph over all obstacles. Mr. Child follows out the lives of the many pioneers of that day, besides giving many romantic personal adventures.

Lord Randolph Churchill was born in 1849; his father in 1857 became the seventh Duke of Marlborough. Lord Randolph in 1874 married Miss Jennie Jerome a beautiful American girl. This biography written by his son, has but one chapter devoted to his father's private life. The work deals chiefly with the ten years of his public life as leader of the House of Commons and Chancellor of the Exchequer in Lord Salisbury's cabinet. His meteoric course in English politics, his early death in 1895 made him a most interesting figure not only at home but in this country. The biography is based upon the many letters and papers he left. The story is largely one of explanation and defense.

- Judah Hallevi, even better known as Jehudah Levita, was one of the most learned of the Jewish writers of the Middle Ages. Almost alone he stood out among the Jewish writers and contended that the Jewish idea of God was the result of direct revelation; that no school of thought or philosophy could have shaped it. He lived among the Arabians and wrote their language fluently. This book known as the Kusari and by various other spellings contains the arguments by which he sought to persuade the men of his faith of their duties and privileges as Jews.

By the author of "Quincy Adams Sawyer." The heroine is a young New York actress who, by the progress of events over which she has no control, is left penniless in a country town of anti-histrionic tendencies. Despite this fact, having no famous ancestry, springing, as she did, from the common people, so-called, she contrived, by the use of her wit, wisdom and personal attractions, to win as great victories, comparatively speaking, as did Mr. Sawyer.

Dr. Reed spent fifteen days of February, 1905, in Panama, making the most of the ample facilities afforded him by the authorities for a thorough examination of the sanitary condition and sanitary department of the Canal Zone. The results of his investigations are contained in this report submitted to Secretary Taft. After paying tribute to the character of the sanitary department, especially to Colonel Gorgas and Major La Grand, Dr. Reed shows how the department is hampered in its work by the petty annoying and obstructive authority of the Canal Commission. Red-tape and ill-divided authority are the cause of the inefficient sanitation.

At various times in studying the history of civilization we find the world occupied with some principal line of effort. Of such were Egyptian monuments, Phœnician commerce, Greek art, Roman law and politics, etc. The age in which we live is devoted to the production and distribution of wealth. The author studies conditions and comes to the conclusion that the rewards reaped by the trading classes are obtained at the sacrifice of the producing classes. His arguments tend towards rational socialism. Author is professor of steam engineering at the Worcester, Mass., Polytechnic Institute.

Author is Superintendent of Schools, Enfield, N. C. In four sections: 1, Syllabication; 2, How to become a good speller; 3, Study of Henry van Dyke's "Footpath to peace"; 4, Brief dictionary.

Smith, D; Eugene. Practical arithmetic. Teachers' ed.; prepared by A. Russel Taylor. Bost., Ginn, [1905.] c. 3+147 p. D. cl., 65 c.

"The book is written for the use of those teachers who wish to preserve the best that was in the old-style arithmetic, with its topical system and its abundant drill, while giving to it a modern arrangement and securing 'mental discipline' through problems of to-day rather than through the tiresome, meaningless, unreal inheritances of the past."—Preface.

Snyder, Harry. Dairy chemistry. N. Y., Macmillan, 1906. 11+190 p. il. D. cl., *90 c. net.

The outgrowth of a course of lectures given by the author for a number of years to the students of the agricultural department of the University of Minnesota. During recent years material progress has been made in dairying, the results of the more important investigations on the subject being here incorporated. It presents in concise form the principal changes that take place in the handling of milk and in its manufacture into butter and cheese.

Standing, Percy Cross. Sir Lawrence Alma-Tadema. N. Y., Cassell & Co., Ltd., 1905. 128 p. il. por. 12°, cl., *$1.50 net.

Standish, Burt L. Frank Merriwell on the Boulevards; or, astonishing the Europeans. N. Y., Street & Smith, 1906. c. '99. 3-248 p. D. (Medal lib.) pap., 10 c.

Stanfield, Leontine. Leontine Stanfield's book of verse. N. Y., J. S. Ogilvie Publishing Co., [1906.] c. various paging, il. por. D. pap., 25 c.

Printed from miscellaneous plates saved from the recent fire which destroyed much of Miss Stanfield's work.

Stewart, W. C. The practical angler; or, the art of trout fishing; with an introd. by Earl Hodson; including col. facsim. of the flies used by Mr. Stewart. N. Y., Macmillan, 1906. c. 6+65 p. il. 16°, cl., *$1.40 net.

Tapp, Sidney C. The struggle. N. Y., A. Wessels Co., 1906. c. 5-324 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Four daughters of a well to do Kentucky family marry men whose livelihood depends respectively on sugar, tobacco and cotton growing and on New York mercantile life. This slender thread of a story serves as the means for a fierce arraignment of modern business conditions—the trusts versus the people. The outcome of combination is shown and the final uprising of the workers against the money magnates and their political tools is narrated.

Thomdike, E; Lee. The principles of teaching based on psychology. N. Y., Adolph G. Seiler, 1906. c. 12+293 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Author is Professor of Educational Psychology in Teachers' College, Columbia University. He aims to make the study of teaching scientific and practical—"scientific in the sense of dealing with verifiable facts rather than attractive opinions, practical in the sense of giving knowledge and power that will make a difference in the actual work of teaching." It follows the example of the better books on education in basing principles of teaching upon the laws of psychology, and demands of students knowledge of the elements of psychology, particularly of dynamic psychology.

Trybom, J; Herman, and Heller, Regina R. Correlated hand-work: a handbook for teachers. Book 1. Detroit, Mich., Speaker Printing Co., 1905. il. diagrs., 8°, cl., $1.25.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

FEBRUARY 10, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

"ABANDONMENT" OF COPYRIGHT.

THE decision of Judge Sanborn of Chicago, in the United States Circuit Court, in the case of Harper v. Donohue, involving the American copyright in "The Masquerader," the work of an English author, is a most important contribution to the settlement of the specific question of "abandonment" of copyright. Its discussion of the general principles of copyright bearing on this question and its citations of related cases are so important that we give the decision in full and commend it to the careful consideration of the trade and of all interested in copyright protection.

The gist of the case is the defendants' claim that since the authorized English publishers printed the story in Blackwood's Magazine, of which copies were sold and circulated in the United States, as well as in book form in Great Britain, in both cases without the American copyright notice, the copyright taken out by the authorized American publishers was thereby abandoned, and that the defendants were within their rights in reprinting the story from the authorized English edition. Judge Sanborn holds not only that the American publishers had a right to enter copyright as they did, but that copyright protection is forfeited only by "abandonment or public dedication by the owner of a limited domestic copyright himself," that is, in the present case, the American publisher as the assign of the author for the American market. This rule he applies in the present case to the protection of the Harper authorized edition of "The Masquerader"—a wholesome decision, which will be welcomed by friends of copyright protection as in the interest of good morals.

It is important to note that Judge Sanborn distinguishes this case from that of Merriam v. United Dictionary Co., in which Judge Kohlsaat held that the Merriams had abandoned their American copyright on certain of Webster's dictionaries, a case which is now under appeal to the higher courts. In that case the English edition was made from duplicate American plates, and the American copyright notice was omitted from the English edition with the knowledge and assent of the American copyright proprietors. Judge Sanborn holds, with Judge Kohlsaat, that this did work an abandonment of the American copyright—an interpretation by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals which has the briefs now under advisement.

Judge Sanborn's discussion of the main question and of other questions incidentally involved emphasizes the desirability that the new law should be clear and certain in providing that dedication or abandonment should not be presumed into innocent acts. The essential principle of copyright is that the author directly or through his agents or assigns is entitled to the benefits of his work like any other laborer, and that no pirate should be entitled to run off with his possessions because the author happens not to be sitting on his property at the moment.

A good deal of stress is laid by Judge Sanborn on the fact that the reprint of "The Masquerader" was made from an English copy, the importation of which was illegal under the copyright act. It is scarcely to be supposed that the reprint would have been less illegal if it had been made from a copy imported under the permissive clauses of the copyright, as by a public library or by an individual for use and not for sale. Such an argument would reach a reductio ad absurdum in a claim that the particular copy of "The Masquerader" from which the reprint was made was imported "not for sale," but "for use"—in reprinting. The Publishers' Copyright League, supported by the authors, points out that the importations permitted under the act of 1891 were contrary to the principles of copyright, and, if at all admissible, were much too sweeping. The new copyright act should certainly limit this permission, and should also carefully provide that imported copies thus permitted should not in any way work a vitiation of American copyright.

The clever Japanese have certainly stolen a march on their American brethren in the pirated editions of Barnes's school readers, copies of which have been held up in the San Francisco custom house pending decision on the copyright questions involved. The incident illustrates the position in which English authors and publishers were placed in America before the international copyright amendment of 1891, and, as in the case of the present boycott in China, we are now offered a dose of our own medicine. The reprinting of American books in Japan is not, however, altogether new. It is curiously noteworthy that Japan long refused to enter into an international copyright agreement with the United States because our country declined to put itself on a plane with other civilized nations by becoming a signatory of the Berne convention. Happily, we have now a convention with that country, which will maintain copyright relations in fairly satisfactory shape.

A. S. BARNES & CO. TAKE OVER THE KELLOGG PUBLICATIONS

A PUBLISHING announcement of unusual interest and importance is the purchase by A. S. Barnes & Co. of the four periodicals, the book list and other property of The United Educational Company, formerly E. L. Kellogg & Co. and E. O. Vaile.

The periodicals include the widely-known Teachers' Magazine, a magazine occupying a field by itself as a practical assistant and representative of teachers in the primary, intermediate and grammar grades throughout the country, which is published monthly with illustrations; The School Journal, a weekly journal of education, presenting new movements in education with special reference to intermediate and secondary schools; Our Times, a weekly journal of current events, a popular digest of the events of the times for general readers and also adapted for practical school use; and Educational Foundation, a monthly magazine of pedagogy, which occupies a distinct place in the educational field. These periodicals cover the entire work from the primary to the end of the secondary schools.

The list of pedagogical books, teachers' helps, supplementary books, and school entertainments acquired by A. S. Barnes & Co. includes The Teachers' Library, a series of practical professional books for teachers, containing over twenty volumes, and The Teachers' Month by Month Books for primary grades, including timely readings, anniversary features and class-room work from day to day. The books cover the subjects of principles and science of education, school management and methods of teaching, psychology for teachers, history of education, methods in history and child study, the latter subject including kindergarten and primary methods, early education, Froebel and kindred topics. Other divisions of the list include a variety of teachers' aids, methods in arithmetic, geography, nature study, manual training, reading and physiology, with examination and question books, art books, etc. One feature of the list is the very large number of popular and useful entertainment, exercise, play and drill books and books for special days. The annual "School Directories," founded by E. O. Vaile, fifteen in number, covering 24 States, form another feature of this purchase. The list, which is probably the most comprehensive in its field, represents a full and practical co-operation with the needs of teachers of all grades, and aims to provide definite and concrete aids for this work.

It is understood that the plans of A. S. Barnes & Co. include many important improvements and developments of both the periodicals and the book list along such new educational lines as are approved by educational authorities.

THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING COMPANY IN NEW QUARTERS.

THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING COMPANY, of Akron, Ohio, one of the most progressive publishing houses in the Middle West, have purchased a new plant, located in the heart of the manufacturing district of that city of manufactures. A. J. Saalfeld, president of the company, explains that the move was necessitated by the growing business of his company, which demanded the better business facilities amply afforded by their new location. They were installed in the new plant with the energy that characterizes the concern. Not even the fact that they moved their entire warerooms from one end of the city to the other was permitted to interrupt the usual business routine, and shipments were made daily. They will occupy the entire new building with their general offices and extensive warerooms.

It will be remembered that in January, 1900, A. J. Saalfeld purchased the publishing department of the Werner Company, and the business has since been conducted in the name of the Saalfeld Publishing Company. The original line of books has been greatly increased, special attention being given to the production of popular juveniles, of which they have one of the brightest lines on the market. These, together with a varied assortment of miscellaneous and subscription books, make the Saalfeld catalogue one of interest to all dealers.

Mr. Saalfeld has just started on a business trip to the Pacific coast. He now makes this trip annually, and the remarkable energy of the man is shown by the fact that he visits the trade in every town of importance west of the Mississippi in ten weeks. His sample trunks are said to carry a more attractive line of new books than ever before, and among them are some novelties that will prove the most popular of this season's offering to book-buyers.

"ABANDONMENT" OF COPYRIGHT DOES NOT APPLY TO "THE MASQUERADER."

THE following is the decision of Judge Sanborn, of Chicago, in the United States Circuit Court for the Northern District of Illinois, Eastern Division, respecting abandonment of copyright in the case of Harper & Brothers v. M. A. Donohue & Company, in regard to the reprinting by the defendants of the novel "The Masquerader":

Katherine Cecil Thurston, the author, is a subject of King Edward VII., and as such has the same privilege of copyright in the United States as if a citizen of this country. This is secured to her by the International Copyright Act of March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. 1105), the Berne Convention, and the proclamation of the President of July 1, 1891, provided for by such act, 27 Stat. 981. As author of the work called "The Masquerader," or "John Chilcote, M.P.," the literary property vested in her consisted, so far as here material, of the following rights, privileges or powers:

Before publication: The sole, exclusive interest, use and control; the right to its name; to control or prevent publication; the right of private exhibition, for criticism or otherwise, reading, representation, and restricted circulation; to copy, and permit others to copy, and to give away a copy; to translate or dramatize the work; to print without publication; to make qualified distribution; the right to make the first publication; the right to sell and assign her interest, either absolutely, or conditionally, with or without qualification, limitation or restriction, territorial or otherwise, by oral or written transfer. Such literary property is not subject either to execution or taxation, because this might include a forced sale, the very thing the owner has the right to prevent.

After publication: Unrestricted publication, without copyright, is a transfer to the public to do most of the things the author might do, in common with her, except all right of transfer and sale, which remains to the author; but without advantage, since the work has become, by the publication, common property.

The copyright acts substantially give the following additional rights: To copyright, and thus secure the sole privilege of unlimited multiplication and sale of copies; to sell or transfer the unlimited right of reproduction, sale and publication, the limited right of serial publication, the right of publication in book form, the right of translation, the right of dramatization or one or more of these rights in specific territory, and the right to secure a copyright either generally, or in one or more countries, whose laws permit it, either in the name of the author or assignee. Also the right to the author to license the sale or other restricted enjoyment of some lesser right, without the power to copyright.

The author and complainant made a written contract which finally became a binding obligation September 29, 1903. It contained a grant on the part of the author of the exclusive right of serial publication of "The Masquerader" in Harper's Bazar in the United States and Canada, and the exclusive right of printing and publishing in book form in the United States, and to supply the Canadian market. Publication in book form to be simultaneous in the United States and England, or at a date mutually satisfactory to the Harpers and Blackwood & Sons (who published the British edition). The author contracts not to publish an abridged or other edition or book of similar character tending to interfere with its sale, without the publisher's consent; and that the book does not violate copyright, or contain anything libelous, etc.

The author reserved the rights of translation and dramatization.

The publishers agreed to pay $2500 for the serial publication, and a certain royalty on the book; and to take all steps necessary under the United States copyright acts "to secure their own rights and those of the author in said work." They give no guaranty of securing copyright outside the United States, nor issue special foreign editions, nor sell translation or dramatic rights.

If the book remains out of print for six consecutive months, the right to publish in book form shall revert to the author.

Harper's Bazar is a serial monthly magazine published in the United States. Blackwood's Magazine is a like publication having a British and an American edition, the former published in Edinburgh and the latter in New York, which are identical, except advertising matter. The successive chapters of the book were published serially in all these magazines, during the year 1904. Blackwood published, in both the United States and Great Britain chapters 10, 13, 14, 16, 17, 18, 20, 21, 23, 24, 26, 27, 28, 29, 31 and 32, one month earlier than Harper, and chapters 19, 25, 30, 33 and 34 two months earlier. Harper & Brothers had no knowledge of, nor did they consent to, the publication in serial form by the Blackwoods in the United States. The work was simultaneously published by both Harper & Brothers and the Blackwoods in the United States and Great Britain, about the first of October, 1904.

Harper & Brothers claim copyright on chapters 1 to 27 by virtue of their publication in the Bazar in the January to September numbers, and on the balance by publication in book form. Their deposit of titles, copyright notices, deposit of numbers and books were as follows: On June 12, 1903, they deposited the title of the Bazar thus: "Harper's Bazar, Vol. xxxviii, No. 1, January, 1904." On January 2, 1904, the title "Harper's Bazar, Vol. xxxviii, No. 2, February, 1904," and on the same date like titles, mutatis mutandis, for March to June, 1904; and on June 13, 1904, the titles for the remaining months of 1904, in like form. And also, not later than the day of the publication of each number deposited in the New York mail, properly addressed, two copies of each of the several monthly numbers for 1904.

Complainant also printed a copyright notice on the foot of the title-page, or page next succeeding, in the January number the words "Copyright 1903 by Harper & Brothers," and in each succeeding number the words "Copyright 1904 by Harper & Brothers." On July 26, 1904, complainant deposited the title of the book, "The Masquerader," with the Librarian of Congress, and on September 28, 1904, and not later than its first publication, it mailed the requisite copies to the librarian. The proper copyright notice was printed in every copy of "The Masquerader."

No copyright notice of any description appeared in connection with either the serial publication in Blackwood's Magazine, or in its publication of "John Chilcote, M.P.," in book form.

In 1905 one of the defendants purchased copies of the Blackwood edition of the book in London, and brought them to Chicago. The defendants caused the book in this form to be printed from type set in Chicago, by the title of "John Chilcote, M.P., or, The Masqueraders," and were proceeding to market it, when this was prevented by a temporary restraining order in this suit. The question now is whether a like temporary injunction shall be entered. It was admitted at the argument that defendants did not copy the book published by complainant, but used only the Blackwood edition. There are many verbal differences between the two, but it is the same story.

The copyright laws, as amended by the International Act of 1891, which took effect by its own terms, and partly by presidential proclamation, July 1, 1891, give any author, foreign or domestic, or any proprietor of any book, etc., the right to procure copyright, and thereupon have the sole liberty or monopoly of publication and sale, and of translation and dramatization. It is provided that the type shall be set and plates made in this country; and importation of books not printed from such plates is prohibited. Provision is made for securing non-importation by furnishing lists of titles to the Treasury and Postmaster-General.

Conditions precedent to securing copyright are a deposit of the title of the book or periodical with the Librarian of Congress, before the day of first publication in the United States or any foreign country, and of two copies thereof not later than the day of first publication in this or foreign country.

A condition subsequent is imposed, that no person shall sue for infringement of his copyright unless he gives notice thereof by including a copyright notice in each copy published. A penalty is imposed for printing notice of a book not copyrighted, and its importation prohibited.

Each number of a periodical shall be considered as an independent publication, subject to the prescribed form of copyrighting.

By the proclamation of July 1, 1891, it appears that Great Britain permits the same rights to American citizens in that country as those here given.

It is first insisted for defendants that Harper & Brothers had no right to take out a copyright in their own names under the contract; or, if the copyright is valid, it is held in trust for the author. It is said that her rights could not be secured except by copyright in her name; that if the book be out of print her rights shall revert; that translation and dramatization are included in copyright, and as the contract reserves them the parties must have intended not to grant that power; and that the publication of an abridgment or other edition by the author would infringe complainant's copyright, so that provision of the contract is inconsistent with the grant of copyright power.

But the contract expressly provides that the publishers shall secure their own and the author's rights by copyright. Now it seems clear that the publishers' rights could not possibly be secured except by copyrighting in their own names. If the copyright had been taken in the author's name any publication by her in Great Britain, in any form, omitting notice of copyright, would have destroyed, not secured, all of the publishers' rights. Such publication has just been held to destroy the copyright by Judge Kohlsaat in G. & C. Merriam Co. v. United Dictionary Co., U. S. Circuit Court Northern District of Illinois, opinion filed December 18, 1905. The publication of the work without copyright by Blackwood & Son shows that Harper & Brothers' rights would have been valueless with the copyright in the author's name. Copyright in the names of the publishers was thus vital to their rights, and also fully protected the rights of the author. That the contract is fairly so to be construed see Belford, Clarke & Co. v. Charles Scribner & Co., 144 U. S. 488, Mifflin v. Dutton, 190 U. S. 259, and Pulte v. Derby, 5 McL. 328, Fed. Cas. 11,465.

While there is force in the grounds of construction urged by defendants' counsel, yet I think their interpretation would be destructive of all rights given to the publishers by the contract, and should not be sustained.

It is further urged that the copyrighting of Harper's Bazar, as a magazine, without special copyright of the serial numbers of "The Masquerader," was ineffectual within the decisions of the Supreme Court in Mifflin v. White and Mifflin v. Dutton, 190 U. S. 260, 265, 47 L. Ed. 1040, 1043. These are the cases involving "The Professor at the Breakfast Table" and "The Minister's Wooing." The first ten parts of "The Professor" were published serially in the Atlantic Monthly without claim of copyright, and the remaining parts by a copyright notice covering the entire magazine, in the name of Ticknor & Fields, its publishers. Afterwards, Dr. Holmes, the author, published the work in book form, containing proper copyright notice in his own name. It appeared also that the author never authorized Ticknor & Fields to copyright in their own names. In the other case Mrs. Stowe, the author, gave to the publishers of the Atlantic Monthly "the sole and exclusive right to publish the work in this country." They published the first ten numbers without any copyright claim whatever. She then took proper steps to secure a copyright in her own name, and published the novel in book form. Afterwards the publishers brought out the remaining chapters with a copyright notice on the magazine as a whole, in their own names. It was held in the Circuit Court of Appeals that the author abandoned her copyright on the volume by publishing such remaining chapters serially without proper notice of copyright.

In the "Professor" case the Supreme Court held that Dr. Holmes never assigned the right to copyright the book, but only gave the right to print, publish and sell. The publishers were not authorized to copyright either in their own names or his. The fact that Dr. Holmes himself took out a copyright makes it apparent that the parties had no such intention. The copyright of the magazines containing the final chapters, together with the author's copyright of the book, did not secure a valid copyright, since the object of the notice is to warn the public against the republication of a certain book by a certain author, and no person reading the two copyright notices would know that they related to the same work; on their face they would seem to cover a totally different purpose. It was held that the entry of a book under title by the publishers cannot validate the entry of another book of a different title by another person.

A fair inference from this decision is that if the magazine copyright had been in the name of Dr. Holmes, the publication of the final chapters would have been protected; but because the whole work was published serially without any lawful copyright notice whatever, the right to exclusive publication was lost.

In the case of "The Minister's Wooing," the final chapters were put out with a notice proper so far as the magazine itself was concerned, but by persons not authorized to copyright the work; and this was done after Mrs. Stowe had published the whole book under proper copyright. As already stated, the appellate court held the magazine publication to have been an abandonment. The Supreme Court held that so far as the first twenty-nine chapters were concerned, they, at least, became public property. Mrs. Stowe's copyright of the balance would have been valid if it had not afterwards appeared in the magazine. Mrs. Stowe not having given notice, in the succeeding numbers of the magazine, of her copyright, such publication vitiated it; the publishers' copyright not having given notice of the author's rights.

In both cases the court expressed reluctance at being obliged to so decide, and we may well believe a different result would have followed if the magazine copyright had been taken in the authors' names. Besides, the court was construing the law of copyrights as it was in 1860, and before the important amendments of 1891, hereafter referred to.

The almost uniform practical construction of the copyright law has been to give notice in connection with each number of a magazine, and this has been often sustained. Drone on Copyright, 144. Howell's Annotated Statutes of Michigan was held copyrightable in Howell v. Miller, 91 Fed. 129, including all in the book which might fairly be deemed the result of the compiler's labors. Reports of judicial decisions, so far as head notes or other original matter is concerned. Callaghan v. Myers, 128 U. S. 617. Newspapers, Harper v. Shoppell, 26 Fed. 519, 28 Fed. 613. London Punch held copyrightable. Bradley v. Hatten,

L. R., 8 Exch. 1. The provisions of the copyright law are to be broadly and liberally construed to insure to the author the product of his brain. Jenkins, J., in Holmes v. Donaghue, 77 Fed. 179.

In Tribune Co. v. Associated Press, 116 Fed. 126, the Chicago Tribune attempted to copyright, under contract, some special telegraphic matter of the London Times, by depositing in the Chicago post-office, on the evening before publication, the general title of the newspaper, with serial number and date, and by like deposit, immediately upon publication, of copies of the newspaper; each addressed to the Librarian of Congress. It was held by Judge Seaman that it was at least questionable whether a copyright can thus be secured for a newspaper. But as the defendant did not copy from the Tribune, but directly from the London Times after its publication in England, and as the matter published by the Times and Tribune was not identical, there was no infringement, nor was any copyright thus obtained.

In England it was at first held that a newspaper was not a book or periodical in Cox v. Land & Water Journal Co., 39 L. J. Rep. 152, but the contrary was decided in Walter v. Howe, 50 L. J. Rep. 621, in Cate v. Newspaper Co., 58 L. J. Rep. 288, and finally by the Court of Appeals in Trade Auxiliary Co. v. Protection Ass'n, 58 L. J. Rep. 293.

Whatever may have been the true construction of former copyright acts, and whether or not a newspaper is entitled to copyright, I think the International Copyright act of 1891 has set the question at rest so far as periodicals like Harper's Basar are concerned. Section 11 of the act provides as follows:

"Each number of a periodical shall be considered as an independent publication, subject to the form of copyrighting as above." 26 Stat. 1165.

The closing words evidently refer to the conditions prescribed for securing and retaining copyright, that is the deposit of title of the periodical, the two copies thereof, and the notice of copyright to be given on the title-page or page immediately following. If the notice of copyright is to be given in connection with each separate article published in a magazine, and not once for all contained in it, the language used to prescribe the duty of giving notice is not well adapted to the object sought; for how is it possible to insert a notice on the title-page, not of a periodical, but of an article? The latter may have a title, but hardly a title-page; while the former has both.

Did the publication of the story in Blackwood's Magazine, both in Great Britain and the United States, or of the British edition of the book, all without notice of copyright, constitute a forfeiture or abandonment of complainant's copyright?

This is purely a question of copyright, and not of the underlying literary property. Abandonment, forfeiture, public dedication of the exclusive right of copy may be presented in several aspects:

(1) Abandonment or public dedication by the owner of a limited domestic copyright.

(2) Acts of abandonment by the owner of foreign copyright; (3) Acts of abandonment by the owner of the remainder of the literary property left after the grant of limited domestic copyright, and which do not infringe on the latter; (4) Acts of the latter kind which do so infringe.

I think that domestic copyright is forfeited or abandoned only in the first, and not in the other cases; and that this conclusion follows clearly from the copyright act of 1874, and from the decisions on abandonment.

It is insisted by counsel for defendants that the acts of the author of abandonment, in the case here, by publishing in England and America without notice of copyright, were binding on Harper & Brothers, depriving them, without their own act, of their copyright. It is so argued because the author could not confer upon Harper & Brothers any greater right than she herself possessed; and assuming that they had the power to copyright in their own name, yet that right would be subject to all subsequent conditions imposed upon the author. But the statute does not require the author to give the copyright notice. It provides that "No person shall maintain an action for the infringement of his copyright unless he shall give notice thereof by inserting in the several copies of every edition published," the form prescribed. It is the owner of the copyright who is to give the notice, and he must insert it in every copy published by himself. The statute did not attempt the impossible or impracticable by compelling him to insert the notice in other publishers' editions, but only those controlled by himself. As said by the Supreme Court, in Thompson v. Hubbard, 131 U. S. 123: "The plain declaration of the statute is that no person shall maintain an action for the infringement of his copyright unless he shall give notice thereof by inserting the prescribed words in the several copies of every edition published. This means every edition which he, as controlling the publication, publishes."

Harper & Brothers had no control over the acts of Blackwood & Son, either in Scotland or the United States, and were ignorant of the publication in New York of the American edition of Blackwood. How could they abandon their own copyright without their own volition? Forfeitures are strictly construed. It would be a harsh rule which would compel a publisher to insist in his contract with the author on having his own copyright notice inserted in every copy of the work published by all other persons. This might be highly impracticable, and difficult of execution. The statute should not be given such a construction unless imperatively required by its language; which, as we have seen, means nothing of the kind.

In the case of G. & C. Merriam Co. v. United Dictionary Co., already cited, the owner of the copyright, after publishing the book in this country, took the plates to England and there printed and published additional copies; omitting, however, the notice of American copyright. Judge Kohlsaat very properly held this to be an abandonment of the copyright.

To constitute abandonment there must be a clear, unequivocal and decisive act of the person entitled, showing a determination not to have the right relinquished. 1 Cyc., 5.

Publication in a foreign country without the consent of the author is not an abandonment. Boucicault v. Wood, 2 Biss. 34. Or without the consent of the owner of the exclusive right to publish in this country. Goldmark v. Kreling, 35 Fed. 661. See also Haggard v. Waverly Pub. Co., cited in George H. Putnam's work on copyrights (U. S. C. C. Dict. N. J.). American Press Ass'n v. Daily Story Pub. Co., 120 Fed. 766. The case of Werckmeister v. Am. Lith. Co., 117 Fed. 360, decides a contrary rule, but one which I think should not be followed.

The publication in Blackwood's American edition seems to have been an infringement on Harper & Brothers, not an abandonment by them; but it is not necessary to decide this point.

It is further insisted that as it is admitted defendants' publication is not taken from complainant's book, but from the authorised English edition, published without notice of copyright, the case fails. This position is supported by quotation from Drone on Copyright, 399-400, and Johnson v. Donaldson, 3 Fed. 22. The Chicago Tribune case is also in point here, since the defendant in that case received and published telegraphic dispatches from the London Times covering extracts from its columns; and it was held that the Tribune could not prevent this by copyrighting its own paper, covering other extracts or articles from the Times.

But I think the rule inapplicable to this case, because defendants did something expressly prohibited by the copyright law. Section 4956, as added to in 1891, provided:

"During the existence of such copyright the importation into the United States of any book so copyrighted, or any edition or editions thereof, or any plates of the same, not made from type set . . . within the limits of the United States, shall be and it is hereby prohibited."

Defendants did just what is here prohibited. They imported a substantial copy of "The Masquerader" not made from type set in this country. They are therefore within the condemnation of the law. They cannot be allowed to found legal rights on acts made unlawful by being prohibited.

In the dictionary case above referred to, defendant imported the books, as did defendants here, but they were made from plates in this country. It did nothing prohibited, and was, with some reluctance on the part of the court, justified in so doing.

On the question of prohibited importation a case of the bringing in of a piece of music published in Germany, and on which there was an English copyright, was presented in Pitts v. George & Co., 66 L. J. Ch. 1, 75 L. T. Rep. N. S. 320, where such importation was held unlawful. The international copyright act there in question was, however, quite different from the American copyright law.

The motion for temporary injunction should be granted. A. L. SANBORN, Judge.

TAX ON COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS IN CANADA.

At a recent meeting of the Quebec Cabinet Premier Gouin and Provincial Treasurer McCorkill, according to the Canadian Bookseller, stated to a joint delegation of the Montreal Board of Trade, La Chambre de Commerce, and the British Agents' Association, that the tax of $300 on non-resident commercial travellers, representing houses having no place of business in Canada, would stand. The cabinet contended that it protected the interests of business people in Quebec Province, and at the same time this tax provided revenue which they urgently needed.

The Board of Trade was represented by George Caverhill, of Caverhill, Learmont & Co., while the Chamber of Commerce stated their objections to the tax through Messrs. Catelli and A. B. Roy. G. B. Fraser and Thomas Brophy outlined the views of the Wholesale Dry Goods Association, and R. Henderson and J. H. Shaw spoke for the British Agents' Association. The cabinet listened attentively to the recommendations of the deputation and their objections to the tax, stating that they would always be pleased to welcome suggestions. The deputation expressed regret over the decision of the cabinet, but the strong pressure from every source is expected to result in at least a reduction of the tax or a restriction of it to the peddler whose operations affect the defenders of the tax more directly than do the visits of the commercial representatives of foreign manufacturers.

BEST-SELLING BOOKS IN DECEMBER.

THE following, according to The Bookman, is a list of the six most popular new books in the order of demand as sold during the month of December:

$8950 FOR THE FIRST FOUR SHAKE- SPEARE FOLIOS.

At Libbie's, in Boston, on February 2, a set of the first four folios of Shakespeare, the property of Henry J. Denny, sold for $8950, the purchaser being F. W. Morris, of New York, who bought the books on commission.

At Merwin-Clayton's auction rooms on the same day Lowell's "Ode Recited at the Commemoration of the Living and Dead Soldiers at Harvard University, July 21, 1865," sold for $531. The copy was one of fifty, and bore the author's inscription on the fly-leaf. The Arnold copy sold for $220, and two other copies sold respectively for $410 and $400.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

PITTSBURG BOOKSELLERS' AND STATIONERS' ASSOCIATION ANNUAL DINNER.

THE PITTSBURG BOOKSELLERS' AND STATIONERS' ASSOCIATION gave its seventh annual dinner on the evening of January 23, in the handsomely decorated dining room of the Union Club. H. Lee Mason, the president of the Association, who acted as chairman, in his opening remarks referred with much feeling to the late W. W. Waters, for many years manager of the Presbyterian Book Store, and then read the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted:

"Resolved, That the Pittsburg Booksellers and Stationers' Association heartily indorse the sentiments expressed by the New York Stationers' Association, and will lend their earnest support toward correcting the abuses to which they refer."

The after-dinner speaking was quite informal, the following taking part: Robert S. Davis, Z. W. Barnard, of Cleveland, who extended a cordial invitation to the dinner to be given by the Cleveland Stationers' Association, on March 13; the Rev. Joseph Horner, John L. Herring, George H. Alexander, Leo Henley, Ray Martin, of Syracuse; H. D. Burke, and Messrs. Clough and Bvin. A number of prominent members and guests were unavoidably absent, among them George Olney, L. E. Waterman, W. Millard Palmer, Harry F. Davis, the secretary, and A. W. McCloy, the vice-president, the latter two being detained by reason of illness.

STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE ANNUAL DINNER.

THE STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE enjoyed itself pleasantly at dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, on the evening of the 6th inst. There were present 123 members of the Board and their friends. Among the guests were the Hon. Herman A. Metz, Comptroller of Greater New York; the Hon. John S. Wise, Frank N. Doubleday, John B. Fay, former president of the Chicago Stationers' Association; the Rev. Lindsay Parker, of Brooklyn; William A. Prendergast, formerly an officer of the Credit Men's Association; Abner K. Pratt, president of the Boston Stationers' Association, and Theodore L. C. Gerry, president of the New York Stationers' Association. H. C. Bainbridge, the president of the Board, in his address of welcome reviewed briefly the successful work of the Board during the past year, and, in referring to the coming convention of the National Association of Stationers in New York, called upon the members to give an expression of their opinion as to the most favorable time of the year in which the convention was to be held. It was the unanimous vote that the latter part of June or the early part of July would suit all concerned better than a later date, when travellers are out of town and the manufacturers and retail dealers busy preparing for the fall trade.

The Hon. John S. Wise led off the speech-making in one of his happy moods, giving advice to the Board how best to entertain the visiting members to the coming convention. Mr. Wise was followed by Comptroller Metz, who dwelt upon some of the difficulties of his new position, and hoped that in his efforts to reform abuses he would have the support of the business men of New York. The Rev. Lindsay Parker wound up a pleasant talk with some stirring remarks on the need of a more largely developed moral sense of the community, in which he was ably seconded by Mr. Prendergast. Mr. Doubleday spoke on the open or "free" shop, and Mr. Gerry brought the speechmaking to a close by calling upon all interested to begin now in making preparations for the convention of the National Association.

OBITUARY NOTES.

DR. GEORGE RYERSON FOWLER, a voluminous writer on surgery, died in Albany, N. Y., on February 6. Dr. Fowler was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., December 25, 1843. His last work, "Fowler's Surgery," is now in press.

THE REV. DR. EDWARD HENRY PEROWNE, Master of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge University, Eng., died on February 5, aged about seventy-eight. Among the publications of Dr. Perowne are "The Christian's Daily Life," "A Life of Faith," "Corporate Responsibility," "The Godhead of Jesus" and "Savonarola," a Commentary on Galatians, etc.

JOHN FINNERAN, who for some years conducted a second-hand book business at 621 Chestnut Street, in St. Louis, Mo., died in that city on January 28, aged fifty-five. Mr. Finneran was born in Ireland, and was intended for the priesthood, but his desire to travel brought him to this country about twenty years ago. After travelling about in the West and South for some time he settled in business, compromising on art. Finding St. Louis less resourceful as an "art center" than he was led to believe it was, he engaged in the sale of old books. His specialty was rare editions of the classics and English books, of which he left several thousand volumes. Mr. Finneran had many friends among scholars, artists and booklovers who will miss his genial and eccentric presence—a man who would rather any time buy a book and talk about it than to sell it. It was like parting with dear old friends, he often said, when disposing of one of his treasures.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BALTIMORE, MD.—Goldsmith Bros., booksellers and stationers, will open up, on March 1, in their new store at 26 East Baltimore Street. They were situated for fifteen years on Baltimore Street, below Calvert, when the great fire of two years ago destroyed that section of the city. Their new building is a three-story fireproof structure, built of concrete and steel, 25 x 125 feet, and equipped with all improvements. Their shelving, showcases, counters and tables will be finished in Flemish oak, old mission style. Their show windows will be L-shaped, providing an extra large lobby, which will give them better facilities for display than an ordinary window. They will carry a complete stock of books and stationery and will make a specialty of loose-leaf systems, card indexes and filing cabinets. They request the trade to send catalogues.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—The H. H. Otis Book Company has been incorporated by Donna D., Lizzie D., Charles C. and William H. Otis. The capital stock is given as $20,000.

ELLENSBURG, WASH.—D. W. Morgan, bookseller, has sold out to A. R. Dennis.

GADSDEN, ALA.—J. T. Fulcher, bookseller, it is reported, has filed a petition in bankruptcy.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Federal Book Company is closing out its publishing business.

NEW YORK CITY.—W. M. Stitt, Jr., has sold his interest in and resigned his position as president and general manager of the Stitt Publishing Company, which is to be wound up and go out of existence as a corporation. Mr. Stitt, who has gone to Europe on a vacation, retains an office at 156 Fifth Avenue, and will act as publishers' agent and probably publish books on his own account from time to time. One of his chief lines will be the color booklets of the Holiday Publishing Company, of Buffalo, N. Y., for which he will be the sole selling agent.

PELHAM, N. Y.—The New Fiction Library, booksellers, stationery, libraries, etc., has been incorporated by Arthur R. Womrath and Frederick H. Womrath, of Pelham, N. Y., and George F. Womrath, 352 West 117th Street, New York.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—G. L. Taylor, who recently sold the Linahan stock of old books to Charles J. Turner, who will continue the business at the old stand, at Sixth and Market Streets, has opened the Old Book Stall, at 920 Locust Street. The old book stock of John Finneran, at 621 Chestnut Street, whose death is noted in another column, is now under the management of Mr. Taylor, who offers it intact to a quick purchaser. Mr. Taylor has also again come into possession of the American Magazine Exchange, and proposes to concentrate on back-number magazines if he can secure expert assistance.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE ARTHUR H. CLARK COMPANY announces that its edition of "Magellan's Voyages Around the World" will be published in three instead of two volumes.

FOX, DUFFIELD & COMPANY have a novel of originality and interest in "The Eternal Spring," by "Neith Boyce," the pseudonym of Mrs. Hutchins Hapgood, author of "The Forerunner" and "The Folly of Others." The scene of this new story is Italy.

WILLIAM S. THOMPSON, for the past four years with Harper & Brothers, as manager of their Rochester (N. Y.) and St. Louis (Mo.) offices, has assumed the management of the subscription book department just started by the Thompson Publishing Company, of St. Louis.

WILLIAM DRYSDALE, of Montreal who is well known in the Canadian booktrade, has been appointed appraiser of books, stationery and fancy goods in the Montreal custom house. Mr. Drysdale will sell his business at St. James and St. Catherine Streets, which he has conducted for many years, and devote himself to his official duties.

ISAAC PITMAN & SONS will publish March 20 "Isaac Pitman's Short Course in Short-hand," an entirely new exposition of the author's system of phonography, arranged in forty fascinating lessons for use in business colleges, high schools and for self-instruction. The manuscript of the book has been seen by many experts and is pronounced simple, logical and practical to a rare degree.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. will publish at once "Kenelm's Desire," by Hughes Cornell, the story of an Alaskan Indian adopted and educated in a white family of British Columbia. It is claimed the author has a new theme, a new setting and a new hero whom he has excelled in delineating. A little later they will bring out "Called to the Field," by Lucy M. Thurston, a story of Virginia during the Civil War, said to be better than her "A Girl of Virginia."

L. C. PAGE & COMPANY will publish March 1 "The Count at Harvard," by Rupert Sargent Holland, who tells the story of a young gentleman of fashion at the old university. He is not a foreigner, but supposed to be a composite picture of some of the author's own classmates. They have just ready the long-delayed novel by Morley Roberts, entitled "The Idlers," which was necessarily kept back owing to the advance orders which have demanded an extra large edition.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready "The Jeffersonian System," by Professor Edward Channing, which forms the twelfth volume of The American Nation series. The period covered is from 1801 to 1811. They are just bringing out the Hillcrest edition of Mark Twain's complete works, in twenty-three volumes, with a biographical criticism of Mark Twain and his works by Brander Matthews. They have in preparation a new and enlarged edition of "The Mikado's Empire," by William Elliot Griffis.

WILLIAM ABBATT, 281 Fourth Avenue, New York, has published a second edition of Jane Hodson's useful manual entitled "How to Become a Trained Nurse." The author was for some time directress of nurses at the State Hospital, Fountain Springs, Pa., and matron of the House of Relief, Hudson Street, New York, and gives in fullest detail all the information needed by those who wish to become trained nurses. Appended is a complete list of the various training schools in the United States and Canada.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have this year a larger number of artistic novelties in valentines than they have ever shown before, including a number of mechanical surprises. Their line of Valentine post cards and telegrams and cablegrams are particularly attractive and clever. They have also added largely to their shaped valentines and to their very artistic though inexpensive lines. Altogether, this house has now accumulated a line from which a dealer might order blindfolded and yet be certain every time of drawing a prize for his constituents.

THE UNIT BOOK COMPANY, 334 Fourth Avenue, New York, announce the publication of a series of books known as The Letters and Addresses of American Statesmen. The first two issues, namely, "Letters and Addresses of Abraham Lincoln" and "Letters and Addresses of Thomas Jefferson," have already appeared. The series is to be continued until the letters and addresses of all the most prominent and popular American statesmen have been included. Each volume is to be a unit book, and to be included in a general series, The Unit Books.

THE CENTURY Co.'s February issues will be new novels from two American writers, both of whom are known through their earlier works. Bertha Runkle's "The Helmet of Navarre" was a decided popular success; her new novel is entitled "The Truth About Tolna," and deals with the lighter side of New York life. In "The Dull Miss Archinard," "The Rescue," "The Confounding of Camelia" and "Paths of Judgment," Anne Douglas Sedgwick has proved herself a dramatic and brilliant writer. Miss Sedgwick herself ranks her new book, "The Shadow of Life," as the best work she has yet accomplished.

HERBERT B. TURNER & Co., Boston, announce a story of the social life in the European colony of Jerusalem, by Myriam Harry, entitled "The Conquest of Jerusalem," an Australian novel by Randolph Bedford, entitled "The Snare of Strength," which presents a succession of pictures of colonial life, in politics, among the struggling farmers of the back country of Australia, of prosperity in the wilderness and of the mining rushes; also, "Enigmas of Psychical Research," by Professor James H. Hyslop, vice-president of the Society for Psychical Research, which deals with the supernatural in chapters on Crystal Gazing, Telepathy, Dreams, Mediumistic Phenomena, Premonitions, Clairvoyance, etc.

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have in press for early publication a new novel of New York social life, by Edgar Saltus, entitled "Vanity Square." It is a story of a rich young clubman deeply in love with his wife and whose love is equally returned. The husband comes home one day to find his wife and their child gone and no clue to their disappearance or their whereabouts. The love story in which this disappearance is involved, and which affords complications that make the mystery peculiarly baffling, is the most extraordinary and intensely interesting of Mr. Saltus's novels. At the same time the book has a literary quality which must at once gain the attention of all who care for the writing of good English.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY announce the immediate publication of Torrey and Alexander's "How to Succeed in the Christian Life," and new editions of their "How to Bring Men to Christ," and "The Bible and Its Christ." The Torrey and Alexander meetings now held in Toronto are said to hold the position once held by the famous revival meetings of Moody and Sankey. They have in preparation Wilfred Graham's "The Vision at the Savoy," which marks out an ideal for the "neglected rich," something on the lines of the "People's Palace," outlined by Walter Besant in "All Sorts and Conditions of Men," "The Forgotten Secret," by Dr. W. J. Dawson, persuaded by whom Edward Everett Hale, Jr., forsook Unitarianism and was "converted" in a Methodist meeting house; and a new book by Hannah Whitall Smith intended to help people towards cheerful Christianity. The house reports Dillon Wallace's "The Lure of the Labrador Wild" already in its sixth large edition.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just ready "The Lake," by George Moore, who gives us far too seldom a successor to "Esther Waters," "Evelyn Inness" and the other works of his literary art which were so vehemently discussed more than a decade ago. The scene is laid in Irish woods, and the story recounts the soul struggle of a young priest who finds the vows of his order and the rigorous practices of his vocation incompatible with his individuality and his temptations of soul and body. They have also just brought out "The Great Refusal," by Maxwell Gray, whose "Silence of Dean Maitland" took an older generation by storm. This is a story of love sacrificed for an ideal and of a young man who learned by hard experience that economic laws are as immutable as laws of health, and that one man cannot overcome the laziness of a nation. At last he sails away from civilization to the coast of South Africa to found a modern Utopia, and he takes with him the woman that is fitted to be a helpmate in any land.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish next week a volume entitled "What is Religion?" by President Henry S. Pritchett, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Mr.

Pritchett has just been appointed president of the Carnegie foundation for the pensioning of the college professors. His new book contains five vigorous broad-minded addresses to college students. They will publish at the same time "The Spirit of the Pines," a first novel, by Miss Margaret Morse. They will bring out in March a volume entitled "Lincoln: Master of Men," which differs from any previous biography by aiming to concentrate the readers' attention on the one element in Lincoln's personality which continually grows in significance as time goes by. This is his mastery over different types of men as well as over himself. The author, Alonzo Rothchild, has made a keen and brilliant study, with a surprising freshness of interest. Now that the centenary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln is but three years distant, there is renewed evidence of the popular interest in the great President. The farm in Kentucky where he was born is to be acquired by popular subscription as a national park, and a character drama of his life will be reproduced in New York next month.

THE JOHN LANE COMPANY have just brought out a book of interest to designers and architects under the title "English Metal Work." This is a series of ninety-three drawings by William Twopeny, selected from a valuable but little-known collection in the British Museum, a series of thirteen folios with a number of smaller volumes by William Twopeny containing drawings of architecture, furniture, wood work and iron work made from buildings in various parts of England during the first half of the last century. They are made from the point of view of an enthusiastic antiquarian with knowledge and discrimination. Their value as a record is therefore great, and is increased by the fact that much which is recorded by them has since disappeared. Their value as drawings is also considerable. They have the advantage over photographs, particularly in the case of metal work on buildings, in that they isolate the object sufficiently and do not introduce into the details a disturbing light and shade. In the present volume the publishers have chosen the most representative examples of Twopeny's work, believing these will be of service to those occupied and interested in the crafts. The plates comprise drawings of lead work, such as pipe heads, etc., cast iron work, and wrought iron work, such as fire dogs, grilles, vanes, hinge straps, knockers, locks, chests, door handles, key escutcheons, bar handles, etc.

PICK-UPS.

HANDICAPPED.—"Is it a good cookery book?" "Good? Why, madam, they're talking of getting it dramatized."—Ally Sloper's Half Holiday.

AT THE AUTHORS' CLUB.—Oldboy: "I say, Slowboy, when is your 'Universe Displayed' coming out? I'm an old man now, any day I may enter into my reward; how am I to report the state of things on earth without that book?" Slowboy: "That needn't bother you. I can send you the asbestos edition."

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

PUTNAM'S NEW FICTION

MEREJKOWSKI'S TRILOGY

JUST PUBLISHED

Peter and Alexis

THE ROMANCE OF PETER THE GREAT. Crown 8vo, $1.50

This is the concluding novel in Merejkowski's Trilogy. The three novels may be read independently, being connected only by a strong underlying idea. The present work is a simple and earnest study of the most moving episode in the life of the greatest of the Russian princes. It is a picture, vivid and true, of classes and conditions, of court and society, of peasant and wild religious beliefs, in Russia at the beginning of the eighteenth century.

PREVIOUSLY ISSUED

The Death of the Gods

JULIAN THE APOSTATE. Crown 8vo, $1.50

"A fine piece of work. Out of the perplexed chapters of Julian's career, Merejkowski has constructed something which might be called a drama, full of episodes, lurid and intense."—London Telegraph.

The Romance of Leonardo da Vinci

THE FORERUNNER. Crown 8vo, $1.50

"It amazes, while it wholly charms, by the power of imagery, the glowing fancy, the earnestness and enthusiasm with which the writer conjures Italy of the Renaissance from the past into the living light."—London World.

BY GUY THORNE, AUTHOR OF "WHEN IT WAS DARK"

A Lost Cause

Crown 8vo, $1.50

Mr. Thorne has written another powerful novel dealing with present-day aspects of the Christian religion. The new story is marked by the same dramatic and emotional strength which characterize the earlier work. The special theme deals with certain practices which have caused dissensions in the Church and the influence of ardent religious convictions on character and conduct.

7TH PRINTING

When It Was Dark

THE STORY OF A GREAT CONSPIRACY. Crown 8vo, net, $1.20

This remarkable religious novel has become the theme of hundreds of sermons and has received the highest commendation in the secular press as well as in the religious publications.

"WOULD HAVE DONE CREDIT TO THE PEN OF DUMAS"

No. 101

BY WYMOND CAREY. Illustrated by Wal Paget. Crown 8vo, $1.50

A stirring story of adventure during the war of the Austrian Succession. No. 101 was the cipher used as a signature by a daring spy through whose agency the English were supplied with exact and unerring information concerning the French plans.

"Something distinctly out of the common, well conceived, vividly told, and stirring from start to finish."—London Telegraph.

"This thrilling novel . . . Every page crisp with incident."—Albany Times Union.

WHAT SOME OF THE PAPERS SAY

THE NASHVILLE AMERICAN:

"As specimens of dramatic story-telling we know of nothing since Poe which surpasses these tales. They have strength, brilliancy and graphic power, picturesque, and withal a subtle humor which brings relief to the imagination oppressed with the horror of these grim old stories."

THE SALT LAKE TRIBUNE:

"There can be no question of the high artistic merit of these stories. . . . The author is to be congratulated earnestly upon his high success in this book."

THE BROOKLYN TIMES:

"The stories are alive with the sweep and vigor of human passion. . . . It is many years since fiction of such unusual quality has appeared."

WILD JUSTICE

By LLOYD OSBOURNE

Author of "Baby Bullet." Illustrated. 12mo. Ornamental Cloth, $1.50

These stories have all the dreamy, delicious, restful feeling of the most delightful climate of the world. In reading them one wonders why so fair and pleasant a land has been given over for so many years to rough sailors and adventurers. The action of the tales, which goes on with the swift grotesqueness of opéra-bouffe, is relieved by the eternal elements of humor which enter into every transaction in that land where it is well-nigh impossible to take life seriously.

THE HEALERS

By MAARTEN MAARTENS

Author of "Dorothea," "God's Fool," etc. 12mo. Ornamental Cloth, $1.50

This is a wonderfully clever, human, humorous satire on the pretensions of modern medical experts. From old Professor Lisse, with his famous semicolon bacillus, to the last character introduced, every one in the book believes himself either afflicted with an incurable disease or on the eve of the discovery of a wonderful cure. There is plenty of love interest and good character-drawing.

THE NEW YORK GLOBE says:

"In this day of much mediocrity in fiction it is like the sudden lifting of the fog and a burst of beautiful sunshine to read a new story by Henryk Sienkiewicz.

"It is in unfolding the love romance that the poetic quality of the author rises supreme, with the result of many pages of rare and beautiful prose.

"Romantic, dramatic, poetic, and intensely human by turn, 'On the Field of Glory' is a masterly work by a masterly writer."

NOTES IN SEASON.

R. F. FENNO & Co., 18 East Seventeenth Street, in connection with the Franklin Printing and Engraving Co., of Toledo, O., publish that interesting book, "Boyville," by John E. Gunkel, president of the National Newsboys' Association.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish shortly a new edition of A. C. Buell's "Paul Jones: Founder of the American Navy," to which will be added an account, by General

Horace Porter, of his search and final discovery of the body of Paul Jones.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just ready a collection of stories by Lloyd Osbourne, entitled "Wild Justice;" also, "The Healers," a satire on the pretensions of modern medical experts, by Maarten Maartens, both of which have already been fully described by us.

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY publish this week the latest book by Carl Joubert entitled "The Fall of Tsardom," describing the latest phases of the process of disintegration which has driven the Russian people to seek relief from Tsardom in constitutional reform. They also publish Joubert's other successful books, "Russia As It Really Is," now in its seventh edition, and "The Truth About the Tsar." They also announce "Adventures of a Supercargo," by Louis Becke, and a highly exciting and interesting story by a new writer, John Reed Scott, "The Colonel of the Red Hussars," for which the publishers predict great popularity.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will publish on the 23d inst. "How to Buy Life Insurance," by "Q. P.," "The Lady and the Ladder," by Harrison Garfield Rhodes; and "Recollections of Thirteen Presidents," by John S. Wise. Publication of Upton Sinclair's novel, "The Jungle," has been delayed until February 26. On March 3 they will bring out "Curayl," by Una L. Silberrad; "Letters and Recollections of George Washington;" "The International Cook Book," by Alexander Filippini; "Man, the Social Creator," by Henry D. Lloyd; and "Under the Arch," by Lady Henry Somerset. Later in March they will publish a new book by Henry A. Shute, the author of "The Real Diary of a Real Boy," entitled "A Few Neighbors," a quiet record of a move from one quarter of the village to another and what followed. The description of the comical happenings, and of the neighbors, are said to be filled with homely humor that has something of the quality of Artemus Ward's.

DODD, MEAD & Co. will publish next week "A Motor Car Divorce," by Louise Closser Hale, a delightful story of a tour through Europe, for which the author's husband, Walter Hale, has made thirty-six drawings—ten of them in colors—of such towns and scenes on their journey as have never been referred to in other automobile stories; "A Lame Dog's Diary," by S. Macnaughton, the hero of which is not a dog at all, but a soldier who at Magersfontein was shot in the legs, and who, while recovering from his injuries, follows the example of a bewitching young widow and keeps a diary—whereon hangs the tale; "The Hill," by Horace A. Vachell, already described by us; a new book by James Schouler, author of a capital "History of the United States," entitled "Americans of 1776," an original study of life and manners, social, industrial and political for the Revolutionary period; also, "The Art of Keeping Well," a useful manual for the home, by Dr. Cordelia A. Greene, one of our really great pioneer women physicians, with a biographical sketch of Dr. Greene by Miss Elizabeth Gordon.

Jones, H: Arthur. Michael and his lost angel: a play in five acts. N. Y., Macmillan, 1905. c. 95. 22+107 p. D. cl., 75 c.

This play was produced at the Lyceum Theatre, London, on the 15th of January, 1896. The leading character, the Rev. Michael Feversham, is a cold, austere, scholarly man, stern in the pursuit of his duty. He exacts a public confession in his church from a young girl, the daughter of his secretary, who has been ruined by a scoundrel. When temptation assails himself, however, he falls, and in this way learns to be more merciful. The play deals with his repentance, the end being a tragedy.

Labiche, Eugène Marie and Martin, Edouard. La poudre aux yeux; with introd. notes and vocabulary by V: E. François. N. Y., American Book Co., [1906. F6.] c. '05. 111 p. por. S. cl., 30 c.

Lamb, C: Essays of Elia. 1st ser.; ed., with introd. and notes, by G: Armstrong Wauchope. Bost., Ginn, [1905.] c. 26+302 p. por. S. (Standard English classics.) cl., 40 c.

A larger volume of the essays of Charles Lamb was issued from the Athenæum Press by the present editor in February, 1904. Since then the "Essays of Elia" (first series) having been included in the college entrance requirements, this edition has been prepared with special reference to the needs of our secondary schools. Although much of the matter of the earlier and fuller work has been used, this book is in many respects a new one. It contains thirty of the most popular essays.

Lea, Ja. H: and G: H: The ancestry and posterity of John Lea, of Christian Malford, Wiltshire, England, and of Pennsylvania in America, 1503-1906. Phil., Lea Bros. & Co., 1906. c. 15+611 p. il. pors. map, facsim., 8°, cl., $10; hf. mor., $11.50. English section, by James Henry Lea; American section, by George Henry Lea.

Liljencrantz, Otilie Adaline. Randvar the songsmith: a romance of Norumbega. N. Y., Harper, 1906. [F.] c. 9+313 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

"She was a prince's child," he "but a viking wild," whose romance Longfellow traced in "The skeleton in armor." The scene like that of the poem is the ancient city of Norumbega, in the time of the fabled Norse occupation of America. Stirring fact and mystic legend are entwined, there being a great clash of arms and much love making. The were-wolf myth is brought into the story with dramatic effect.

Lindale, Van Sinderen. Rate regulation of gas and electric lighting. N. Y., Banks Law Pub. Co., 1906. c. 4+165 p. O. cl., $1.50.

A compact handbook, containing the principles and authorities governing rate regulation of public utilities, which will prove useful to all interested in the question of the rate regulation of public service corporations, which is now being brought so prominently before this country. A reference to the statutes of the several states and a table of decided cases are annexed.

Low, C: Porter. Some recollections by Captain Charles Porter Low, commanding the clipper ships "Houqua," "Jacob Bell," "Samuel Russell," and "N. B. Palmer," in the China trade, 1847-1873. Bost., G: H. Ellis Co., 1905. c. 179 p. pls., pors. 8°, cl., $2.

Lyman, Olin Linus. Micky. Bost., R: G. Badger, 1905. c. 241 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Story of newspaper life in a large city, centering in the meteoric career of a young Irish-American possessing unusual journalistic ability but cursed with the inherited thirst for liquor. Micky is fortunate enough to get on the scent of a political scandal involving the Democratic nominee for mayor. He runs it to earth, and then all but loses his game through his fatal weakness, which intervenes at the critical moment.

Marshall, W. Vickroy. Competition. Berlin, Pa., Record Publishing Co., [1905.] c. 8+93 p. front. D. cl., 50 c.

Author is editor of Berlin Record, Berlin, Pa. The central thought is: 1, That the natural law of competition is the true and only medium in which success may be achieved in the various departments of industrial life. The theme includes within its scope the following propositions: 1, That the ills which afflict our industrial and commercial life are attributable to the unnatural distribution of earnings growing out of undue concentration of capital and monopoly. 2, That the result is periodic "overproduction" and "hard times." 3, That the remedy is such a remodeling of the taxing system as will prevent undue concentration of industrial interests and the fostering of monopoly.

The scene of this novel is Ireland. The interest is centered in two people—Father Oliver Gogarty, an Irishman in charge of a parish in the west of Ireland, and Rose Leicester, his organist and school-mistress. An error on the girl's part drives her out of the parish to London, where after some vicissitudes, she becomes the secretary of a literary man and travels with him and his daughter to Germany and Italy to study Wagner and the Italian composers. The priest begins a correspondence with her, chiefly of good advice, and finds in a little while that he is in love. This realization changes his whole life, and though he never expects to see Rose again, he gives up his life's work and starts for New York, letting it appear he has been drowned in the lake.

- The author, who is a professor in the United Free Church College, Glasgow, examines the old Testament in its relation to Higher Criticism, showing whereas much light has been thrown on the structure and meaning of the Scriptures by the critics of the last thirty years, that if carried out to its logical issues, Higher Criticism must "prove subversive to our Christian faith, and of such belief in, and use of, the Bible as alone can meet the needs of the living church." Written for the English public and as much as possible shorn of technicalities. This book was awarded the Bross Prize of $6000 at Lake Forest University in 1905, the sum being derived from the fund left by the late William Bross of Chicago, the income of which was to foster the production of books or treatises "on the connection, relation and mutual bearing of any practical science, or history of our race, or the facts in any department of knowledge, with and upon the Christian Religion."

- Phillipotts, Eden. The portreeve. N. Y., Macmillan, 1906. [Ja.] c. 3+452 p. D. cl., $1.50.
- The love story of Dodd Wolferstan, who was portreeve or chief magistrate in the maritime village of Bridgetowe. The position of portreeve, while considered a great honor in the little English village of Devon, had no salary and little work attached to it. It was a title that had descended from Saxon days. It made the man who bore it, however, a person whom everybody knew. Dodd Wolferstan was loved by two women; cue he loved dearly and wanted to marry; the other, enraged and jealous at being slighted, resorted to most unscrupulous methods to separate the lovers. She is successful and Dodd's intended wife casts him off and marries another man. The rest of the story is unexpected, with a tragical ending. Full of local color.

In his introductory the author says: "My object is not to reduce the many and ponderous volumes of the synthetic philosophy to brief and popular form. . . . Rather do I write in the attempt to justify my conviction that the philosophy of universal and ordered change is far more easily demonstrable to-day than ever before. . . . Since 'First principles' was written new sciences—such as the comparative study of religions, comparative mythology, comparative ethics, comparative psychology, astro-physics, and physical chemistry—have come into being, each of which deals, in effect, with evolution in one or another sphere. My purpose, then, is to demonstrate the truth of the philosophy of evolution or change in the light of human knowledge in the first lustre of the twentieth century." By the author of "The cycle of life."

The fifth and final volume of one of the most important recent works on philosophy by an American, the author being assistant professor of philosophy in Harvard University. The different volumes consider each so different an aspect of the general subject—individual, social, religious, artistic, scientific—that they may very well be considered separate works. The present work is devoted to a consideration of "Reason in science" in chapters entitled: Types and aims of science; History; Mechanism; Hesitations in method; Psychology; The nature of intent; Dialectic; Prerational morality; Rational ethics; Post-rational morality; The validity of science.

In Leyden, Holland, the eminent Professor Lisse discovered the "semicolon" bacillus which by means of injection in the brain was to cure all diseases. He ranked next to Pasteur who also appears. Vivisection being necessary to prove his theories, his children and his wife, a poetess, dreaded his studies. The intricate plot brings out the various theories of healing: hypnotism, mental healing, massage, telepathy, electricity, etc. One character argues that as long as true scientists refuse to study the quackeries and superstitions that are influencing modern mental and physical sufferers the theories are not refuted. Insanity and idiocy are also depicted. Fine women characters are attractions of the realistic story.

An effort to present the Bible ideal, spiritual and visible, of the Church of Christ; to cut away from the various forms of church doctrine held to-day both Catholic and sectarian mistakes; in order that we may return to the ideal church founded by Christ and foretold by the prophets. A plea for Christian unity.

Sturgis, Howard Overing. All that was possible: being the record of a summer in the life of a Mrs. Sibyl Crofts, comedian. N. Y., Putnam, 1906. 3+312 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

Analytic study of a woman's mind when brought face to face with an ennobling love. Gifted, beautiful and uncontrolled by moral principle, Sibyl Crofts, after a liaison of five years with an English nobleman, flees to Wales, hoping to find courage in solitude to face a new life. There she is brought in contact with a high-minded man who loves her against his will; and only when she perceives the moral deterioration wrought in the man through his love for her does Sibyl realize the hoodlowness and piteousness of her position and accept its consequences.

Adrian Bassett after his university life enters his father's business. He learns through this experience how one man accumulates great wealth while his employees scarcely earn enough to keep the wolf from the door. He refuses to become his father's partner unless certain changes are made. His father casts him out doors and makes a new will. Adrian not only loses wealth but a lovely bride and goes out into the London world to earn a living and test his theories. He suffers all degrees of poverty, coming very near to starvation. In the end he becomes secretary to a great man, and is reconciled with his father, but always refuses to accept his money. He remains the leader of a group of young men who aim to reform the world. They all emigrate together to Brothersland, in British East Africa, where they form the Brotherhood of the Golden Rule.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

FEBRUARY 17, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE FUTURE OF COMMERCIAL TRAVELLING.*

As to the future of the commercial traveller we doubt whether the present generation need trouble themselves greatly over their probable future. The system of doing business through a representative on the road has been and is still subject to the law of evolution and the strain of competition. Yet every step has been in the direction of improving not only the condition of the traveller, but in creating a higher class of representative than his predecessors. In all great changes some good in the old will be destroyed in making way for the new and greater benefit. Applying this to the subject in hand, we have no misgivings as to the future of the commercial traveller, for whenever a greater degree of intelligence is necessary a higher being is always evolved to carry on the work. The present-day traveller is in many respects by the aforementioned law a vastly superior man, and as the years roll on he will have still to submit to the inevitable, and move on, or he will be moved with the weak "to the wall," for every leading position in all large mercantile houses will require a closer and more intense application of all the faculties; the hours may be shorter, but the moments will be keener and more anxious; the business problems will be much more complex for the middle man and the merchant. It will therefore require a much more subtle mind and dexterous hand to bring about results satisfactory to both employers and employees. To no class of business men does this apply with greater force than to the commercial traveller, the great pioneer of all large trading operations, for upon his general intelligence and acumen, upon his power of conception and intrepidity of execution, very much depends. Hence, the men who have not grown and advanced with the times will be left a long way behind in the race, and those only will be able to retain their positions who can properly estimate and quickly adapt themselves to the ever-advancing and rapidly-changing circumstances, which will continue to influence and govern the entire conduct of the twentieth century commerce.

Under these altered conditions we must look to the young, pliable, industrious traveller to make a brilliant future for himself. There is no appointment in a house of business which offers such scope for large ideas and magnificent results, as the future of the travelling man, and we confidently recommend any man with a thorough knowledge of his business to select this work, with this proviso, that if he have all the gifts, all the qualifications of all the best men who have ever travelled combined, and lack that intense application, that determination to work year in and year out, he lacks the one thing needful above all others.

WORK ON LIPPINCOTT'S DICTIONARY SUSPENDED.

AFTER almost fifteen years' preliminary work on a dictionary of the English language projected to occupy a place about midway between Webster's and the Century dictionaries, J. Bertram Lippincott, of the J. B. Lippincott Company, has decided to suspend work upon it for the present, with an ultimate view to disposing of the book, so far as it has progressed, to another publisher. If, however, such disposition of it on equitable terms is not made, he may himself resume the project and continue it to completion, although this is doubtful.

The reason for this step, as given by Mr. Lippincott, is the excessive strain upon his health caused by the financing and supervision of the work. In suspending it he has yielded to the advice of his relatives, friends and business associates, but has done so with great reluctance and only after much persuasion.

The manuscript of the dictionary is already prepared in the rough down to the end of the alphabet. The matter from "A" to and inclusive of the word "esteem" has been put in type, and more of it is ready for the printer to a point about two-thirds through the list of words beginning with the letter F. Elec-trotype page proofs for all of the first volume and for one-half of the second volume have been taken. It is estimated that it will take four or five years more to complete the dictionary. Something like $400,000 has been expended upon it, and $250,000 more will be required before it can be delivered entire to purchasers. Nothing has been done to obtain subscribers, and no prospectus even has been issued. First undertaken in 1892 by the firm of J. B. Lippincott & Co., with Professor Charles Payson Gurley Scott as editor-in-chief, it was subsequently taken over by Mr. Lippincott as his personal enterprise.

PUBLISHERS' BOWLING TOURNAMENTS.

THE representatives of the Oxford University Press, the American Book Company and Doubleday, Page & Co. opened the bowling tournament of the season at the Fair Bowling Alleys, 122 East Fourteenth Street, New York City, on the evening of February 6. A large and enthusiastic gathering of the clans was present to encourage and cheer their champions. This was followed by games on the evenings of February 9, 13 and 16 by teams from the Oxford University Press, G. P. Putnam's Sons, Ginn & Co., Doubleday, Page & Co., and the American Book Company. The following is the schedule of games still to be played, the game on March 9 closing the series:

Tuesday, February 20—Ginn & Company, G. P. Putnam's Sons, The American Book Company.

Friday, February 23—Doubleday, Page & Co., G. P. Putnam's Sons, Oxford University Press.

Tuesday, February 27—Ginn & Company, Doubleday, Page & Co., The American Book Company.

Friday, March 2—G. P. Putnam's Sons, The American Book Company, Oxford University Press.

Tuesday, March 6—Ginn & Company, Doubleday, Page & Co., G. P. Putnam's Sons.

Friday, March 9—The American Book Company, Ginn & Company, Oxford University Press.

The team prizes are $10 for the first prize and $4 for the second prize. Five dollars each will be awarded for the highest individual score and for the highest individual average. Games are called at eight o'clock, sharp. The trade is cordially invited to be present.

POPULAR ENGLISH BOOKS.

AMONG the "best sellers" in England during January, The Book Monthly notes the following:

Hugo, by Arnold Bennett.

The House of Riddles, by Dorothea Gerard.

The Spoilers, by Edwin Pugh.

A Vendetta in Vanity Fair, by Esther Miller.

Yolande, by Charles Major.

Lord Randolph Churchill, by Winston Spencer Churchill.

The Fourth Party, by Harold G. Gorst.

The Africander Land, by A. R. Colquhoun.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE ANNUAL DINNER

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE gave its annual dinner on the evening of February 14 at the Aldine Association. Owing to the wretched weather the attendance was not quite so large as is usual on this occasion; nevertheless about one hundred members of the League and their guests comfortably filled the dining room and enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent.

After the coffee had been served the president of the League, F. D. Lacy, in a brief address of welcome introduced as the first speaker George Cary Eggleston, who, after a witty introduction, discussed seriously the relation of what he called "the epidemic of free libraries" to the profession of authorship, criticising the Carnegie gifts as detrimental to the larger sale of books and presenting a situation which, he claimed, called for serious thought on the part of publishers.

The second speaker of the evening, Upton Sinclair, gave an earnest and impressive account of his investigation of the activities of the beef "trust" in Chicago, and of how he gathered material for his forthcoming book, "The Jungle," to be published at once by Doubleday, Page & Co.

The Rev. Madison C. Peters brought a very interesting evening to a close by suggestive remarks on "How to Get There," illustrating his talk with many happy illustrations and some good stories.

Gold League buttons were presented to Charles A. Burkhardt, J. B. Pratt and S. Edgar Briggs, each having added five new members to the League during the past three months.

OBITUARY NOTES.

WILLIAM A. WILLIAMSON.

WILLIAM A. WILLIAMSON, founder and president of the Williamson Law Book Company, died in Rochester, N. Y., on February 3. Mr. Williamson was born in Rochester, September 16, 1846. After graduating from the Rochester Free Academy, in 1863, he became a clerk in D. M. Dewey's Arcade Book Store, where he remained until 1870. He then started in business for himself with W. W. Wadsworth, the firm two years later becoming William A. Williamson & Co. In 1874 the firm became Williamson & Higbie, which continued for fifteen years. In 1885, their store in Powers Block having become too small for their rapidly increasing business, they took the whole building at 9 and 11 Exchange Street. In May, 1889, Mr. Higbie sold out his interest to Mr. Williamson, who then organized and incorporated the Williamson Law Book Company.

On the 5th inst. the following representatives of the book, stationery and paper trades met at the store of Scrantom, Wetmore & Co.: E. Darrow, L. G. Wetmore, A. C. Walker, J. T. Gorsline, Alfred Jackson, Vorberg Bros., W. C. Edwards, W. B. Palliser, I. Lazarius, John F. White, R. W. Swinburne,

Frank J. Stupp, G. P. Humphrey and W. H. Briggs. Mr. Darrow was called to the chair and the following resolutions, prepared by George P. Humphrey, A. C. Walker and John F. White, were adopted:

In the death of Mr. William A. Williamson, we, the members of the Book and Stationery trade of Rochester, desire to place on record our deep sense of loss in a fellow member, who for more than a generation of time has moved among us.

His happy and cheerful disposition made him friends on every side, while his earnest and capable attention to the care and building up of a successful business has made his name known throughout the country.

We deeply deplore our loss and extend our heartfelt sympathy to his bereaved family.

CHARLES A. RAY, for eighteen years in the employ of Thomas Nelson & Sons, died suddenly in East Orange, N. J., on Sunday evening, February 11. Mr. Ray was born in East Orange, January 31, 1872, and when he left school in 1888 obtained a position as errand boy with Thomas Nelson & Sons. In time he became city salesman, and last year he took up the large towns in the West, in which undertaking he was quite successful. Mr. Ray was a member of the Royal Arcanum and of the East Orange Brotherhood of Elks. He was highly esteemed by all who knew him.

PAUL LAURENCE DUNBAR, the negro poet, died, at Dayton, Ohio, on February 9, aged thirty-four, having been born at Dunbar, Montgomery County, Ohio, June 27, 1872. He was educated in the public schools of Dayton and by diligent private study made up for the loss of a college education. Soon after leaving school he got a place as an elevator boy in a public building, a place he kept long after he made a reputation as writer, for despite the attention his literary works had attracted, his books had yielded him no profit. His first two volumes, "The Oak and Ivy" and "Majors and Minors," were published by the author, with the assistance of friends, and despite the fact that his reputation then rested chiefly on what these books contained, they did not materially increase his income. So while Mr. Dunbar was acclaimed and commended in different quarters on the strength of his gifts as poet, it was from his labors as an elevator boy that his living came. The first edition of his second book was nearly exhausted when a review by William Dean Howells introduced Mr. Dunbar as "the first black man to feel the life of the negro æsthetically and to express it lyrically." From that time he wrote two books each year up to 1899, except 1897. His most popular collection is entitled "Lyrics of Lowly Places."

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

SIR FRANCIS C. BURNAND has resigned the editorship of Punch. He had been associated with that periodical for forty-four years, and had edited it for a quarter of a century. He will be succeeded by Owen Seaman, at present assistant editor. The resignation, which is due to advancing age, was announced by Sir Francis at the Wednesday dinner of Punch's staff.

BUSINESS NOTES.

IOWA CITY, IA.—J. J. Lee, bookseller, has sold out to A. C. Beitsch.

NEW YORK CITY.—At a meeting of the creditors of the United Educational Company, held on the 9th inst. at the office of the referee, William H. Willis, John K. Creevey, the receiver, was elected trustee and his bond fixed at $40,000. The referee thought it advisable to declare a dividend from the money in the trustee's hands so that it might be paid as soon as possible. The referee also requested the attorneys for the trustee to examine all claims filed. The meeting was then adjourned for two weeks, when the examination of the bankrupt will be taken up.

NEW YORK CITY.—Thomas Nelson & Sons are removing their bindery and shipping department to larger and more commodious premises at 109 to 113 South Fifth Street, Brooklyn. When they moved from 33 East Seventeenth Street, nine years ago, they secured two floors in the present building 37 East Eighteenth Street, then three floors, and for the last three years they have occupied four floors, and are now crowded out by their rapidly-increasing business. The new premises in Brooklyn give them double the space, so that they will be able to do more work and carry larger stock than ever before. The offices and salesrooms will remain at 37 East Eighteenth Street, where they will carry stock enough to supply the city trade.

PETERSBURG, VA.—T. S. Beckwith & Co., booksellers, have been incorporated with T. S. Beckwith, president; T. S. Beckwith, Jr., secretary, and M. K. Cary, treasurer.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

HINDS, NOBLE & ELDRIDGE have just secured control of "The Modern American Speaker," by Edwin DuBois Shurter, having purchased the plates and copyright, with all rights, title and interest in same.

THE Lewis and Clark Centennial Exposition awarded to Houghton, Mifflin & Co. a gold medal for their recent volume on "The Liquor Problem," and a silver medal for their quarto subscription edition of Longfellow's Works.

HENRY S. HUTCHINSON, of New Bedford, Mass., sails to-day by the steamer Koenig Albert for Genoa. Mr. Hutchinson expects to be in Leipzig in March, to attend the book fair. He will also pay a visit to the Berlin post-card manufacturers.

A. WESSELS COMPANY will publish at once in their series of popular copyright reprints Thomas Dixon's "The Leopard's Spots," and Frank Norris's "The Pit." Other important titles will be added to this series during the spring. This series is well printed and attractively bound in cloth.

LYMAN BEECHER STOWE has associated himself with the Frederick A. Stokes Company, now settled in their new quarters at 333 Fourth Avenue, and will be at the head of their publicity and mail order work, succeeding Charles C. Stoddard, who has severed his connections with the firm.

PELOUBET's "Select Notes—famous the world over as a commentary upon the International Sunday School Lessons—has broken its record of recent years, and the publishers, W. A. Wilde Company, announce the publication of another large edition of the 1906 issue.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready in their Heroes of American History series a volume entitled "Columbus, the Discoverer," by Frederick A. Ober, who has spent much time and energy in accumulating historical and personal data about Columbus, and has visited every place associated with his name in Spain and in America, and who in this volume presents a vivid picture of the personality as well as the achievements of the explorer.

W. B. PERKINS, 222 West Twenty-third Street, New York, has just ready two notable addresses by Dr. Minot J. Savage, entitled "Religion: its changing forms and its eternal essence," preached in the Cathedral of St. Peter, Calvin's church, before the International Council, at Geneva, Switzerland, and "The Jew in Christendom." Mr. Perkins will publish for the Easter season another address by Dr. Savage, entitled "Immortality: some reasons for belief."

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & Co. announce a new edition of Frederick Haynes Newell's "Irrigation." Dr. Newell is chief engineer of the United States Reclamation Service, and his account of the reclaiming of the arid Western lands has been accepted as authoritative. He has thoroughly revised his work and added a new chapter to keep pace with the rapid march of development in this field. Numerous new illustrations have also been added to the several hundred in the book.

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO PRESS has just brought out a work entitled "The Finality of the Christian Religion," by George B. Foster, who considers the question whether Christianity is to be regarded as a movement of merely relative importance, an influence which in time must give place to stronger influence, or whether it is a thing of absolute and final value; also, the first volume of "Ancient Records of Egypt," by James H. Breasted, a source book of Egyptian history, to be completed in four volumes.

THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING COMPANY announce for early publication a novel under the title of "The Rose Croix," a historical romance dealing principally with the war to free Texas from the yoke of Mexican rule. The hero, Lieutenant Sylvester, of Cincinnati, tells his own story, and he it is who captured Santa Anna on the field of San Jacinto, thereby putting an end to the strife. Zena Zavala, the daughter of the distinguished Mexican statesman, also plays an important part in the plot, as does that mysterious character who appeared on the battleground, known as the "Little Chevalier."

THE ROBERT APPLETON COMPANY, Union Square, New York, will be ready shortly to publish the first volume of their "Catholic Encyclopedia," work on which was begun over a year ago. The work aims to be a full and trustworthy compendium of the history, constitution and teaching of the Roman Catholic Church, and should prove quite as valuable to non-Catholic writers, editors and men of affairs as to those who profess its teachings. The editor-in-chief is Charles G. Herbermann, LL.D., with the Rev. Edward A. Pace, D.D., as associate, and the Rev. Condé R. Pallen as managing editor.

DODD, MEAD & Co. will publish in March a new book by Max Pemberton, entitled "My Sword for Lafayette," a dramatic and thrilling story of the adventures of a young American—a friend and companion of the Marquis de Lafayette, who was present at Barren Hill and Yorktown and who returned to France with the Marquis, believing him to be in peril by reason of his principles and practice in Paris. The story will be fully illustrated. They will also publish next month Anthony Trollope's "The Vicar of Bullhampton," the second of the series of the Manor House Novels, of which "Orley Farm" is the first.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY announce a new book by C. Lewis Hind, a stimulating writer on art matters, to be entitled "Days with Velasquez." The publication of the second volume of the revised and enlarged edition of Grove's "Dictionary of Music and Musicians" has been unavoidably delayed, but the Macmillan Company are now able to announce its issue for some time in March. A very large number of the articles have been entirely rewritten, and many absolutely new ones appear. American music and musicians are fully treated. The five large volumes of the edition are illustrated with plates as well as text cuts.

THE PERIODICAL PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION, whose headquarters are at 439 Lafayette Street, New York City, is making a determined effort to apprehend and bring to justice the many fraudulent agents, who are always operating throughout the country. To this end a copy of its first Bulletin of Discharged or Criminal Agents, just issued, offering a reward of $25 for the arrest of those named therein, has been sent to every chief of police in the country. Inasmuch as book-sellers and newsdealers are not infrequently the victims of these swindlers we would advise the trade to send for this Bulletin for their own defense as well as for that of their neighbors. Communications on this subject should be addressed to J. M. Cunningham, chairman of the subscription committee.

L. C. PAGE & Co. will publish on March 1 "Carolina Lee," a new novel by Lilian Bell, who spent several months in the South with her husband, Arthur Hoyt Bogue, while he investigated the commercial possibilities of certain turpentine plantations, and who has turned the knowledge gained to good account in her new book. They will publish later in March a book that ought to appeal to college men, entitled "The Count at Harvard," by Rupert Sargent Holland, a graduate of Harvard and now a lawyer well known in Philadelphia. The book is said to be a composite picture of the author's own classmates. "The Count," nicknamed for the usual reason, because he was so unlike a count, is a typical senior, a boy at heart, who lets himself loose and perpetrates mad jokes on his fellows, but is most correctly blasé in manner to admiring freshmen and such.

A. N. MARQUIS & Co., Chicago, will publish March 1 a poem entitled "The Fading of the Mayflower," by Theodore Tilton, who, thirty-six years ago, when he was editor of the New York Independent, was considered to be "among the six ablest and most potent editors in the United States, and one of the six best platform lecturers in the country." Mr. Tilton's poem is described as "a trumpet call to higher ideals and wiser methods; away from the base and unworthy to the sane and happy. It spares no detail of the picture of gilded degeneracy which has been revealed by recent events; and yet this is no jeremiad of hopeless despondency, but a broad, optimistic, ozone-filled breeze of poetic inspiration, turned upon the miasm of social and financial ooze, which has beslimed the fair fame of our day and generation." Mr. Tilton, since 1870, has been living in Paris, where he is looked upon as the dean of the American literary colony.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish shortly "Saints in Society," by Margaret Baillie-Saunders," the story that won the prize offered by T. Fisher Unwin for the best novel by an author who had never before had a work of fiction published; a translation of Dr. Otto Weininger's work on "Sex and Character," which, in Germany, has gone into its sixth edition; "Greece," by Dr. E. S. Shuckburgh, a new volume in the Story of the Nations series; the fourth and concluding volume of the Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix's "History of the Parish of Trinity Church," which brings the account of the earliest of the Episcopal churches of New York City down to the accession of the present rector—Dr. Dix himself; "The Electoral System of the United States," by J. Hampden Dougherty; also, "Everyday Luncheons," by Olive Green, author of "What to Have for Breakfast," the second of The Housemakers series of books on cooking and housekeeping.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. will publish next month, by arrangement with Dent of London, the first instalment of Everyman's Library, a collection of upwards of 1000 uniform volumes, containing the world's best and most permanent literature, edited by Ernest Rhys, who is assisted by Andrew Lang, Arthur Symons, Richard Garnett and others equally well known. On March 1 fifty-three volumes are promised, and these will be followed by fifty more in August. The March instalment will include among its fiction items by Scott, Lytton, Kingsley, Austen, Dumas, Balzac and Dickens. History will be represented by Macaulay, Carlyle, Motley and others; poetry and drama by Tennyson, Browning, Shelley, and possibly Keats; biography by Boswell, Lockhart and others. Science, oratory, essays, and classical juveniles will be proportionately represented. The size of the volumes will be a small 12mo, each one of which, owing to the thinness of the paper employed, will contain 700 or 800 pages. The binding will be cloth or flexible leather, stamped on the back in gold.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have just ready a work entitled "In the March and Borderland of Wales," by A. G. Bradley, a delightful description of those English counties, including the cities of Chester, Shrewsbury, Ludlow, Hereford, Ross and Monmouth, that mark or "march" the borders of Wales, with 150 sketches of the country by William M. Meredith, the son of the famous novelist, George Meredith; "The Spirit of the Pines," the story of a little tragedy enacted amid the fragrance of piney woods and hilltops in New Hampshire, charmingly told by Miss Margaret Morse, daughter of the Hon. Robert M. Morse, one of the most prominent lawyers of Boston; "What is Religion? and Other Student Questions," by Henry S. Pritchett, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, a collection of five talks to college students on "What is Truth?" "What is Religion?" "The Science of Religion," "The Significance of Prayer," and "Ought a Religious Man to Join a Church?"; "Individuality and Mortality," (the Ingersoll Lecture, 1906,) by Wilhelm Ostwald, Professor of Physical Chemistry in the University of Leipzig, which gives the latest knowledge of facts bearing on the relation between mind and matter, and shows that our relations to one another and to humanity in general are similar in kind though different in degree to the relations which can be demonstrated as existing between matter and energy in its simplest forms; the first volume—"Philosophy and Mathematics"—of "The Proceedings of the International Congress of Arts and Science at St. Louis, September, 1904," to be completed in eight large volumes; also, in the Riverside Literature Series, "Shakespeare's Henry v.," edited by Edward Everett Hale, Jr.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplaced advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay" book-sellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

THE SEA MAID

By Ronald MacDonald

Though the publishers have had a number of successes since "The Prisoner of Zenda," "The Sea Maid" is the first book since which the compositors became so interested in that they asked for copies, and the advance orders for it are double those for most new novels.

How the Dean of Beckminster, his prim wife, his beautiful daughter, an English lord, a "Raffles" of the sea, an adventuress, a vagrant actor, a French violinist, and others, are marooned on a wild uncharted island in the Pacific, told in a way that gives fantasy substance. ($1.50.)

THE NONCHALANTE

By Stanley Olmsted

The talented young American pianist, Mr. Olmsted, knows his Leipsic, where he learned his art, well, even though he may call it "Plissestadt," in this story of American student life in that most musical of towns. In Dixie Bilton, the American "operettensängerin," he has drawn a unique and tantalizing character. ($1.25.)

THE LARKY FURNACE

By Hildegard Brooks

Author of "Daughters of Desperation"

A happy, whimsical book about the experiences of Sue Betty, with the larky furnace who would go out o' nights, and her other strange adventures. (With cover and illustrations by PETER NEWELL. $1.25.)

THE GIRLS OF GARDENVILLE

By Carroll Watson Rankin

Author of "Dandelion Cottage"

Another book for girls, full of the moving incident and wholesome humor that bid fair to make the author's "Dandelion Cottage" a contemporary classic. (Illustrated. $1.50.)

IMMIGRATION and its Effects upon the United States

There are also chapters on Employers' Associations, the Knights of Labor, and the American Federation of Labor. (380 pp., $2.75 net. By mail, $2.98.)

*.* A leaflet on the Publishers' books on public problems and economics sent free on application.

HEREDITY IN ROYALTY

By Dr. Frederick Adams Woods

An interesting and handsome book. A consideration of some 3300 persons, presenting an interesting estimate of the mental and moral status of all Modern Royal families, and illustrated with over one hundred portraits. (312 pp., 8vo, $3.00 net. By mail, $3.18.)

NATURE AND HEALTH

By Dr. Edward Curtis

A straightforward, terse book by this well-known New York physician on the care of the body and the home. ($1.25 net. By mail, $1.37.)

GEOLOGY, Vols. II. and III.

By Prof. Thomas C. Chamberlin and Prof. Rollin D. Salisbury

These concluding volumes of this monumental GEOLOGY are devoted to "Earth History," and in them Professor Chamberlin elaborates his weighty criticism of the nebular hypotheses (With some 575 illustrations. 692 + 624 pp., 8vo, $8.00 net, for both volumes—not sold separately.)

SPRING ORDER LIST, 1906

READY IN APRIL.

Nicanor, Teller of Tales

By C. Bryson Taylor. With five plates in full color and decorations in tint by the Kinneys. Large 12mo, $1.50.

In a general way this romance will belong to the class of "decorated fiction" which we have made such a successful feature during recent seasons. The action occurs in Britain at the time when the Saxons were beginning their inroads upon the Romans, and this period has furnished splendid opportunities for bold and picturesque treatment by the author and the illustrators. The pictures by the Kinneys are far superior to any of their previous work.

READY IN APRIL.

For the Soul of Rafael

By Marah Ellis Ryan. With unusual photographic illustrations and decorations in tint. Large 12mo, $1.50.

This new book by the author of "Told in the Hills" is certain to have an immediate success. It is a glowing and picturesque romance of Old California, with a marked dramatic quality. The characters are all of the fine aristocratic Spanish type, at a period when Americans were regarded as godless invaders. It will be found a story of strong passions and a splendid renunciation.

READY IN MARCH.

Dick Pentreath

By Katharine Tynan, author of "The Dear Irish Girl," "Julia," etc. With four illustrations in pen-and-ink by George Alfred Williams. Large 12mo, $1.25.

This new English story has more popular qualities than any of Miss Tynan's many successful novels. She can always be counted on for a delightful expression of humor and sentiment which few writers in her field can equal.

READY IN MARCH.

Old Tales from Rome

By Alice Zimmern, author of "Old Tales from Greece." Fully illustrated. 12mo, $1.25.

A popular presentation of some of the famous myths and legends. The book is divided into three parts, the first being given to "The Wanderings of Æneas," the second to "Early Days of Rome," and the third to "The Transformation," which includes the stories of "Acis and Galatea," "King Midas," "Philemon and Baucis," etc.

The Glory Seekers

The Romance of Would-Be Founders of Empire in the Early Days of the Southwest. By William Horace Brown. Illustrated. Square 8vo, $1.50 net.

These are tales of the daring adventurers who became notorious as the leaders of filibustering expeditions into the region which now forms the State of Texas. The author, William Horace Brown, knows his subject and endeavors to present a truthful account, with the statement that "justice and patriotism were not always the prompters of their actions." Without consideration of the motives of these turbulent freebooters, there is no question but that their exploits were dramatic and picturesque, the narrative of which is not only instructive but makes highly entertaining reading.

READY MARCH 17.

Hawaiian Yesterdays

By Dr. Henry M. Lyman. With numerous illustrations from photographs. Large 8vo, $2.00 net.

A delightfully written account of what a boy saw of life in the Islands in the early '40's. The author was a distinguished Chicago physician, whose father was a well-known missionary in Hawaii. His book is a most interesting account of early conditions in a part of the world in which Americans are becoming more and more interested.

NOW READY.

"Ground Arms!"

A Romance of European War. By Baroness Bertha von Suttner. New edition, with portrait of the author. 12mo, $1.25.

The wide publicity given the Baroness von Suttner's "Die Waffen Nieder!" which won the Nobel Peace Prize for 1905 ($40,000), has made it necessary to bring out a re-issue of this admirable translation. "Ground Arms!" has been not unaptly called the "Uncle Tom's Cabin" of the peace propaganda. It is, like Mrs. Stowe's famous book, a work of fiction, in which the horrors and barbarities of modern warfare are brought out in a striking way, and is supposed to have exerted the greatest influence in bringing about The Hague Tribunal.

Future Life

In the Light of Ancient Wisdom and Modern Science.
By Louis Elbe. With a portrait. 12mo, $1.20 net.

This is the authorized translation of the famous book which has been creating so wide a stir in scientific and religious circles throughout France, under the title "La Vie Future." It will be received with wide-spread interest here, and will arouse very general discussion. The subject is one which is engaging not only scientists, but laymen, in ever-increasing numbers. This volume offers for the first time a complete presentation of all the available evidence hitherto to be found only in the most scattered and inaccessible forms.

READY MARCH 28.

Remenyi, Musician and Man

An Appreciation. By Gwendolyn Kelley and George P. Upton. With portraits. 8vo, $1.75 net.

Miss Kelley was an intimate friend and devoted admirer of the famous Hungarian wizard of the violin, and he intrusted to her a number of biographical documents. To these have been added others contributed at her solicitation by his personal friends and members of his family, also some of his characteristic letters and literary sketches, the whole forming a volume of uncommon charm and a valuable work of reference. Remenyi's personality was a many-sided one, his associates and friends the greater figures in the world of music, and the publication of his life-story is an event of distinct importance.

READY APRIL 2.

Literature of Libraries

17th and 18th Centuries. Edited by John Cotton Dana, Librarian of the Newark Public Library. Sold only in sets. Regular edition, limited to 250 sets, $12.00 net. Large paper edition, limited to 25 sets, $25.00 net.

Vol. I. "Concerning the Duties and Qualifications of a Librarian."
Vol. II. "The Reformed Library Keeper." A series of six reprints of rare and out-of-print works on libraries and their management. The primary object of the series is to bring within the reach of persons interested, and especially of librarians, the early authorities on these subjects. The volumes in this series will be beautifully printed at the Merrymount Press.

Panama to Patagonia

The Isthmian Canal and the West Coast Countries of South America. By Charles M. Pepper, author of "Tomorrow in Cuba." With new maps and numerous illustrations. Large 8vo, $2.50 net.

The author is a distinguished newspaper man who has travelled extensively, especially in the Latin-American republics, and who is a member of the Permanent Pan-American Railway Committee. His book aims to point out to the American commercial world the enormous advantages coming to this country from South America through the construction of the Panama Canal.

READY IN MARCH.

The Ghost in Hamlet

And Other Essays in Comparative Literature. By Dr. Maurice Francis Egan. 16mo, $1.00 net.

As instructor in English at the Catholic University of Washington, Dr. Egan is well known both as a thorough scholar and a charming writer. These essays will be found admirable for class use, and notably interesting to the general reader of discerning taste. The other titles are: Some Phases of Shakespearean Interpretation; Some Pedagogical Uses of Shakespeare; Lyricism in Shakespeare's Comedies; A Definition of Literature; The Ebb and Flow of Romance; The Greatest of Shakespeare's Contemporaries; Imitators of Shakespeare; The Puzzle of Hamlet.

READY IN APRIL.

Success in Letter-Writing

Business and Social. By Sherwin Cody, author of "The World's Best" series, "The Cody System of Business Correspondence," etc. 12mo, $1.00 net.

Mr. Cody's qualifications for this work are unique. In this volume is offered a modern, up-to-date handbook, different from any heretofore presented, which will answer the requirements of both the business man and the social correspondent.

The Truth About Tolna

By the Author of

"The Helmet of Navarre."

BERTHA RUNKLE

A NEW story by the author of "The Helmet of Navarre," wherein she proves that there is as much romance in new Manhattan as in old Paris—a swiftly-moving chronicle of New York persons and personages. The action moves at a great pace, steadily gathering momentum through a series of kaleidoscopic situations and complications which keep the reader amused and interested to the end. There is a five-sided battle-royal between three men for the hearts of two bewitching American girls. Under the author's keen insight and ingenuity, the same situations set one man face to face with tragedy and provide the other with a farce. Both heroines have not only beauty and wealth, but mind and heart and judgment. The re-action of these four strong characters upon each other supplies the original and amusing plot and incidents, which turn upon the pivotal point of "The Truth About Tolna"—Tolna being a famous opera singer. The underlying purpose of the book is serious, while the complications are constantly amusing; and the story, as a whole, is a masterpiece of literary workmanship.

NOTES IN SEASON.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish next month a novel entitled "The Genius," by Margaret Potter, said to be founded upon the life of a famous composer. They are printing a new edition of "The Comedies of William Shakespeare," with Edwin A. Abbey's exquisite illustrations. "The Comedies" are issued in four large volumes, beautifully bound in half-vellum. Mr. Abbey is at present engaged with the illustrations for Shakespeare's tragedies, which are appearing from time to time in the pages of Harper's Magazine.

L. C. PAGE & Co. will publish at once Morley Roberts's new novel, "The Idlers," dealing with the life of the idle rich in present-day London society. They will publish early in March "The Cruise of the Conqueror, being the Further Adventures of the Motor Pirate," by G. Sidney Paternoster, whose former book, "The Motor Pirate," met with a favorable reception. In the new book the "highwayman" turns "pirate," and employs a motor boat in his pursuit, holds up an ocean steamer and does other adventurous and incredible things.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY publish this week "The Nature and Origin of Living Matter," by H. Charlton Bastian, author of the "Study of Heterogenesis," "A Treatise on Aphasia and Other Speech Defects," etc.; a fourth, revised, and enlarged edition of Bryan Donkin's "Gas, Oil, and Air Engines;" also, "Dairy Analysis," by Henry Droop Richmond, author of "Dairy Chemistry." In the way of fiction they have just issued "The Adventures of a Supercargo," by Louis Becke, whose stirring stories of adventure in the South Seas have given him indisputable title to first place among historians and romancers of that wildest portion of the world.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS publish this week Frances Hodgson Burnett's story, "The Dawn of To-Morrow," which created a great deal of comment and discussion when it appeared serially last fall in Scribner's Magazine; a work on "The Development of Palestine Exploration," by Frederick Jones Bliss, an intensely interesting account of explorations and explorers in Palestine and Syria by one who has taken an active part in the work; also, "String Figures," by Caroline Furness Jayne, a unique and extraordinary book describing games played all over the world with a simple string loop, the accounts of which have been gathered by Mrs. Jayne from an entirely new field, and illustrated by over a thousand diagrams.

DODD, MEAD & Co. will publish on the 28th inst. "A Lame Dog's Diary," by S. Macnaughton; "The Hill," by Horace Vachell; "Americans of 1776," by James Schouler; and "The Art of Keeping Well," by Dr. Cordelia A. Greene, all fully described by us last week. They will publish at the same time "The Declaration of Independence, Its History," by J. H. Hazleton, based exclusively on original sources; "The Launching of a University," a collection of addresses and essays on various topics, educational and historical, by Dr. Daniel Coit Gilman; also the following new Phoenix titles: "The Earth Trembled," by E. P. Roe; "A Singer from the Sea," by Amelia E. Barr; "Mildred's Boys and Girls," by Martha Finley; "A Little Girl in Old Chicago," by Amanda M. Douglas; "Wilby's Dan," by William Wallace Cook; and "Stories from Homer," by Alfred J. Church.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk **, and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (qto: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (xmo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Th. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designates square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Addison, Jos. Sir Roger de Coverley papers in the Spectator, by Addison, Steele, and Budgell; with notes by Edna H. L. Turpin; with examination questions prepared by Cornelia Beare. N. Y., Maynard, Merrill & Co., [1906.] c. 269 p. por. 12", (Maynard's English classics ser.) cl., 30 c.

Aldington, Mrs. A. E. Love letters that caused a divorce. N. Y., G. W. Dillingham Co., [1906. F.] c. 96 p. S. cl., 75 c. The story is told in thirty-two letters written by the woman in the case. She is married, but not very happily, and enters into a platonic friendship with a friend of her husband. Its course and ending is cleverly traced in the letters.

Alger, Horatio, jr. The trials and triumphs of Mark Mason. N. Y., Street & Smith, [1906.] 3-252 p. D. (Medal lib.) pap., 10 c.

Ashton, W. Easterly. A text-book on the practice of gynecology, for practitioners and students; with 1046 new line drawings by J. V. Alteneder. 2d ed. Phil., W. B. Saunders Co., 1906. c. 11-1079 p. 8", cl., *$6.50 net; hf. mor., *$7.50 net.

Gives in simple language the laws and etiquette of bridge, and all the various ways of playing, scoring, etc.

Avery, Elroy McKendree. A history of the United States and its people from their earliest records to the present time. In 15 v. v. 1 and 2. Cleveland, O., Burrows Bros. Co., 1905. c. 30-458 p. O. subs., cl., per v., *$6.25 net; hf. levant, *$12.50 net; full levant, *$17.50 net.

As first planned this work was to appear in twelve volumes, of which the first was published in December, 1904. It has now been decided that fifteen volumes will be needed, but original subscribers will receive the last three volumes free. Volume 1 covered the period of discovery; v. 2 treats of the Colonies, 1600-1660; vols. 3 and 4, covering the years till 1763, are supposed to follow shortly. The extension will do away with the necessity of skeletonizing or omitting and will give space for the same incomparable treatment of maps and illustrations that was shown in the first volume.

Balfour, Arthur Ja. Fiscal reform: speeches delivered by the Right Hon. Arthur James Balfour, M.P., from June, 1880, to December, 1905; together with a reprint of the pamphlet "Economic notes on insular free trade" and Letters from and to the Right Hon. J. Chamberlain, M.P.; with a preface. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1906. 11-280 p. O. cl., *$1.25 net.

Barus, Carl. The nucleation of the unconfined atmosphere. Wash., D. C., Carnegie Institution of Washington, 1906. [Ja.] c. 12-152 p. O. (Carnegie Institution of Washington publications.) pap., $1.

The object of these experiments, conducted by the Hazard Professor of Physics, Brown University, was to determine "whether below the fog-limit of dust-free air... the atmosphere contains any nucleation whatever beyond that introduced from terrestrial sources and coming chiefly from the originally ionized products of combustion." Experiments were made simultaneously at Providence and Block Island. X-rays and radium were used for ionizing.

Bell, L. Electric power transmission: a practical treatise for practical men. 4th ed., rev. and enl. N. Y., McGraw Publishing Co., 1906. c. 5-721 p. il. diagrs., 8", cl., *$4 net.

In the three years which have elapsed since the third edition of this work went to press, there have been very few sensational changes in electric power transmission. Plants have multiplied and higher voltages have become common without any radical innovations in general practice. There has been very considerable improvement in station accessories and in details of construction, especially of the line. It is the minor changes that have made a new edition imperative. Much descriptive matter which had to do with things which are now obsolete and without historical importance has been eliminated.

Birchall, Sara Hamilton. The book of the singing winds: [poems.] Bost., Alfred Bartlett, 1905. c. 17-46+2 p. 16", cl., 75 c.; Autograph ed., leath., $2.

Breasted, Ja. H. Ancient records of Egypt: historical documents from the earliest times to the Persian conquest; collected, ed. and tr., with commentary. v. 1, The first to the seventeenth dynasties. Chic., University of Chicago Press, 1906. [F.] c. 41-344 p. Q. (Ancient records, 2d ser.) cl., *$3 net.

Editor is Professor of Egyptology and Oriental History in the University of Chicago and author of a "History of Egypt." A mission to the museums of Europe to collect and copy their Egyptian monuments in order to make these documents available for the great Berlin "Egyptian dictionary," now in preparation, gave Prof. Breasted an opportunity to copy from the originals all the historical documents in Europe relating to Egypt. This compilation of "Ancient records" will be in four volumes, the first of which is now ready, and will contain all the written documents from which we draw our knowledge of the career of the Nile valley people as a nation until the advent of the Persians in 525 B.C. Each document has been translated into modern English and is accompanied by numerous notes and introductions.

Brett, Rev. Jesse. Humility: a devotional treatise. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1906. 2+72 p. S. cl., *70 c. net.

Author is chaplain of All Saints Hospital, Eastbourne, England. The subject is considered in seven chapters, namely: 1, Of the nature of humility; 2, Of the surrender of the will; 3, Of submission; 4, Of meekness; 5, Of the security of the humble; 6, Of the devotion of the humble; 7, Of the exaltation of the humble. By the author of "Anima Christi."

Brierley, J., ["J. B.," pseud.] The eternal religion. N. Y., T: Whittaker, [1906.] 8+310 p. D. cl., *$1.40 net.

Author of "The common life," "Ourselves and the universe," etc. There is growing in the leading minds of our time a conception of the Eternal Religion, of which the earlier theologies were advance sketches. We of this age, being in possession of the results of all past strivings after truth, can recognize religion as a principle and a history with its highest expression in Christianity. The author deals with the principles of Christianity, the leading positions it has taken for validity and permanence and its applications in the life of to-day. He believes that Divine revelation should not be restricted to certain times or to a particular order of ideas, but that it is now going on in science as well as religion that "science and revelation are really the same thing."

Brockway, W. B. Electric railway accounting: the monthly report, the accounting department, and the accountant. N. Y., McGraw Publishing Co., 1906. c. 4+84 p. sq. O. cl., *$1.25 net.

Contents: What a report should be; A suggested form of report; The relation of operating expenses to earnings; Some other units of comparison; Curves as a means of expression; Statistical information; What standardization of accounts means; The balance sheet; Accrued and suspended accounts; Expert examinations; Accounting department not a revenue producing department; Some qualifications of a railway accountant; The accounting office; Taking things for granted. Author is general auditor Nashville (Tenn.) Railway and Light Company.

Brown, Vincent. The sacred cup. N. Y., Putnam, 1906. c. '05, '06. 3+331 p. D. cl., *$1.50.

Plot turns upon the old rubric of the Church of England Communion service: "And if any of those be an open and notorious evil liver, or have done any wrong to his neighbors by word or deed, the curate, having knowledge thereof, shall call him and advertise him, that in any wise he presume not to come to the Lord's table until he have openly declared himself to have truly repented." A Christlike rector discovers the father of a babe to whom he has given the protection of his rectory. He is among the well-born of the little parish. He is warned, but comes to the Lord's table and the rector does his duty, with far-reaching results.

Burland, Harris. The financier; il. by C: Grunwald. N. Y., G: W. Dillingham Co., [1906.] c. '06. 6-352 p. D. cl., *$1.50.

A young actress and an energetic mining engineer, both full of ambition and thirst for gold, separate to make their fortunes. The young engineer is hired by the financier to boom a new English colony in East Africa, 15,000 feet above the sea level. The financier has no sense of law or right or wrong when his plans turn upon the aggrandizement of England. German interests interfere with English plans and there is an involved plot. The love story plays a part in several lives. The greed of gold and its many consequences bring about a lonely end for the financier.

Colquhoun, Archibald Ross. The Africander land. N. Y., Dutton, 1906. 15+438 p. O. cl., *$5 net.

Mr. Colquhoun, who is well known as the author of "The mastery of the Pacific," "Greater America," etc., was appointed in 1890 by Cecil Rhodes as the first Administrator of Mashonaland and spent almost two years in South Africa. Last year he again visited the various colonies and protectorates. He tries to give in this book an impartial picture of the political, social and economic state of South Africa to-day, treating first the black native races, who constitute the real South African problem; then the Dutch Afriander, sketching various sides of his life and character; and concluding with chapters on Nationalism and Imperialism and The spirit of the Afriander. No geographical descriptions have been included and only the barest historical outlines, while controversial matters have been as much as possible avoided.

1906. c. 14+289 p. D. cl., $1.50 net.

By the Professor of Exegesis in the University of the South (Sewanee). Exposition of the gospel by Christ, not in its developed utterance in the New Testament or writings of the church, but only so far as it is contained in the four gospels. The work therefore, is divided into (1), The gospel of the earthly life or the common humanity; (2), The gospel of the work or the Resurrection; (3), The gospel of the person or the Incarnation. The life and works of Christ are examined under these different aspects.

Foster, G: Burman. The finality of the Christian religion. Chic., University of Chicago Press, 1906. [Ja.] c. 6+518 p.
O. (Decennial publications.) cl., $4 net.

The material of the book was first employed by the author, who is Professor of the Philosophy of Religion, University of Chicago, in a course of lectures delivered at Harvard in the summers of 1902 and 1903. The rise, development and disintegration of Christianity as authority-religion (Supernaturalism) are traced; also the history and critique of naturalism are summarized. Thus Christianity is defined as religion of the spirit, with a view to determining whether the highest spirit of the modern world can and will call itself Christian. The word "finality" is used in the title in the sense of the perfect, the consummate, last because perfect.

Haldane, Elizabeth S. Descartes, his life and times. N. Y., Dutton, 1905. 28+398 p. por. O. cl., *$4.50 net.

René Descartes, the great French philosopher, and the foremost mathematician of his day, was born in 1596 and died in 1650. His present biographer has drawn upon a vast storehouse of information in writing this volume. Early chapters tell of his parentage and childhood, youth and warfare, his travels, his life in Holland, etc. The publication of his "Meditations" and "Principles" marked epochs not only in his own life, but established a new modern philosophy. He was the founder of Cartesianism, which presented on an entirely new basis the study of algebra and geometry. Concluding chapters are devoted to his "Physiology" (L'homme) and his "Geometry." Bibliography (5 p.). Index.

Hanscome, Walter Clarence, ["W. H. Clare," pseud.] The rattle of his chains: [a novel.] Bost., Eastern Publishing Co., [1905.] c. 370 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A slight love story runs through the book; many conversations occur in which are discussed social problems, one set of laws being advocated to govern social rights and equality. The chains that bind the hero are wealth, birth and social position, the only things, he believes, that are worth living for. The heroine's sympathies are all with the poor, her life being dedicated to their help.

McKeever, W: Arch. Psychology and higher life. Topeka, Kan., Crane & Co., 1906. c. '05. 240 p. D. cl., $1.

Author is Professor of Philosophy, Kansas State College. The book has grown out of a course of lectures delivered to freshmen. Its aim is to present the subject matter of descriptive psychology in such a way as to constitute a simple text-book for the younger student and at the same time to furnish instructive reading for a much larger constituency. It may be characterized as a study of human nature based on psychologic methods and insight.

The Uncompahgre Valley lies in the heart of the Rocky Mountains, three hundred and fifty miles southwest of Denver; it is destined, it is believed, to become, within a short time, one of the most beautiful and fruitful garden spots on the face of the earth. This book gives an account of its mineral wealth as well as of its rich fruit and vegetable yield, and tells how and why the Gunnison tunnel was built. The tunnel is a bore of eight miles or more through the mountains made to divert the Gunnison River into the valley for purposes of irrigation.

Maxse, F: Ivor, (Colonel.) Seymour Vandeleur: the story of a British officer: being a memoir of Brevet-Lieutenant-Colonel Vandeleur, D. S. O. Guards and Irish Guards; with a general description of his campaigns; with water col. il. by Nico Jungmann. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., [1906.] 6+288 p. por. folding maps, Q. cl., *$4 net.

Record of the short brilliant career of Cecil Foster Seymour Vandeleur, born in London in 1869; studied at Eton; later at Sandhurst; then commissioned in the Scots Guards. His energy was untiring; his efficiency remarkable in all he undertook. He saw service in the Egyptian campaigns under Kitchener, in Nigeria, in Uganda and finally in the Boer War, where he made a fine record. He was killed at the age of thirty-two by a band of train robbers in South Africa. Col. Maxse gives informing reviews of African history and the part Great Britain has played there.

Mill, J: Stuart. The subjection of women. New ed.; ed., with introductory analysis, by Stanton Coit. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1906. 128 p. S. cl., *40 c. net.

The first edition of this essay was published in '369; it has been out of print for a number of years. In issuing this new edition the editor, Prof. Coit, speaks of the manner in which the first edition was sent out—"the reader," he says, "was not furnished with any mechanical means to aid him in analyzing the argument and keeping the main lines of the thought clearly before him. There were no table of contents, no headings to the chapters, and no divisions of the chapters into sections." To supply these defects, the editor precedes the essay with an outline of the argument, divided into chapters. He also shows that the legal status of women has materially changed since 1869.

Morse, Margaret. The spirit of the pines. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1906. [F.] c. 5+159 p. S. cl., *$1.

A man and a woman, one stricken with consumption and exiled from home, the other unhappy and purposeless after the death of an adopted child, both young and singularly gifted, are accidentally thrown together in the New Hampshire woods where a love of nature draws them together. The inevitable follows: and after a few days' glimpse of happiness, comes the pain of renunciation and joy denied.

Negro (The) in the cities of the North. N. Y., Charity Organization Society, 1905. c. 3+96 p. il. Q. cl., 60 c.

A reprint of a special number (Oct. 7, '05) of Charities, a weekly journal of philanthropy and social advance. It contains twenty-four articles, some of the titles being: The make-up of negro city groups, by Lillian Brandt; Emigration from the South—the women, by Carl Kelsey; Should negro business men go South, by Booker T. Washington; Kowalizia, a community with a purpose, by Mary White Ovington; The black vote of Philadelphia, by W. E. Burghardt Du Bois; Industrial conditions among negro men, Boston, by I. Daniels; Some causes of criminality, by J. H. N. Waring; Negro press in America, by L. M. Hershaw.

Author is member of the faculty of the University of London. For general purpose of the work see note "Weekly Record," P. W., June 3, 1905 [1740]. As the first volume dealt with the international law concerning peace, so this volume is devoted to the settlement of state differences, war and neutrality. Notice is taken of all incidents of legal interest which occurred during the recent China-Japanese, South African and Russo-Japanese wars. Appendix contains the text in French of the nine law-making treaties, the Foreign enlistment act, Naval prize act, and Prize courts act. General index refers to both volumes.

Ostwald, Wilhelm. Individuality and immortality. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1906. [F.] 4+74 p. D. (Ingersoll lectures, 1906.) cl., **75 c. net.

The author is regarded as one of the founders of the modern science of physical chemistry. He is professor in the University of Leipzig and has recently given a series of lectures at Harvard in exchange with Professor Peabody. He here discusses the subject of the future life as he would deal with a problem of chemistry, giving the latest knowledge of facts bearing on mind and matter and showing that our relations to one another, and to humanity in general, are similar in kind though different in degree to the relations which can be demonstrated as existing between matter and energy. He thinks that the mortality of the individual is one of the larger factors in the immortality of the race.

Palgrave, Francis Turner. Palgrave's The golden treasury; ed., with notes and an introd., by Herbert Bates. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1906. c. '05. 7+447 p. D. (Longmans' English classics; ed. by G. Rice Carpenter.) cl., *40 c. net.

An adaptation to the use of schools, of this well-known English collection of verse, by Prof. Bates, instructor in English in the Manual Training High-School, Brooklyn, N. Y. Many notes have been added, and a few of Palgrave's original notes have been abridged or excised.

President Pritchett of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology has here collected a number of his addresses on the attitude of young men towards religion. The various subjects dealt with are: What is truth?; What is religion?; The science of religion; The significance of prayer; Ought a religious man to join a church?

Recent advances in physiology and bio-chemistry; ed. by Leonard Hill, M.D.; contributors, B. Moore, Leonard Hill, J. J. R. Macleod, M. S. Pembrey, M.D., A. P. Beddard, M.D. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1906. 11+740 p. O. cl., **$5 net.

"This book was designed to set before the student of medicine the progress made in those branches of physiological study which have an immediate bearing on pathology and therapeutics, and to thereby give him an insight into the methods of research, and a training in the process of deduction, which cannot be gained from the bare and unstimulating outlines of the text-book."—Preface. Prof. Moore contributes the following chapters: Energy transformations in living matter; Chemical transformations in living matter and its products; Velocity of reaction, and the comparative action of enzymes and cells; Influence of other factors upon enzymes and cells; Theories as to mode of action of catalysts and enzymes; Secretion and glandular mechanisms. By Leonard Hill: The atmosphere; The effect on life of lessening the barometric pressure; The influence of increased atmospheric pressure; Water, its relation to metabolism, etc.; The metabolism of fat. By J. J. R. Macleod: The metabolism of the carbohydrates; The metabolism of uric acid and the other twin bodies; Hemolysins and allied bodies. By M. S. Pembrey: The respiratory exchange; Internal secretion. By A. P. Beddard: The production of lymph; The mechanism of absorption from the small intestine; The formation of urea; The secretion of urine. Bibliographies.

Roedy, W. Marion. The law of love: being fantasies of science and sentiment inked into English to cheer up the gloomsters. [East Aurora, N. Y., The Roycrofters, 1905.] c. 5+159 p. O. ooze, $2.

Contents: The law of love; The greatest woman poet [Sappho]; Ginx's baby; the two eaglets [Maude Adams and Sara Bernhardt]; A gipsy genius [Sir Richard Burton]; Brichanteau, actor; A golden book [Marius, the Epicurean].

Rhodes, Harrison Garfield. The lady and the ladder: il. by Karl Anderson. N. Y., Doubleday, Page & Co., 1906. [F.] c. '05, '06. 4+231 p. D. cl., $1.50.

It was her step-daughter that first made Mary Whiting, the widow of two plain Chicago merchants, restless and ambitious for social position. The beautiful mother and the plain step-daughter traveled through Europe and became "climbers" backed by $50,000 a year each. The details show the different characters of the women. All old associations go down before rank and titles and the end finds the ladies married to an English lord and a French marquis with America well lost.

Rogers, Bessie Story. As it may be: a story of the future. Bost., R. G. Badger, 1905. c. 83 p. D. cl., $1.

Ross, H. M. Her blind folly. N. Y., Benziger Bros., 1906. c. 2-200 p. D. cl., $1.25.

A story for Catholic readers by the author of "That man's daughter." The plot turns upon the conversion of a young man to Catholicism and his marriage to a Catholic girl. In consequence his rich aunt who has brought him up to be her heir changes her will, leaving all to her brother and his children. On her deathbed she regrets what she has done, and adds a codicil to her will, again making the young man her heir. No one knows of this codicil but the brother's wife, and she suppresses it, that her own children may have the money. All kinds of trouble overtake her, and she believes the money accursed. She confesses in the end and justice is done.

Rossman, Mary Blanche, and Mills, Mary W. The dictation spelling book. St. Louis, Mo., published by the author, [Mary W. Mills.] 1905. c. 141 p. 16°, cl., 40 c.

While the chief object of the dictations is the teaching of correct spelling, there are other distinct and definite aims. Besides a number of familiar words, which already form part of a child's speaking vocabulary and are valuable only as words to be correctly spelled, each selection also presents entirely new words, which are valuable not only as spelling material, but also serve to enrich his vocabulary. That they are presented in their proper relation, as used by the best authors, and not as isolated words, totally unrelated, is one of the points in the book's favor.

In his book on "Poverty" Robert Hunter made an estimate of the number of underfed children in New York City. This led to much investigation and many facts discovered are here given. A great part of the book is devoted to facts about children who work for money under the legal age and the resulting evils to themselves and their parents. The life in factories, mills and mines and the remedies for existing conditions are studied with fairness. The problem of poverty as it affects childhood is exhaustively presented. Notes and authorities, 17 p. Index.

The daughter of Henry iv. of France and Marie de Medici, wife of Charles I. of England, and mother of Charles II. and James II., was so important a person in the history of England of the 17th century that it is surprising so few biographies of her have been written. Yet her letters to her husband and sister, state papers and memoirs of the day furnish ample sources of information concerning her. The author gives here an account of her life, the general history of the time being introduced only as it related to her, and he shows why a woman so dearly loved to the end by her husband and her children, should have been cordially hated by her English subjects and held responsible for many of the king's mistakes.

White, Herbert Brigham. Robert Ellsworth's failure. [Also] Robert Ellsworth, his book. Hartford, Ct., Herbert Brigham White, 1905. c. 2 v. in 1, unp. T. 85 c.

A young man settled in New England, full of poetic ideals, thinks he is doomed by inherited characteristics to make a failure of all things. On the day of his death he confides in a friend, and later his mother sends this friend his journals and poems from which quotations are made. The second book is devoted wholly to his poems on many subjects, nature providing more themes than any one other. The cause of life and death is the subject of his special thought.

Who's who in America: a biographical dictionary of notable living men and women of the United States, 1906-1907; established 1899 by Albert Nelson Marquis; ed. by J: W. Leonard. Chic., A. N. Marquis & Co., [1906.] c. '99, '06. 32+2015 p. D. cl., $3.50. Fourth biennial issue of the series which began with the volume of 1899-1900. In this volume the names of those whose life sketches have been dropped through death or for other reasons are restored to their original place in the alphabet with reference to the volumes in which the former biographical sketch appeared, with notice of date of death. This feature adds greatly to the value of the volume as a work of reference of lasting use. The volume contains life-sketches of 16,216 men and women.

[New ed.] N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., [1906.] D. cl., v. 1, $2.75; v. 2-4, ea., $2.

First published in 1882; author is Bishop of Lincoln. In speaking of the method used by him in writing the work he says: "This method is, on the whole, chronological, without being strictly annalistic; it is biographical without ceasing to be historical; it does not shun dissertations on important questions, but it endeavours to group these questions around eminent persons, whose names are identified with them, and to enunciate the arguments upon them, as far as may be, in their language."

Yeigh, Kate Westlake. A specimen spinster. Phil., Griffith & Rowlands Press, 1906. [Ja.] 2+314 p. D. cl., **75 c. net.

With a great deal of quiet humor is told the story of Mary Wogg, spinster, often called by disrespectful youngsters "Aunt Polly Wogg." The motherly instincts were strong in Miss Wogg, and she adopted in succession a little baby girl who only lived a short time, and afterward a bright boy. Her life is made happy through her love for others. Her good deeds are many—her helpful hand straightening out more than one apparently hopelessly tangled life.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

THE DIAL COMPANY, of Chicago, has started a monthly index of periodicals, entitled What's in the Magazines. It gives the contents of nineteen of the leading magazines in classified form.

KARSLAKE & Co., London, have just brought out the first part of the third volume of "Book Auction Records," edited by Frank Karslake, covering the period from October 1 to December 31, 1905, and recording in all 4401 titles arranged in one alphabet.

JOSEPH BAER & Co., Frankfurt-on-the-Main, have just published a catalogue of the private library of Schopenhauer, which they have for sale, under the title of "Schopenhauer-Bibliothek: Original handschriften Schopenhauers, 166 Bände aus seiner Privatbibliothek, seine Schriften, Briefe und Gespräche, Literatur über ihn." The volume contains Schopenhauer's ex-libris and five facsimiles.

In a letter to The Dial E. F. McPike makes a plea for the establishment in this country of "a kind of bibliographic clearing house." The first thing he would have done by some such central bureau would be the compilation of a new bibliography of bibliographies. Hopes for the creation of just the right aids to development in this matter have long been entertained. Mr. McPike refers to the announcement made by President Needham, of the George Washington University in 1904, "of the proposed establishment of a department of bibliography and library science, as soon as negotiations could be completed, having in view an endowment of $200,000 with which to start the work." Meanwhile, however, bibliographers must have patience. As Mr. McPike remarks, the thing "depends wholly upon the generosity of intelligent, representative citizens having the requisite means." The field is a fine one for some beneficent man of wealth.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

FEBRUARY 24, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

IMPORTATION OF COPYRIGHT BOOKS.

IN the preparation of the draft of the copyright code to be submitted to Congress, no questions have been more difficult to settle than those connected with the importation of books copyrighted in this country. It has been agreed on all sides that the dangers of the forfeiture of copyright by non-compliance with mere technicalities, so serious a danger in the present law, shall be removed; for instance, that to avoid the present uncertainty United States copyright notice should be required only on editions printed for use or sale within the United States. But on the extent to which foreign editions of copyrighted books should be imported under permission given in the law there has been serious divergence of opinion, especially between book publishers and librarians, which at one time threatened a deadlock that would perhaps block the proposed legislation on the floors of Congress.

There is little if any exception to the theory that unauthorized editions, that is, piracies, should be denied importation altogether. A few librarians have indeed emphasized their desire that a library should be permitted to import any kind of edition for purposes of record and comparison—but when this is illuminated by the analogy that a museum can scarcely ask to be allowed to acquire and exhibit a stolen gem for purposes of comparison with others in its collection, it seems evident that this is but a relic of the view held in this country before 1891, that literary property was not entitled to the protection accorded other property. That view has happily passed, and librarians generally, as represented by their official organization and representatives, concede that property rights should be respected, and therefore confine their attention to authorized editions, which they claim should be imported by libraries without restriction. The book publishers have taken exactly the contrary view, and naturally hold that the publisher who buys the American market should be entitled to that market, and that neither the price paid to the author for his market nor its value to the publisher who purchases it should be lessened by the possibility and serious probability of importations without the consent of the copyright proprietor.

It must be admitted that as property right in literary productions originates in their creation by the author, it is the author who is chiefly to be considered in the final arrangement. The statement from the American [authors'] Copyright League, printed in full elsewhere, gives no uncertain note on this point. It claims for authors full rights in their created property—that they may sell their property as they please, for any market and under any conditions. This of course negatives any right of importation without the author's consent, as is the case in England and other copyright countries. But the authors, in endeavoring to secure a better copyright system, have indicated their willingness to waive their rights in certain particulars, and the statement of the League is practically an outline of a compromise in which certain concessions have been made to the library interests and in other practical respects, and represents the basis of the compromise which has been arrived at by mutual concessions between publishers and librarians, to some extent under the mediations of representatives of the authors' league.

It will be noted that importations are to be permitted from the country of original authorship, which will enable libraries to import, for instance, original editions which may be more complete than the American reprint. It also permits importation of foreign editions so long as the American edition remains "o. p." It also permits the importation of copyright works in libraries bought abroad en bloc—all these being concessions in the interests of libraries. Incidentally it removes an annoyance to travellers by permitting the importation, also without author's consent, of copies brought by the returning traveller in personal baggage. These concessions, now accepted by the publishers, should not pass into the record without the comment that even these exceptions seriously interfere with the American market and will in some cases prevent the publication of American editions which would as a rule be cheaper than the English editions. We know, in fact, of a recent case in which an American publisher of high standing was invited by an English house to co-operate in the publication of an important work which possibly requires such co-operation to justify the enterprise. The American publisher replied that he would be glad to take a share in the responsibility but for the fact that American libraries are so much in the habit of purchasing international books through their English booksellers as seriously to impair the American market and in the case in question make an American edition impracticable. The new code proposes an ad interim period of twelve months for foreign publications in languages other than English, and of thirty days in the case of English works, the latter a feature not included in the ad interim law of last year. During the interim twelve months, editions in the original language may be imported, but this permission is not extended to English books for the thirty-day interim period, for the evident reason that this would suffice to supply the American market in good part and greatly reduce the possibilities for an American edition in the case of books by well-known authors or other popular books. It is for this reason that the interim period in the case of English books has been stated at thirty days instead of the period of "at least sixty days" advocated by the American [authors'] Copyright League.

In respect to periodicals that include copyright matter, it is proposed that their importation shall be permitted without restriction, provided the publication of copyrighted material is by arrangement with the author. Otherwise their importation is prohibited. It has been suggested that this would work unfavorably toward American subscribers for foreign periodicals which transgress the law. But it is always inconvenient not to be able to take another man's umbrella if you are out in the rain without one; in fact, property rights are inconvenient things anyhow, in some respects. The conductors of foreign periodicals will doubtless take due warning and omit pirated matter from their issues, if they desire American subscribers. Otherwise it would be practicable for an unscrupulous pirate in Canada or elsewhere to publish especially for circulation in this country a free-lance periodical which might gather month by month the choicest copyright stories and contributions of the best American authors and sell them broadcast without respect to authors' rights or remuneration.

The third session of the Copyright Conference which it was expected would be held in Washington during January has been from time to time deferred until some of the questions at issue could be clearly settled by consultation among the interests concerned, but it is now announced for Tuesday, March 13.

INCONSISTENCIES IN JUDGE SANBORN'S COPYRIGHT DECISIONS.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: The leading editorial in your issue of February 10 has attracted considerable attention in the trade and has been the subject of general comment among publishers and book dealers in Chicago. But some of the points covered in the decision of Judge Sanborn, and some of the conclusions drawn by you in the editorial commenting thereon, have brought forth opinions from various publishers in Chicago that do not always coincide. As was remarked by one of the Chicago publishers to me while reading from a copy of your issue of February 10, as follows:

"The decision of Judge Sanborn in Chicago . . . is a most important contribution to the settlement of the specific question of 'abandonment' of copyright."

"Important contribution," said the publisher referred to, "Yes, a very important contribution, but it reminds me of the stranger who went into a negro church and dropped a hundred dollar counterfeit bill in the hat that was passed around. That was an 'important contribution,' but it was a counterfeit," and continuing, he elucidated as follows: "I have very carefully gone over Judge Sanborn's decision and conclude that he is certain to be reversed on appeal, and I may say that my attorney, to whom I have submitted the matter, agrees with me perfectly in that conclusion, for several reasons among which the following stand out prominently:

Judge Sanborn doubtless knows considerable law, otherwise it is not likely that he would be a United States Circuit Court Judge, but it would appear that he has several things to learn about the publishing business, for his decision contains the following sentence:

"If the notice of copyright is to be given in connection with each separate article published in a magazine and not once for all contained in it, the language used to prescribe a duty of giving notice is not well adapted to the object sought; for how is it possible to insert a notice on the title-page, not of a periodical, but of an article? The latter may have a title but hardly a title-page, while the former has both."

This reasoning seems to be specious. If it is correct, A. Conan Doyle's most recent production—"Sir Nigel," which is now being published by the Associated Sunday Magazines, has not a valid copyright, for the notice of copyright taken out by A. Conan Doyle does not appear on the "title-page" of the magazine, but it appears in connection with each installment of the story, as it appears in that magazine, and in accordance with the judge's decision there is not a valid copyright on all of that portion of it, which has already been printed. The same is true of a recent story of Rudyard Kipling's, entitled "The Monkey Puzzlers," that appeared in Collier's Weekly. Rudyard Kipling's notice of copyright did not appear on the title-page of Collier's Weekly, but it did appear on the page on which the story was, under the title of the story. Instances of similar copyright notice will occur to everyone who reads this communication, and yet if the judge's decision is correct, not a single one of those notices is a valid notice of copyright.

It has always been assumed by people at all familiar with the so-called International Copyright Law, that simultaneous publication in this country and Great Britain was essentially a prerequisite to acquiring a valid copyright, and yet Judge Sanborn in his decision upholds the copyright and admits that simultaneous publication was not secured, and goes into detail as to the particular chapters which were published abroad before they were published in this country. He also states that the January, 1904, number of Harper's Magazine was copyright in July, 1903, and that the book when published complete did not contain a 1903 notice. A decision is to be found in the law books (Callahan v. Myers) that makes such a copyright as that of no value, as an attempt to extend a copyright for a year beyond the term allowed by the law vitiates the copyright on any article on which such a notice is printed.

According to the construction given the law by Judge Sanborn (as he decided in effect that the 1903 notice was not necessary in the book when published complete), any person can publish a story serially in a magazine and five years later, or twenty-five years later, if they desire so to do, can publish the same story in book form; take out a copyright on the book ignoring the copyright on the magazine, and still maintain their exclusive right for a period of twenty-eight years from the day of taking out a copyright on the book. Such a decision as this, and the line of reasoning that enabled the judge to reach the decision he did, are tempting to analytical comment, but it would seem to me that the humor of such a decision is quite apparent and the conclusions to be drawn from it can safely be left to the intelligence of those engaged in the book publishing business.

Judge Sanborn, quoting from a previous decision, says in effect, that the Chicago Tribune cannot secure a valid copyright on matter that is sent by cable to this country from the London Times, although it is published with the required copyright notice in this country and is published without that notice in the London Times, and yet if the matter is brought into this country in material form, in the shape of a book or magazine, instead of in immaterial form in the shape of a telegraphic message, a copyright will hold, and that no one but the person who has taken out the supposed copyright will be permitted to publish the matter, irrespective of the fact that it was published in Great Britain without the required notice.

He also says that if "The Masqueraders" copyright had been taken out by Katherine Cecil Thurston "any publication by her, in any form in Great Britain, omitting the required notice, would have destroyed" all of her rights, which is in effect a decision that an agent can be given greater rights than his principal possesses. If his decision covering this point is correct, and if the conclusion drawn therefrom is not so, how is it possible for her to get someone else to take out a copyright for her and by so doing evade an obligation that was imposed upon her originally?

Judge Sanborn's decision contains a quotation of that portion of Section 4956 of the copyright law that suited his purpose, but it is a misquotation. That portion which he quoted from Section 4956 is only a part of the sentence, and he failed to notice, or deliberately disregarded, the fact that the exceptions which followed his quotation make the act of importing copies of books printed abroad a strictly legal act, whereas the portion quoted by him without the context makes such importation illegal, and on that misquotation he based a decision and comments thereon to the effect that the "defendants are within the condemnation of the law and they cannot be allowed to found legal rights on acts made unlawful by being prohibited," which are not prohibited under the law.

It is not considered likely by those who know both sides of the questions involved that such a decision as is this one, the logic of which the judge is "not satisfied with himself," will stand when appealed from.

The only comments I personally have to make on your editorial are these:

First.—The editorial refers to "Harper v. Donohue" and I think it is unfair to Donohue not to have the trade know that whatever responsibility is attached to the publication of the Chicago edition of "The Masqueraders" is not Donohue's alone, but is equally my responsibility. I have no desire to evade the responsibility, or issue, in any way whatever, and I desire, in fairness to them, to have the whole truth known.

Second.—The supposition ordinarily is that when a judge cites cases in support of a position he takes, those cases have been decided in accordance with the conclusions that he himself had reached in the case at bar. One of the cases cited by Judge Sanborn is Haggard v. Waverly Pub. Co., which is cited not from a law book, but from a book on copyright written by a layman, not a lawyer, in which the layman, as a caption to his article, does not settle it, but asks the question: "Does the requirement of the United States law concerning the printing of the notice of copyright apply to the foreign as well as the American editions?"

The facts as applied to that particular case were as follows: The Waverly Pub. Co. issued "Nada the Lily," a book published by Longmans, Green & Co. in Great Britain and the United States, omitting from the foreign edition the notice required by the United States statute. Suit was brought in April, 1894, to restrain the publication of the Waverly Publishing Co's. edition. The record in the United States Court in Trenton, N. J., where suit was brought, shows that the application for preliminary injunction was denied. Final decision was never rendered, and in fact the case was never tried. I sought out the attorney for the Waverly Pub. Co. in that case, and ascertained from him that the publication of "Nada the Lily continued uninterruptedly; that Longmans, Green & Co. did not push the case as they felt that they had lost it before it was tried, and had other matters of more importance than that particular book, that they did not want interfered with, that would have been interfered with had a decision adverse to their interests been rendered in that case. Notwithstanding these facts Judge Sanborn cited that case as one of those on which he based his reason for deciding against the publication of "The Masqueraders" by Donohue & Ogilvie.

That a settlement of the questions involved in "The Masqueraders" litigation is essential to the future security of those engaged in the publishing business is a statement that will be generally accepted as true, but that Judge Sanborn's decision has settled anything I think will be not admitted when the decision is dissected and compared one part with another and all of it with previous decisions and the law covering the points that were submitted to him for decision.

IMPORTATION OF COPYRIGHT BOOKS.

The Library Journal for February gives a very full account of the conference of the representatives of the American Library Association with a delegation of the American Publishers' Copyright League in regard to the provisions for importing copyright books in the proposed amended copyright law, held last month at the Mercantile Library in New York City. The views of both sides are given in full together with the texts of the existing law and the substitutes proposed.

It is understood that the following statement adopted by the Council of the American [authors'] Copyright League at its meeting on February 13, indicates a compromise which will be accepted officially by the representatives both of the publishers' and the librarians' organizations:

The American Copyright League, representing the authors of literary, dramatic, musical, artistic and cognate works, maintains that the copyright protection in the property created by such authors should justly and logically include the right to sell or control such works for any specified time or territory or under any specified conditions, either directly or through their assigns, publisher or publishers, and therefore the League holds that the author should be able to sell the American market, the English market, and any other markets separately, and to assure each market against importations from other markets of the work thus sold. It therefore maintains, as a matter of right and justice, that the importation of foreign editions should be prohibited, as is the case in other countries, except by consent of the author or copyright proprietor; but in view of existing law and conditions, and especially of the inclusion in our copyright law of the manufacturing clause, it is prepared to recommend to authors the concession of general permission to import copies of authorized foreign editions under the circumstances scheduled as follows:

During the existence of the copyright in any work or of ad interim protection, any copies produced without the authorization of the author or copyright proprietor, or any copies of a periodical containing unauthorized reprint from any copyrighted work, should be considered fraudulent and illegal, and the importation of such fraudulent copies into the United States prohibited.

During the existence of the copyright in any book or of ad interim protection, the importation of copies of authorized foreign editions into the United States should be prohibited, except in the case of:

(a) Periodicals containing portions of such work printed by arrangement with the author;

(b) A work in a language or languages other than English prior to the production of an edition in the original language in the United States under copyright protection;

(c) Books in raised characters for the use of the blind;

(d) A work of which the American edition is out of print, so long as that condition exists and it cannot be procured from the copyright proprietor or the American publisher;

(e) Copies imported by the authority and for the use of the United States Government or the Library of Congress;

(f) Single copies forming part of a library or collection purchased abroad in good faith for public use and not for sale or of household effects in use abroad for more than one year, or of personal baggage;

(g) Single copies imported from the country of original authorship only by a public library, or other incorporated educational or other institution for public culture;

(h) Single copies imported for use and not for sale on the written consent of the copyright proprietor; but copies imported as above may not lawfully be used in any way to violate the rights of the copyright proprietor or limit or annul the copyright protection provided by this act, and such unlawful use shall be deemed an infringement of copyright.

PROTECTION TO AUTHORS NOT A "MONOPOLY."

THE following correspondence between the head of one of the prominent libraries in the country and Mr. George Haven Putnam, one of the leading movers in copyright reform, will be found interesting and important as presenting a lucid and eminently fair statement of the difference between the protection afforded to an author under the copyright law and the operation of a "monopoly" in the commonly-accepted sense of the word:

DEAR MR. PUTNAM: . . . The argument that the more perfect the "monopoly," or the higher the protective tariff, the better and cheaper the people can be served, and the higher the wages that can be paid to the workmen, is one that is quite familiar to me. No doubt the reply, based on experience, is equally familiar to you, so I need not state it.

As a librarian I feel it my duty to protect the interests of the readers and students of the New York Public Library to the best of my ability. If those interests are not interfered with by the proposed Copyright bill, I do not consider it my duty to oppose it, although I do not approve of the protective principles which underlie it. I think it would be proper to give the great reference libraries of the country—say the ten having 350,000 volumes or upward—greater facilities for obtaining certain kinds of books than the small town libraries; but I can see that it would be difficult to do so.

— Librarian —

DEAR SIR: The suggestion in your letter of the 15th inst. that the control or "monopoly" assigned to an author under copyright law is akin to the monopoly secured under a protective tariff by the producers of certain favored articles, is an impression with which I had to contend in Congress during the long fight for the International Copyright bill.

I may mention that I am myself a free trader, and I have, since I have been a voter after returning from the army, put in continuous labor on behalf of all measures looking towards the elimination, or, at least, the amelioration, of the protective tariff system. I am myself of opinion that a government goes beyond its functions when it undertakes to interfere with business conditions and to take money from the pockets of the people, or from the pockets of one group of the people, other than the funds that are required for maintaining its own machinery and the national dignity.

I point out, however, that under the theory of free trade, it is proposed to secure for the producer of an article, the control (or, if you will, the "monopoly") of such article and the right to make sale of the same throughout all the territories of the world, with a minimum of restrictions on the ground of political boundaries; and it is further claimed that, whatever be the "country of origin" of the producer, he should be entitled to secure in each civilized state, the full "protection" of the law of that state. The "protection," however, that he desires, is not that which is provided under the Dingley system. He does not claim to interfere with the rights of any other producer to produce similar articles or to bring similar articles into competition in any of the markets in which his own article is offered. He wants merely the protection of the "policeman" to prevent any one from taking away any portion of the property value of his own article.

In connection with the poverty of the English language, the same term "protection" is unfortunately applied to two very different things. When it is claimed, however, that the protection that the author desires under the law is the protection which Mr. Carnegie secured for his steel products, the comparison is as if one should say that the Spring of the year is the same thing as the spring of a watch.

"Monopoly" means, of course, the sole right to sell; but the author who has secured the sole right to sell his treatise on the Universe, or his history of the United States, does not undertake to interfere, and has never under any copyright law been permitted to interfere, with the claim of some other producer to make sale of a competing study of the Universe or a history of the United States.

In this respect, his claim is of course more modest than that of the owner of the patent, as the manufacturer of a sewing machine, for instance, does all that is practicable to prevent competition in his own markets of any other sewing machines.

The legislators who have framed copyright laws in all the civilized states of the world have decided, after very full argument, that the advantage to the community in the incentive for literary production in giving a "monopoly" or sole right of sale to the producer, more than offsets any possible inconvenience or disadvantage to the community in the limitation of the rights of the consumer to utilize, excepting under such restrictions as the producer may impose, the article in question.

Copyright law starts, therefore, with the assumption that there is to be complete control of the property.

Those who insist that, under any special conditions obtaining in a particular country like the United States, it is in order to interfere with the author's complete control, or to restrict his property right, have upon them the burden of proof, first, to show that there are such special conditions as make the United States different from other countries in regard to literature, and second, that less injustice and less disadvantage to all interested will be caused by restricting or by impairing the property rights of the producer than by leaving him in full control of his article.

With considerations of this kind, I was able, between 1886 and 1891, to make clear to free trade leaders in Congress that copyright was in direct line with the principles of free trade. I am very sorry to learn that, sixteen years later, a man of your influence in the community is again bringing forward the same old suggestion that copyright "monopoly" and Dingley tariff "monopoly" belong to the same class of burdens.

G. H. PUTNAM.

DID DEAN SWIFT MARRY STELLA?

ACCORDING to a special despatch to the New York Sun, the discovery of an unpublished letter in the library of Christ Church, Oxford, seems to clear up the literary mystery of Dean Swift's relations with Stella. The letter, according to the Sun, "was written by the Rev..

Dr. Evans, Bishop of Meath, to Archbishop Wake, and is dated July 27, 1723. The Bishop writes:

"There was reported to be a promise of marriage between a young woman named Miss Van Omrig and the Dean. She designed to give him all her fortune, which was about £5000, but on discovering that the Dean had already been married to Mrs. Johnson, daughter of Sir William Temple, she became indignant and made a new will.

"The letter corroborates in detail the information as to Stella's announcement of the marriage and her wish that the correspondence with Dean Swift should be published, a request with which her executors refused to comply. Altogether the letter makes the evidence of Dean Swift's marriage too strong to resist."

There will be, however, many people who will continue to believe that Swift was not married to Stella until the legal documents are brought to light.

THE GERMAN BOOKTRADE.

ACCORDING to the statistics given in the latest edition, (the sixty-eighth annual issue,) of the German booktrade directory, formerly known as "Schulz's Addressbuch," there are now 11,247 firms established in 2122 cities and towns of the world having a representative in Leipzig. These are approximately divided as follows:

German.....	8752	firms in	1457	towns.
Austro-Hungarian.....	1001	"	289	"
Swiss.....	327	"	74	"
In other countries of Europe.....	917	"	216	"
In America.....	187	"	52	"
In Africa.....	20	"	10	"
In Asia.....	31	"	15	"
In Australia.....	12	"	9	"

It may not be generally known, to quote the translation made by the London Publishers' Circular, that in Germany bookshops, as well as publishing houses, are not limited to the principal cities but are scattered all over the empire, and often found in very small places; to order all the books direct would be too expensive, thus the supply has to be specially organized.

The centre of the book trade in general is Leipzig; of 2994 principal German publishers 2886 keep stock there. Every publisher and every bookseller has an agent in this town with whom all business transactions are carried out. Booksellers, as a rule, send their order to their agent in Leipzig, who transfers them to the corresponding publishers' agents in that city. The books, which otherwise would have to be posted direct in as many small parcels, are thus collected in Leipzig and sent to the different booksellers in one lot.

As already stated, the centre for the universal book trade is Leipzig, but in order to facilitate and accelerate business many publishers keep stock in other transit places and trade centres as well. According to the statistics in the new directory there are 10 booksellers' agencies in Berlin, 13 in Budapest, 117 in Leipzig, 5 in Prague, 11 in Stuttgart, 30 in Vienna, and 5 in Zurich. Some other figures may be of interest as well. Germany contains 348 publishing houses devoted solely to art publications, and 419 to music; 147 shops specialize in the sale of new books, and 515 in the sale of music; 224 sell only second-hand books, the number of second-hand dealers who sell other books as well amounts to 1640. There are 1678 lending libraries conducted by booksellers, and 396 reading clubs. The number of booksellers who also sell objects of art, or music, or have a lending library, etc., of any kind, or are also publishers, amounts to 6600.

COMPROMISE ON CANADIAN TAX ON COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS.

IN partial response to public opinion the Government of the Province of Quebec have reduced their obnoxious tax on commercial travellers from $300 to $100. In commenting on this action the Toronto Bookseller and Stationer says: "Although this is a partial relief it does not cover the whole case. The objection which The Bookseller and Stationer has consistently made to the tax is that the principle is bad and detrimental to business. The burden is somewhat relieved by lessening the amount, but the unfairness is present just the same as before.

"When the tax came up for unfavorable criticism some months ago, the Provincial Treasurer stated that the Government needed money and that this was a legitimate means of raising it. Whatever may have been the revenue to the Province before, at its present figure it cannot yield a sum worthy of consideration. Why not make the surrender complete? We cannot believe that the Province of Quebec is willing to hear the reproach of raising up barriers to trade which have long been discredited by practically the whole world, nor that it is anxious to arouse the ill will of the enterprising countries who seek foreign business.

"Mention need only be made of the resolutions of the British chambers of commerce and of Canadian bodies such as the Dominion Commercial Travellers' Association and the Canadian Manufacturers' Association to show that intense hostility is felt. In fairness to her own merchants and to the merchants of Canada at large, we urge the Government of the Province of Quebec to consider still further this tax and complete the good work which has already been begun." The tax, we learn, applies only to commercial travellers in the Province of Quebec.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

AMERICAN BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION.

REPRESENTATIVES of the American Booksellers' Association, the Booksellers' League, the Boost Club and the Brotherhood of Commercial Travellers met at the office of the secretary of the American Booksellers' Association, to discuss the arrangements for the annual dinner of the Association. Charles A. Burkhardt was elected president; Francis Gilman, secretary, and J. W. Nichols, treasurer. The following committees were appointed:

Committee of Arrangements.—Harry F.

Davis, J. W. Nichols and Charles A. Burkhardt.

Reception Committee.—A. Wessels, E. B. Hackett, Myles Standish, Francis Gilman, John Hovendon, A. P. Jackson, W. A. Ansley, W. E. Smith, Simon Brentano, Charles Walton, C. E. Butler and A. Growoll.

Printing Committee.—Harry F. Davis, C. E. Butler and A. Eckle.

Committee on Tickets.—J. W. Nichols, C. E. Butler and A. Eckle.

Press Committee.—A. Growoll, Charles C. Walden, E. O. Chapman, H. Calkins, Jr., Andrew Geyer, W. E. Price and H. J. Berger.

The dinner will be given at the Aldine Association, 111 Fifth Avenue, New York City, on the evening of May 16, at 6:30 sharp, the reception beginning at 6 o'clock. The price of the tickets has been fixed at $2.50 the plate.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE.

THE annual meeting of the Booksellers' League will be held on the evening of March 14 at the Aldine Association. On that occasion the report of the year's work will be submitted and the election of president and twelve new members of the Board of Managers will take place. The usual dinner will precede the business meeting and several speakers will entertain the League after the election has taken place.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

READERS of literary gossip may have forgotten, though it was made known at the time of the great success of "Quo Vadis," that Henryk Sienkiewicz spent some time in this country. He was one of a little band of Polish patriots, among whom were Mme. Modjeska and her husband, Count Rozenta, who bought a ranch in California and started what might be called a Polish Brook Farm. It was a co-operative society, but as all its members were geniuses it suffered for want of practical management. Sienkiewicz did not stay very long in this country, but went back to Poland, where he published a few short stories with America as their background.

PERCEVAL GIBBON, author of "Vrouw Grobeelaar and Her Leading Cases," those tales of the Veldt which have earned for him the title of "The Kipling of the Kraal," is a Welshman, the son of a Nonconformist clergyman, and was born in Carnarvon about thirty years ago. He left school at an early age to go to sea, working before the mast on a French liner, seeing all parts of the globe and meeting with many exciting experiences. He returned to London to go into journalism and went out to South Africa to act as correspondent for London papers. He served through the war, was five times captured and imprisoned and remained in South Africa after the fighting was finished, prospecting for gold, shooting big game and gathering the material for his stories. He was a correspondent for a London paper at St. Petersburg during the Russo-Japanese War and during the recent revolutionary outbreak in Russia.

OBITUARY NOTES.

LEONARD KIP, author of "The Dead Marquise," "Under the Bells," "Hannibal's Man, and Other Stories," "California Sketches," etc., died in Albany, N. Y., February 15. Mr. Kip was born in New York City, September 13, 1826.

JOSEPH ARTHUR, the author of "The Still Alarm," "Blue Jeans," and other spectacular plays, died in New York City on February 20. Mr. Arthur was born in Centreville, Md., in 1848, and was the son of a Methodist clergyman. At an early age he took up newspaper work, and travelled in Japan, India and China, serving in Afghanistan with the British army. He then became an actor, and later devoted his entire time to the production of melodramas. Joseph Arthur was the playwright's stage name, his real name being Arthur Smith.

JAMES A. WINEBERGER, for many years proprietor of the Ebbitt House book and newsstand, Washington, D. C., died at his home in that city February 1, aged 85 years. Mr. Wineberger was born in Washington in 1821. Many years ago he published a book "Social Life in Washington," by "Mrs. Grundy," and for many years his "Map of Washington and Its Environs" had a popular sale. Mr. Wineberger was regarded as one of the best-informed men on history in the District, and collected a large amount of unpublished data regarding the early days of Washington.

PERSONAL NOTES.

A. ECKLE, formerly connected with the book department of the Siegel-Cooper Company, is now buyer in the book department of the Adams Dry Goods Company, of New York City.

W. B. WENTWORTH, who for the past ten years has been so closely identified with the church booktrade of New England, has associated himself with the H. M. Upham Company, of Boston.

H. S. STOLL, formerly with the Stitt Publishing Company, during the coming season will represent A. Wessels Company through the South and middle West. The Wessels Company, as already announced, has just made arrangements to issue "The Leopard's Spots," by Thomas Dixon, Jr.; "The Pit," by Frank Norris, and a number of other leading copyrights at popular prices.

CHARLES DWYER, editor of The Delineator, has resigned and will retire from the management of the magazine in about three months. A question of policy arose between Mr. Dwyer and the Butterick Publishing Company, which runs the magazine. Mr. Dwyer joined the staff of The Delineator in 1881, and in 1885 succeeded R. S. O. Loughlin, the present president of the Butterick Publishing Company, as editor. Under him the magazine has grown from a small publication devoted entirely to fashions to the magazine that it now is.

J. H. TEWKSBURY, well known among the trade as the business manager and treasurer of the Pilgrim Press at Boston and Chicago, will sever his connection with that house on March 1. Resolutions passed by the directors of the Pilgrim Press testify to Mr. Tewksbury's success in developing the business and increasing its earnings, also to his fidelity to his important trust. His successful experience in manufacturing, advertising and systematizing counting-room work as well as in buying and selling books suggest him as a valuable accession to the force of any publishing house with which he may associate himself. He will be succeeded by L. H. Cary, recently manager of the San Francisco branch of the Presbyterian Board of Publication.

BUSINESS NOTES.

AUGUSTA, GA.—"The New and Old Bookshop" of A. W. Dellquest Book Co., located in the Leonard Building, was partially destroyed by fire on February 16, and suffered some damage by water, all, however, covered by insurance. The business has been resumed in the same quarters.

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO.—The Hook View Book and Stationery Company has been succeeded by William R. McCoy.

MASON CITY, IA.—Charles E. Mann's bookstore was burned out on February 12.

NEW YORK CITY.—John Dickinson & Co., Ltd., paper manufacturers, have sold out to the Perkins, Goodwin Co., at 72 Fifth Avenue, John Atkins, the manager, and George F. Brown and Stephen J. Delaney having joined the staff of the Perkins, Goodwin Co.

OSKALOOSA, IA.—Hugg & Ryan, booksellers, and stationers, have sold out to Crissey & Crissey.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE J. K. WATERS COMPANY, Boston, announce a new book by Charles Felton Pidgin, entitled "Sarah Bernhardt Brown."

THE J. S. OGILVIE PUBLISHING COMPANY announce a translation of Sienkiewicz's "The Field of Glory," made from the Polish by Herman Bernstein.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. announce a new story by Mrs. Henry de la Pasture, author of "Peter's Mother," entitled "The Man from America: a Sentimental Comedy."

LEONARD SMITHERS, the publisher of the defunct Savoy, remembers that if he sold 300 copies of any book with Aubrey Beardsley's illustrations he "was overjoyed." Now, he adds, "they all fetch a considerable premium on the moderate prices at which they were originally issued."

DAVID MCKAY has purchased from Street & Smith their Boy's Own Library, including 140 volumes and two unpublished titles to be announced later. Mr. McKay has also taken the agency for the sale of the Cassell Dictionaries—French, German and Latin—and hopes to have complete lines ready shortly for the trade.

B. W. DODGE & Co., who have just opened up at 43 East Nineteenth Street, New York, have published a detective story entitled "The One Who Saw." They announce for immediate publication a new book by Charles Felton Pidgin, author of "Quincy Adams Sawyer," etc., to be entitled "The Corsican Lovers."

THE REILLY & BRITTON COMPANY will publish in April Schuyler Staunton's new novel, "Daughters of Destiny." It will contain eight illustrations in color, three by Thomas Mitchell Peirce, five by Harold DeLay. Mr. Staunton will spend the remainder of the winter in Rio de Janeiro the guest of General Fonseca who figured in his previous novel, "The Fate of a Crown."

JOHN W. LUCE & Co. have just brought out a clever novel entitled "The Girl in Waiting," by Archibald Eyre, which is described as "droll a little comedy of misunderstanding as the gloomiest reader can possibly need." They will publish early next month Charles Town's "Foolish Etiquette," publication of which was delayed by the preparations for the author's wedding last week.

SINCE Brand Whitlock was elected mayor of Toledo on an independent ticket, the revival of interest in his books has been so great that the publishers have been compelled to bring out a new edition of "The 13th District." This story, it will be recalled, was highly praised by Grover Cleveland, and was characterized by William Dean Howells as one of the best American political novels ever written.

THE C. M. CLARK PUBLISHING COMPANY have in preparation a rather sensational novel by Harvey Reynolds, entitled "Out of the Ashes," which deals with a divorce in a straightforward manner, and suggests a solution to the problem; also, "Four Girls," a charming little story of the struggles, romances and triumphs of four young women just out of college, by a new writer, Mary Rodney.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY have postponed the publication of "How to Buy Life Insurance," by "Q. P.," and "Recollections of Thirteen Presidents," by Capt. John S. Wise, until early in March. They will bring out in April a novel entitled "A Woman's Heart," by Olive Ransom, a revelation in letters, of a woman's passionate love for a priest, in which monastic celibacy is attacked from every conceivable standpoint.

GUIDO BIAGI, librarian of the Laurentian Library at Florence, in summing up, in the London Athenaeum, the year's literary harvest in Italy, speaking of the output of fiction, says: "Women have begun to invade the field, and save for easily counted exceptions, feminine handiwork, unless it bears the name of Matilde Serao, is decadent and feeble, because women are, at least amongst us, more adapted to make romances than to write them."

HUTCHINSON & Co., London, have in preparation a work entitled "Antoinette Sterling and Other Celebrities," written by the son of Antoinette Sterling, H. S. Mackinlay. Miss Sterling, the well-remembered contralto singer, was long one of the leaders of the choir in Plymouth Church, in Henry Ward Beecher's days. After her marriage to Mr. Mackinlay she went to England where her later days were spent. She was one of Queen Victoria's favorite singers and knew many famous people by whom she was highly esteemed.

D. C. HEATH & Co. announce a new book by Professor Webster Wells, entitled "Algebra for Secondary Schools," which is intended to meet the needs of the most progressive preparatory schools. They also announce Mansion's "First Year of French for Young Beginners," consisting of grammar, reading, exercise work and composition, the grammar being limited to the most easy tenses of the indicative mood and the essential components of the simple sentence; also, the "Méthode Hénin," by Mr. Hénin, instructor in St. George's School, Newport, R. I., a series of conversations based on limited vocabularies.

T. FISHER UNWIN, London, has just brought out, in two illustrated volumes, "The History of Co-operation," which G. J. Holyoake completed just before his death. The book relates the story of co-operation from its first beginnings to the present day. Mr. Holyoake was the last survivor of the Social Missionaries appointed in 1841 to explain Robert Owen's system, and his book has exceptional interest and value in that he was closely connected with the men who made the movement, and describes their vicissitudes, their principles and their hopes. The history contains many picturesque and dramatic incidents.

FREDERICK WARNE & Co. will publish shortly in the Newnes's Art Library a volume on "Fra Angelico," with 64 full-page reproductions of his works and a brief but illuminating memoir by Edcombe Staley. Other volumes in this series will be "Ingres," the noted French painter of classical subjects; "Eugene Delacroix," "The Paintings of Michael Angelo," and "Giovanni Bellini." They have also in preparation a novel handbook to be entitled "The Green Room, or, Who's Who on the Stage." This work is to be a permanent record of the international dramatic, musical and variety world, and will be adequately illustrated.

MARTIN HUME, who has recently added "The Wives of Henry VIII." to his historical series, which contains already "The Love Affairs of Mary, Queen of Scots," and "The Courtships of Queen Elizabeth," is at work upon a new novel, which will consist of the strange and romantic stories of some of the early queens of Spain, drawn for the most part, as has been the case in all his other volumes, from unpublished sources. The share of Isabella in the expedition of Columbus, the attitude of Elizabeth Balles towards her stepson, Carlos, the action of Elizabeth of Bourbon in the overthrow of Olivares, and the vagaries of Louisa Isabel of Orleans will be discussed in this volume.

SHAKESPEARE's nationality—if not his identity—seems at last to have been determined—at least the weight of the great authority on underselling, who undersells everything and everybody—who undersells even himself—makes him out a German. While he is not actually catalogued under Wilhelm Schwenk-den-Spiess, his works for the past week in all the advertisements of the great underseller appear under the heading of Standard German Books. A comparison of the underseller's prices of German books with the current lists of the importers, by the way, lead us to believe that he must have forgotten his German, else he would have fixed his prices lower. He has forgotten to undersell!

MOFFAT, YARD & Co. have made an arrangement with Charles Schreyvogel which places under their control the sale of the prints of the celebrated Schreyvogel pictures of frontier life, numbering twenty-seven subjects, including a picture nearly ready for publication. The new picture, to be ready early next month, is entitled "Saving Their Lieutenant," and shows several veteran troopers carrying away from a pursuing body of Indians their young commander, whose first expedition, after leaving West Point, has resulted in disaster to his troop and a serious wound to himself. One wiry American soldier has the wounded boy thrown across his galloping horse, while he, turning round in his saddle, fires his revolver at their pursuers. He is flanked by other troopers in superb action.

THE BUREAU OF COMMERCE AND LABOR, at Washington, D. C., is preparing a report covering the various systems of workmen's insurance and employers' liability both in this country and abroad. The report will cover insurance against sickness, accident, disability, old age, death and unemployment. In this connection it is soliciting information concerning the existence in the United States of what are usually known as establishment funds—that is, mutual relief or insurance funds organized and maintained by the employees of an industrial establishment, or relief funds supported either wholly or in part by the employers themselves. It is desired to obtain, wherever possible, copies of constitutions, rules and by-laws, blank certificate forms, and any other matter relating to funds of this character. In the absence of other data the name and location of establishments in which such funds exist are desired.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish about the middle of March "The Log of a Sea Angler," by Charles F. Holder, who has written a book on sea angling that ought to create a sensation among sportsmen. Encouraged by the exceptional success which attended the publication in the original of Xavier de Maistre's "Voyage Autour de Ma Chambre" in the series of Riverside Press editions, Houghton, Mifflin & Co. will now bring out Bernardin de Saint-Pierre's "Paul et Virginie," the most famous of French romances, in the French text of the original first edition. The new edition is set in type of Didot style, imported from Paris, and is embellished with reproductions of the engravings in the first French edition. These illustrations are not facsimiles, but have been engraved on wood by M. Lamont Brown and are mounted Japan-paper proofs. The binding is of decorated French paper boards with paper label. The edition is limited to 280 numbered copies, 250 for sale.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. are preparing a special limited quarto edition of "The Triumphs" of Petrarch, translated by Henry Boyd, with an introduction by Dr. Guido Biagi, librarian of the Royal Laurentian Library at Florence. The work is printed from a new font of "Humanistic" type, carefully set at the University Press, and the press work has been done with great care. The six illustrations, concerning which Sidney Colvin furnishes a paper, are reproduced from a set of Florentine engravings in the British Museum and are printed on paper especially manufactured in Italy. One hundred numbered copies are for sale in the United States, with initials hand-embossed in gold, and a binding of leather blind-stamped in a fourteenth century design. Twenty numbered copies are printed on parchment with a full page facsimile of a page of Florentine Humanistic printing with illuminated initials executed by Attilio For-milli, of Florence. The Humanistic type was described in a recent issue of The Printing Art.

CUPPLES & LEON, New York City, have in preparation three volumes in the Motor Boys Series, by Clarence Young, entitled "The Motor Boys, or, Chums Through Thick and Thin," "The Motor Boys Overland, or, A Long Trip for Fun and Fortune," and "The Motor Boys in Mexico, or, the Secret of the Buried City." Each volume will be illustrated and bound. In the Boys of Business Series, by Allen Chapman, they will bring out "The Young Express Agent," and "Two Boy Publishers." In the Boy Hunters Series they will bring out a book by Captain Ralph Bonehill, entitled "Four Boy Hunters, or, the Outing of the Gun Club." Other publications under way are a tale of adventure, by Roy Rockwood, entitled "Through the Air to the North Pole," "Joe, the Hotel Boy," by Horatio Alger, Jr.; and "Cupid's Middleman," a new book of romance and humor, by Edward B. Lent, author of "Being Done Good." They also announce that they have made arrangements with the New York Herald to bring out in April "Buster Brown, His Dog Tige and Their Jolly Times at Uncle Jack's," and "Buddy Tucker and His Friends," both by R. F. Outcault.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish early in March "The Opal Sea," by Professor John C. Van Dyke, a brilliant poetic and scientific description of the sea in all its phases, which is in a way a pendant to his "The Desert;" "The Prisoner of Ornith Farm," by Frances Powell, author of "The House on the Hudson," etc., a story of adventure of an exceedingly original and unexpected kind, the scene of which is laid in the neighborhood of New York and Long Island Sound; "The Day Dreamer," by Jesse Lynch Williams, the basis of which is the author's "The Stolen Story," described at the time it was published as the "best newspaper story ever written in this country;" "Sir Walter Scott," by Andrew Lang, a new volume in the Literary Lives series; "Concerning Paul and Fiammetto," by L. Allen Harker, an amusing account of a number of delightful children; "A Romance of the Nursery," also by L. Allen Harker, in which the adventures of the children in "Concerning Paul and Fiammetto" are continued; "The Apostolic Age in the Light of Modern Criticism," by James Hardy Ropes, an able and authoritative work designed for laymen as well as scholars; a new and revised edition of Dr. Fisher's work on "The Reformation;" also, a uniform edition of Edith Wharton's "Sanctuary," "The Touchstone," "The Valley of Decision," "The Descent of Man," "The Greater Inclination," "Crucial Instances" and "The House of Mirth."

HENRY HOLT & COMPANY will issue this month the second and third volumes concluding Professors Chamberlin and Salisbury's monumental work on "Geology." These two volumes will be devoted to "Earth History," and in them Professor Chamberlin will elaborate his weighty criticisms of the nebular hypotheses. Each of these volumes will be as large as the first volume, which it may be remembered was devoted to "Geologic Processes." Among their announcements are "A Political History of the State of New York, 1777-1861, (in two volumes,) by the Hon. D. S. Alexander, who is said to have made a book that is not only historically accurate but vivified by noteworthy character sketches of such men as the Clintons, Hamilton, Burr, Van Buren, Seymour, Thurlow Weed, etc.; "Citizenship and the Schools," nine papers by Professor Jeremiah W. Jenks, of Cornell, presenting in a telling way various relations of education and politics; two volumes in the American Public Problems series—"Immigration and its Effects Upon the United States," by Prescott F. Hall, secretary of the Immigration Restriction League, and "The Election of Senators," by Professor G. H. Haynes, author of "Representation in State Legislatures;" "Heredity in Royalty," by Dr. Frederick Adams Wood, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, a consideration of some 3300 persons, presenting an interesting estimate of the mental and moral status of all modern royal families, illustrated with over one hundred portraits; also, "An Atlas of European History," containing some 48 maps, 32 of them in colors, by Professor Earl W. Dow, of the University of Michigan.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

☞ Write your wants plainly and one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

The UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO PRESS NEW BOOKS

The Finality of The Christian Religion GEORGE. B FOSTER

In a course of lectures delivered at Harvard in 1893 and 1894, Prof. Foster outlined an argument for the absolute value of Christianity which so impressed his hearers that he was urged to put it in permanent form. This he has at length done in "The Finality of the Christian Religion," a work which involves a destructive criticism of authority religion and a constructive treatment of Christianity as an inevitable outgrowth of human nature. The work has been awaited with great impatience. 530 pp., net $4.00, postpaid $4.22.

Ancient Records of Egypt

JAMES H. BREASTED

A full and reliable source-book of Egyptian history is at last to appear. After ten years of labor, Prof. Breasted offers to Egyptologists and students of history a corpus of Egyptian inscriptions on a scale not previously attempted and with a degree of accuracy never before attained. The series is one of three now in preparation, the others being by Robert F. Harper (Assyria and Babylonia) and by the late William R. Harper (Palestine, Phoenicia and Syria). The entire collection, when completed, will be a monumental contribution to the history of the East. 4 vols., 8vo., 386, 450, 300, 560 pp. Advance price $3.00 net per volume. $4.20 postpaid.

General Sociology

ALBION W. SMALL

Professor Small's main proposition is that the traditional sciences relating to the spiritual sides of life are sterile, unless they are carried out to a point at which they blend in one system of knowledge. The book is an exposition of the development of social theory from Spencer to Ratzel, and a plea for the completion of the general structure of social science. 753 pp.; 8vo, cloth; net $4.00, postpaid $4.23.

A Decade of Civic Development

CHARLES ZUEBLIN

The author gives a concise and spirited account of certain definite measures—political, economic, social, and artistic—for the betterment of American cities. Professor Zueblin was formerly president of the American League for Civic Improvement. He is the author of American Municipal Progress and other volumes. 200 pp.; 12mo, cloth; net $1.25, postpaid $1.35.

Russia and Its Crisis

PAUL MILYOUKOV

An authoritative account of the whole situation in Russia by a man who, as scholar and politician, has had unsurpassed opportunities for observation. The book deals with the present crisis as the logical result of the entire history of Russia. It is thus a work of permanent importance and is already being recognized as a standard. 602 pp.; 8vo, cloth; net $3.00, postpaid $3.20.

Christian Belief Interpreted by Christian Experience

CHARLES C. HALL

A series of lectures delivered in India, Ceylon, and China under the Barrows Lectureship. An attempt is made to point out the common foundation underlying all religions and to present the claims of Christianity to be regarded as the ultimate religion. The work has aroused enthusiastic admiration by its breadth of view, its nobility of tone, and the chaste beauty of its style. 300 pp.; 8vo, cloth; net $1.50, postpaid $1.66.

To the Trade <sup>RE</sup> THE JUNGLE By

UPTON SINCLAIR

The Unforgettable Book of 1906

We publish the Jungle by Upton Sinclair on Mon., Feb. the 26th.

We know we have the most powerful book of the year.

We think we know how to make it one of your largest sellers.

We have sold several thousand copies in this country without any travelling representation to speak of.

We have sold also large editions to Canada, to Australia, and to England.

We sent copies to the trade because we wanted them to read the book before buying. The first mail, three days later, brought us orders ranging from one to one hundred copies.

We have printed twenty thousand books for the first edition.

We have made 85,000 circulars and several thousand striking posters, because we believe that The Jungle, a novel of Chicago's stockyards, is one of the most powerful and terrible stories ever written. It is a book which must go.

Periodicals and Book Trade Helps

ISSUED FROM

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY OFFICE

The Publishers' Weekly

Recognized as the representative of the publishing and bookselling interests in the United States. Contains full weekly record of American publications, with monthly indexes, cumulated quarterly, news of interest concerning the book trade, lists of "Books Wanted," (an advertising feature which each subscriber can use without charge to the extent of 100 lines per year,) etc., etc. Subscription, $3.00 a year; to foreign countries, $4.00 a year.

The American Catalog. 1900-1905

Vol. I contains a five-year cumulation, Jan. 1, 1900-Jan. 1, 1905, giving in one alphabet, by author, title and subject, information of the books issued during the years covered by this period. It also contains a directory of over 3800 publishers, with street addresses. 8vo, half morocco, $7.50.

Vol. II or Supplementary volume gives the full title entries with annotations printed in the Weekly Record of The Publishers' Weekly, cumulated into an alphabet for each year, i.e., into five alphabets 1900, 01, 02, 03, 04. This is planned to answer the demand of such libraries, bookdealers, and others as want the full material of The Publishers' Weekly bibliographical system in available shape. 8vo, half morocco, $7.50. The set of two, $12.

Of the previous series of THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE, quarto size, the earlier volumes are out of print. We have remaining a few copies of the volumes 1890-95 and 1895-1900, bound in half morocco, $15.00 each.

The Annual American Catalog, 1905

Contains in one alphabet a record of all books published that year, under author, title, subject and series entries; also under author's name an alphabetical list of the same titles with descriptive annotations from The Publishers' Weekly, etc. 8vo, cloth, $3.00.

The Publishers' Trade List Annual

Contains the latest catalogues of upward of 200 American publishers, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm-names, with smaller lists at the end of the volume. Indispensable to every one who has any interest in the sale or purchase of books. Large 8vo, cloth, $2.00.

Indexes to the Publishers' Trade List Annual. The original volume contains an index, by author, title and subject catchword to the lists of the 246 publishers represented in THE TRADE LIST ANNUAL for 1902. This, with The Supplementary Indexes for 1903-1904, in two alphabets (1589 8vo pages, double column, nonpareil type), can be had in cloth, with thumb indexes, price $7.00. (Only a few copies remain.)

The American Educational Catalogue

Contains a price-list of the text-books in use in the United States, arranged alphabetically by author's or editor's name, and a detailed subject-index, referring from each specific subject to authors of books on that subject. (Published annually.) 8vo, leatherette, 50 cents.

The Library Journal

Official Organ of the American Library Association. Chiefly devoted to library economy and bibliography. Established in 1876. Published monthly. Subscription $4.00 a year, postpaid; single numbers, 35 cents. Price to Europe or other countries in the Union, 16s. a year; single numbers, 1s. 6d.

The Library Index to Periodicals and Current Events

Published monthly, with a quarterly cumulation (indexing the periodicals taken in most libraries, large and small). Subscription, $3.00 per year. Single monthly numbers, 25 cents; quarterly numbers, 50 cents each.

The Annual Library Index

Including Periodicals, American and English; Essays, Book-Chapters, etc., Bibliographies, Necrology and Index to Dates of Principal Events. Edited, with the co-operation of members of the American Library Association and of The Library Journal staff, by W. I. FLETCHER and H. E. HAINES. (Published annually) 8vo, cloth, $3.50.

English Catalogue of Books (Annual)

Containing a complete list of all the books published in Great Britain and Ireland in the calendar year, with index to subjects. (London, Sampson Low, Marston & Co.) 8vo, cloth, $1.50.

Directory of Publishers, 1903

Contains names and addresses of 3876 firms and individuals who issued books in the U. S. from Jan. 1, 1900 to Jan. 1, 1905. (Reprinted from The American Catalog.) 8vo, leatherette, red edges, $1.00.

The Profession of Bookselling

A handbook of practical hints for the apprentice and bookseller. By A. GROWLL, managing editor of The Publishers' Weekly, author of "A Bookseller's Library." "Three Centuries of English Booktrade Bibliography," etc. Parts 1 and 2. 8vo boards, each $2.00. (Concluding part in preparation.)

Publications of Societies

A provisional list of the publications of American scientific, literary and other societies, from their organization. Compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER. Schedules nearly 1,000 societies issuing publications, and gives title-entries of all their publications, as far as data could be obtained from the societies and from libraries. 8vo, paper, $2.50; cloth, $3.00.

State Publications

A provisional list of the official publications of the several States of the United States from their organization. Compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER. Part 1: New England States. Part 2: North Central States. Part 3: Western States and Territories. Part 4, (in preparation) Southern States. (For the complete work $10.)

WESTERN STATES AND TERRITORIES:

Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, North Dakota, Dakota Territory, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, California, Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Indian Territory, Alaska, Hawaii.

Compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER

Embracing provisional bibliographies of the official publications of the above-named States and Territories, from their organization. While the difficulties of compiling a bibliography of this sort at the present time make absolute completeness impossible, every effort has been made to obtain accuracy to the extent covered, by means of the coöperation in most of the States of the State Librarians, State University librarians, or officials of State Historical Societies.

ALREADY PUBLISHED

PART I: NEW ENGLAND STATES.—Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut.

PART II: NORTH CENTRAL STATES.—New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin.

The complete work, exceeding 800 pages, will be furnished at $10.00. Subscriptions will be received only for the whole work.

 But 500 copies have been printed and there are no plates. Only 148 copies remain unsubscribed.

The attention of State Libraries, of the central public libraries, and of foreign libraries, is especially called to this bibliography, but it is also important to that larger number of libraries which cannot undertake to collect the State publications even of their own State and yet should be able to inform students and inquirers as to what is to be found in the publications of their own State and of other States. What New York and Massachusetts are doing in forestry, for instance, is of importance in all States and to foreign students of the subject.

THREE LETTERS WERE LYING ON THE FLOOR BEFORE HER.—See Page 413.

A few hours before his death, Michael Delancey bequeaths a fortune to Hamilton De Grow, with the proviso that the latter will search in New York for a girl of specified name and characteristics, and in compliance with his last wishes bestow upon her the three millions of dollars in question. On De Grow's action in regard to this trust is dependent a story of sensational interests and tragic consequences.

A WORK OF IMMENSE IMPORTANCE

FUTURE LIFE

In Ancient Wisdom and Modern Science

By LOUIS ELBÉ

THIS is the authorized translation of the famous book which has been creating so wide a stir in scientific and religious circles throughout France, under the title "La Vie Future." It will be received with equal interest here, and will arouse very general discussion, as the subject is one which is engaging, not only scientists, but laymen, in ever-increasing numbers. This volume offers for the first time a complete presentation of all the available evidence hitherto available only in the most scattered and inaccessible forms. With great care and exactness M. Elbé has arranged a plain statement of the discoveries, theories, and ideas of the greatest investigators, together with his own illuminating views and comments, and a mass of authentic information regarding the beliefs of the primitive races.

There is a constantly-increasing demand for works in this line, and book-sellers will appreciate the reception which will be waiting for so great a book as this—probably the most important ever published.

SOME COMMENT

"There is something exceedingly winsome about Barbara; she is such a merry madcap of a girl, and yet as feminine as one could wish or imagine."—Brooklyn Standard-Union.

"Barbara is an alluring creature—a girl of brave heart, sweet spirit, high courage, warm temper, and fascinating moods and qualities."—Chicago Record-Herald.

"A fine figure of a man, Protheroe, lover, soldier, friend. And Miss Barbara bewitched all upon whom she cast her wonderful eyes."—Washington Star.

"A story of intense interest. The author has made for herself a name by it to be envied in the literary world."—Salt Lake Tribune.

Aside from the fact that "Barbara" is one of the most important publications of the season, it is also, without doubt, one of the finest from a mechanical point of view that have been issued in years.

NOTES IN SEASON.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS publish this week "The Opal Sea," by John C. Van Dyke, and "The Prisoner of Ornith Farm," by Frances Powell, fully described by us last week.

GEORGE W. JACOBS & Co. will publish on April 7 a new book by Karl Edwin Harriman, entitled "The Girl Out There," a love story, the "out there" of which is the country—open and free. The heroine is the product of that country, the hero being a hustling young fellow from the city.

THE CENTURY Co. will publish shortly a new novel by Jennette Lee, author of "A Pillar of Salt," "The Son of a Fiddler," and many short stories. The story is the chronicle of the quaint character, Uncle William, who gives title to the book, and the setting is an island off the Nova Scotia coast, with one shift of scene to New York City.

DODD, MEAD & COMPANY have just ready an important new work by James Phinney Baxter, entitled "Jacques Cartier, Sieur de Limoilou." This book has been in preparation for several years, and makes one of the most valuable additions to the history of French Canada. There is a memoir of Cartier, a description of his voyage to the St. Lawrence, a bibliography, and a facsimile of the manuscript of 1534.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just ready S. R. Crockett's new story, "Fishers of Men," describing the effort of a boy's soul to evolve itself in spite of surroundings; also, "The Complete Hostess," by Clara E. Laughlin assisted by Priscilla Leonard, Eleanor K. Marble and Mrs. John Foster Kirk, Jr., a book full of helpful suggestions for those in moderate circumstances as well as for those who do not have to think of expense.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish about the end of this month "The Evasion," a new novel by Miss Eugenia Brooks Frothingham, whose earlier book, "The Turn of the Road," has gone through fifteen printings. The scene is laid in and about Boston, Miss Frothingham's own home, and the book shows the actual drama existing in the lives of those people for whom "bridge," motoring, and week-end house parties are the principal entertainments.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will publish in April the first volume in The Farm Library devoted to cotton and written by Charles E. Burkett. It will include the history, acreage, improvement, culture, harvest, diseases, and manufacturing of cotton, cotton seed and oil, statistics, etc. They announce "Lays of Schooldays," by J. W. Foley, a volume of poems which have become widely known through their publication in newspapers and magazines. They chronicle various tragic and romantic episodes in the life of a "hennery beamus," as it is spelled by the hero.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have postponed publication of Anna Chapin Ray's romance of Quebec, "Hearts and Creeds," until March 14. On the same date they will publish "Maid of Athens," a new Byron novel, by Lafayette McLaws, author of "When the Land was Young;" "The Fight for Canada," by Major William Wood; "The Book of Daniel and Modern Criticism," by the Rev. Charles H. H. Wright, D.D.; "Old Washington," by Harriet Prescott Spofford, five stories picturing the capital city as it was after the close of the War between the States; also popular editions of "Painted Shadows," by Richard Le Gallienne; "The Viking's Skull," by John R. Carling; "Sarah Tuldron," by Orme Agnus; "The Siege of Youth," by Frances Charles; "Hassan," by Henry Gillman, and "The Wolverine," by Albert L. Lawrence.

American state reports; cont. the cases of general value and authority subsequent to those contained in the "Am. decisions" and the "Am. reports" decided in the courts of last resort of the several states; sel., rep., and annot. by A. C. Freeman. v. 103-106. San Francisco, Bancroft-Whitney Co., 1906. c. O. shp., ea., **$4 net.

Banks, L.: Albert, D.D. The great promises of the Bible. N. Y., Eaton & Mains, [1906.] 3-333 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The fourth member of a quartet, of which the other volumes were: "The great sinners of the Bible," "The great saints of the Bible," and "The great portraits of the Bible." The thirty chapters of the present work represent sermons preached in Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, New York City. They deal with the promise of a new heart, the promise of forgiveness, of sympathy, of answers to prayer, of peace, of friendship, of hope, of angelic companionship, etc.

Bartlett, Albert Le Roy, and McBain, Howard Lee. The elements of English grammar; with suggestions for composition work. N. Y., Silver, Burdett & Co., 1906. 8+345 p. 12°, (Silver ser. of language books.) cl., 60 c.

Bliss, F.: Jones. The development of Palestine exploration: being the Ely lectures, for 1903. N. Y., Scribner, 1906. [F.] c. 17+337 p. D. cl., **$1.50 net.

The lectures delivered before the Union Theological Seminary in 1903 on the Ely Foundation, with considerable amplification and one modification. Lecture 7 was entitled "Calvary and the tomb of Christ." In preparing material for publication the lecturer realized that one particular feature had been too much elaborated for a general work on Palestine exploration. Much of the material of the lecture was therefore incorporated in Lecture 5 of this volume, and elsewhere in the volumes. The titles of lectures are: The dawn of exploration; The age of pilgrimage; The Crusaders and after; From Fabri to Robinson; Edward Robinson; Renan and his contemporaries; The Palestine Exploration Fund; The exploration of the future.

Bottoms, S. R. Radiography and the "X" rays in practice and theory, with constructional and manipulatory details; with 55 il. 2d ed., rev. and enl. N. Y., Macmillan, 1906. 10+208 p. il. 12°, cl., **$1.10 net.

Contents: Introduction; The conflict between paganism and Christianity, as it appears in the code; Heresy and ecclesiastical institutions; The relation of the church to the social organization of the empire; The episcopal courts; The influence of the ecclesiastical edicts of the Theodosian code upon early mediæval jurisprudence; Bibliography.

Brooks, Hildegard. The lark furnace, and other adventures of Sue Betty; with cover and il. by P. Newell. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1906. [F.] c. 3+202 p. D. cl., †$1.25.

Sue Betty was a little girl given to pay attention to what her elders discussed and to worry about the things she did not understand. The worries followed her in her dreams, and this book relates six of these dreams: The lark furnace; Pirates; The white night; Work without wages; The fish picture; One of Plutarch's lives. The child has a weird, delightful imagination, and author and artist appreciate the workings of childish minds.

Bryant, W.: Cullen. Thanatopsis, Sella, and other poems; ed., with introd. and notes, by J. H. Castleman. N. Y., Macmillan, 1906. c. 25+358 p. 16°, (Macmillan's pocket American and English classics.) cl., *25 c. net.

The memoirs of a member of the firm of William Cramp & Sons, which control the largest ship building enterprises of the United States.

Burnett, Mrs. Frances Hodgson, [now Mrs. Stephen Townesend.] The dawn of a tomorrow. N. Y., Scribner, 1906. [F.] c. '05, '06. 4+236 p. il. D. cl., †$1.

A man, rich and powerful, but weary of life and its problems, determines to commit suicide. He hires a room in a dingy London lodging house, in which to do the deed and hide his identity, and goes out into the fog to buy a pistol. He meets a miserably clad, starving girl, becomes interested in her pitiful story, and accompanies her to her garret in "Apple Blossom Court" to aid others equally poor. The scenes here are most pathetic—one story after another being told in London street dialect of suffering and sin, that move the weary man deeply, and convince him there is something yet for him to live for.

Caspari, C.: jr. A treatise on pharmacy for students and pharmacists. 3d ed., enl. and thoroughly rev.; il. with 301 engravings. Phil., Lea Brothers & Co., 1906. 17-834 p. 8°, cl., **$4.25 net.

Crockett, S. Ruthford. Fishers of men. N. Y., Appleton, 1906. [Mr.] c. 6+416 p. il. D. cl., †$1.50.

Life and adventures of a little Scotch boy, known as "the Kid." His father kills himself rather than meet his termagant wife on her release from prison. Later "the Kid" goes to Edinburgh, where he is put in training for the profession of thievery by his mother's new husband. One "Fisher of Men" is a silver-haired city missionary through whom "the Kid's" reclamation is accomplished. Three Scotch girls of good family and their lovers furnish the bright and sweet elements in this story of the underworld of crime.

Curtis, E.; M.D. Nature and health: a popular treatise on the hygiene of the person and the home. N. Y., H. Holt & Co., 1906. [F.] c. 9+319 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Author is Emeritus Professor of Materia Medica and Therapeutics, Columbia University, New York City. He has written his book chiefly out of doors and advocates fresh air for every ill. He contends that man by reason of his intellect can attain that wise living that shall insure health, happiness and the usefulness of years.

ideals by Edward Everett Hale. Wash., D. C., Men of Mark Publishing Co., 1905. c. pors. 8°, cl., $7.50; ¼ mor., $10; mor., $20.

One hundred and fifty-four biographies and forty-three full-page portraits represent the contents of this first volume of a series, national in its scope, and marked by certain new features which give it special value. The material for the biographies was obtained mostly from the subjects to be written about, each one being asked to briefly describe his surroundings in childhood and youth, to mention difficulties overcome and to indicate the influences which awakened his ambition and strengthened his power of achievement, etc., thus making the work stimulating reading for young people, as well as a work of reference. The present volume and the second (the "Washington") yet to come contain for the most part names of men whose lifework has been national in its import, or who are actual residents of Washington.

Gilman, Dan. Coit. The launching of a university, and other papers: a sheaf of remembrances. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1906. [Ja.] c. 5+386 p. por. O. cl., **$2.50 net.

Collection of essays and addresses by the President Emeritus of the Johns Hopkins University. Those filling the first one hundred and fifty pages relate to Johns Hopkins—its founding, early days, faculty, publications, etc.; the remainder, chiefly educational, were delivered on various occasions in different places and touch on problems of the hour.

Hall, Prescott Farnsworth. Immigration and its effects upon the United States. N. Y., H. Holt & Co., 1906. [F.] c. 13+393 p. D. (American public problems.) cl., **$1.50 net.

The first of a series to be known as "American public problems," which the publishers plan gradually to augment until it covers the field of controverted topics in American political, economic and social affairs in which there is any widespread public interest. The plan of the book is to present first the facts in regard to immigration—its history, causes and conditions. In pt. 2 the effects of immigration are discussed. In pt. 3 the history of past legislation upon the subject is given, and various proposed remedies for the evils of immigration are described. Pt. 4 deals with Chinese immigration. Copies of the federal immigration acts now in force are apperded. Mr. Hall is Secretary of the Immigration Restriction League. The series will be edited by Dr. Ralph Curtis Ringwalt of the New York Bar.

Haselton, J. H. The Declaration of Independence: its history. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1906. [F.] c. 8+629 p. il. fac-sims., O. cl. **$4.50 net.

A readable and reliable history of the Declaration of Independence, its basis being original sources entirely. The work begins with the events of the three years prior to July 4, 1776, showing the initial steps toward independence taken by the colonies; followed by a chapter on the drafting of the document; the signing; the effect of the Declaration; the fireworks of 1776; the first anniversary; the whereabouts of the Declaration on parchment since 1776.

Herrick, Albert Bledsoe. Practical electric railway hand book. 2d ed., rev. and corr. N. Y., McGraw Publishing Co., 1906. c. '01, '06. 4+460 p. S. limp leath., *$3 net.

Editors are professors of political economy, Johns Hopkins University. In the winter of 1902 the Economic Seminary of the Johns Hopkins University, composed of a small body of advanced students, undertook an investigation of the history, activities and influence of labor organizations in the United States. These essays are the result of their studies. Contents: Introduction, J. H. Hollander; The government of the Typographic Union, G. E. Barnett; The structure of the Cigar Makers' Union, T. W. Glocker; The finances of the Iron Molders' Union, A. M. Salkowski; The minimum wage in the Machinists' Union, W. H. Buckler; Collective bargaining in the Typographical Union, G. E. Barnett; Employers' Associations in the United States, F. W. Hilbert; Trade-union agreements in the Iron Molders' Union, F. W. Hilbert; Apprenticeship in the building trades, Ja. M. Motley; Trade-union rules in the building trades, Solomon Blum; The beneficiary features of the railway unions, J. B. Kennedy; The Knights of Labor and the American Federation of Labor, W. Kirk.

Horton, G. The edge of hazard; with pictures by C. M. Relyea. Indianapolis, Ind., Bobbs-Merrill Co., [1906. Mr.] c. '06. 5+429 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

A young Bostonian, member of the smart set, losing his money, his fair weather friends, and the girl he loves all at the same time, feels pretty "sore." He accepts, without much protest, an appointment obtained for him by an old friend of his father to go to Russia to take charge of one of the American Trading Company's stores at Stryetensk, Siberia. The time is just before the outbreak of the Japanese war with Russia, when both countries were in a ferment. His adventures are most exciting on his way to his destination. Twice or three times he is arrested as a spy; falls before the fascinations of two women spies, one a Russian, the other a Japanese, and has other thrilling happenings.

ley Fertilizer Co., [1905.] c. 137 p. il. 16°, cl., 50 c.

Kuhn, Max. All happy: a hint from Mr. Max Kuhn, chief controller of the Waldorf-Astoria, concerning a method of keeping everybody happy who is engaged in the conduct of a hotel, café or restaurant. N. Y., [Max Kuhn,] 1905. c. 160 p. il. pors. col. pl., forms, D. cl., $1.

A description of the Kuhn checking system now in use in many hotels and restaurants as a guard against errors and dishonesty. It is a simple scheme, patented by Mr. Kuhn, chief controller of the Waldorf-Astoria, who claims that it makes "all happy" where it is in operation—the proprietor, the guest, the checker, the waiter, and the cashier. The account is illustrated by many fac-similes of dinner checks, cashiers' records, etc., and letters testifying to the quick service and accurate accounting rendered by the use of the Kuhn system. Contains a list of game, fruits, fish, etc., with time they are in season; a list of New York hotels; "Some successful recipes."

Lewis, Mrs. Harriet. Adrift in the world: a sequel to "A vixen's treachery." N. Y., Street & Smith, [1906.] c. '73, '92. 2+220-430 p. D. (Eagle ser. of popular fiction.) pap., 10 c.

Printing Co., 1905. c. 147 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

Lynde, Francis. The quickening; with il. by E. M. Ashe. Indianapolis, Ind., Bobbs-Merrill Co., [1906. Mr.] c. 6+407 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Paradise Valley in Tennessee was the home of the characters. The ones who play leading parts are Major Dabney, an old Confederate soldier and chief owner of the land in that vicinity, his pretty niece Ardea, Caleb Gordon, owner of an iron-furnace, and also an old soldier of the war, and his son, Tom. The time is in the '80's, twenty years after the Civil War had ended, when Northern capital was seeking investment in the rich fields of coal and iron ore of Tennessee. The development of Tom Gordon's character is the dominant theme. Destined from his birth to be a preacher, Tom goes through many phases of doubt and unbelief before he touches ground. All through the story Ardea Dabney is Tom's guardian angel, the young man's inherent goodness bringing him safely through. Tom becomes a man when his father needs a friend, successfully fighting a dishonest Northern promoter, who has them in his clutches. By the author of "The grafters."

McCord, Lottie. Only a horse; or, Tom's reform. Emporia, Kan., McCord & McCord, 1905. c. 3+184 p. il. 16°, cl., $1.

Adventures of two horses based almost entirely on facts. Designed to encourage gentleness towards domestic animals.

McCrudden, Francis H. Uric acid: the chemistry, physiology and pathology of uric acid and the physiologically important purin bodies; with a discussion of the metabolism in gout. N. Y., Paul B. Hoeber, [1906.] c. '05. 11+318 p. O. pap., $2.50 net.

The results of the author's investigations and balancing of opinions of eminent chemists concerning uric acid have led him to the conclusion "that rheumatic diseases and uric-acid metabolism do not, at the present time, seem closely related."

Macdonald, Ronald. The sea maid. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1906. [Ja.] c. 6+328 p. D. cl., $1.50.

In 1883 the Dean of Beckminster and his wife were supposed to be drowned at sea. Twenty years after an English bank-clerk, who, by many deaths, had become a British peer, sailed for Australia to join his family. Many comic and tragic incidents, including a mutiny on the ship, lead to about 60 people being put off in boats near a coral island in Polynesia. There the long-lost Dean, his wife and a daughter, born in their exile, are found. The fun, knowledge of human nature, and views of so-called civilization, make a bright story of surprises.

Macnaughton, S. A Lame Dog's diary: a novel. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1906. [F.] c. 4+311 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The "lame dog" is a young Englishman who had lost a leg in the South African war. He is at home in a little English village, being nursed back to health and strength by his sister, Palestrina. Time hangs heavy on his hands, so advised by Mrs. Fielden, a charming young widow, he starts a diary. Mrs. Fielden has a keen sense of humor, and makes him many consolatory visits; between them they miss few of the queer characteristics of the odd people among whom they live. The story is one of every-day events, made attractive by the way in which they are presented. By the author of "The fortune of Christina McNab."

Merriam, G: S. The negro and the nation: a history of American slavery and enfranchisement. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1906. [F.] c. 4+436 p. D. cl., $1.75 net.

An impartial survey of the negro problem in America since the 17th century. The conditions necessitating the importation of slaves are described; the attitude of the "fathers of the nation" towards the blacks; the rise and progress of the Abolition movement, culminating in the Civil War; the effects of emancipation in Reconstruction days; and, in conclusion, the present status of the negro in the United States, his rights, his future and his relation to the whites, are all exhaustively discussed.

Muenchgesang, Rob. In quest of truth: glimpses of Roman scenes during the reign of the Emperor Domitian; with an appendix explanatory of foreign expressions and historical names. St. Louis, Mo., B. Herder, 1905. c. 203 p. il. 16°, cl., 80 c.

Naish, Ethel M. Browning and dogma: seven lectures on Browning's attitude towards dogmatic religion. N. Y., Macmillan, 1906. 13+210 p. 12°, cl., $1.40 net.

Naylor, Ja. Ball. The Kentuckian: a thrilling tale of Ohio life in the early sixties; il. by A. B. Shute. Bost., C. M. Clark Publishing Co., Inc., 1905. c. 5+385 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Vance Chatham, the Kentuckian, came up into Ohio, one November day, almost half a century ago, looking for some means of earning a living. He had lost his parents, and his home, the only possession left him being his thoroughbred "Kaintuck," his father's last gift. He falls in with a group of horse thieves, with whom he has some remarkable adventures and engages to teach school in the neighborhood. He has a love affair, marries and afterwards enlists in the Union Army. The story is one of the life of the time—the horse "Kaintuck" being a conspicuous actor in it. The coming Civil War and the abolition of slavery are foretold.

New York [State.] A digest of statutes and reports, from Jan. 1, 1905, to Jan. 1, 1906; with tables of statutes, constitutional provisions, rules of court, and cases cited; being a continuation of Abbott's N. Y. digest, by Ja. MacGregor Smith. N. Y., Baker, Voorhis & Co., 1906. c. 29+450 p. O. shp., $5.

Ohio. A digest of all decisions of the courts of the state from 1802 to 1905, and all cases decided in the courts of the U. S. affecting or relating to O. law, including the supreme, circuit and district federal judicatories. v. 2, (Birds to Coroner;) comp. and ed. under the supervision of J. F. Laning. Norwalk, Laning Print. Co., 1905. c. 5 p. 2169-4232 columns, O. shp., $7.50.

Ohio. Federal cts. Reports of cases growing out of controversies arising in O., or construing O. statutes. O. federal decisions, v. 12-14. Norwalk, Laning Print. Co., 1905. c. '04. O. shp., ea., $2.50.

Olmsted, Stanley. The Nonchalante: casual data touching the career of Dixie Bilton, operettensängerin at Beilmar. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1906. [F.] c. 1+247 p. D. cl., $1.25.

A German university town, two students, one studying chemistry, the other studying his surroundings, and a young opera singer are the ingredients with which the author fashions an original love story. The girl is a coquette and loves new excitements. She is careless and musical and changeable and she leads the men she first meets at a restaurant a very exciting life for some time. Gives quite an insight into student life in Germany and into the temperamental differences of Americans and Germans.

Rankin, Carroll Watson. The girls of Gardenville. N. Y., H. Holt & Co., 1906. [F.] c. 7+317 p. il. D. cl., †$1.50.

The author of "Dandelion Cottage" has now written the happenings of "The Sweet Sixteen Club" of Gardenville, a small Michigan city. Boys were very scarce and the girls looked to themselves for pleasant, healthy amusements, excursions and other occurrences of typical American life. In fifteen separate chapters almost every girl shows her special characteristics.

Remington, F. The way of an Indian; written and il. by F. Remington. N. Y., Fox, Duffield & Co., 1906. [F.] c. 4-252 p. O. cl., **$1.50 net.

Contents: White Otter's own shadow; The Brown Bat proves itself; The Bat devises mischief among the Yellow-Eyes; The new lodge; "The kites and the crows;" The Fire Eater's bad medicine; Among the pony-soldiers; The medicine-fight of the Chis-chis-chash.

Roberts, Morley. The idlers; with a frontispiece in col. by J. C. Frohn. Bost., L. C. Page & Co., 1906. [F.] c. '05, '06. 2+362 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A remarkably handsome, but rather dull young man is the hero. He is of a good family and has been under the care of tutors for years, but never acquired any education. With no profession and with few interests, he is thrown into the London smart set. The story revolves around him; his doings are not always to be spoken of frankly, and after several slips into the mire, he marries a good, sensible girl, and settles down to lead a new life.

The characters are most despicable. They borrow money, gamble and cheat at bridge, love others than their own wives and husbands and do other "idle" things.

Rowell, G. Presbury. Forty years an advertising agent, 1865-1905. N. Y., Printers' Ink Publishing Co., 1906. 517 p. il. por. D. cl., **$2 net.

Runkle, Bertha, [now Mrs. L. Bash.] The truth about Tolna. N. Y., Century Co., 1906. 5+359 p. col. front. D. cl., †$1.50.

Second novel by the author of "The helmet of Navarre." This, however, is a comedy of present-day New York, centering in the character of Tolna, a Metropolitan Opera House tenor purported to be a Hungarian with a history, but in reality a New York boy who years before had been virtually adopted by a musician, educated and pushed into a musical career. These two men find themselves seemingly at odds over the same girl, and it is only when Tolna makes a virtue of truth-telling that the misunderstandings lead to a happy ending.

Savage, C. Woodcock. A lady in waiting: being extracts from the Diary of Julie de Chesnil, sometime lady in waiting to Her Majesty Queen Marie Antoinette. N. Y., Appleton, 1906. 4+330 p. il. por. D. cl., †$1.50.

The diary through which the story is told purports to have been found in an old cabinet, bought within a few years at an auction sale, in Paris, by a young artist. The diary begins with the young heroine going to Paris, where she becomes lady in waiting to the French Queen, and also her confidential friend. The girl's love story is rich in romance. She is separated by treachery from the man she loves, only to be reunited to him many years later in the United States, where she flees in disguise during the French Revolution. All her family die by the guillotine, she being saved through a friend's devotion. In America she meets Washington, Hamilton, Aaron Burr, and other great men.

Schouler, Ja. Americans of 1776. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1906. [F.] c. 13+317 p. D. cl., **$2 net.

By the author of "A history of the United States," "Eighty years of union," etc. "This book is not a new narrative history of the Revolution nor a new arrangement of old historical material. It is an original study of life and manners, social, industrial and political, for the Revolutionary period. Newspapers, magazines and pamphlets of the period, old letters and diaries have been explored, and the results of a personal investigation among hidden but trustworthy matter are here set forth."—The Preface. Some of the subjects considered are freemen and bondmen, Colonial literature, recreations and amusements, dress and diet, religious influences, philanthropy and disease, libraries and clubs.

Seaman, L. Livingston, M.D. The real triumph of Japan: the conquest of the silent foe. N. Y., Appleton, 1906. c. 9+291 p. il. D. cl., **$1.50 net.

Dr. Seaman, late Surgeon-Major, U. S. V. E. and military attaché, with passes to the extreme front in Mongolia during Japan's war with Russia, made a very thorough study of the work of the Japanese hospital camps and surgeons, especially their successful combating of disease, by every appliance of army hygiene, dietary rules, and surgical skill. He makes a comparison between the efficiency of the Japanese, and the awful bungling of our medical service during the Spanish war. He says: "The medical and sanitary officers of the Japanese army have proved that the normal condition of the soldier is health, and that those who die in war should fall on the firing line and not by the wayside, from disease." Author of "From Tokio through Manchuria with the Japanese."

Sears, J. H. The physical geography, geology, mineralogy and paleontology of Essex County, Massachusetts. Salem, Mass., Es-

Short treatise (A) on the destructive distillation of bituminous coal; with reference to the United-Otto system of by-product coke ovens. N. Y., United Coke and Gas Co., 1906. c. 146 p. il. diags., 8°, limp suede, gratis.

Intended to afford general information, the book avoids technicalities. Describes the bee-hive oven; the coal gas retort; gas; benzol recovery; preparation of coal for cooking; uses of tar; uses of ammonia; the blast furnace, etc. Illustrated with full-page designs of machinery and portraits of men who have furnished distinctive inventions.

Sinclair, Upton. The jungle. N. Y., Doubleday, Page & Co., 1906. [F.] c. '05, '06. 5+413 p. D. cl., *$1.50.

A suburb of Chicago known in the story as Packington, whose inhabitants are mostly Lithuanian emigrants working in the stock yards of Chicago, is the scene. The fortunes of one family in particular are followed, from the wedding day of the young couple, which is celebrated with all the quaint ceremony of the old world, down through their miserable poverty and degradation, and that of their immediate relatives. The picture is a most painful one, in which no realistic detail is omitted, of a slavery to capital that has few parallels. Before accepting the novel the publishers sent a lawyer to Chicago to investigate "Packington" conditions, that they might be sure they could in fairness publish it. His report amply verified the truth of the story. By the author of "Manassas" and "King Midas."

Y., H: Holt & Co., 1906. c. 8+312 p. O. cl., **$3 net.

The primary object of the present study is to determine the proportionate share taken by heredity in the formation of mental and moral life. The author, who is lecturer in the Biological Department of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, asks: "Are our natures predetermined; or, will fine and fit surroundings, just laws, hygiene, education, or, in other words, equality of opportunity, bring about the long-looked-for Utopia?" His work is a summary of the characteristics of the members of the modern royal families (3300 persons being represented), illustrated with charts, tables, portraits, etc. Bibliography (5 p.).

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

GEORGE T. WATKINS, 20 Fenno Street, Roxbury, Mass., has compiled and published a "Bibliography of Printing in America: Books, Pamphlets and Some Articles in Magazines relating to the History of Printing in the New World." Mr. Watkins, who is a compositor on the Boston Globe, and therefore must do his bibliographic work at odd hours and under more than ordinary drawbacks, has brought together nearly four hundred titles more or less intimately connected with his subject, with such exceptions as noted in his preface, namely, the works relating to Franklin, indexed in Ford's Bibliography of Franklin, and the catalogues of special collections in Boston, Philadelphia and Washington. His work as a first attempt of its kind naturally is somewhat uneven, certain works, especially bibliographies, having been included that might well have been omitted, inasmuch as others of equal importance have not been included. Otherwise, however, the work has been conscientiously done, and, on the whole, deserves recognition, and will serve as a good basis for a more comprehensive work. (32 p. 8°, pap., $1. Limited to 300 copies.)

CATALOGUES OF NEW AND SECOND-HAND BOOKS.—C. G. Boerner, 14 Nürnbergerstr., Leipzig, Theater and music. (No. 4, 644 titles.)—Burgersdijk & Niermans, Leyden, Holland, Bibliotheca classica. # The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYFOLDT.

MARCH 3, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

CUMULATIVE PERIODICALS IN POSTAL RELATIONS.

It is to be regretted that under the administration of the new Postmaster-General a ruling has been made by Third Assistant Postmaster-General Madden which shows the same old spirit of bureaucracy and endeavor by administrative process to correct what Mr. Madden regards as the mistakes of Congress. The Wilson Cumulative Book Review Digest has been denied entry as second-class matter on the ground that the cumulative issues of the enterprise are "books, complete in themselves, most of them incorporating all of the matter contained in previous issues." It cannot be denied that this is a publication "issued at stated intervals, 'etc., etc.,' devoted to literature, and having a legitimate list of subscribers," and that it is "not designed primarily for advertising purposes, or for free circulation, or for circulation at nominal rates." It is a new publication, but its principle of cumulation is not new. THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, now in its thirty-fifth year, or, as the continuation of the American Literary Gazette incorporated with it, more than a half century old, has for many years past utilized the principle of cumulation, re-working its Weekly Record into monthly lists, and these into annual or more frequent cumulations, repeating the same information in more compact and convenient shape from time to time for the benefit of its subscribers and in the interests of literature.

Mr. Wilson has developed a series of publications in competition with those of this office in which at the start the cumulative principle was carried to the extreme of repeating all the material in the original form each month for a whole year, though this scheme has been modified to make the complete cumulation less frequent. We may regret this rivalry and may suggest to our mutual constituency that it is not in the permanent interest of the publishing trade to divide support in so limited a field. But that is our own affair and not the business of the Post-Office. The cumulative process is an expensive one, and if the Post-Office Department should rule out our quarterly and annual cumulations we should probably not lose a single subscriber and we might increase the patronage of our separate "Annual Catalog." But we have considered that these cumulations were of importance to our subscribers and in their measure a service to literature. The cumulative method is not so essential a feature of our own as of the rival publication, but both periodicals should have the same rights before the law. The method is in fact used more or less by other publications outside Mr. Wilson's office or our own, and Mr. Madden's reasoning, if it can be called such, might easily be extended to the very useful class of publications which are made up practically altogether of selected matter.

The law indicates no such discrimination, and this action is entirely outside the law. It is simply an endeavor of a postal official to limit the one cent rate, which may be very wrong but which has been voted by Congress. The Department has no right to overrule Congress, and this decision ought not to stand under an administration which recognizes the authority of Congress. We believe it would not stand under appeal to the courts—but unfortunately such appeal in this case would be so expensive as to be prohibitive. But it will not be to the credit of the present administration if this piece of bureaucratic despotism is allowed to stand. We trust therefore that there may be the appeal to and a hearing before the Postmaster-General provided for in the postal regulations.

At a special meeting of the American Publishers' Association, held February 26, the following members were added to the Board of Directors: W. C. Bobbs, of the Bobbs-Merrill Company; Frank N. Doubleday, of Doubleday, Page & Co., and M. Murray Brown, of Little, Brown & Co. The choice is an unusually wise one and will materially strengthen the Board in one direction at least, by having again a representative in the West.

AMERICAN NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE twentieth annual meeting of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association was held on February 22 to 23, at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York City. Among the topics discussed were the advisability of the Association preparing a series of articles on the value of newspaper advertising compared with magazine advertising; whether the Copyright law should be pushed to include the protection of cable dispatches, etc.

The officers of the Association were re-elected as follows: President, S. S. Rogers, of The Chicago Daily News; vice-president, W. L. McLean, of The Philadelphia Bulletin; secretary, Herbert F. Gunnison of The Brooklyn Eagle, and treasurer Edward P. Call, of The New York Commercial. Charles W. Knapp, of The St. Louis Republic, and Hilton U. Brown, of The Indianapolis News were re-elected to the executive committee. Two members of the executive committee resigned, namely, Joseph T. Nevin, of The Pittsburg Leader, and H. H. Cabaniss, of The Augusta Chronicle. Their places were filled by the election of Frank P. Glass, of The Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser, and William H. Self, of The Pittsburg Times.

THE PUBLISHERS' LEAGUE.

THE PUBLISHERS' LEAGUE, made up entirely of publishers of daily and weekly newspapers, has been formed to make propaganda for the reduction of the tariff on linotype and composing machines. The League petitions Congress to remove the existing tariff of forty-five per cent. on composing or linotype machines and their parts, in order to encourage the introduction of machines of foreign manufacture at lower prices. The League is also endeavoring to have the patent laws amended so that competition in manufacturing cheaper composing machines in this country may be stimulated. The Publishers' League has its offices in the Beach Building, Twenty-third Street, between Fourth and Lexington Avenues, New York, with Frank H. Lancaster as secretary. There are no fixed charges for membership in the League, the expenses of the organization being paid from funds voluntarily subscribed.

BEST-SELLING FICTION IN JANUARY.

ACCORDING to The Bookman the following novels were most in demand during January:

	POINTS.
1. The House of Mirth. Wharton. Scribner's.....	260
2. The House of a Thousand Candles. Nicholson. Bobbs-Merrill Co.....	206
3. The Conquest of Canaan. Tarkington. Harper.....	174
4. Nedra. McCutcheon. Dodd, Mead & Co.....	80
5. The Gambler. Thurston. Harper....	76
6. The Wheel of Life. Glasgow. Doubleday, Page & Co.....	73

HENRY HOLT, NOVELIST.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish on the 17th inst. those much-lauded and much-condemned anonymous novels, "Calmire" and "Sturmsee," the latter somewhat shorn of what some critics pronounced its inordinate length. The criticism of these books has been peculiar. Some of the dogmatic religious papers found no terms, even of contempt, too strong to express their disapproval of "Calmire," and critics of socialistic tendencies spoke in the same way of "Sturmsee"; but other critics gave both books a degree of praise seldom equalled. Unless his range of accomplishment shall excite surprise, the announcement of Mr. Henry Holt's authorship of these two novels will not arouse much of that emotion among those who have read his "Talks on Civics" and his recent essays in the Atlantic and the Review of Reviews, or even his earlier essays in the Forum. The change of imprint is due to Mr. Holt's recent appearance in the Atlantic, and to Boston's having shown special interest in both "Sturmsee" and "Calmire." The Boston Public Library is, so far, the only one in the country reporting "Sturmsee" among the books most in demand, and "Calmire's" concealed authorship led to the printing of much speculation and correspondence in the Boston papers, while those papers were specially strong in praise of both books.

WARNING TO A BOOK FOOL.

LUCIAN, one of the most brilliant satirists of the post-Christian Era, called the "silver age of Greek literature," nearly two thousand years ago gave the following warning to an illiterate book fancier, which is taken from "The Works of Lucian of Samosata," translated by H. W. and F. G. Fowler, recently published by the Oxford University Press, in four volumes:

"Let me tell you, that you are choosing the worst way to attain your object. You think that by buying up all the best books you can lay your hands on, you will pass for a man of literary tastes; not a bit of it; you are merely exposing thereby your own ignorance of literature. Why, you cannot even buy the right things: any casual recommendation is enough to guide your choice; you are as clay in the hands of the unscrupulous amateur, and as good as cash down to any dealer. How are you to know the difference between genuine old books that are worth money, and trash whose only merit is that it is falling to pieces? You are reduced to taking the worms and moths into your confidence; their activity is your sole clue to the value of a book; as to the accuracy and fidelity of the copyist, that is quite beyond you. And supposing even that you had managed to pick out such veritable treasures as the exquisite editions of Callinus, or those of the far-famed Atticus, most conscientious of publishers—what does it profit you? Their beauty means nothing to you, my poor friend; you will get precisely as much enjoyment out of them as a blind lover would derive from the possession of a handsome mistress. . . . You may get together the works of Demosthenes, and his eight beautiful copies of Thucydides, all in the orator's own handwriting, and all the manuscripts that Sulla sent away from Athens to Italy—and you will be no nearer to culture at the end of it, though you should sleep with them under your pillow, or paste them together and wear them as a garment; an ape is still an ape, says the proverb, though his trappings be of gold. So it is with you: you have always a book in your hand, you are always reading; but what it is all about, you have no idea; you do not prick up asinine ears at the lyre's sound. Books would be precious things indeed, if the mere possession of them guaranteed culture to their owner. You rich men would have it all your own way then; we paupers could not stand against you, if learning were a marketable commodity; and as for the dealers, no one would presume to contest the point of culture with men who have whole shopfuls of books at their disposal. . . . What is your idea, now, in all this rolling and unrolling of scrolls? To what end the gluing and the trimming, the cedar-oil and saffron, the leather cases and the bosses? . . . You are determined not to be cured. Very well: buy book upon book, shut them safely up, and reap the glory that comes of possession: only, let that be enough; presume not to touch nor read; pollute not with that tongue the poetry and eloquence of the ancients; what harm have they ever done to you?"

COPYRIGHT TREATY WITH JAPAN RATIFIED.

THE Senate, on February 28, ratified a treaty with Japan, extending to the citizens of each of the two countries the privileges of copyright in the other. The convention is along the lines laid down by the international copyright conference.

OBITUARY NOTES.

WILLIAM HARDCASTLE BROWNE, author and lawyer, died on February 24 at Philadelphia. Mr. Browne was born in Philadelphia, November 14, 1840. In 1888 impaired health compelled him to retire from active practice in the legal profession and he devoted himself entirely to literary work. His best-known books include abridged editions of Blackstone's and Kent's "Commentaries," "Heart Throbs of Gifted Authors," "Passion Play," "Witty Sayings by Witty People," "Words and Phrases," and an abridged edition of the Waverley Novels.

JOHN TREAT IRVING, a nephew of Washington Irving, died on February 27 at his home in New York, where he was born on September 2, 1812. He was the oldest living alumnus of Columbia College, having been graduated with the class of '29. After being graduated Mr. Irving took up the study of law and was admitted to the bar. Although he gained much distinction in the legal profession, Mr. Irving devoted a great deal of time to literary pursuits. He published several books of travel and fiction under the pseudonym of "John Quod." Among his works are "Indian Sketches," which were published in 1835 and again in 1888; "Hawk Chief," "The Attorney," "Harry Harson" and "The Van Gelder Papers."

SAMUEL PIERPONT LANGLEY, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution and widely known as a scientist, died on February 27 at Aiken, S. C. Professor Langley was born at Roxbury, Mass., August 22, 1834. Graduating from the Boston High School, he for a time practiced architecture and civil engineering and then became assistant at the Harvard Observatory. Later he became professor of mathematics at the U. S. Naval Academy and then director of the Allegheny Observatory. In 1887 he was appointed to the position he held at the time of his death. Among his published works are "The New Astronomy," "Researches on Solar Heat," and "Experiments in Aerodynamics." He was a frequent contributor to scientific journals and the magazines.

DR. JOHN WILLIAMSON PALMER, the well-known writer and editor, died on February 26, in Baltimore, Md. Dr. Palmer was born in Baltimore, April 4, 1825, and was graduated from the medical department of the University of Maryland in 1847. After practicing medicine in San Francisco, Cal., Dr. Palmer travelled in the Orient, serving as surgeon of a war steamer in the Hon. East India Company's service in the second Burmese war, 1851-1852. Returning to the United States he took up literary work. During the war between the States he was correspondent for the New York Tribune. After the war he engaged in journalistic work. When work on the "Century Dictionary" was begun Dr. Palmer joined its editorial staff. Later he became one of the editors of the "Standard Dictionary" and of The Literary Digest. On the coronation of Queen Wilhelmina he wrote "Up with the Orange, the War Cry of William the Silent," for the Holland Society of New York, for a copy of which he received a testimonial from the Queen. His most popular poems were "Stonewall Jackson's Way," written during the battle of Antietam, and "Fred Braddock." Among his other works were "The Queen's Heart," a comedy; "The New and Old," "Up and Down the Irrawaddy," "Folk Songs" and a number of translations from the French classics. He leaves a wife and a son, Courtland E. Palmer, of New York.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE February issue of The Burlington Magazine, published in this country by Robert Grier Cooke, of New York, contains an article of interest to American collectors by C. J. Holmes on "Three New Pictures for the Metropolitan Museum"—"Ariadne," by G. F. Watts; "Study in Oils," by William Etty, and the "Virgin of Salamanca," by the Maitre de Flemalle. Students of Velasquez will be interested in Archibald G. B. Russell's description of a new portrait of Don Diego Corral in the collection of the Prado, to whose extraordinary series of the masterpieces of Velasquez a generous bequest has added this. Under the title of "The Classification of Oriental Carpets" appears a concluding illustrated article of the series. Another continued series is on "English Miniature Painters," by Sir Richard R. Holmes, beautifully illustrated, as likewise is Claude Phillips's "Dramatic Portraiture," the opening article in this number.

The International Studio for March makes a plea for the preservation of a masterpiece of American architecture, the Allegheny County Court House at Pittsburgh, the best work of the architect, H. H. Richardson. This notable example of the American revival of Romanesque architecture is in danger of being hopelessly mutilated by the proposed action of the city authorities in adding several stories to the present building. Mr. John Theodore Comes, the well-known architect of Pittsburgh, makes a vigorous plea against this threatened vandalism that should interest all persons who care for the standing of American architecture. The recent notable exhibition of the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts in Philadelphia is described in an illustrated article by David Lloyd. A brief review of American ceramics is made the subject of a fully illustrated article by Mrs. Clara Ruge. A. L. Baldry discusses the work of the well-known sculptor, Alfred Drury, presenting among the illustrations several full-page examples of his figures. An important exhibition of British artists shown recently at Messrs. Agnew's, London, under the style "Independent British Art," is described with illustrations by E. G. Halton. A. S. Covey writes of the work of Ludwig Herterich, the German painter, and a copious description will be found of the recent Arts and Crafts Exhibition at the Grafton Galleries.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

KIPLING will have ready for the fall a new volume of stories for children to be entitled "Puck of Pook's Hill." The stories are said to show something of the fanciful vein of "They."

ANNE WARNER FRENCH, the author of the Susan Clegg stories and "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," has just returned to this country from an extended trip abroad. She has a new Susan Clegg book, to include the three part story, "The Wolf at Susan's Door," ready for publication this spring by Little, Brown & Co.

NEITH BOYCE, author of "The Eternal Spring," just published by Fox, Duffield & Company, is the wife of Hutchins Hapgood, author of "The Autobiography of a Thief," and some other unconventional literary work in books and magazines. She is also a sister-in-law of Norman Hapgood, editor of Collier's Weekly, who has been of late very much in the lime light, owing to the Town Topics libel suit. In publishing her books, however, Mrs. Hapgood insists upon using her own maiden name as a sort of pseudonym, not wishing to shine with any reflected glory.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

CASSELL & COMPANY announce a new novel by the Rev. Silas K. Hocking, entitled "A Human Face."

HUTCHINSON & Co. will publish shortly a new book by H. Rider Haggard entitled "The Way of the Spirit."

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish this spring Robert W. Chambers's new story "The Tracer of Lost Persons," which deals with the methods by which certain friends of a young clubman obtained a wife for him; also "The Castle of Lies," a story of adventure by Arthur Henry Vesey.

A LARGE staff is at work on a new edition of the "Encyclopædia Britannica," to be issued some years hence. There is a possibility, the Book Monthly says, that it may be brought out in America before the date at which it can be published in England, only this will depend on when it will be ready.

THE AUTHORS AND NEWSPAPERS ASSOCIATION, of 11 Pine Street, New York, with which Frank F. Lovell and John W. Lovell are connected, have in preparation a publishing scheme calculated to startle the conservative members of the trade. The plans of the Association have not yet been definitely completed, but an announcement of its plan may be expected in a few weeks.

CHARLES D. RAYMER, of Spokane, Wash., has compiled and will publish next month a "Dictionary of Spokane," which gives in condensed form a large amount of information for business men and householders. Mr. Raymer recently discovered in a bundle of pamphlets purchased for a dollar from a woman who was moving her home a copy of "Webb's Masonic Monitor," published in 1797. The book is so scarce that its existence has even been doubted.

WHITCOMB & BARROWS, Huntington Chambers, Boston, will publish this spring "A Cook Book for Nurses," by Sarah C. Hill, Instructor in Cooking in the Michael Reese Hospital, Chicago. The author's aim has been to condense recipes and to bring together in tabular form recipes for dishes identical in method of cooking and differing in only one or two ingredients. The book will be equally useful for cases not demanding a nurse's care, but in which the diet must be carefully superintended at home.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. announce a work entitled "Practical Rowing with Scull and Sweep," written by Arthur W. Stevens as a result of a close study of the theory and practice of this branch of athletics for a decade past in connection with school, college and university crews in Boston and Cambridge. To the book has been added important chapters on "The Effects of Training," by Dr. Darling, an official study of two Harvard University crews at close range, including observations of football training and over-training. The illustrations in the book are from instantaneous photographs and include views of 1905 Harvard crew in action at New London.

THE C. M. CLARK PUBLISHING COMPANY have just ready "In the Shoestring Country," by Frederick Chamberlain, a story of the South, which treats of the struggle between the white Republican and the white Democrat for the right of suffrage, under conditions in which both find themselves in danger of losing their political rights merely because equal privileges are constitutionally given to the black man. They will publish later Louise M. Hopkins's "Signal Lights," a story of life at a frontier post, with a hero who is captured by the Indians and who lives among them some months. Although written originally for boys the story has sufficient incident to make it interesting reading also for the grown-ups.

FOX, DUFFIELD & Co. will publish on March 31, "The Ghosts of Their Ancestors," a story of old New York, by Weymer Jay Mills, author of "Caroline of Courtlandt Street," with pictures in color by John Rae. They will publish in the spring Mr. Okakura-Kakuzo's long delayed work "The Book of Tea," an interpretation of Japanese life. Since its first announcement a year ago Mr. Okakura has been summoned to Japan by the Mikado on an important mission and appointed curator of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts—two "assignments" that have kept him too busy to complete his book on time. They will bring out in May "Reminiscences of My Childhood and Youth," by the Danish critic, George Brandes. The translation into English is the work of Mr. G. M. Fox-Davies.

THE JEWISH PUBLICATION SOCIETY OF AMERICA, Philadelphia, will issue in the spring a biography of Rashi, the great Jewish commentator on the Bible and the Talmud, the eight hundredth anniversary of whose death was commemorated in the summer of 1905. The opening chapter deals with the Jews of France in the 11th century, and the concluding chapters, in which Rashi's influence is discussed, sketch the development of Talmud and Bible studies among the Jews down to the present time. Besides giving the data of the life of Rashi, the book describes his works in detail and presents specimens of his method of explaining the ancient literature of the Jews. The book, specially prepared for the Society, was written by M. Maurice Liber, of Paris. The French manuscript has been translated into English by Miss Adele Szold.

F. E. HAFELY, well-known through his long connection with the firm of E. & J. B. Young & Co., has made arrangements for the American agency of Hills & Co., Ltd., of London, for the exclusive sale of their Empire Series of Christmas, birthday and Easter cards; the Rosemary Series of personal Christmas and New Year's cards; the Empire Series of wall texts; Ye St. Luke's Press series of booklets and birthday text books and a line of high-class colotype prints, pictures, etc. All these publications are among the most artistic in the market and are already in demand in this country. Mr. Hafely is installing a show room at No. 27 East Twenty-second Street, New York City, where stock will be kept on hand to meet all reasonable current demands.

Catalogues are in course of preparation and will be mailed on application.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY announce a new novel, "The Way of the Gods," by John Luther Long, author of "Madame Butterfly," etc.; a volume of "Studies in Roman History," by E. G. Hardy of Jesus College, Oxford, which consists in a re-issue of the author's "Christianity and the Roman Government," with the addition of several other essays on more or less special subjects in Roman history; "The New Earth," by W. S. Harwood, whose "New Creations in Plant Life" is just appearing in a new edition; "The Blackmore Country," by E. J. Snell, a new volume in the Pilgrimage Series, with fifty pictures from photographs of the country which forms the background of "Lorna Doone," "The Maid of Sker" and "Perleycross"; also, a large paper edition, of 100 copies, of Owen Wister's novel, "Lady Baltimore," which will be brought out in April.

By arrangement with T. N. Foulis of London, John W. Luce and Company of Boston, will issue at once with the latter's imprint in America, The Spirit of the Age Series, the first of which will be "Whistler," by Haldane Macfall, and the second, "Robert Louis Stevenson" by Eve Blantyre Simpson. The publishers announce that it is their purpose to comprise in this series a collection of little books uniform in general style and appearance and having for their subjects men and women, whose work and influence, in whatever field of literature or art was their chosen one, may be said to faintly reflect the spirit or tendencies of cultivated thought at the present time. The treatment of the subject matter will not be conventional, the chief aim being to present to the readers a living, marching personality, breathing with the individuality characteristic of the person. Mr. Macfall is the son of Mrs. Haldane McFall, better known as "Sarah Grand," author of "The Heavenly Twins."

THE JOHN C. WINSTON COMPANY have set April 2 for the publication date of "The Bishop" of Cottontown," John Trotwood Moore's new novel of life in a Southern town, where the cotton industry furnishes many of the dramatic situations and leading characters of the book. A colored frontispiece and drawings in black and white by the Kinneys will illustrate the book. From the large number of advance orders already received, the publishers believe that the "Bishop's" popularity will far exceed that of the same author's "The Summer Hymnal" or "Songs and Stories from Tennessee." They have also in press a new book of "Toasts" compiled and illustrated by Clare Victor Dwiggins, whose "Crankisms" and "Completed Proverbs" are well-known to lovers of dainty whimsicality in pen drawing. The book will be cut out into an original shape, and placed on sale during March. They will also publish "Rubaiyat of the Egg," with illustrations by Dwiggins.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready a story of American rural life, entitled "Miss Primrose," by Roy Rolfe Gilson, author of "When Love is Young," etc. They announce a new edition of "Harper's Book of Facts," brought down to date by competent scholars; "Chat-wit, the Man-talk Bird," a new book by Philip Verril Mighels, author of "Bruvver Jim's Baby," in which the author writes of the animals of his native State, Nevada, in much the same way as Kipling wrote of the wild beasts of India in his "Jungle" books; also, a new book by Irving Bacheller, entitled "Silas Strong, Emperor of the Woods," the scene of which is laid in the northwestern part of the Adirondacks. The hero of Mr. Bacheller's book is a philosopher of the woods, a man who thinks much but says little, and whose nearness to nature has endowed him with an original observation, a strong sense of humor, and an elemental simplicity that endears him to the reader.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish shortly "A Short History of Freethought, Ancient and Modern," by John M. Robertson, whose aim it is to show that freethought—reaction against traditional religious doctrines—conditions the progress of the race, and that through such a reaction runs the road that leads toward the goal of humanistic endeavor; "Notes on the History and Political Institutions of the Old World," by Edward Preissig, the peculiar value of which lies in the fact that it offers to students in a single volume an epitome of the two subjects named in the title, and that it makes this information accessible in a convenient and inexpensive form; a translation of the report of the Commission of Inquiry appointed by the Congo Free State Government, entitled "The Congo;" also, the second volume of "The Writings of Samuel Adams," which will be complete in four volumes. They have just brought out "Burke's Peerage and Baronetage." Besides the genealogical account of the families of the peers and baronets of the realm, with their collateral branches, the book contains a similar account of the knighthood.

HENRY HOLT & Co. have in preparation a volume entitled "Everyday Ethics," by Mrs. Ella Lyman Cabot, which has to do with the care of health and conduct; "Problems of Babyhood," by Dr. George Wells Fitz and Rachel Kent Fitz, a very simple, readable book, with some twenty delicate drawings of child types by Edward A. Bell; "The Bird," an informal though accurate account of his evolution and relation to his environment, by Dr. C. William Beebe, curator of the bird houses in the Bronx Botanical Park, of New York, with some 370 illustrations, mostly photographs by the author; "The Development of the Fern," by Margaret Slosson, with 46 plates; "Racial Descent in Animals," by Professor Thomas H. Montgomery, Jr., of the University of Texas, a valuable monograph covering the methods of determining the subject, the comparative value of its phenomena, and an attempt to deduce its general principles by the comparative method; "Rahab," a drama of the fall of Jericho, by Dr. Richard Burton, author of "Literary Likings," etc.; "Common Ground," another idyl of American country life by the "Abandoned Farmer," Sydney H. Preston; "A Summer in Apple Tree Inn," an attractive book for young readers, by Mrs. Ella Partridge Lipsett, in which there is some mystery and a most ingenious Jap boy servant; also, an up-to-date Champlin's "Young Folks' Cyclopædia of Common Things," which the publishers have had to much enlarge to keep it abreast of the march of invention.

BUSINESS NOTES.

AUSTIN, TEX.—The name of the Austin Book and Stationery Company has been changed to Tobin's Book Store (Incorporated). This will make no difference in the management of the business, which will have the same stockholders and the same directors. The reason for making this change is because the house is known in that section of the State as Tobin's Book Store, and has so been known for the last twenty years. J. H. Tobin is secretary and treasurer.

CALDWELL, IDAHO.—A. R. Balderson, bookseller, has been succeeded by C. R. Brown.

CHANUTE, KAN.—Charles Shertzer, bookseller, has sold out to Ross Prentiss.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—The Indianapolis Book Manufacturing Co. has increased its capital stock to $20,000.

KERRVILLE, TEX.—W. C. Carpenter & Co. have succeeded J. C. Graves, bookseller.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK.—The Huntley Book Supply Co. has sold out.

MUNCIE, IND.—Shick's Bookstore has been bought by Oscar Watson, who will continue the business under his own name.

NEW YORK CITY.—The New York office of the H. M. Caldwell Company has been removed from No. 4 to No. 2 West Sixteenth Street, where they occupy commodious and well lighted quarters on the first floor. Mr. MacMullen, their New York representative, starts this week on his trip to the Pacific coast.

RUTLAND, VT.—A fire on February 18 partially destroyed the large printing and book business of the Tuttle Company.

PERSONAL NOTES.

E. D. CRANE, formerly in charge of the manufacturing department of the Federal Book Company, is now connected with Grosset & Dunlap.

CLAYTON C. RHODES has been appointed manager of the Omaha News Company, Omaha, Neb., to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of William D. Bancker.

FRANK SQUIER, the well-known dealer in paper, on February 23 was run down by a wagon at the corner of Centre and Chambers Streets, New York City. He was bruised from head to foot and fears were at first entertained that he might have sustained serious internal injuries; but we are glad to hear that this was not so and that he is rapidly improving.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

 In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

 Write your wants plainly and one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

A Remarkable New Story

By MARAH ELLIS RYAN, author of "Told in the Hills," etc.

For the Soul of Rafael

WHEN a dashing, pleasure-loving Spaniard has a marriage "arranged" for him with a young woman he has never seen, a beautiful, saint-like girl of great devotion and piety, it is hardly reasonable to expect any happiness from such a union. A man like Rafael would scarcely be in sympathy with the amount of time his wife spent in prayer and the confessional. And his friends would scarcely be her friends. In a case like this there is always some one to catch the wandering eye of the indifferent husband.

Perhaps these elements do not seem to provide any novelty in plot-building. But that is because they are elements only, because it is not possible in a word to convey any adequate idea of the glowing picturesque quality of this romance of Old California, in which all the characters are of the fine aristocratic Spanish type. There is only one American. How much of a hero he is can be imagined when it is realized that he is able to offer Rafael's wife her only possibility of happiness, yet is strong and fine enough to hold them both to the line of duty. Possibly the reader will not think that Rafael's soul is worth the sacrifices made for it, but that is always so in affairs of this kind. There is some tragedy in the book, of course, but as a story it is wonderfully moving, and of absorbing interest from the very beginning. It is a romance of strong passions and a splendid renunciation that will appeal to a wide audience.

UPON the appearance of the book has been lavished an amount of attention seldom accorded a book of fiction. It will be printed in two colors, with decorations of the most striking character. The illustrations are from a series of remarkable photographs taken under the direction of Mrs. Ryan, and are in no sense like the ordinary photographic illustrations, as they are printed in soft tones and mounted in on a background tint. The reputation of the publishers as makers of beautiful books is likely to be much enhanced by this notable production.

Two Notable New Novels

Ready April Fourth

by the Author of
"The Virginian"

Mr. Owen Wister's

New novel

Lady Baltimore

is an entirely different book from "The Virginian," but quite as genuine a bit of American life, and fully as alive. Its young and improvident hero surrounded—to his peril—with delightful women, young and old, is too charming to be missed; and the book is more than charming, it is deliciously witty, as well.

Illustrated freely, cloth, $1.50.

READY APRIL SECOND.

By the Author of "The Pride of Jennico."

Mr. Egerton Castle's new novel

If Youth but Knew

is in his characteristic vein of pure romance. Few writers have such a gift of expressing radiant freshness, the atmosphere of a world still young. The illustrations by Mr. Launcelot Speed are in unusually close sympathy with the text, as they have been drawn under the direct supervision of the author and among the scenes of the story.

Illustrated, cloth, $1.50.

The Life of John Wesley by C. T. Winchester

Professor of English Literature in Wesleyan University. Cloth, 8vo, $1.50 net (postage 15 cts.) It is a truthful, vivid narrative of a personality of unusual power, one of the most prominent figures of the eighteenth century, one who for some thirty years probably exerted a stronger personal influence than any other man in England.

Grove's Dictionary of Music and Musicians

New Edition

By SIR GEORGE GROVE. Revised and greatly enlarged edition, in five volumes, illustrated with plates and text cuts.

Vol. I. already issued. Vol. II., just ready. Cloth, 8vo, $5.00 net per volume

The Life and Writings of Benjamin Franklin

Fourth Volume

Edited by ALBERT H. SMYTH, Professor of the English Language and Literature in the Central High School, Philadelphia. Limited Library Edition, in ten volumes, to appear at monthly intervals. Volumes I.-III., previously issued. Volume IV., just ready. Cloth, 8vo, $3.00 net per volume

The first volume of the new work by Henry Charles Lea, LL.D.

A History of the Inquisition of Spain To be complete in four volumes

The author makes an uncommonly interesting contribution to the study of human history in his clear, illuminating account of how Spain developed from the most tolerant to the most intolerant of Christian countries. Of the disastrous outcome his later volumes will be the record.

By Grace Alexander

Here is a romance enveloped with that charm of tender fancy of the little town of long ago.

The scene is the Ohio valley, a scene for romance and for love beneath warm skies intensely colored.

"Judith" is the sort of love story of which people never weary. Full of the warmth of feeling, beauty of style, and plot of human power that mark great literature.

DAVID M. PARRY'S ROMANCE OF SOCIALISM

The SCARLET EMPIRE

A young socialist by strange chance finds himself on the lost island of Atlantis under the sea. There a thoroughgoing social democracy is in active operation. He passes through enthralling adventures, has a passionate love affair, and learns by the way how ruinous to the state, how destructive to all the interests of life are the principles of socialism when carried to their logical conclusion. The Scarlet Empire will create a furore of discussion among its friends and enemies.

BARBARA WINSLOW, REBEL

By Elizabeth Ellis

Genuine literary merit is a quality not too readily found in the novels of to-day. Yet upon merit and merit alone rests the unquestioned success of "Barbara Winslow." Even the most critical of critics in the land have succumbed to the charm of this captivating heroine and have written in her praise.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THE AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY have added to their Library of Popular Fiction "The King of Honey Island," by Maurice Thompson, author of "Alice of Old Vincennes."

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. have on their list for early publication this spring "More Stories of Married Life," by Mary Stewart Cutting, whose earlier stories of suburban life, "Little Stories of Married Life" and "Little Stories of Courtship," have been so successful.

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY, Philadelphia, have just published an important scientific work, "Electric Meters," by Henry G. Solomon; a volume on "Mining Law of the British Empire," by Charles J. Alford; also, a new edition of Chambers's "Cyclopædia of English Literature" in three volumes.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will publish on the 12th inst. Lady Henry Somerset's new novel, "Under the Arch," a story of London life during the time of the Anglo-Boer war; also, Una L. Silberrad's new story "Curayl." They will publish in April a work on "How to Make a Fruit Garden," by S. W. Fletcher.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will publish during the first week of April "Lady Baltimore," by Owen Wister, the author of "The Virginian," a charming and deliciously witty description of a phase of genuine American life different from that heretofore delineated by the author; also, a new novel by Egerton Castle, entitled "If Youth But Knew," written in the author's characteristic vein of pure romance, with illustrations by Launcelot Speed.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready the initial volume of their series of novelettes edited by W. D. Howells and H. M. Alden, entitled "Their Husbands' Wives." The volume bears, as is subtly indicated, upon an interesting phase of married life. Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Abby McGuire Roach, Mark Twain, Emery Pottle, George Hibbard, and Grace Ellery Channing each present this theme according to their diverse interpretations of life, thus affording a refreshing novelty of effect.

A. C. McCLURG & Co. will publish next month a new story by Marah Ellis Ryan, author of "Told in the Hills," etc., entitled "For the Soul of Rafael," a romance of "Old California," in which all the characters are of the fine aristocratic Spanish type, said to be "full of strong passion and a splendid renunciation." The illustrations are from a series of remarkable photographs taken under the direction of Mrs. Ryan, printed in soft tints and mounted on a background tint. They have also nearly ready a new book by Miss Tynan, entitled "Dick Pentreath," with illustrations by George Alfred Williams.

DODD, MEAD & Co. will publish on the 14th inst. a new novel by Cyrus Townsend Brady, entitled "The Patriots," a story of the war between the States, beginning with a chapter in the life of Lee and closing with a vivid description of the battle of Gettysburg, with illustrations in two colors by Walter H. Everett; "A Motor Car Divorce," by Louise Closser Hale, a clever automobile story, with thirty-six illustrations of such towns and scenes in the automobile journey as have never been referred to in other automobile stories, drawn by the author's husband; "Holland Described by Great Authors," by Esther Singleton, with a large number of illustrations; also, "Famous Introductions to Shakespeare's Plays, by the Notable Editors of the Eighteenth Century," edited, with a critical introduction and biographical and explanatory notes, by Dr. Beverly Warner, author of "English in Shakespeare's Plays," etc.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk **, and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Alexander, Grace. Judith: a story of the candle-lit fifties; with il. by G. Wright. Indianapolis, Ind., Bobbs-Merrill Co., [1906. Mr.] c. 7+431 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Judith La Monde's home was in Camden, a little town on the Ohio river. She returns to it after several years spent abroad, and reluctantly renews her engagement with Abel Troop, a young farmer she had promised to marry when a mere child. She meets a young Methodist minister in Camden, whose love for her makes it seem impossible for her to marry Abel. The story turns upon their struggle with their consciences and Judith's final marriage to Abel and its tragical outcome. The time is in the '50s in the days of crinoline. The gossip and homely events of village life make the story.

Amram, D: Werner. Leading cases in the Bible. Phil., J. H. Greenstone, 1905. c. 9+220 p. D. cl., $1.50 net.

Thirteen of the cases appearing in this volume were published in the Green Bag of Boston during the years 1900 and 1901. "The trial of Jeremiah" appeared in the Biblical World of Chicago in December, 1900.

Archaeological Institute of America. Supplementary papers of the American School of Classical Studies in Rome. v. 1. N. Y., Macmillan, 1906. 8+220 p. 4°, cl., $3 net.

Babson, Roger Ward. Bond offerings; prepared as a pocket reference for the use of the subscribers to "The composite circular of corporation bond offerings and other dealers." International 1906 ed. Wellesley Hills, Mass., Office of Roger W. Babson, Inc., 1906. c. 208 p. nar. S. leath., $10; in case, $11.

Gives the maximum and minimum prices of corporation bonds, excluding municipal bonds, offered for sale during 1905, by various dealers in the United States. Arranged alphabetically under name of bond. A similar list is published devoted exclusively to municipal bonds.

Babson, Roger Ward. A list of classified stock brokers, note brokers and bond dealers of the one hundred largest cities of the United States and Canada; with the names and addresses first arranged geographically, with the cities arranged alphabetically, and with the firms of a given city arranged alphabetically under said city; all names being inserted in the exact form for use. International ed. Wellesley Hills, Mass., Office of Roger W. Babson, Inc., [1906.] c. 143 p. nar. S. leath., $4.50. Supplemental to "Bond offerings."

Baldwin, Ja., ed. Nine choice poems of Longfellow, Lowell, Macaulay, Byron, Browning and Shelley; ed., with introductory sketches and notes, by Ja. Baldwin. N. Y., American Book Co., [1906. F21.] c. 112 p. D. cl., 25 c.

The nine poems are: Longfellow's "Skeleton in armor," Lowell's "The singing leaves," "Rhæcus," Macaulay's "A lay of ancient Rome," Byron's "Apostrophe to the ocean," Browning's "Incident of the French camp," Shelley's "To a skylark," Lowell's "Under the willows" and "Under the old elm." The selection of these particular pieces originated in the requirement of the New York State Education Department that examinations for preliminary certificates in English in the public schools of the State shall be based upon them or their equivalent.

Baldwin, Ja. Mark, ed. Dictionary of philosophy and psychology; including many of the principal conceptions of ethics, logic, aesthetics, philosophy of religion, mental pathology, anthropology, neurology, physiology, economics, political and social philosophy, philology, physical science and education; and giving a terminology in English, French, German and Italian; written by many hands and ed. by Ja. Mark Baldwin. In 3 v. v. 3, in 2 pts. N. Y., Macmillan, 1906. 25+542; 543-1192 p. 8°, cl. ea., $5.

Bardeen, C: Russell. Anatomy in America. Madison, Wis., University of Wisconsin, 1905. 205 p. O. (Bulletin of the University of Wisconsin, Science ser.) pap., 50 c.

The professor of anatomy in the University of Wisconsin in this address, delivered before the Science Club, traces the growth of the science of anatomy from the days of Aristotle, considers what America has contributed to this growth, and what it is hoped Wisconsin will contribute toward it. Fully two-thirds of the pamphlet is made up of full explanatory notes.

Barry, W: D.D. The tradition of Scripture: its origin, authority and interpretation. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1906. 25+278 p. D. (Westminster lib.: a ser. of manuals for Catholic priests and students.) cl., $1.20 net.

Author is a priest in the English Roman Catholic Church and also author of "The papal monarchy,"

"Ernest Renan," etc. Designed for hard-worked clergy, students and Catholic laymen who would acquaint themselves with the history and textual interpretation of the Bible. Opinions of Catholic commentators, particularly modern ones, are quoted and also of many non-Catholic scholars. The various books of the Bible are discussed in turn and there are copious foot-note references and a 7-page bibliography.

Bérard, Victor. British imperialism and commercial supremacy; tr. by H. W. Fosskett. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1906. 10+298 p. O. cl., $2.60 net.

A survey of the commercial and industrial situation in Great Britain by the Secretary of the Revue de Paris. Mr. Chamberlain is the subject of several chapters, and his impress upon economic and political problems is repeatedly emphasized. He is pictured as the representative Briton. The condition of England under Free Trade is described, and the gradual rise and progress of Protectionism, the natural outcome of Chamberlain's imperialistic theories. Causes for England's decrease in manufacturing, however, are ascribed to her lack of progressiveness in applying modern scientific methods to problems of manufacture and commerce after the manner of Germany. The author decries the effects of Imperialism.

Bergamo, Fra Gaetano da. Thoughts and affections of the passion of Jesus Christ for every day in the year; taken from the Holy Scripture and the writings of the Fathers of the Church; from the Italian. N. Y., Benziger Bros., 1905. c. 24+527 p. D. cl., $2.

A new translation by one of the Passionist Fathers of the United States of a work long out of print.

Berman, H: Worshippers: a novel. N. Y., Grafton Press, [1906.] c. 272 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The "worshippers" are of the Russian Jewry of America, chiefly of New York and Philadelphia, who may be called the "Wandering Jews" of the intellect, people full of big aspirations for the average man. A physician, an author and an aspiring actress are the chief characters and they gather about them the "worshippers" of their pessimistic, optimistic and socialistic theories. Gives a fair view of the bohemian existence of these restless spirits whose kin are to-day in revolt in the Czar's domain.

Bible. New Testament. The Coptic version of the New Testament in the northern dialect, otherwise called Memphitic and Bohairic; with introd., critical apparatus, and literal English tr. [N. Y., Oxford University Press, (Amer. Branch)] 1905. 4 v., 8°, cl., $28.

Coptic and English on opposite pages. Preface signed: G. H. i. e. George William Horner. Contents: The Gospels of St. Matthew and St. Mark, ed. from ms. Huntington 17 in the Bodleian Library; The Gospels of St. Luke and St. John, ed. from ms. Huntington 17 in the Bodleian Library; The Epistles of St. Paul, ed. from ms. Oriental 424 in the British Museum; The Catholic epistles and the Acts of the Apostles, ed. from ms. Oriental 424; The Apocalypse, ed. from ms. Curzon 128 in care of the British Museum.

Black, Mrs. Margaret Horton Potter, [Mrs. J.: Donald Black.] The genius. N. Y., Harper, 1906. [Mr.] c. 5+449 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A story of Russian life, based upon the career of a famous Russian composer. Ivan Gregoriev is the sensitive, gifted son of a powerful government official, chief of the Third Section in Moscow, a cruel, unscrupulous man, who breaks the heart of his wife, and after failing to bend Ivan to his wishes, disinherits him. Ivan goes through many trials before his final triumph as an artist. This is the first of the author's "Trilogy of destiny," three stories of Russian life, each complete in itself, but linked together by a supernatural theme.

Blanchard, Edgar Franklin. First century Christianity in twentieth century conditions. [Paterson, N. J., E. F. Blanchard, 1905.] c. 95 p. 8°, pap., 25 c.

Brumbaugh, Martin G. The making of a teacher: a contribution to some phases of the problem of religious education. Phil., Sunday School Times Co., 1905. c. 15+351 p. O. cl., $1 net. (Corr. price.)

Bryce, Ja. The American commonwealth. Abridged ed. for use of colleges and schools: being an introduction to the study of the government and institutions of the United States. Rev. ed. to date. N. Y., Macmillan, 1906. c. 13+555 p. 12°, cl., $1.75 net.

Campbell, Dudley M. A history of Oneonta from its earliest settlement to the present time. Oneonta, N. Y., G. W. Fairchild & Co., 1906. c. 190 p. il. por. sq. D. cl., $1 net.

Oneonta is now a post village of about 8000 inhabitants in Otsego County, N. Y., about 60 miles northeast of Binghamton. Previous to the Revolution this territory was the scene of bloody conflicts among the Indian tribes. This volume contains a reprint of a historical sketch published about twenty years ago and much new matter, including a list of the inhabitants at the time the town was organized in 1830, which is virtually the first polling list. The industries of the town are railroad repair shops, a foundry and a silk mill.

Carpenter, Donald A. Hunting big game in the Sierras of Chihuahua; [ed. by Melville A. Pollock.] [Mansfield, O., M. A. Pollock, 1906.] c. 56 p. il. 8°, gratis.

Chesney, Warren. The challenge; with il. by N. C. Wyeth. Indianapolis, Ind., Bobbs-Merrill Co., [1906. Mr.] c. 5+386 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A story of Alaska, when it was a Russian possession. The scene is laid at one of the trading posts of a great fur company, the characters being Russians in the company's employ. They bring to the small settlement the love and jealousy and desire for revenge born in their native land, and act out a dramatic story. By the author of "The way of the north."

Churchill, Winston. The title mart: a comedy in three acts. N. Y., Macmillan, 1905. c. 4+215 p. D. cl., $1.75 c. net.

First play by the author of "Richard Carvel," "The crossing," etc. Action turns on the mistaken identity of two Englishmen, one a lord in financial straits, who has come to America to annex an heiress; the other, the son of a rich china manufacturer, both being guests in the Adirondacks camp of Mr. John Blackwell, whose daughter is the heiress sought. Amusing complications result among the various guests. Now being played at the Madison Square Theatre, New York.

Coles, Rev. Vincent Stuckey Stratton. Pastoral work in country districts: lectures delivered in the Divinity School at Cambridge, Lent, 1905. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1906. 4+163 p. D. cl., $1.20 net.

Contents: Missionary and pastor; The life of the priest; The pastor in relation to the Bible; The pastor in his relation to the Prayer book; The opportunities of the pastor. Author is principal of the Pusey House, Oxford.

Commission of Enquiry, the Congo Free State Government. The Congo: a report of the Commission of Enquiry appointed by the Congo Free State Government: a complete and accurate translation. N. Y., Putnam, 1906. c. 4+167 p. D. (Questions of the day ser.) cl., **$1 net.

A translation of the report submitted to the German Emperor by the Commission of Enquiry instructed to find out the real condition of the native population. Divided into six chapters, entitled: The land régime and the freedom of trade; Taxation; Military expeditions; The concessions; Depopulation; The abandoned infants; Recruiting of soldiers and workmen; Justice.

Comstock, Seth Cook. Marcelle the Mad. N. Y., Appleton, 1906. [Mr.] c. 4+339 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Marcelle is a female Robin Hood at the head of a band of discontented tradesfolk who are robbing the rich and feeding the poor near where the Duke of Burgundy is holding his court. The story takes place in the time of Louis XI and Charles the Bold. The hero of the tale is in love with one of the young ladies of the Duke's court, and they plan an elopement against the Duke's will. The Duke intercepts them and exiles the hero, who wanders disconsolately into the woods. He is captured by Marcelle and her rough band, and she quickly falls in love with him. The climax is unexpected and very amusing.

Continental Congress. Journals of the Continental Congress, 1774-1789; ed. from the original records in the Library of Congress, by Worthington Chauncey Ford. In 14 or 15 v. v. 4, 1776, January 1-June 4. Wash., D. C., Government Print. Office, 1906. 416 p. Q. cl., per v., $1.

Gilson, Roy Rolfe. Miss Primrose: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1906. [Mr.] c. 3+395 p. D. cl., $1.25.

An unsensational story of American country life, by the author of "In the morning glow." There are but a few characters—"Miss Primrose" being the devoted daughter of a superannuated divine, bard and scholar, who lives mostly in a chair wheeled about by his daughter, or read to by her. The story is a very slender one, but told with a great deal of tenderness. "Miss Primrose" has a love story in middle life, and there is a boy whose mind is filled with dreams of "Tom Brown at Rugby."

Girardey, Ret. Ferreol. The holy season of Lent. N. Y., Benziger Bros., 1906. c. 123 p. nar. Tt. cl., 25 c.

Pretence is the champagne standard in modern society—"the insincere, pretentious and frothy striving after one's little private unattainables;" also "to live up to the champagne standard you have to put your best foot foremost, and that foot is usually a woman's." This is the argument of the title essay of the book. Those that follow recount the experiences, pathetic and humorous, of an American woman exiled in England. She wrestles with the problem of finding and settling a house, of engaging servants, of entertaining. There are also chapters on more general topics, like Soft-soap, The plague of music, The electric age, The extravagant economy of women, Romance and eyeglasses, etc.

Powell, Frances. [Frances Powell Case.] The prisoner of Ornith Farm. N. Y., Scribner, 1906. [Mr.] c. 4+315 p. D. cl., *$1.50.

A young girl drifts out to sea in an open boat, off the New England coast, on the night of her betrothal to a man she loves, and is rescued by a strange man, who carries her to his home, "Ornith Farm," in Westchester Co., N. Y. This man, Rollis Lannion, although he had seen Hope Carmichael but twice in her girlhood, was deeply infatuated with her, and conceived an ingenious story to make her his own. He represents she is insane, that the name she claims is not her own, and keeps her a prisoner at the Farm for many weeks. Lannion is a man of mystery; his home is isolated and filled with strange people, the heroine going through a series of thrilling events. By the author of "The house on the Hudson."

- The author is professor of clinical gynecology in the University of Cincinnati (Medical College of Ohio). This treatise is reprinted from Maryland Medical Journal, December, 1905. He thinks after time has adjusted conditions of emigration and amalgamation of races there will be the re-establishment of the Aryan family on American soil and that Anglo-Saxon civilization will be perpetuated along present lines. He does not fear declining birthrate. He thinks it makes for finer types that will insure the survival of the fittest. He calls upon physicians to do their whole duty in instructing their patients in their great duties towards a vigorous, cultured American family with high ideals of right living.

- A clever study of an unusual character is presented in the person of Gavan Palairot. He comes from India to "Kirklands" in Scotland when a boy of fourteen to some aunts and uncles to regain his health. His playmate here is his cousin Eppie. An ideal picture is given of the summer they are together. Then Gavan goes off to school and to the guardianship of another uncle, spending years in preparing for public life. Only after sixteen years do he and Eppie meet again. Gavan has a strange mystical element in him that seems to belong to India, which brings oftener suffering than happiness to those who know him. It is his story and Eppie's throughout.

- The author is lecturer in ancient history in University College, London. The thought of the Greeks and the things done in Greece have proved of exceptional importance in the later history of mankind, and the editor of the series has on this ground felt justified in including in the series, in addition to the outline history by Prof. Harrison, a second narrative, written from a somewhat different point of view. Another volume is to follow this designed to sketch the fortunes of Greece after its period of greatness.

Here the author lays stress upon the political, intellectual and artistic achievements of the Greeks rather than on the history of military operations.

In "Kobo" published last year the author gave the earlier incidents in the Russo-Japanese war, the struggle being viewed entirely from the Japanese standpoint. In "Brown of Moukden" he has chosen the later incidents of the war, and as seen from the Russian side, as a background to his hero's adventures. Jack Brown and his father are Englishmen doing business in Moukden. A jealous competitor accuses Mr. Brown, senior, of giving information to the Japanese, and he is deported—where, Jack does not know, he himself being ordered to leave the country. He endeavors to find his father and has many novel adventures.

scheme of the School of Application for Cavalry and Field Artillery; prepared under the direction of Captain G. H. Cameron, by C. S. West, librarian. Fort Riley, Kan., School of Application for Cavalry Press, 1905. 18 p. 8°, pap., n. p.

United States. Supreme ct. Reports. v. 199, Oct. term, 1904, and Oct. term, 1905; C: H: Butler, rep. N. Y., Banks Law Pub. Co., 1906. c. 33+660 p. O. shp., $2.30.

Vandeventer, E. M., ["Lawrence L. Lynch," pseud.] The Doverfields' diamonds: the great gem mystery. Chic., Laird & Lee, [1906.] c. 357 p. il. D. cl., 75 c.

A detective story. A society woman loses her jewels, and after due investigation evidence seems to point to herself as having been involved in their theft. The unravelling of the mystery discloses Mrs. Doverfield's secret relations with an adventuress and accounts for the strange disappearance of an extraordinary man.

Van Dyke, J. C. The opal sea: continued studies in impressions and appearances. N. Y., Scribner, 1906. [Mr.] c. 17+262 p. front. D. cl., **$1.25 net.

Scientific knowledge, fable and poetic fancy are embraced in a dozen chapters about the sea entitled: The discovery; Swirls of the sea; In the depths; The great mirror; Ocean plains; The wind's will; The wave's tooth; Sounding shoals; Gardens of the sea; Dwellers in the deep; Gray wings; Ships that pass.

Ward, Beatrice A. The teaching of the catechism; with 8 il. in colotype. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1904. 7+171 p. sq. S. (Simple guides to Christian knowledge; ed. by Florence Robinson.) price reduced to, cl., *60 c. net.

Washington, G. Farewell address to the people of the United States. [Also] The first oration on Bunker Hill Monument, by Dan. Webster. N. Y., American Book Co., [1906. F28.] ea. 42 p. pors. D. (Eclectic English classics.) bds., 20 c.

Watkins, G. T., comp. Bibliography of printing in America: books, pamphlets and some articles in magazines relating to the history of printing in the new world. Bost., Roxbury, published by the compiler, [G: T. Watkins,] 1906. 2-31 p. O. pap., $1.

Mr. Watkins has brought together nearly 400 titles, leaving out works relating to Franklin, already indexed in Ford's "Bibliography of Franklin," and the catalogues of special collections in Boston, Philadelphia and Washington, also already indexed. The work is conscientiously done and will serve as a good basis for a more comprehensive work.

Winchester, Caleb Thomas. The life of John Wesley. N. Y., Macmillan, 1906. [F.] c. 13+301 p. por. O. cl., **$1.50 net.

The author, who is professor of English literature in Wesleyan University, says a word of justification for adding another to the already numerous lives of John Wesley. "The early biographers—except Southey—and most of the later ones have written as Methodists for Methodists," he says. Further, "With that great religious movement of which Wesley was the leader, I have the most hearty sympathy; but I have endeavored to consider his work without narrowing denominational bias, and have emphasized certain important phases of his character that have often received comparatively little attention. Wesley was, indeed, primarily the religious reformer; but he is surely to be remembered not merely as the Methodist, but as the man—a marked and striking personality, energetic, scholarly, alive to all moral, social and political questions, and for some thirty years probably exerting a greater influence than any other man in England.

Wintle, Harold. The cleansing of the "Lords." N. Y., J: Lane, 1906. 5-296 p. D. cl., *$1.50.

An ingenious story tells of an act passed by the English Parliament, providing that each year seven peers, failing to prove of true value to their country, should be put out of the House of Lords and seven fine patriots chosen to fill their places. Amidst the endless discussions to which this scheme led, the attention was diverted and another act was passed almost unnoticed relating to investments in ivory in South Africa and the floating of a great swindling corporation. The "Cleansing of the Lords" leads to other cleansings also. The criticism of present English methods savors of Dickens in humor and sarcasm.

Wisconsin. Supreme ct. Reports. v. 124, Jan. 31-May 2, 1905; F: K. Conover, off. rep. Chic., Callaghan & Co., 1906. c. 28+736 p. O. shp., $2.75.

Wright, J. Electric furnaces and their industrial applications. N. Y., Norman W. Henley Publishing Co., 1905. c. 10+288 p. diags., 8°, cl., $5.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

THE LIBRARY SUPPLY Co., 181 Queen Victoria Street, London, will publish immediately "A Manual of Descriptive Annotation for Library Catalogues," by E. A. Savage and E. A. Baker, librarians respectively of Bromley and Wallasey, England. To no small extent the manual will be a reflection of the practice in England.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish this spring in their series of bibliographies of American authors, initiated last year with the publication of Miss Nina E. Browne's excellent "Bibliography of Nathaniel Hawthorne," a "Bibliography of James Russell Lowell," compiled by George Willis Cooke, editor of the Riverside edition of the "Poetic and Dramatic Works of Robert Browning," and the author of a number of other works. They have also in press the first complete "Bibliography of the Writings of Henry James," from his earliest published story in 1865 to the present time, compiled by Le Roy Phillips, who has prepared adequate notes for most of the titles. Besides all first and subsequent editions, Mr. Phillips has also included all uncollected and anonymous writings, and the complete index will be of great service to librarians, booksellers, collectors and general readers.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just brought out a "Bibliography of Philosophy, Psychology and Cognate Subjects," by Dr. Benjamin Rand of Harvard University. The work consists of seven distinct and complete bibliographies, namely, the History of Philosophy, Systematic Philosophy, Logic, Aesthetics, Philosophy of Religion, Ethics and Psychology. The work, while it does not claim to be exhaustive, aims to be comprehensive. From beginning to end the endeavor has been to preserve in the amount of material, as governed by a work of the present size, an octavo of nearly 1200 pages, the relative importance of authors and subjects. The absence in the bibliography of explanatory comment on books has been compensated for by numerous references to important critical reviews of them by specialists. Throughout the bibliography references to articles contained in the foreign and English periodicals are given along with the literature of books, and this information has been obtained by a direct examination of nearly all the philosophical journals. The endeavor has been to make this work as far as possible an international bibliography, and, apart from running titles and subject headings, as a rule no preference has been shown to the English language. Since the titles of the books are in the language in which they originally appeared, the bibliography will in every country be equally serviceable. (xvi+1192 p. imp. 8°, cl., $10 net.)

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MARCH 10, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE BEGINNING OF PRINTING IN ENGLISH AMERICA.

It is curious that no writer who has thus far treated of the beginning of printing in the American colonies has enlarged upon the fact that at the psychological moment the introduction of printing into English America was due quite as much to the good sense and enterprise of a woman as it was due to the ingenuity of the man who worked the press. It is no doubt true that, in 1638, as we reckon years, when the widow of Joseph Glover, rector of Sutton, Surrey, England, set up her late husband's printing plant at Cambridge, in the Massachusetts Colony, she knew practically nothing of the art of printing; but neither did Stephen Daye, the locksmith, who thus far has alone borne the credit of having been "the first that set upon printing," nor his "three men servants," that is, his apprentices. All connected with the enterprise that was launched by the ambitious dissenting clergyman, Mr. Glover, who died on the journey over sea, were in the end obliged to learn the trade after they reached this country, though we can imagine that Daye, who was used to the handling of tools, was helped materially in learning the new trade, and so had an advantage over his employer and assistant. As it was, the printing done by Daye, and his immediate successor, was always so inferior that for years after printing was first introduced in the colony manuscripts were not infrequently sent to England for publication.

Therefore, whatever credit may belong to Daye, the foreman and artificer of the shop, some credit should also be given to the promoter of the enterprise who at a critical moment might have become hysterical or otherwise unreasonable and so have delayed the introduction of printing into the colonies for some years, if not decades, longer.

Though Daye had official recognition and some small reward from the General Court—"300 acres of land where it may be convenient, without prejudice to any town"—his relations with the owners of the press were, it would seem, anything but agreeable. These employers were first the relict of Mr. Glover, and then, after 1643, Mrs. Glover's second husband, Henry Dunster, the first president of Harvard College, at whose house the press was set up at a "very early date," very likely from the start. Certainly, Daye does not seem to have been paid good wages, because at various times he was embarrassed by debt, and one time, at least, was taken into custody by order of the General Court, presumably for debt, and was obliged to give bonds to the amount of £100 in order to obtain his release.

The fact that in no case does the name of Stephen Daye appear in connection with the imprint of his publications may point to jealousy between the owners of the press and their workman. His son's name, Matthew Daye, is given on the title page of an almanack for 1647, by which time, it is presumed, his father had resigned the place or had been deposed from it, in which case Matthew, following his father, would have been, in point of time, the second printer of New England. But unfortunately, Matthew died two years later—on May 10, 1649—and we have no definite information in regard to him. Stephen Daye died on October 17, 1658, in a house now marked by a stone tablet, at the southwestern corner of Massachusetts Avenue and Dunster Street (Harvard Square), Cambridge.

Regarding the first work of the Cambridge Press, interestingly and comprehensively described by Robert F. Roden in a work recently published by Dodd, Mead & Co.,* circumstantial evidence points to "The Freeman's Oath," printed on a half sheet of paper, of which no copy has been rescued, and which we know only by a contemporary reprint dated 1647. The next two issues of the Cambridge Press appear to have been Pierce's *FAMOUS PRESSES: The Cambridge Press, 1638-1692, a history of the first printing press established in English America, together with a bibliographical list of the issues of the press. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1905, c. 194 p. il. sq. 12°, bds.

"Almanack," the first issue of which, according to Governor Winthrop, was printed in 1639 and the second in 1640. No copy of either issue has ever been discovered. The compiler of this "Almanack" was Captain William Pierce, born in England in 1590, and it is supposed that he continued his work until the advent of the third printer, Samuel Green, or about the year 1649. The earliest extant example of Pierce's "Almanack" known to collectors is the one for 1646, now in a private library in New York City.

The first book, if there should be any doubt that the first three issues of the press referred to were books in the commonly accepted sense of the term, was "The Whole Book of Psalmes," popularly known to-day as "The Bay Psalm Book," published in 1640. Though neither printer's name nor place of printing appear on the title-page, it is accepted by all authorities as unquestionably the work of Stephen Daye—done some time between 1639 and 1640, the imprint on the title-page being simply "Imprinted 1640." Of this book only ten copies are now known to be in existence, the history of which is minutely traced by Mr. Roden.

Lack of space prevents our tracing the further work of the Cambridge Press under the direction of Samuel Green and Marmaduke Johnson, until 1692, when printing in "our Cambridge" came to an end. For an account of this work we must refer our readers to Mr. Roden's exhaustive and readable history of the Press, which, besides, contains a bibliography of the 204 titles issued by the Cambridge Press during the fifty-four years of its existence. With the retirement from the Cambridge Press of the elder Green and the removal to Boston of his son, Bartholomew, "Cambridge, which for thirty-seven years was the only town in English America which contained a printing press, was no longer our chief home of typography, slumbering typographically until the American Revolution."

FOX, DUFFIELD ABSORB THE BOOK PUBLISHING BUSINESS OF H. S. STONE & CO.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made of the merging of the publishing houses of Herbert S. Stone & Company, Chicago, and Fox, Duffield & Company, of New York. The New York firm has purchased the entire goodwill, assets, plates, sheets and publishing plant of the Stone Company, whose publications will henceforward be catalogued in Fox, Duffield & Co.'s list. The House Beautiful, edited by Herbert S. Stone, will be directed as heretofore in Chicago.

This combination places Fox, Duffield & Company in the front rank of the younger houses, with a large proportion of standard and successful works.

Herbert S. Stone & Company succeeded in 1896 to the firm of Stone & Kimball, founded in 1893. They were unusually fortunate from the start in "discovering" new authors with successful books. Among these have been George Barr McCutcheon, author of the Graustark volumes, George Ade, Hobart Chatfield Taylor, H. K. Viele and others. Among authors of longer-established reputation are Henry James, George Bernard Shaw, George Moore, Maeterlinck, Ibsen, H. G. Wells, Octave Thanet, David Swing, William Sharp and "Fiona McLeod," Robert Hichens, Harold Frederic, Norman Hapgood, Clyde Fitch, Egerton Castle, Robert Herrick and others. Probably the most important undertaking of the Stone house was the great definitive edition of the works of Edgar Allan Poe, edited by George E. Woodberry and Edmund Clarence Stedman. A success of another kind was the furor created a year or two ago by the publication of the remarkable book in which the young woman called Mary MacLane professed to give an unbiased account of herself.

The firm of Fox, Duffield & Company was founded three years ago by R. K. Fox and Pitts Duffield, of New York. Mr. Duffield, who received his training with Charles Scribner's Sons, is the active manager of the business. Mr. Fox was formerly connected with R. H. Russell, whose business was later absorbed by Harper & Brothers.

IN THE INTEREST OF SOUND LITERATURE.

"TEN years ago," writes George Iles to the Library Journal, "the Hon David A. Wells was writing on the principles of taxation. One day in his study at Norwich, Conn., I saw a chapter undergoing revision. A dozen sets of proofs had been sent to a round of economists, historians, teachers and men of business, each noting amendments and suggestions. One correction on a point of fact was of particular importance; to secure it was well worth the trouble involved in sending out the series of proofs. Said the venerable author, 'It is a good plan to get criticisms before you go to the stereotyper.'"

"A capital example of the same kind appears in the 'College Algebra' recently published by Ginn & Company. Its author, Professor H. B. Fine, of Princeton, began work in 1898, when proofs were struck off to be passed round for correction and suggestion, as well as for class-room tests. When these were returned, their places were taken by revises which followed one another for six years, so that much of the book has been rewritten several times. On all hands the consensus of mathematical teachers is, 'this is the work we have been waiting for.' Its author's method of patient crystallization, of enlisting competent co-operation, would give us fewer books than to-day pour from the presses, but they would be books of mark, because criticism had been heard before instead of after publication."

MRS. MARY WILKINS-FREEMAN STIRS METUCHEN.

THE best society of the borough of Metuchen, near New Brunswick, N. J., according to a correspondent of the New York Times, believes that Mrs. Mary Wilkins-Freeman, the author, has portrayed in her latest novel, "The Debtor," some well-known persons of the borough. The scenes of the book, they are sure, are laid in New Jersey, and Metuchen people think Mrs. Freeman intended to describe places in and about the little borough.

One of the principal characters in "The Debtor" is a good-natured and cultivated "dead beat," and the guesses at his identity have not increased Mrs. Freeman's popularity with some of the townspeople.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

THE centenary of the birth of Elizabeth Barrett Browning occurred this week, the poetess having been born on March 6, 1806, at Coxhoe Hall, Durham. A movement is on foot to place a national memorial in Westminster Abbey.

THE centenary of the birth of Charles Lever takes place on August 31. Lever was born in Dublin, and died at Trieste, June 1, 1872. Some time before 1832 Lever is said to have come to America and to have lived with the Indians and gone through some of the adventures afterwards utilized in "Con Cregan" and "Arthur O'Leary."

OBITUARY NOTES.

PATRICK O'SHEA.

PATRICK O'SHEA, one of the best-known Catholic publishers in this country, died suddenly on March 3, at his home in Summit, N. J. Mr. O'Shea was born in Kilkenny, Ireland, March 17, 1832. His early education was had under the auspices of his uncles, the late Rev. Thomas O'Shea and the Very Rev. Canon Robert O'Shea.

He left Ireland, coming to this country in his nineteenth year, arriving here in the spring of 1851, and within a short time thereafter obtained a position with Dunigan Brothers, the then leading Catholic publishers. After three years in their employ, on September 13, 1854, Mr. O'Shea began business for himself at 739 Broadway.

During the fifty-two years that his business has been established he published a great number of Catholic story, school, and standard books. He was author and editor, as well as publisher, of the "Comprehensive Geographies" and most of the other series of his text books. In his first twenty years of business, besides the publication of over 200 other books he republished the "History of the Church" by Darras; Lingard's "History of England," Cardinal Wiseman's complete works, Lacordaire's complete works, and other notable books, but the gigantic task of republishing Digby's "Ages of Faith" he considered his greatest achievement.

During the Civil War Mr. O'Shea was an earnest advocate of the cause of the Union, both by word and pen. His letters signed "An American Citizen" published in the Boston Pilot and the Dublin Nation during the early years of the war excited much interest.

Owing to his failing sight and less robust health Mr. O'Shea for the last few years had been less active in business, and for some time just preceding his death made only occasional trips to the city.

HENRY JOSEPH RUGGLES, author of "The Method of Shakespeare as an Artist" and "The Plays of Shakespeare Founded in Literary Forms," died on March 6 at his home in New York. He was born in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., August 1, 1813. He and his brothers, Samuel B. and Philo T. Ruggles, secured Union Square to New York City, founded Gramercy Park, laid out and named Lexington Avenue, and did much to further the building of the Erie Canal and the Erie Railroad.

BUSINESS NOTES.

DES MOINES, IA.—The Iowa School Publishing Company has been incorporated under the same style.

EMPORIA, KAN.—Mason W. McCarty, bookseller, has been succeeded by the Eckdall-McCarty Book and Stationery Company.

HARTFORD, CONN.—Smith & Nettleton have just opened up a book and stationery store on Asylum Street. The head of the new firm is J. G. Smith, formerly of Smith & McDonough, stationers, of this city.

MATTOON, ILL.—F. C. Hill, bookseller, has been succeeded by Paul Ramser.

NEW YORK CITY.—A. S. Barnes & Co. are removing their publishing business to Nos. 11 to 15 East Twenty-fourth Street.

PARIS, TEX.—Campbell & Bedford, booksellers, have sold out to Bedford & Crock.

SALIDA, COLO.—Hull & Wise, booksellers, have sold out.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y.—Charles P. Penfield, bookseller at 508 Broadway, it is reported, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, giving his liabilities as $6,098.27 and his nominal assets as $5,833.53.

WATERTOWN, N. Y.—W. H. Halladay, bookseller, died recently.

PERSONAL NOTES.

THE spring hegira of publishers and editors is well under way. George P. Brett is in London, and also J. H. Sears, of Appletons', and representatives of other houses. Cyrus Curtis, president of the Curtis Publishing Company, Dr. Lyman Abbott and Ripley Hitchcock have sailed this week for a cruise in the West Indies.

K. W. BARRY who had charge of the Bureau of Quotations at the American News Company, and before that had been business manager of the Catholic Publication Society, has severed his connection with the American News Company and has associated himself with Bloomingdale Brothers, Third Avenue and Fifty-ninth Street, New York City.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

HINDS, NOBLE & ELDRIDGE have secured the stock and publishing rights of Murphy's "Flashlights on American History," a supplementary reader for use in public schools, formerly published by R. L. Myers & Company.

FRANCIS D. TANDY COMPANY, 30 East Twenty-first Street, New York City, desire to inform the trade that the price of their pamphlet "Abraham Lincoln: an Appreciation," is twenty-five cents, not fifty as first announced by them.

SINCE it was announced that Henry Holt is the author of "Sturmsee" and "Calmire" there has been such a general inquiry for these much-talked-of novels that the new editions are already exhausted and the books have been again sent to press.

B. W. DODGE & Co., New York, will publish on the 24th inst. "My Lady Cinderella," by Mrs. C. N. Williamson, co-author of "The Lightning Conductor," etc., with a frontispiece in four colors by Malcolm Strauss. They will bring out in April "The Tysons," a story by May Sinclair, author of "The Divine Fire," etc., also with a frontispiece in colors by Malcolm Strauss.

A. C. McCLURG & Co. have in preparation an edition of George Eliot's "Romola," translated into Italian and edited by Dr. Guido Biagi, of the Laurentian Library in Florence. Dr. Biagi has unexpectedly discovered the original cards of all the books studied for the story by George Eliot in the National Library in Florence. These books, with their ancient views of Florence, gave to her the first idea of the scenes of the novel.

THE STATIONERS' READY RECKONER CO., 377 Broadway, New York City, will publish at once a new directory for retail stationers to be entitled "The Stationers' Ready Reckoner." The book will be published four times a year, and will give the names and addresses of the manufacturers of staple goods or ordinary stock for stationers, the manufacturers of the latest and best novelties of all descriptions that could be profitably handled by stationers, and the principal jobbers who supply the stationers.

IN preparation for the Lenten Season, there have been recently published by Thomas Whittaker, several volumes by the Rev. Dr. Mortimer, of Philadelphia, including "Life and Its Problems," a series of sermons for Lent; "The Church and the Good Samaritan," by the Rev. Frank N. Westcott, author of "Catholic Principles"; a new volume of sermons by the Rev. W. R. Huntington, D.D., Rector of Grace Church, New York, and several special works adapted for use at Services on Good Friday.

A FIRST edition of Thoreau's first book, "A Week on the Concord and Merrimack Rivers," containing the original printer's notes, sold in New York at auction recently for $105. The Manuscript edition of Thoreau's complete works, in twenty volumes, now being published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., contains fourteen volumes of Thoreau's Journal which are in every respect a first edition, and will doubtless soon be at a premium. The publishers report that two-thirds of the edition is already subscribed for.

BAKER & TAYLOR Co. have just ready "Hazel of Heatherland," by Mabel Barnes-Grundy, a story of exceptional romance and charm; "Folly," by Edith Rickert, of Vassar, Folly being the nick-name of the heroine and the keynote of her life's actions; "The Country Town," by Wilbert L. Anderson, dealing with the problems of rural settlements that have followed the introduction of machinery; and "Landscape Painting and Modern Dutch Artists," by E. B. Greenshields, a concise history of the art from the thirteenth century to the recent French "Impressionists" and the modern revival in Holland.

B. W. HUEBSCH, New York City, publishes to-day Dr. Otto Pfeiderer's important work on the "Christian Origins," in which the author shows what Christians ought to know and think about the beginnings of their religion, and in which he presents the viewpoint of modern historical science, above all, however, leading them to distinguish between the ephemeral and the permanent truth in Christianity. Mr. Huebsch will bring out later "The New Art of an Ancient People: the Work of Ephraim Moses Lilien," by M. S. Levussove, of the Art Department of the College of the City of New York. The book deals with the personality and accomplishments of one of the most brilliant and original artists of Europe, whose drawings in black and white for Jugend and other periodicals, and illustrations to books dealing with Jewish subjects, have been the theme of laudatory monographs by foreign critics. In America Lilien is unknown except to a small circle. Mr. Levussove has viewed Lilien's art not only from the standpoint of the professional critic, but also as an expression of the new spirit developed in the Jewish people by the Zionist movement.

THE LITERARY COLLECTOR PRESS, Greenwich, Conn., has just brought out an artistic volume on "Old Wall Papers," by Kate Sanborn, dealing with the elaborate papers with which our colonial ancestors decorated the walls of their homes. Few houses containing these old papers have survived, and, save for a few casual references in books and a few magazine articles, the subject has no literature. Miss Sanborn's work, therefore, practically for the first time treats this interesting subject comprehensively, indeed as fully as it probably ever will be treated. Not only are the wall coverings of our immediate ancestors on American soil studied, but the author also traces the historical development of wall-paper making from its invention in the early days of Oriental industry down through the many uses that European culture and commerce found for it, until its beauty and serviceableness as wall coverings caused it nearly to supersede the tapestries and frescoes of the time. The work is a very handsome production typographically and reflects creditably on the resources of the Literary Collector Press. The text is illustrated with nearly one hundred plates, some in colors, and the end papers are copied from the paper of Governor Gore's billiard room at Waltham, Mass. The regular edition is limited to 975 copies, and the special Collector's edition is limited to 75 copies and contains special illustrations.

G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY will publish shortly an interesting book entitled "Party Leaders of the Time," by Charles Willis Thompson, containing character studies of public men at Washington with thirty-two portraits of the most prominent characters mentioned. They have in preparation "The Story of Paul Jones," by Alfred Henry Lewis, the author of "The Wolfville Stories," now appearing in the Cosmopolitan Magazine; "The Bottom of the Well," by Frederick Upham Adams, author of "John Burt," etc., a story brimful of mystery; "Tonio, Son of the Sierras," a new story of frontier life, by General Charles King; "Lady Jim of Curzon Street," a new story by Fergus Hume, depicting frivolity and its deadening effects on the devotees of fashion; "A Common Sense Hell," by Arthur Richard Rose, being the practical thoughts of a business man about the future fate of the wicked, contained in letters to his son; "Below the Dead Line," a collection of detective stories by Scott Campbell; also, "Chip of the Flying U," by B. M. Bower. They have purchased from the Federal Book Co. the right to publish "Katherine's Sheaves," by Mrs. George Sheldon Downs, and now have in press the 30th thousand. "Katherine's Sheaves" is not only a charming piece of fiction, but stands as one of the strongest books ever written in praise of Christian Science. It will be followed in the autumn by another work on similar lines entitled "Step by Step." To say "by the author of 'Katherine's Sheaves'" will be sufficient to insure for it large advance orders.

Two weeks after publication—

You can tell a good deal about the future prospects of a book. We published "THE JUNGLE," by Upton Sinclair, on Monday, February 26th.

Since then we have received re-orders for over 1,200 copies and first orders for many more. We have sold 10,000 copies and the book has received astonishing notices both in the Editorial and Literary columns. Extravagant praise and virulent abuse have been lavished on it.

For instance: "Those who are capable of judging such things cannot but say that THE JUNGLE is a genuine work of genius," says the Louisville Times.

"One of the most daring and in many respects remarkable novel in several years."—St. Louis Republic.

The New York Evening Post, on the other hand, in a scathing review of a column length, says: "It is lurid, overdrawn, almost hysterical in tone. Yet there is a sort of crude strength that is almost convincing."

Have you had your supply yet? If not, send us your order. We believe that this great story of Chicago will be a large seller.

In spite of the array of adjectives—we state again that we printed this book only when we were satisfied by legal advice and investigation that the material statements contained in it were true.

Annual American Catalog, 1905

We will publish in March the "Annual American Catalog, 1905," which will contain in one alphabet the monthly lists of books recorded in The Publishers' Weekly during 1905, by author, title, subject, and series entries; also, in one (author) alphabet, the full titles, with descriptive annotations from the "Weekly Record" of The Publishers' Weekly from January 1st to December 31st, 1905. Besides these lists the volume, which is practically the first supplement to the "American Catalog" for the five years ending December 31, 1904, will contain a full directory of publishers issuing books during 1905, statistics, etc.

The very latest catalog, as a rule, is the one most frequently consulted by the bookseller, hence the pronounced utility and value of this bibliography.

Octavo, containing over 700 pages, substantially bound in cloth. Price, $3.00 net. (Postage 35 cents.)

The edition being printed from type and limited, we solicit early orders.

The English Catalogue, 1905

The "English Catalogue of Books for 1905," for which we have the American sale, will be published earlier than usual this year. We will have it ready for delivery next week. 8vo, cloth binding, $1.50 net. (Postage 13 cents.)

The two catalogs—American and English—will be sold separately, not bound together in one volume.

The Annual Library Index, 1905

Including Periodicals, American and English; Essays, Book Chapters, etc., with Author-Index, Bibliographies, Necrology and Index to dates of Principal Events. Edited by W. I. FLETCHER and H. E. HAINES. 8vo, cloth binding, $3.50.

A Useful Work of Reference for Bookseller, Librarian, and the General Reader

THE ANNUAL LIBRARY INDEX contains: (1) The Index to Periodical literature for the year 1905, making the fourth annual supplement to "Poole's Index to Periodical Literature," 1897-1902; (2) An index to essays and book-chapters in composite books of 1905, making the fifth annual supplement to the new edition of Fletcher's "A. L. A. Index to General Literature," published in 1901; (3) An author index, both to periodical articles and to book-chapters; (4) A list of bibliographies issued in 1905; (5) A necrology of authors for 1905, extremely useful to catalogers; (6) An index of dates of events in 1905, furnishing a useful guide to the daily press.

By MAURICE THOMPSON

Author of "Alice of Old Vincennes," etc.

ISSUED AS No. 34

THE LIBRARY OF POPULAR FICTION

Pierre Rameau was a dreaded outlaw known in Louisiana in 1812 as the King of Honey Island, because this small island in the Pearl River was headquarters of himself and a daring band of outlaws.

The novel includes sensational and romantic episodes in his career, with incidents on the war of 1812 in which General Jackson figures.

We desire to announce to the trade the following new books, and solicit your order for the same:

THE FIELD OF GLORY

12mo, 820 pages. Cloth bound, $1.00. By HENRYK SIENKIEWICZ. Translated from the Original Polish by HENRY BRITOFF.

This is the latest and one of the strongest books of this great author, and we are certain that it will have a large sale. The translator is one of the best in this country, and gives to the American people as nearly as possible the exact ideas and sentiments as expressed by the author.

"SLICES FROM A LONG LOAF"

12mo, 260 pages. Cloth bound, $1.00. With 30 full-page illustrations. By H. C. STIEFEL, Ph.D.

This is an interesting and highly entertaining story of a trip of a party of men down the Allegheny River from Oil City to Pittsburgh, and while it contains a great amount of valuable information, it also contains a greater amount of wit and humor than has been issued recently in any book. The manuscript contained so much not only of general interest and information, but of real genuine wit and humor not found elsewhere, that ANDREW CARNEGIE made a liberal contribution to the author to enable him to issue the first edition, and this was exhausted in a few days after publication. There is no doubt but that this is a "winner," and will sell anywhere.

NEW PLAY BOOKS

We also announce for immediate issue the following Play Books issued in lithograph paper cover. Retail price, 25 cents each.

77. MR. BLARNEY FROM IRELAND. By Charles E. Blaney.
78. THE STORY OF "SCOTTY," KING OF THE DESERT MINE. By Charles A. Taylor.
79. AS YE SOW. By Rev. John Snyder.
80. THE DUEL. By George Morehead.
81. LURED FROM HOME. By Grace Miller White.

NEW JOKE BOOKS

We also desire to announce the issue of the following new Joke Books. Retail price, 10 cents each.

60. TWELVE KENTUCKY COLONEL STORIES.
61. YOUR HAND'S YOUR FORTUNE.
62. "HERE'S TO YE"; or, TOASTS FOR EVERYBODY.

Embracing provisional bibliographies of the official publications of the above-named States and Territories, from their organization. While the difficulties of compiling a bibliography of this sort at the present time make absolute completeness impossible, every effort has been made to obtain accuracy to the extent covered, by means of the coöperation in most of the States of the State Librarians, State University librarians, or officials of State Historical Societies.

The attention of State Libraries, of the central public libraries, and of foreign libraries, is especially called to this bibliography, but it is also important to that larger number of libraries which cannot undertake to collect the State publications even of their own State and yet should be able to inform students and inquirers as to what is to be found in the publications of their own State and of other States. What New York and Massachusetts are doing in forestry, for instance, is of importance in all States and to foreign students of the subject.

THE NEW BOOK BY MISS TYNAN

"THERE was no one so well liked in all the county, by rich and poor, as

DICK PENTREATH

"He had a curious radiancy of aspect, which people felt without being able to define it. It was really the expression of his heart's good will toward all his fellow creatures. He was merry, he was friendly; he remembered the children's names and the old people's ailments. When he rode through the village of a morning, the women would come out of their cottages to their garden gates and lean across them to watch him out of sight. What a pity Mrs. Pentreath couldn't have lived to see Master Dick grow up."

But poor Dick has a lot of trouble in spite of his attractive personality, or perhaps on account of it. The story of his difficulties makes the most delightful book that Katherine Tynan has yet written. Besides the interest of the plot, the character-drawing is delightfully natural, and the dialogue quick and spirited. Everyone who read and enjoyed "The Dear Irish Girl," "Julia," and others of Miss Tynan's popular books will be more than pleased with "Dick Pentreath."

EUGENE VALMONT

Eight Full-page Illustrations
by EMLEN McCONNELL

12mo. Ornamental Cloth. $1.50

THIS is a detective novel giving a thrilling and yet humorous account of the triumphs of a great French detective, Eugene Valmont. He investigates many famous and extraordinary cases, ranging from jewelry robberies to elopements, both in England and France. The book is seriously exciting in spots, and wherever the reader is not thrilled and deeply interested he is amused.

IN OLD BELLAIRE

by Mary Dillon, Author of
"The Rose of Old St. Louis"

Happy contrasts, the keen portrayal of young blood and young hearts, the "Cranford"-like quiet of the town where the scene is laid, the excitement, adventures, and separations incident to the breaking out of the Civil War, make this about as enjoyable a story as one could reasonably wish. Illustrated. $1.50.

UNCLE WILLIAM

by Jennette Lee, Author of
"The Son of a Fiddler"

A most entertaining, whimsical and lovable character which has come to refresh a weary world. Uncle William liked to loaf and he loved the sea, like the true Nova Scotia fisherman he was. The tender absurdities of this old man's experiences, and the unfolding of a very pretty love story, make a tale of rare charm. Frontispiece. $1.00.

THE TRUTH ABOUT TOLNA

By Bertha Runkle

A swiftly-moving story which proves that there is as much romance in new Manhattan as in old Paris. It is a five-sided battle-royal between three men for the hearts of two bewitching American girls. The author's insight and ingenuity contrive to keep the interest at concert pitch throughout the story. A highly amusing novel of to-day. Frontispiece in four colors by Henry Hutt. $1.50.

A DIPLOMATIC ADVENTURE

by Dr. S. Weir Mitchell,

Author of "Hugh Wynne," "Constance Trescot," etc.

The scene is laid in Paris at the time of the Civil War in America. Given a pretty woman who seeks the protection of a strange gentleman's cab, three Frenchmen of the kind made famous by Dumas in "The Three Musketeers," a couple of clever young Americans in their country's service, diplomatic mysteries and the possibility of three duels in the first part of the book,—and one may see that it is a story to be read at a sitting if possible. Frontispiece. $1.00.

THE LADY OF THE DECORATION

by Frances Little

This is a charming love story in which the heroine is a young and lovely widow who goes to Japan on a three years' contract as a kindergarten teacher. The glimpses of Japanese life are both new and thoroughly delightful. The book is one that, when once begun, will be read straight through. It is very clever. $1.00.

THE SHADOW OF LIFE

by Anne Douglas Sedgwick

Author of "The Rescue," etc.

This is the most unusual story Miss Sedgwick has ever written. The two chief characters typify two conflicting tendencies in modern thought. The heroine is one of the strongest and most vital creations in modern fiction—lovable, forceful, glorious. $1.50.

ANNOUNCEMENTS FOR 1906

STUDIES IN VERSE

12mo, cloth, 192 pages. Price, $1.50 net

This book is published anonymously. It will deeply interest students of the technical in verse-making, and will appeal to all who derive pleasure and relaxation from good poetry.

MR. SCRAGGS

By HENRY WALLACE PHILLIPS

12mo, cloth, seven halftone illustrations, frontispiece in colors. Price, $1.25

This is by far the best work that Mr. Phillips has ever done. The hero of these stories is a melancholy individual whose very melancholiness brings joy to the reader. The stories appeared serially in the Saturday Evening Post and McClure's Magazine.

COMMON SENSE GARDENS

By CORNELIUS V. V. SEWELL

Large 12mo, cloth, profusely illustrated with photographs and plans by the author. Decorated by Charles Edward Hooper. Price, $2.00 net

One of those rare books that is an actual help to the reader. A careful and well written explanation of how the owner of a small country place may beautify his grounds at little expense and trouble and by use of the commoner and hardier shrubs and plants.

THE BUILDING OF A BOOK

EDITED BY FREDERICK H. HITCHCOCK

12mo, cloth. Price, $1.50 net

The story of how a book is produced and placed in the hands of the reader is here told in non-technical language by experts of acknowledged standing in every branch of the work. In all there are about thirty contributors to the volume, and any one who is at all interested in books will find it full of valuable and entertaining information.

WORSHIPERS

By HENRY BERMAN

12mo, cloth. Price, $1.50

A narrative of a curious people that may fittingly be called The Intellectuals of the Russian Jewry in America, whose kin at the present hour are leading in the revolt shaking the Czar's domain. The strange figure of the heroine, Katherine Bronski, has few parallels in American fiction.

THE ART AND CRAFT OF THE AUTHOR

By C. E. HEISCH

12mo, cloth. Price, $1.20 net

This volume is designed for the use of the large and constantly increasing class who begin literary work without any special preparation for it. It offers practical suggestions upon the several stages of authorship, which suggestions are based on experience and can hardly fail to be useful.

IN OLDE CONNECTICUT

By CHARLES BURR TODD

16mo, cloth. Price, $1.25 net

Mr. Todd is especially well prepared to introduce the series, as he has the double advantage of general skill as a writer and a technical knowledge and experience in historical works. The chapters include stories of old-time New London, Fairfield, Saybrook, Litchfield and many other Connecticut towns.

Pastels in Colors By Howard Chandler Christy

The ARMY GIRL AND The NAVY GIRL

Each picture  $13\frac{1}{4} \times 19\frac{3}{4}$  inches, on Khaki mounts,  $19 \times 24$  inches. Each, \$1.00.

In these brilliant and beautiful pictures Mr. Christy makes another interesting and novel departure in his work. These two fascinating figures show his powers in their full maturity, and combine his most finished technic and coloring with elements of popularity which will doubtless make them the two most distinguished pictures of the year.

AMERICAN BEAUTY

Lithographed in ten colors,  $12\frac{1}{2} \times 17\frac{1}{4}$  inches, on sheet  $17 \times 24$  inches ; with tinted background and hot-press mark, \$1.50.

This extremely striking and fascinating picture is added this year to the very beautiful series of Large Half Lengths which we began to issue last Summer with such great success.

New Pictures By W. L. Taylor

THE INVISIBLE BOND

By ELEANOR TALBOT KINKEAD

Illustrated in colors by C. Allan Gilbert. 12mo, $1.50.

A forceful novel of life and character in the Kentucky of to-day. The men and women who people it are strongly individual and the narrative moves with power and deep interest.

WHERE SPEECH ENDS

By ROBERT HAVEN SCHAUFFLER

With illustrations by E. M. Ashe, Frederick Dorr Steele and Leon Guipon.

With a PRELUDE by HENRY VAN DYKE. 12mo, $1.50.

Rarely has a really fine, human story, one worth the telling for itself alone, had for its setting the environment of music. The musician-novelist so often feels his mission that a simple, genuine, moving love story, like this one, that is also in the best sense because unconsciously, a music story, is indeed a rarity.

SCARLETT OF THE MOUNTED

By MARGUERITE MERINGTON

Illustrated. 12mo, $1.25.

Miss Merington's widely known dramatic talent has its full swing in this frolicsome novel of the gold-lined and ice-plated Northwest. The story is a distinct novelty in fiction, and is as absorbing as it is witty and entertaining.

THE BUILDING OF THE ORGAN

By NATHAN HASKELL DOLE

12mo, board, $1.25 net (postage 12 cents).

Charles Eliot Norton writes of this volume: "Its substance is worthy of its form. The high emotion and the larger hope which inspires you find admirable expression in your verse, with its astonishing variety of melody and rhythm. I congratulate you on a work so honorable and so characteristic."

Mr MEREDITH NICHOLSON

Author of "The House of a Thousand Candles"

Mr. Nicholson has had a varied experience for a man still considerably below forty.

He worked for three years in job printing offices, learned stenography, read law for a couple of years in an office where nobody cared if he read poetry, at eighteen took a prize offered by the Chicago Tribune for a short story, studied languages with a private tutor, and then went into the newspaper business for twelve years, beginning as police reporter and becoming in due course an editorial writer and book reviewer.

Mr. Nicholson has written much verse, and put forth a book of poems at twenty-two. He has published a social and critical history of Indiana called "The Hoosiers," and two novels prior to "The House of a Thousand Candles."

Negotiations are now in progress for a dramatization and dramatic production of "The House of a Thousand Candles," which is to-day the most popular novel in America.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

 The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk **, and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.: translations, c. tr.: n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Th. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Ps. 48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Anderson, Wilbert L. The country town: a study of rural evolution; with an introd. by Josiah Strong. N. Y., Baker & Taylor Co., [1906. F.] c. 5+307 p. D. cl., **$1 net.

The book seeks to explain the experience of the American country people in the industrial and social revolution that has followed the introduction of machinery. The author has faith in the future of the country town, and his confidence is based on the results of a close and scientific scrutiny of the complex influences which are at work upon the population of country communities. His purpose is to excite interest in the problem of the necessary social reconstruction and the improved environment of the country town. He looks to rural mail delivery, the extension of the telephone system and electric roads to work wonders in education on which all lasting improvement must depend.

Barnes-Grundy, Mabel. Hazel of Heatherland. N. Y., Baker & Taylor Co., [1906.] 3-389 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

As "The vacillations of Hazel" this humorous romance of the river Dee on the borderland of Wales has already gained attention in England. A healthy, natural girl of twenty-two has led a most restricted life with her average, domestic mother and her straight-laced domineering older sister. She is invited on a visit to a step-aunt who teaches her much good worldly wisdom and finally takes upon herself to guide her life and end her vacillations. The contrast of Hazel's two lovers furnishes much interest and fun.

Bartholow, Roberts. A practical treatise on materia medica and therapeutics, by Roberts Bartholow; with new articles and additions by Paul Bartholow. 12th ed., rev. and enl. N. Y., Appleton, 1906. c. 25+866 p. 8°, cl., subs., $5.

Barton, J: Kennedy. Mechanical processes: a practical treatise on workshop appliances and operations for the instruction of midshipmen at the U. S. Naval Academy. Annapolis, Md., United States Naval Institute, 1906. c. 356 p. il. diagrs., 8°, cl., $4.

Bell, Lilian. Carolina Lee; with frontispiece in col. by Dora Wheeler Keith. Bost., L. C. Page & Co., 1906. 4+352 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A Southern girl who has spent most of her life in France, where her father represented the United States, loses both parents suddenly but inherits a great fortune. She has dreamed all her life of rebuilding her ancestral home in Carolina. Many complications ensue. Carolina becomes a Christian Scientist and her influence converts many of her friends to the new thought and her perfect faith brings about many things that border on the miraculous.

Camp, Edgar Whittlesey, and Crowe, J: F., eds. The encyclopædia of evidence. v. 7, (Impeachment of witnesses to judicial notice.) Los Angeles, Cal., L. D. Powell Co., 1905. c. 1036 p. O. shp., $6.

Du Bois, Leo L. Saint Francis of Assisi, social reformer. N. Y., Benziger Bros., 1906. c. 2+250 p. D. cl., $1 net.

In examining the abundant literature on St. Francis and his work, the author notes the absence of any study professedly treating him as a social reformer. In this work an attempt is made to present him in this light. Hence the sociological point of view is taken throughout. The steps by which he became a reformer are described, the work accomplished by him, the processes of his mind and the traits of his character as far as these affected his reform work and the social ideas and principles on which his reform work was grounded. Bibliography.

Elzas, Barnett Abraham. The Jews of South Carolina from the earliest times to the present day. Phil., Lippincott, (privately printed,) 1905. 352 p. il. por.

Fisher, J. Irvine. Fisher's bank plan instalments; the instalment periods are monthly, bi-monthly, quarterly, four-months, semi-annual and annual, each covering a total of ten years at 4, 4½, 5, 5½, 6, 7, 8 and 10%; six per cent. adjusted instalments; complete book-keeping data, instructions and illustrations. Louisville, Ky., J. I. Fisher Publishing Co., [1905.] c. 3-48 p. 8°, rus., leased with outfit 5 yearly terms, $140, and up.

Fletcher, J., and Shakespeare, W. The two noble kinsmen; written by the memorable worthies of their time, Mr. John Fletcher and Mr. William Shakespeare, gent.; ed., with notes, by W. J. Rolfe. [New ed., rev.] N. Y., Amer. Book Co., [1906.] 3-272 p. il. por. S. cl., 56 c.

Lamb, Coleridge, Charles Knight, Dyce and other critics have believed that Shakespeare was one of the authors of the play. Dr. Rolfe, however, has become persuaded that Shakespeare did not write a line of it. He here gives an impartial summary of the evidence for and against the Shakespeare authorship. There are also notes, and an index of words and phrases explained.

Fowler, Russell Story. The operating room and the patient. Phil., W. B. Saunders Co., 1906. c. 5-172 p. il. plan, 8°, cl., $2 net.

Greenshields, E. B. Landscape painting and modern Dutch artists. N. Y., Baker & Taylor Co., [1906. F.] c. 17+229 p. il. O. cl., **$2 net.

Concise history of landscape painting from the awakening of art in the 13th century is contained in the first two chapters, followed by quoted opinions about art by various critics and a consideration of nature and the poets. More than half the work, however, is devoted to a study of modern Dutch art as represented by Bosboom, Israëls, Mauve, Weissenbruch and James, Matthew and William Maris. Appendix contains quotations at length from Ruskin, J. A. Symonds and W. J. Stillman. Throughout the book the author develops the idea of the subjective view of art. Forty-five half-tone reproductions of paintings.

Harker, Mrs. L. Allen. Concerning Paul and Fiammetta; with an introd. by Kate Douglas Wiggin. N. Y., Scribner, 1906. [Mr.] c. 12+320 p. D. cl., †$1.25.

Mrs. Wiegman tells in the introduction how a year ago in England she chanced upon a book called "A romance of the nursery," with which she was so charmed that she wrote to the author asking to have the pleasure of introducing her next book to American readers. Mrs. Harker's new story presents the same group of English children living on a country estate. Fiammetta is a little visitor whose father is a poet, and who was born in Florence and has lived in hotels. The pranks and mischief of the children; their companionship with dogs; their relations to their parents and each other are all described by one of the children themselves.

Heart throbs in prose and verse dear to the American people and by them contributed in the $10,000 prize contest initiated by the National Magazine, 1904-1905. Bost., Chap-ple Publishing Co., Ltd., [1906.] c. 13+416+16 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A collection of short poems, essays, anecdotes, apothegms, and stories gleaned from a vast mass of contributions, sent in, in answer to a prize offering for any literary matter that had appealed to the fancy, judgment or interests of the sender, and become dear to the heart, in short a veritable "heart throb" of the contributor.

Hodgdon, G. E., comp. Shannon genealogy; genealogical records and memorials of one branch of the Shannon family in America. Rochester, N. Y., [Genesee Press,] (privately printed,) 1905. c. 578 p. il. por. facsimis.

Holt, H. Calmire: man and nature. 6th ed., rev. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1906. c. 7+705 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

In the issue of June 4, 1892, "Calmire: man and nature," appeared in the "Weekly Record." It was published anonymously and its author has been vainly sought for fourteen years. Now it is made public that this very serious novel of a young man's evolution from "Chaos" to "Kosmos" was the work of Henry Holt, of Henry Holt & Co., who let his young hero study social and religious conditions and share his thoughts with a healthy, lovable, common-sense girl that helped him towards clearer ideas and a stronger character.

Holt, H. Sturmsee: man and man. 3d ed., rev. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1906. c. 6+599 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

On June 3, 1905 "Sturmsee: man and man," by the author of "Calmire" was entered in the "Weekly Record." This novel voiced views on the labor question, the woman question, on art, literature and education and all questions now before the civilized world. Many of the characters of "Calmire" re-appeared and now studied sociology as they had studied religion in the former novel. The book showed growth and breadth of view and dwelt especially on the saving power of individuality and innate gifts of mind and character.

Huntington, W. Reed, D.D. A good shepherd, and other sermons. N. Y., T. Whit-taker, [1906.] c. 8+296 p. D. cl., *$1.25 net.

Twenty-three sermons by the Rector of Grace Church, New York.

Landis, H. Gardner. A compend of obstetrics, especially adapted to the use of medical students and physicians; rev. and ed. by W. H. Wells. 8th ed. Phil., P. Blakiston's Son & Co., 1906. c. 9+227 p. il. pls., 12°, (Quiz-compends.) cl., *$1 net; interleaved, *$1.25 net.

Lang, Andrew. Sir Walter Scott. N. Y., Scribner, 1906. [Mr.] c. 12+216 p. por. D. (Literary lives; ed. by W. Robertson Nicoll.) cl., **$1 net.

The author states in the preface that he has here tried to compress as much as possible of the essence of Lockhart's "Life of Scott" into a small space with a few additions from other sources. As a fellow countryman of Scott, and one who has worked over much of the historical ground and over most of the manuscript material handled by Lockhart, Mr. Lang seems to be peculiarly fitted for the task.

Leonard, Rev. Delavan Levant. A hundred years of missions; the story of progress since Carey's beginning, by Rev. Delavan L. Leonard; introd. by Rev. Arthur T. Pier-son, D.D. Rev. ed. N. Y., Funk & Wagnalls Co., 1905. c. 7+448 p. 12°, cl., **$1.20 net.

Maclaren, Alexander, D.D. Expositions of Holy Scripture. In 30 v. 1st ser. In 6 v. v. 1, The book of Genesis; v. 2, The book of Isaiah, chapters I. to XLVIII.; v. 3, The book of Isaiah, chapters XLIX. to LXVI. and Jeremiah; v. 4-6, The gospel according to St. Matthew: chapters I. to VIII.; IX. to XVII.; XVIII. to XXVIII. N. Y., A. C. Armstrong & Son, 1906. 8+339; 8+338; 8+403; 8+422; 7+385; 7+379 p. O. cl., per v., *$1.25 net.

First series in six volumes of a complete commentary on the Bible, to be complete in thirty volumes published in annual series of six volumes. W. Robertson Nicoll as general editor of the work has gathered together the expository writings of this eminent English divine, pastor of Union Chapel, Manchester, and author of several theological works as well as volumes in the Expositor's Bible.

Madan, A. C. Senga handbook: a short introduction to the Senga dialect as spoken on the Lower Luangwa, northeastern Rhodesia. N. Y., Oxford University Press, (Amer. Branch,) 1905. 100 p. S. cl., 85 c.

The Sengas are a tribe of the Bantu, numbering perhaps 50,000 altogether, and living in part in the British territory on the Lower Luangwa river, South Africa. This volume was compiled from the evidence of an intelligent young Senga. First half of the volume treats of the different parts of speech; the second half contains an English-Senga vocabulary.

Marquis, T. Guthrie, ed. Giants of the Dominion from Cartier to Laurier, by Agnes Maule Machar, Louis Honoré Frechette, J. Castell Hopkins, D. Creighton, W. Buckingham, F. Blake Crofton, J. Lambert Payne, and others. Phil., [T. G. Marquis,] 1905. c. 578 p. il. por. 8°, cl., $5.

Published in 1903 under the title: "Builders of Canada from Cartier to Laurier."

Meynell, Everard. Giovanni Bellini. N. Y., F. Warne & Co., [1906.] 20+64 p. il. O. (Newnes' art lib.) bds., $1.25.

Sixty-five reproductions of the pictures of Giovanni Bellini, an Italian fifteenth century painter, whose works are mostly to be found in Venice. A sketch of his life introduces the pictures.

Newcomb, Harry Turner. Municipal socialism: the conservative victory in Cleveland. Wash., D. C., Press of G. E. Howard, 1905. 50 p. 8°, pap., gratis.

Nodier, C. Jean Sbogar; ed. by D. Le Savory. N. Y., Oxford University Press, (Amer. Branch,) 1906. 19+140 p. S. (Oxford modern French ser.; ed. by Leon Delbos.) hf. cl., 50 c.

Editor, who is lecturer in the University of London, Goldsmith's College, has prefaced the text by a biographical sketch of Nodier. Numerous notes and a 3-page bibliography of works by and on Nodier.

Northwestern (The) reporter, v. 104. Permanent ed., July 18, 1905-Jan. 2, 1906. St. Paul, West Pub. Co., 1906. c. 16+1248 p. O. (National reporter system, state ser.) shp., $4.

Contains all the decisions of the supreme courts of Minn., Wis., Iowa, Mich., Neb., N. D., S. D. With table of northwestern cases in which rehearings have been denied. A table of statutes construed is given in the index.

Ohio. A digest of all decisions of the courts of the state from 1802 to 1905, and all cases decided in the courts of the U. S. affecting or relating to O. law, including the supreme, circuit and district federal judicatories. v. 3, (Corporations to emblements.) Norwalk, Laning Print. Co., 1905. c. 4 p. 4233-6392 columns, O. shp., $7.50.

Parry, D. Maclean. The scarlet empire; with il. by Hermann C. Wall. Indianapolis, Ind., Bobbs-Merrill Co., [1906. Mr.] 5+400 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

A young man of socialistic tendencies, thoroughly unfortunate in business, commits suicide. He awakens miles beneath the sea in a "lost Atlantis" which figures as "the scarlet empire." Here all is socialistic, controlled by the state. The people find themselves in a worse state of slavery than when controlled by millionaires and walking delegates upon the earth. Every item of food, conversation, marriage, education, etc., is regulated by strictest law and the bulk of the people are inspectors to guard the rights of the state. The hero goes through ghastly experiences and finally asserts his individuality and rescues himself and three others, one of whom furnishes the romance.

Pennsylvania. A digest of the statute law of the state from the year 1700 to 1903, (with the laws of 1905 in the appendix;) originally compiled in 1811 by J. Purdon. 13th ed., comp., annot. and rev. by Ardemus Stewart. v. 2, (E to L.) Phil., G. T. Bisel Co., 1905. c. 11+1281-2409 p. O. (Stewart's Purdon's digest.) shp., $6.

Railroad reports, (v. 39, Am. and Eng. railroad cases, new ser.+) a coll. of all cases affecting railroads of every kind decided by the courts of last resort in the U. S.; ed. by T. J. Michie. v. 16. Charlottesville, Va., 1905. c. 8+936 p. O. shp., $5.

Raymond, Rob. Raikes. Melody in speech: a book of principle, precept, and practice in inflection and emphasis. 3d ed., including an additional treatise by the author. N. Y., Edgar S. Werner & Co., 1906. c. '80, '06. 2+188 p. por. D. cl., $1.25.

First edition was printed in 1880 for the author's private use in his work at the Boston School of Oratory. After Prof. Raymond's death, his son re-edited it, incorporating all changes indicated in Prof. Raymond's notes. In this third edition has been included his treatise on "The voice in elocution," now out of print, and also some personal reminiscences of his teaching. Deals specifically with vocal inflections and emphasis in elocution.

Rickert, Martha Edith. Folly; with frontispiece [in col.] by Sigismund De Ivanowski. N. Y., Baker & Taylor Co., [1906. Mr.] c. 8+368 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

"Folly" is the nickname of a selfish, highspirited girl who marries an English squire whose very virtues madden her, and who later falls in love with a poet, doomed to a slow death with cancer. After the death of her baby, she flees to Spain to nurse the poet, regardless of husband and home. There is no peace, however, for either of them and the anomalous position is brought to an end by the poet who sends for Folly's husband and then steals away to die alone. Folly's readjustment to life and renewal of happiness are brought about by the poet's last injunction, service for others. By the author of the Shetland story, "The reaper."

Sankey, Ira D. Sankey's story of the gospel hymns and of sacred songs and solos; with an introduction by Theodore L. Cuyler. Phil., Sunday School Times Co., 1906. c. 8+272 p. por. 12°, cl., *75 c. net.

Silberrad, Una Lucy. Curayl. N. Y., Doubleday, Page & Co., 1906. 3-312 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

Curayl was the name of a little English village in the neighborhood of London. Beatrice Curayl, from whose ancestors for centuries the place had held its name, was a proud woman, the last of the ancient line, who had been virtually sold through marriage by her spendthrift father to a rich husband. She lives an unhappy wedded life, but devotes herself to her tenants, nurses them in illness and lives up to the traditions of her ancestors. A young preacher by a sermon on "consequences" first awakens her to higher things, and the story relates her inner life and final happiness.

Smith, S. Rob. The story of Wyoming Valley; il. by the author. Kingston, Pa., S. R. Smith, 1906. c. 97 p. 12°, cl., $1.

Somerset, Lady H.; [formerly Lady Isabel Somers.] Under the arch. N. Y., Doubleday, Page & Co., 1906. [Mr.] c. 5+336 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

A novel of the London of to-day with scenes from the fashionable social set and from the lives of the very poorest. The time is during the South African war, two of the characters starting in the opening chapters for active service in the field. The one leaves behind a sentimental young wife, who believes herself in love with his friend and companion, who has given up a girl whose love he has won, because he thinks he is too poor to marry. The men are wounded, but come back, the unmarried one bringing a rich American wife. The girl he had deserted finds solace in work among the city's "submerged tenth."

Theocritus. [Gr., 270 B.C.,] Bion [Gr., 280 B.C.] and Moschus [Gr., 200 B.C.]. Bucolici Graeci; recensuit et emendavit, Udalricus de Wilamowitz-Moellendorf. N. Y., Oxford University Press, (Amer. Branch,) [1906.] 15+170 p. D. (Scriptorum classicorum bibliotheca Oxoniensis.) cl., 75 c.

Pastoral songs by Theocritus, Bion and Moschus; text, notes, etc., in Greek.

Thorington, Ja. The ophthalmoscope and how to use it; with colored illustrations, descriptions, and treatment of the principal diseases of the fundus; 73 il., 12 pls. Phil., P.

Blakiston's Son & Co., 1906. c. 9+298 p. 8°, cl., $2.50.

Van Norden, C.; D.D. Jesus: an unfinished portrait. N. Y., Funk & Wagnalls Co., 1906. [F.] 3+295 p. D. cl., **$1 net.

The summing-up of thirty-five years of study and reflection on the career of Jesus, and an endeavor, from a view-point of scientific accuracy and yet in deep religious reverence and broad charity, to present the real man, his actual teachings and the bearing of his life upon present religious problems. By the author of "The uttermost rim and beyond" and "The psychic factor." Divided into 5 parts. 1, The author's point of view. 2, How Jesus discovered his mission. 3, What Jesus taught. 4, The Master's method and personality. 5, Reflections.

Vincent, J. Martin. Municipal problems in mediæval Switzerland. Balt., Md., Johns Hopkins Press, 1905. c. 44 p. O. (Johns Hopkins University studies in historical and political science.) pap., 50 c.

Dissertation on the municipal problems in certain towns of Switzerland which had won independence and self-government. The questions of building and maintaining the city wall, of sanitation, duties of magistrates, coinage agreements, election of town councils, water supply, the relation of trade guilds to city government, etc., are investigated with the help of contemporaneous records.

Williams, Jesse Lynch. The day dreamer: being the full narrative of "The stolen story." N. Y., Scribner, 1906. [Mr.] c. 5+326 p. D. cl., †$1.25.

Mr. Williams several years ago wrote a short story under the title "The stolen story," which attracted wide attention. He afterwards used the incidents in a play of the same name, which included other dramatic scenes. The present story is a novel made from the play. It has been published in magazine form as "News and the man." The story is the exciting experience of a newspaper man, who is a genius in his way, who goes after a "story" for his paper. His assignment takes him to the home of the girl he loves. There are misunderstandings and mysteries and a political intrigue, a happy ending being brought about in a most dramatic way.

Xenophon. Xenophontis opera omnia; recognovit brevique adnotatione critica instruxit E. C. Marchant. Tomus 1, Historia Graeca [The Hellenica]; text by E. C. Marchant, notes by G. E. Underhill. N. Y., Oxford University Press, (Amer. Branch,) 1906. various paging, O. cl., $2.50.

Xenophon's Historia Graeca or Hellenica covers the years 411 to 362 B.C., beginning with the twenty-first year of the Peloponnesian war and ending with the battle of Mantinea. Greek text fills almost half this volume, followed by a commentary, historical notes, Greek index, general index and index of authors, by G. E. Underhill, senior tutor of Magdalen College, Oxford.

INDEX TO SPRING ANNOUNCEMENTS.

In this department the announcements of books to be published during the Spring season are indexed under author and title, with as much information as publishers were ready to give in advance of publication. Books which appeared before February 1 in our "Weekly Record of New Publications" are not included.

Where binding is not stated the books are generally understood to be in cloth binding; "bds.," particularly in the department of Juvenile fiction, generally means illuminated or fancy board covers.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MARCH 17, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE SPRING OUTLOOK.

FOLLOWING an unusually active and prosperous fall and holiday season, the retail booktrade thus far this year has had no reason to complain either of lack of supply from the publishers or of lack of interest shown by the public in the current literary output. Notwithstanding the printers' strike since the first of the year and its inevitable disturbance of the publishing machinery, 427 publishers have during that period already put upon the market close upon a thousand books—a remarkable showing, all things considered. The demand for books by the public, judging by the numbers who frequent the bookstores, also is encouraging. The Valentine trade was unusually active, and the Easter trade promises to be better than ever before.

As for the spring and summer months, the list of books already announced by the publishing trade promises unabated activity for the retailer. In volume, at least, the announcements equal those of any previous spring season, and for quality they can also hold their own with former spring seasons. In fact no spring season has ever opened more cheerfully.

Population increases phenomenally, and day by day the people realize more that the only way to the top, where alone there is room, must take its way through knowledge based on the study of books. This year's output shows a great number of new technical works on all subjects and of the good standard books brought up to the last experience and invention by revision and enlargement. Repentance and reform in business and politics are in the air, and many wise students of their fellowmen at work and play have put into print much wise thought on the subjects of railroads, trusts, insurance, new election methods, municipal ownership, great fortunes, extravagant pleasures, etc., all of which, under many titles, will find itself a way to the shelves of booksellers and from thence to more permanent quarters in libraries and the homes of the people. Some of the new reading matter in these lines is good enough to find the most permanent of all resting places in the minds and characters and practical life of the people.

Year by year the love of nature and its consequent literature grows, and among the announcements are many books on country life, gardens, farms and their allied industries; and many books, that mechanically are things of beauty, on almost every kind of separate flower, fruit and plant and the insects that disport themselves among them.

Biography and history hold promise of fine works, and tend especially towards men and actions of American interest.

Fiction, as ever, outranks all departments in number, and the American novel holds its own in quantity and quality.

Authors and publishers have provided for every taste. It is now the booksellers' task to study their special environments and buy carefully, but keep in sight the fact that the bookbuying public has made money and can be tempted by well-selected stock presented with a cheerful confidence.

COPYRIGHT TREATY WITH JAPAN.

THE following is the text of the copyright convention between the United States and Japan, ratified on February 28, and just made public:

The President of the United States of America and his Majesty the Emperor of Japan being equally desirous to extend to their subjects and citizens the benefit of legal protection in both countries in regard to copyright, have, to this end, decided to conclude a Convention, and have appointed as their respective Plenipotentiaries:

The President of the United States of America, Lloyd C. Griscom, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States of America to Japan; and

His Majesty the Emperor of Japan, General Count Taro Katsura, Junii, First Class of the Imperial Order of the Rising Sun, Third Class of the Imperial Order of the Golden

Kite, His Imperial Majesty's Minister of State for Foreign Affairs;

Who, having reciprocally communicated their full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed as follows:

ARTICLE I.

The subjects or citizens of each of the two High Contracting Parties shall enjoy in the dominions of the other, the protection of copyright for their works of literature and art as well as photographs, against illegal reproduction, on the same basis on which protection is granted to the subjects or citizens of the other, subject however to the provisions of Article II of the present Convention.

ARTICLE II.

The subjects or citizens of each of the two High Contracting Parties may without authorization translate books, pamphlets or any other writings, dramatic works, and musical compositions, published in the dominions of the other by the subjects or citizens of the latter, and print and publish such translations.

ARTICLE III.

The present Convention shall be ratified, and the ratifications thereof shall be exchanged at Tokio as soon as possible. It shall come into operation from the date of the exchange of ratifications, and shall be applicable to such works only as shall be published after it shall have come into operation. Either of the Contracting Parties shall have the right, at any time, to give notice to the other of its intention to terminate the present Convention, and at the expiration of three months after such notice is given this Convention shall wholly cease and determine.

In witness whereof the above mentioned Plenipotentiaries have signed the present Convention and have affixed thereto their seals.

Done in duplicate at Tokio, in the English and Japanese languages, this 10th day of November, of year one thousand nine hundred and five, corresponding to the 10th day of the 11th month of the 38th year of Meiji.

TARO KATSURA.

A PUBLISHER HIS CLIENT'S JUROR.

It appears that when Henry Holt, the senior of the firm of Henry Holt & Co., as a member of the New York grand jury passed upon the validity of the charges of alleged larceny in the first degree and alleged forgery in the third degree against George Dyre Eldridge, vice-president of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company, he did not recall the fact that his firm was the publisher of Eldridge's novel, "The Milbank Case." When Mr. Holt's attention was called to the matter he at once communicated the fact to District Attorney Jerome.

Mr. Jerome communicated with Mr. Eldridge's lawyer, who said that he did not think the fact that Mr. Holt had published one of his client's books would prejudice him, and he was then informed by the district attorney that he was competent to act.

"The Milbank Case" was submitted to Henry Holt & Co. in the fall of 1904. It was sent back to Eldridge for revision, and published in May, 1905. It is a detective story dealing with a murder, and winds up with the suicide of the guilty man. A scandal in high life has a place in the tale, which is interestingly told.

HARPER & BROTHERS INCREASE THEIR CAPITAL.

HARPER & BROTHERS on March 13 filed with the Secretary of State, at Albany, N. Y., a certificate of increase of capital from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000. The certificate is signed by A. E. Orr, G. B. M. Harvey, J. Henry Harper and others. Colonel Harvey, the president of Harper & Brothers, is reported by the New York Times to have said that the increase was "purely a routine matter, made for the purpose of substituting income bonds for stock."

THE OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS TEAM ARE CHAMPION BOWLERS.

THE final games in the publishers' bowling tournament were called on the evening of March 9 at the Fair Bowling Alleys, 122 East Fourteenth Street, New York. The Oxford University Press team won first place, scoring eight of the twelve games rolled. The Ginn & Co. team also won eight of the twelve, but was defeated by the Oxford University Press team in the roll-off to decide the championship. The Doubleday, Page & Co. team was third on the list with a score of seven, and the American Book Company team scored six. Unfortunately the G. P. Putnam's Sons team was obliged to forfeit the majority of the games, owing to the continued absence of several members of their team.

The tournaments were a source of great pleasure to all who took part as well as to the visitors, and offered splendid opportunities for close acquaintanceship. It is expected that now that a beginning has been made the next season will call out at least a dozen teams representing the various publishing and bookselling firms in New York City.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the American Publishers' Association the following officers were re-elected: Frank H. Scott, president; Charles Scribner, first vice-president; Frank H. Dodd, second vice-president; Daniel Appleton, treasurer, and Frederick A. Stokes, secretary. M. Murray Brown, who was recently elected a member of the Board of Directors, having declared himself for several reasons unable to serve, Mr. Gregory, of the firm of Lothrop, Lee & Shepard, was elected in his place.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE—ELEVENTH ANNUAL MEETING.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE held its eleventh annual meeting at the Aldine Association on the evening of March 14. There were present about forty, a smaller number than usual. After the coffee had been served the president, F. D. Lacy, called upon Francis Gilman, secretary, for the report of the Board of Managers, which is as follows:

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY.

To the Members of the Booksellers' League.

GENTLEMEN: Your President and the Board of Managers take pleasure in presenting their eleventh annual report as follows:

To-day finds the Booksellers' League in an excellent condition as regards membership and finances. The gain during the year has been sixty-one members, the total membership at this time being 241, as against 180 in the previous year, when only forty-six new members were enrolled. Some of the success in adding new members is no doubt due to the fact that the League two years ago voted to award one of its gold buttons to each member who might secure five new candidates. Of the number who have worked most assiduously in gaining new members Charles A. Burkhardt is in the lead.

The Board of Managers has held eight monthly meetings, which were unusually well attended.

Seven dinners have been given during the year, and entertainment of a high character has been provided by Professor Thomas Gafney Taafe, Captain Paul B. Malone, Arthur Henry, J. Wallace Mackey, Charles Battell Loomis, Henry Mayer, Joe C. Lincoln, the Rev. Robert E. Knowles, Mr. and Mrs. Barclay Dunham, Edmund Vance Cooke, Eugene P. Lyle, George Cary Eggleston, Upton Sinclair, the Rev. Madison C. Peters, J. W. Sargent, Charles H. Caffin, the Rev. Dr. W. A. P. Martin, R. F. Stevens and others.

There were two special nights of particular interest. The one was the May dinner, in which we united with the American Booksellers' Association. This meeting was attended by one of the largest number of booksellers and stationers that ever met in New York City on a similar occasion, and proved a very enjoyable affair. The other was the Ladies' Night in January, 1906, which partook somewhat of the nature of a celebration of the bi-centenary of the birth of Benjamin Franklin. This was also well attended and much enjoyed by all who were present.

The year was also marked by the publication of a history of the League, entitled "The Booksellers' League: a history of its formation, and ten years of its work," written and furnished to the League without cost by A. Growoll, who for his devotion to the League was honored with a silver loving cup and a memorial volume handsomely bound. Honorary membership was conferred on Mrs. A. H. Leyoldt for assistance rendered in preparing the index for the History of the League and for the active interest she has shown in the work of the League from the beginning.

It is pleasant to note that while the League enjoys itself it is also not forgetful of those of its members who, for one reason or another, are no longer able to be with it. An instance of this kind is the contribution of $200, taken up by subscription, to the fund raised by the booktrade to provide special medical treatment for Dwight Stratton, an old member and for some time one of the Board of Managers. Another instance was the conferring of honorary membership on our former president, secretary, treasurer and excellent friend, W. H. Parker, who for a time has given up the book business to devote himself to agricultural pursuits.

The Employment Bureau, under the efficient management of its faithful director, C. E. Bonnell, has continued its useful work in securing positions for the unemployed, as may be seen from the following report:

REPORT OF THE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU.

Applications from employers for clerks and others..... 57
Applications for positions..... 56

From this report, compared with the report of last year, it appears that publishing houses, and employers generally, are using the Employment Bureau of the League more and more as a means of securing help.

The income from fees amounted to $5. The income from this source is meagre, partly because the larger number of applicants have small means and partly because others seem to forget their obligations to the Bureau after they have secured positions.

C. E. BONNELL.

REPORT OF THE TREASURER.

The treasurer takes pleasure in reporting that, notwithstanding the fact that a larger number of members have attended the dinners given during the past year than in the previous years, the League has an ample balance on hand, as the following figures will show:

Cash on hand April 1, 1905.....	$303.68

SAMUEL REIS
J. B. PRATT
C. L. BOWMAN

It seems hardly necessary to point out the advantages that are derived and that may be derived from membership in the Booksellers' League. What is desired is that every one now aware of what the Booksellers' League stands for may acquaint others with the facts, and gain new members, so that the League may grow larger and stronger and be able in time to realize some of the larger purposes for which the League was called into existence.

FRANCIS GILMAN, Secretary.

* Contributed from the treasury to make up a sum of two hundred dollars subscribed by members of the League.

The report was heartily applauded and unanimously adopted.

The election of president for the ensuing year resulted in the unanimous choice of W. G. Preston, of Dodd, Mead & Co. The following were elected members of the Board of Managers: E. Byrne Hackett, John A. Holden, E. G. Lawrence, J. B. Pratt, Samuel Reiss and J. Worth.

At the conclusion of the business session Dr. John G. Coyle reviewed the life-history of Matthew Lyon, the American soldier, printer and journalist, and politician whose vote in the House of Representatives decided the election of Thomas Jefferson. Lyon's career, as eloquently outlined by Dr. Coyle, was indeed remarkable. Born in Wexford, Ireland, in 1746, he emigrated to America in 1759, where he was sold in New York to a Connecticut farmer to pay his passage over. He succeeded in redeeming himself after three years, and then removed to Vermont and became a lieutenant in a company of "Green Mountain Boys." Lyon founded the town of Fairhaven, Vt., where he built saw mills and grist mills, a paper mill and a forge, and established and edited a paper called The Scourge of Aristocracy and Repository of Important Political Truth, making the type and paper himself. For ten years he was a member of the Vermont legislature, and from 1797 to 1801 he represented the Anti-Federalists of Vermont in Congress. In 1801 he removed to Kentucky, where he established the first printing office in the State and also engaged in shipbuilding. He again sat in Congress, from 1803 to 1811, and at the time of his death, in 1822, was United States factor among the Cherokees in Arkansas and had been elected delegate from that Territory.

OBITUARY NOTES.

DR. JOHN JACOB ANDERSON, the author of Anderson's school histories and other educational works, died on March 14 at his home, 343 Adelphi Street, Brooklyn, N. Y. He was born in New York City on September 30, 1821, and was teacher for thirty years, including twenty years as principal of one of the largest grammar schools in New York. In addition to his school histories of the United States, England and France, he was the author of "The Manual of General History," "The Historical Reader" and "The United States Reader."

WILLIAM ELLIS, for forty years connected with the Milwaukee booktrade, died at Baraboo, Wis., on February 24. Mr. Ellis was born in Britton, Devonshire County, England, September 18, 1822. He was married there, and for a number of years conducted a bookstore in his native town. He came to the United States in March, 1849, and soon after opened a bookstore in Milwaukee, on East Water Street, being one of the first in the city to deal in printed matter. Afterwards he located at 130-132 Wisconsin Street, where he had a store for many years. After being in Milwaukee for about forty years he decided to retire and went to Baraboo, but it was not long before he opened a bookstall, just to keep in touch with the ever-increasing volume of literature.

SUSAN BROWNELL ANTHONY, who devoted her life to the cause of women, and, as an advocate of equal suffrage and woman's rights gained a world-wide reputation, died at Rochester, N. Y., on March 13. Miss Anthony was born in South Adams, Mass., February 15, 1820. Her father, a Quaker, was a cotton manufacturer, with somewhat liberal ideas. She was educated at the Friends' boarding school in Philadelphia, and after her graduation, at the age of fifteen, became a school teacher. Refusing to receive less pay for work which she claimed she did as well as a man who received higher pay she lost her position, and from that time forward began her struggle to secure for women equal rights with men. Through the press and on the lecture platform she was unceasingly active almost up to the time of her death making propaganda for freedom and suffrage. She founded and edited The Revolution, an exclusively woman's rights paper, and frequently contributed to the leading magazines and newspapers in this country and in England. With Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Mrs. Mathilda Joslyn Gage and Mrs. Ida Husted Harper she wrote "The History of Woman Suffrage" in four volumes.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—Charles Sessler, bookseller, publisher and importer of rare editions, has removed from Chestnut Street to 1314 Walnut Street.

PLATTSMOUTH, NEB.—Mauzy & Murphy, booksellers, have been succeeded by R. L. Mauzy.

TOPEKA, KAN.—J. F. Clarkson, bookseller, has sold out.

VERNAL, UTAH.—Calder Brothers, booksellers, have sold out to Frank A. Brinton.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE CENTURY COMPANY will publish on the 21st inst. Jennette Lee's new book, "Uncle William." It is for readers who like a simple, homely tale, and Uncle William is said to combine quaint humor and pathos to a most appealing degree. The author is Professor of English Language and Literature at Smith College, and is best known to the general reading public through her many short stories.

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. will publish this spring a new book by G. Lowes Dickinson, author of "Letters from a Chinese Official," etc., to be entitled "The Meaning of Good," a record of an imaginary conversation in which a group of typical young men of our time attempt to establish a definition of "goodness;" also, "The Life of a Star," reminiscent stories by Clara Morris, the well-known actress.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just brought out John Morgan Richards's volume of reminiscences, "With John Bull and Jonathan;" "Marcelle the Mad," a story by Seth Cook Comstock; also, "The Triumphs of Eugene Valmont," a new story by Robert Barr. They will publish shortly "The False Gods," a journalistic story by George Horace Lorimer, author of "Letters from a Self-Made Merchant to His Son."

FORBES & Co., Chicago, will publish in April "Thrills of a Bell Boy," by S. E. Kiser, with characteristic sketches by J. T. McCutcheon, who pictures the "bell boy" in a dozen poses. "Love Sonnets of an Office Boy," which these two humorists brought out a few years ago, has gone through several large editions. In response to the continued demand Forbes & Co. will bring out "Buell Hampton," by Willis George Emerson, in a popular edition.

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY have just ready a new book by the Rev. Dr. Charles Van Norden, entitled "Jesus: an Unfinished Portrait." The work is said to be a summing up of thirty-five years of study and reflection on the career of Jesus, and an endeavor, from a viewpoint of scientific accuracy and yet in deep religious reverence and broad charity, to present the real man, his actual teachings and the bearing of his life upon the present religious problems.

FREDERICK WARNE & Co. will shortly commence the publication of a companion series to the popular Newnes' Art Library, to comprise the art galleries of Europe. Various volumes will treat of "The National Gallery" (London), "The Early British School of Painters," "The Later British School of Painters," the Flemish, Dutch, early and late Italian schools, the Spanish, German and French schools, each with adequate illustrations and descriptive matter, by Robert De la Sizeranne, Frederick Wedmore, Gustave Geffroy, Sir Charles Holroyd and others.

THOMAS B. MOSHER, Portland, Me., will issue next month in the Ideal Series of Little Masterpieces "The Sweet Miracle," by Eça de Queiroz; "Poems in Prose," by Oscar Wilde; and "Hand and Soul," by Dante Gabriel Rossetti. This new series is one of the most attractive of the publisher's varied attempts in producing beautiful editions at merely nominal price. Later Mr. Mosher will bring out a new Vest Pocket edition of "Nature Thoughts Selected from the Prose Writings of Walt Whitman," by Anne Montgomerie Traubel, a little book worthy to rank with Jefferies and Thoreau as a mine of nature lore of unsuspected richness.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just published "The Rise of American Nationality," by Kendrick Charles Babcock, president of the University of Arizona, as volume 13 in The American Nation series. The War of 1812 is the topic of this volume, and the author traces the causes of that struggle, its main events, including a characterization of the armies, navies and officers contending against each other, and its effect upon the nation; and shows how out of the weakness of the war period came a new national spirit that not only caused European nations to adopt a different point of view towards the great American republic, but which also resulted in a better status of parties at home, and the strengthening of the national spirit.

HURST & Co. have greatly strengthened their list of paper-covered books by the addition of thirty-five of the copyright novels by Archibald Clavering Gunter, which they have purchased from the Home Publishing Company. They have also purchased many of the better books formerly published by the Federal Book Company, which has gone out of business, and will bring them out in new styles in their various libraries. In their Hawthorne Library they now show 188 titles, running as low as 4½ cents for lots of 1000 copies. In their Universal Library they show one of the largest lines of five-cent books now in the market. They are also making preparations to make their line of cloth and leather bound books better and more attractive than ever.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will publish on the 24th inst. "The International Cook Book," by Alex. Filippini; "Man, the Social Creator," by Henry Demarest Lloyd; "A Few Neighbors," by Henry A. Shute; "Recollections of Thirteen Presidents," by John S. Wise; also, the eighth part of the "Dog Book," all of which have already been fully described by us. They are bringing out a uniform edition of Ellen Glasgow's important novels, including her latest, "The Wheel of Life," "The Voice of the People," "The Battleground," and "The Deliverance." They have in preparation a new story by H. B. Marriott Watson, entitled "The Privateer." It reverses the usual condition, in that it deals with the adventures of two fortune-hunting Americans who abduct a British heiress.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have brought out this week the following books: "The Log of a Sea Angler," containing exciting adventure by the well-known sportsman, Charles F. Holder; "The Clammer," a delicate romance, by William J. Hopkins; a volume on "The College Man and the College Woman," by President William DeWitt Hyde, of Bowdoin College; studies of nineteen "American Literary Masters," by Leon H. Vincent; new editions of "Calmire" and "Sturmsee," with the name of Henry Holt on the title-page; volume 2 of "The Proceedings of the International Congress of Arts and Science," and the 1906 edition of the "Satchel Guide," by Dr. W. J. Rolfe. "The Evasion," Miss Eugenia Brooks Frothingham's novel, to be published on March 31, is to have a poster portrait by the well-known artist, Joseph Lindon Smith. Mr. Smith has just been exhibiting in Boston a collection of paintings recently done in Egypt.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish shortly W. B. Freer's book, "Experiences of an American Teacher in the Philippines," which, besides describing the islands, will discuss the work of the American teachers there. The volume will be illustrated with interesting photographs taken by the author. They have in preparation a new book on Joseph Jefferson by Francis Wilson, the well-known actor, a portion of which has appeared in Scribner's Magazine; an account of the "Early Life of Leo Tolstoy," compiled by his former secretary and present literary representative, M. P. Birukoff, who has been aided in the work by Tolstoy himself; also, the journal of Richard Smith, of Burlington, N. J., entitled "A Tour of Four Great Rivers: the Hudson, Mohawk, Susquehanna and Delaware, in 1769," edited by Francis W. Halsey, who has also written for the volume a brief history of "Pioneer Settlement," and an account of Smith's life.

DODD, MEAD & Co. will publish on the 28th inst. "Cowardice Court," a story full of love and adventure, by George Barr McCutcheon, author of "Graustark," etc., with illustrations in color, by Harrison Fisher and decorations by T. B. Hapgood; "My Sword for Lafayette," by Max Pemberton, a dramatic and thrilling story of the adventures of a friend and companion of the Marquis de Lafayette, with illustrations; "The Scholar's Daughter," by Beatrice Harraden, a charming love story, one of the principal characters in which is an old scholar who is ambitious to write a dictionary; "The Girl with the Blue Sailor," a vacation love story, by Burton Egbert Stevenson, author of "The Holladay Case," etc.; also, a timely book by H. A. Guerber, author of "Legends of Switzerland," etc., on "How to Prepare for Europe," full of information on a variety of subjects which may interest the European traveller, explained with illustrations, maps and tables.

JOHN LANE COMPANY have in preparation a novel entitled "The Mountain Lovers," which William Sharp wrote under the celebrated pen name Fiona McLeod; the life of Charles Stewart Parnell, which will be issued under the title "A Patriot's Mistake," a volume of reminiscences, which includes many members of the Parnell family, written by a daughter of the house, Emily Monroe Dickinson, who says in her preface: "My object in writing these pages was to trace some of the principal events which would gratify the natural desire of the reading public to know something, from a personal source, of a family that had become so famous, some of whom were so tragically unfortunate in the issues of their lives; also to lift to some extent the veil of proud reserve that wrapt a spirit as brave and impenetrable as ever faced the fierce struggles, the stress, and shipwreck of political life." The issue of Anthony Trollope's novels, which John Lane Company has been bringing out in pocket form on thin paper, will presently be enlarged by the appearance of "Orley Farm." This will be published in two volumes. Another announcement of importance is "Pilgrimages to Old [English] Homes," by Fletcher Moss, who describes such famous places as Wells, Glastonbury, Walford Hall, Chartley and others, all of which are fully illustrated.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have just ready "The Wolf at Susan's Door and Mrs. Lathrop's Love Affair," by Anne Warner, in which Miss Clegg is said to be even more inimitable and irresistible than in the first series of stories; also, "The Game of Bridge," by Fisher Ames, a recognized authority on his subject, presenting it in a systematic and natural order, and in such a way as to interest and instruct the reader in the principles, and to familiarize him with the best practice of the game. They will publish on the 24th inst. a volume entitled "Thunder and Lightning," by Camille Flammarion, the celebrated French astronomer, which will contain the data he has been collecting regarding the havoc wrought by lightning. They will publish in April a new novel by Arthur Stringer, entitled "The Wire Tappers." The hero of the story, an electrical inventor, and the heroine, a beautiful English girl, by sheer force of circumstances become associated with a man who attempts by wire tapping to beat the pool room. The events which follow are vividly unfolded by Mr. Stringer, who is one of the most careful craftsmen among American authors. They have acquired the American publishing rights of "The Fight for Canada," by Major William Wood, and are just issuing a definitive edition of this important historical work at a low price. Major Wood views the entire campaign in the aspect of a combined naval and military operation in which sea power is now made to assume its proper relation to the British conquests. He avails himself of important authentic material that has been discovered since Parkman's day. The volume contains portraits, colored maps, and a very full bibliography.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

 In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

 Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

The Biography of Our Baby

Verses by Edmund Vance Cooke and Illustrations by Bessie Collins Pease

Of all the books made for keeping a record of the life of a baby this is certainly the most beautiful. One readily falls in love with the beautiful baby pictures, so irresistible in their sweetness, with which Miss Pease has decorated the pages.

Edmund Vance Cooke's fascinating verses add much to the interest of the volume:

"The wee, wet kiss against my lips,
The warm head in its shoulder nest.
The little legs across my chest,
The froward little finger tips;

Choose as you will! My choice is best;
The little life across my breast."

If you know any one who has a child you will bring much happiness to them by sending a copy of this book.

Queer Things About Japan

Douglas Sladen

A most thorough account of Japanese life and customs as seen by this well-known writer. Very fully illustrated with pictures by prominent Japanese artists.

5½ x 8, Cloth, $2.50 net

More Queer Things About Japan

Douglas Sladen

In "More Queer Things About Japan" there are sixteen chapters by Miss Lorimer on "Japan from a Woman's Point of View," and two remarkable contributions from the Japanese—a life of Napoleon, written and illustrated by the Japanese about 1840, and "The Yoshiwara from Within," an account of the Public Harems of Japan. The famous letters of Will Adams, written from Japan 1611-1617, are also included.

5½ x 8, Cloth, $2.50 net

Reflections of a Bachelor

"Being good is an awful lonesome job," so says the writer of this book of clever saying. If you wish to give some friend an unusual book just get a copy of this one; it is full of bright and witty paragraphs. New edition printed in two colors. Old Maid's edition, showing the end of the bachelor—a skeleton in a box.

Games for Everybody

May C. Hofmann

An ideal book for the entertainer; full of helpful suggestions and games for children and adults. About fifty pages are given up to the most popular games for children. The remainder of the volume is devoted to games for adults.

5 x 7½, Cloth, 50 cents

NEW BOOKS—NEW EDITIONS

Crystal Gazing

Northcote W. Thomas

This volume covers the history and practice of crystal gazing with a discussion of the evidence for telepathic scrying. Professor Andrew Lang, in a most interesting introduction, gives his experiences. Every thoughtful man and woman should read this book.

5 x 7½, Cloth, $1.25.

Thought Transference

Northcote W. Thomas

Since the foundation of the Society for Physical Research a great mass of material has been published on such subjects as Thought-Transference, Crystal Gazing, Ghosts, Mediumship, Physical Phenomena and other so-called "occult" manifestations. There have—notwithstanding the great public interest in these subjects—been but few attempts to sum up the evidence and make it available for the ordinary citizen who cannot find time to read the whole of the thirty volumes published by the Society. This new volume by Professor Thomas is of intense interest, dealing sympathetically with the evidence, and shows what any man without bias in either direction may regard as proved.

5 x 7½, Cloth, $1.25.

For Each Day—A Prayer

The Christian Advocate says, "Put this book on your list; it refreshes like a sun-bathed pine tree." The Cambridge Tribune says, "It will prove a most welcome volume to the many who want, not to say rely upon, from day to day, something stimulating and refreshing from the world's great storehouse of thought and aspiration." The Epworth Herald says, "It is a book of permanent value. We heartily commend the book for its value in religious training."

Compiled by Elizabeth Hamill Davis, with selections by Dr. Henry van Dyke, Dr. J. R. Miller and many other equally prominent persons.

5½ x 7½, Cloth, $1.25.

"GLADYS LAWRENCE"

THE SOCIETY NOVEL OF THE SEASON

THE EVASION

By EUGENIA BROOKS FROTHINGHAM

Author of "The Turn of the Road"

THE popularity of Miss Frothingham's new book, "The Evasion," seems secure. It concerns the exclusive circles of American society with a plot which centers about a young girl whose beauty and attraction are compelling. Its action has to do with the prevailing fads and luxuries which are so dear to the so-called smart set of the country, and so eagerly read by outsiders. "The Evasion," however, is unique in its characterization. The underlying currents of religious and socialistic feeling, and the uncertainty as to which way these currents may turn add greatly to the interest of this novel of real flesh and blood. There is a warmth and straightforward tone to Miss Frothingham's work. The story is logical and interesting, page by page, and the events which it chronicles are thrilling and exciting.

McCLURE SPRING ANNOUNCEMENTS

Lady Betty Across the Water

By C. N. and A. M. WILLIAMSON

Authors of "My Friend the Chauffeur."

An Anglo-American romance in the form of a diary of a bright, vivacious English girl who comes to America under the chaperonage of a leader of the "400" in New York and Newport. She has her eyes open, and what she saw of the inside workings of society you will concede was well worth recording. Betty had several love stories; at least, several men thought they were stories, and her numerous experiences make a most charming and interesting story.

Cloth, 12mo. Eight illustrations in color. $1.50.

In Our Town

By WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE

Author of "The Court of Boyville," "The Real Issue," etc.

"Our Town" is located where the Westerners call it East and the Easterners call it West. Where is that? "What's the matter with Kansas," to quote one of Mr. White's most famous phrases.

"Our Town" is a most amusing and individual little, one street, one store, one bank village, as you see it in your tour personally conducted by the editor of the local paper, who introduces you to the show characters and whispers in your ear their humorous or pathetic life stories. Mr. White gives you a capital good time, for he has a fine faculty for telling a simple life story and a keen sense of what stores good-natured laughter.

Cloth. Sixteen illustrations. $1.50.

The Pets and Other Critters

By HENRY WALLACE PHILLIPS

Author of "Red Saunders."

Here again we meet the breezy, fun provoking Red Saunders, the same as of yore but with a brand new set of vigorous, humorous tales of the pets and other critters whom Red and his crowd were wont to adopt from time to time. Let a bobcat, an eagle, a snake, and an inquisitive pup come together, as in one of these tales, and something can be expected to "bust loose." Pigs, goats, bears, deers, horses, etc., figure amusingly in these highly entertaining narratives. Every one of them will afford you many a hearty laugh and prove a sure banisher of the "blues."

Cloth. Thirty illustrations. $1.25.

McCLURE SPRING ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Four Million

By O. HENRY

Author of "Cabbages and Kings."

Who are the four million? The inhabitants of Manhattan Isle, of course. O. Henry has been loafing amongst them for a good period of time now with his "weathered eye peeled" for the humorous incident or character. Here is the harvest of his loafing and the volume shows the delightful humorist in his happiest mood.

Cloth, 12mo. $1.00.

"Pigs is Pigs"

By ELLIS PARKER BUTLER

A perfect gem of a humorous tale in which a pair of guinea pigs make trouble for a suburban gentleman, a stubborn Irish station master, and a slow moving railway corporation. It affords one continuous laugh from beginning to end. This little book will prove a happy companion.

Cloth, 12mo. Five illustrations. 50 cents.

More Stories of Married Life

By MARY STEWART CUTTING

Author of "Little Stories of Married Life," and "Little Stories of Courtship."

To those who are familiar with the delicious comedies and gentle tragedies of commuter life in Mrs. Cutting's previous volumes, surely no recommendation could be more effective than the assurance that this volume is out of the same material and is of the same quality as its predecessors.

Cloth, 12mo. Frontispiece in color. $1.25.

Vrouw Grobelaar And Her Leading Cases

By PERCEVAL GIBBON

"The Kipling of the Kraals"

Rarely has a book appeared so much out of the rut of commonplace literature, so full of the definite genius for dramatic story-telling as this volume of powerful, absorbing tales of South African life. By all means get this book if you want something really worth while.

Cloth, 12mo. $1.25.

McCLURE SPRING ANNOUNCEMENTS

Foster's Complete Bridge

R. F. FOSTER

The most complete and concise handbook on Bridge ever published. Beginner and expert alike will find this book valuable and interesting. The points of the game are illustrated by sample hands in color. A complete set of rules and a history of the game add much to the value of the book.

Gilt edges. Cloth. Net, $1.50; postpaid, $1.60. Morocco. Net, $3.00; postpaid, $3.10.

The Cost of Competition

SIDNEY A. REEVE

A brilliant arraignment of our economic system with insistence on the social and moral evils of competition. The Brooklyn Eagle says: "The Cost of Competition" is well written, important, prophetic, . . . is admirable in its diagnosis and stimulating in its suggestiveness."

Cloth. One volume. Net, $2.00; postpaid, $2.14.

Enemies of the Republic

LINCOLN STEFFENS

By the same author, "The Shame of the Cities."

The articles on corruption in state politics which Mr. Steffens has been contributing to McClure's Magazine during the past year are gathered into this volume. These papers have been recognized as the most sane and most helpful among the numberless articles on misgovernment that magazines have been publishing of late.

Cloth, 12mo. Net, $1.20; postpaid, $1.32.

The Life of a Star

CLARA MORRIS

By the same author, "Life on the Stage."

A book of autobiographical sketches, which are at the same time dramatic and human little stories. It gives a delightful view of life on the American stage and of the people that made it during the latter part of the nineteenth century.

Cloth, 12mo. Frontispiece. Net, $1.50; postpaid, $1.63.

The Meaning of Good

G. LOWES DICKINSON

By the same author, "A Modern Symposium," "Letters from a Chinese Official," "The Greek View of Life."

A volume in the form of a delightful informal conversation in which a group of young men attempt to establish what is essential and ideal good and to formulate a working definition of the word goodness. The book is characterized by Mr. Dickinson's notable ability to see every question with wonderful clearness.

Cloth. Net, $1.20; postpaid, $1.30.

The Far Country

FLORENCE WILKINSON

By the same author, "Two Plays of Israel," "Kings and Queens."

A volume that is noteworthy in an age producing much in rhyme, but little true poetry. It stamps Miss Wilkinson as a serious poet with a wide sweep of emotion, an unusual breadth of knowledge, and a firm control over the technique of her art.

Cloth. Net, $1.00; postpaid, $1.10.

Wayside Talks

CHARLES WAGNER

By the same author, "The Simple Life," "The Better Way," "Justice," etc.

Mr. Wagner refers to this volume as the notebook of his life, in which he has jotted down opinions on all questions of conduct and thought as they have been suggested to him by incidents of his experience.

Cloth. Net, $1.00; postpaid, $1.08.

A Thrilling Story of LOVE and MYSTERY The Golden Greyhound

By DWIGHT TILTON, author of "Miss Petticoats," etc. Illustrated by E. Pollak. 12mo. Cloth. $1.50

Here is an up-to-date story of love, adventure and mystery, with wireless telegraphy and all the modern improvements, that will not let you rest until you see how it is coming out. The hero is a rich young New Yorker and former Yale athlete. He is so attracted by a lovely face as to follow its possessor, a young woman whose personality is worthy of her great beauty, on board an Atlantic liner, called "The Golden Greyhound" on account of a vast shipment of gold, forgetful that he has just spent all his money. With him is a choice character, his valet, "Jay," a Yankee farmer youth, who figures extensively in the exciting voyage, which is filled with adventurous incidents by a stupendous plot concerning the gold. The hero is instrumental in solving a most baffling mystery, and his rash journey brings great happiness to all but the perpetrators of the audacious scheme. The book is as rich in humor as it is fertile in invention, and is strikingly handsome in make-up.

The Latest and Best New England Romance The Girl from Tim's Place

By CHARLES CLARK MUNN, author of "Uncle Terry," etc. Illustrated by Frank T. Merrill. 12mo. Cloth. $1.50

This is an intensely dramatic story of a girl of striking beauty, nicknamed "Chip" by lumbermen, who dares sixty miles of almost pathless Maine wilderness to escape a fate worse than death. She is saved by a camping party, containing, among others "Old Cy Walker," one of the finest woodsmen and country humorists in all fiction. There is also a young man who cannot help falling in love with "Chip" as she rapidly develops into an attractive companion. Meanwhile, pursuit takes place, also a dark tragedy involving "Chip's" father, and leaving her an heiress, although she does not know it until much later, and then only through the devotion of "Old Cy." Then follow complications resulting in flight and a new life for "Chip" as Vera Raymond, beautiful, commanding, and admired. How the links are discovered uniting past and present for the heroine, and also for faithful "Old Cy," forms Mr. Munn's masterpiece.

THE THROWBACK

By ALFRED HENRY LEWIS

Illustrated by N. C. Wyeth, Price $1.50

A romantic story of the Southwest in the days when the buffalo roamed the plains; when the Indian Council fires still smoked and the law of the strongest prevailed. Few know the West as Mr. Lewis knows it, and he has written here an intensely interesting novel full of incident, adventure and humor.

THE LUCKY PIECE

By ALBERT BIGELOW PAINE

Frontispiece in color; Price $1.50

A tender, sweet, wholesome love story, the scene of which is laid mostly among the mountains of the Adirondacks. The Lucky Piece is an old Spanish coin and it plays an important part in the story. How the somewhat idle and blasé young townsman found himself, through the influence of the forest and mountains, will appeal to all lovers of the outdoors.

THE PRAYING SKIPPER

By RALPH D. PAINE

Illustrations by Blumenschein, Lyendecker, Aylward, and Sidney Adamson, Price, $1.50

The readers of Ralph Paine's stories as they appeared in the magazines will hasten to buy this volume just for the pleasure of preserving the stories and reading them again. The book contains the following: "The Praying Skipper," "A Victory Unforeseen," "The Last Pilot Schooner," "Surfman Brainard's Day Off," "The Jade Teapot," "Captain Arendt's Choice," and "Corporal Sweeney, Deserter."

SIDE SHOW STUDIES

By FRANCIS METCALFE

Profusely Illustrated by Oliver Herford, Price $1.50

Mr. Metcalfe's book tells many funny things of the freaks and the exhibits. The yarn of how the elephant was whitewashed, how a mouse busted up the mermaid show and the many other droll stories, make a volume at once amusing, instructive and entertaining.

WILL ISSUE IN APRIL

THE PASS

By STEWART EDWARD WHITE

With marginal decorations on every page and many illustrations from photographs. 8vo, $1.50 net.

A companion volume to "The Mountains" and "The Forest," containing the story of a remarkable trip across the high Sierras. For brilliant description, entertaining and humorous incident, vivid love of forest and mountain, this narrative probably excels everything Mr. White has yet written, and will no doubt be the leading outdoor book of the year.

REPORT ON COLONIAL ADMINISTRATION IN THE FAR EAST—Volume 1, Burma

By ALLEYNE IRELAND, F.R.G.S.

This is the first volume in the extended report which Mr. Ireland is writing on the colonies of the Far East and which is receiving the warm approbation and encouragement of the political, economic and educational world. The volume on Burma is complete in itself and it contains chapters on: a general description of Burma; its acquisition by the British; its government; its general administration; financial administration; municipal administration; education; public works; forest administration; administration of the Shan States and the Chin Hills; industries, commerce and shipping; medical and sanitary administration; general review of the administration of Burma; together with appendices relating to treaties, census and other statistics, and a bibliography.

The information in this book is brought down to the present time and it must serve as the standard volume on Burma for many years to come. No public or college library can afford to be without this exhaustive work, which is printed in limited edition.

Subscriptions are received by the publishers, who will forward specimen pages and terms upon request.

WITH WALT WHITMAN IN CAMDEN

By HORACE TRAUBEL

A Diary Record of Conversations, with many Important Letters and other Manuscripts. Copiously illustrated with 35 full-page portraits and facsimiles.

One of Whitman's literary executors and for many years his neighbor and intimate friend.

Whitman's daily life and thought is at last given to the interested public. The period covered by this diary was in Whitman's last years when his judgments and personality were finally matured. We have here Whitman's own words regarding most of the important literary and personal events of his life and his comments on nearly five hundred contemporary literature.

Horace Traubel was Whitman's tacitly authorized biographer, and this record of what Whitman did and said from day to day is practically an autobiography.

The chief newspapers are devoting from two columns to a page to review notices of this book, which is declared by the Public Ledger of Philadelphia to be "one of the most remarkable biographical volumes that has appeared in the last hundred years."

This volume is sumptuously illustrated and handsomely bound. pp.xiv+473. Price, net, $3.00; by post, $3.20.

A SYSTEM OF SURGICAL NURSING

(With an appendix containing useful formulæ, emergency drill, etc.)

By A. N. MCGREGOR, M.D., F.F.P.S.G.

This is a practical and authoritative book on nursing and all that pertains to it, prepared by one of the surgical staff of the Glasgow Royal Infirmary. It will be valuable not only to physicians and nurses, but also as a book of guidance and reference for family use. Every point that can arise in the practice of nursing is treated with definiteness and lucidity. As an emergency book or as a guide where a trained nurse is not available this book will prove invaluable. Cloth, pp. 554. Net, $3; by post, $3.20.

JOHN FISKE

By THOMAS SERGEANT PERRY.

A new addition to the Beacon Biographies. This is the first biography of John Fiske, who was perhaps the most widely known of American scholars. All those who have read John Fiske's works on History and Philosophy, or heard him lecture, will wish to read this fascinating account of his life and work and the manifestation of his genius, written by his almost life-long friend, Thomas Sergeant Perry. Pocket size, cloth. Net, 75 cents; by post, 80 cents.

In press.

THE HUMOR OF BULLS AND BLUNDERS

EDITED BY MARSHALL BROWN.

The hearty reception accorded Judge Brown's Wit and Humor of Well Known Quotations, published last year, bespeaks the attention of readers for this companion volume which is equally entertaining. Judge Brown has exercised rare judgment in the selection of curious and comical Bulls and Blunders which are gathered from far and near and which cover a wide range of topics. They are recorded systematically, which masses their peculiar strength and renders them easily available for amusement or use. Cloth. Net, $1.20; by post, $1.30.

JOSIAH WARREN

By WILLIAM BAILIE.

A Sociological Study of the Founder of Philosophic Anarchism; a Boston philosopher now little remembered, but who was honored by John Stuart Mill and whose mechanical inventions included the cylinder press. His life has never been published before, and the volume is one of permanent value as well as of curious interest. 16mo, cloth, with frontispiece portrait. Net, $1; by post, $1.08.

Spring Announcements

Below the Dead Line

By SCOTT CAMPBELL

When Inspector Byrnes commanded the New York police force he found it necessary to issue an order calling for the instant arrest of every crook found day or night in that part of the metropolis lying south of Fulton Street. This stringent order quickly gained for the district the title "Below the Dead Line." For several years a number of crooks succeeded in operating in the district despite the police, and Mr. Scott Campbell has chronicled their doings. Illustrated, 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

Party Leaders of the Time

By CHARLES WILLIS THOMPSON

Not dull biographies, but pen portraits of the great figures in the nation by the Washington correspondent of the New York Times. Character studies at close range which make clear and vivid the personalities of men you have read about. Includes the President and Cabinet, leaders in Congress, diplomats, and other men of mark. Illustrated with 32 portraits of the most prominent characters mentioned, 12mo, cloth, $1.75 net.

Lady Jim of Curzon Street

By FERGUS HUME

A new novel. Strong character delineation and an excellent story depicting frivolity and its deadening effects on the devotees of fashion. Lady Jim herself, the chief character in the book, has been drawn with the skill of a master hand. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

A Common Sense Hell

By ARTHUR RICHARD ROSE

Being the practical thoughts of a business man about the future fate of the wicked, contained in letters to his son. Does Hell Fire insult your reason and arouse your anger? Do you dread Hell Fire? Does your sense of justice revolt against eternal Hell Fire for the sinner? Are you going to the Devil? Then get acquainted with his home. 12mo, cloth, $1.00 net.

Skiddoo

By the author of "John Henry," etc. Fully up to the standard of the nine preceding volumes which now reach a sale of nearly 600,000 copies. Nowhere in all the history of literature can there be found any set or series of humorous books which will compare with "John Henry" in popularity. Stop and think what a task it must be to write one successfully funny book and then consider what it means to follow that up with nine others just as good and just as successful. Cloth bound, illustrated, 75 cents.

APRIL ANNOUNCEMENT

THE IDEAL SERIES OF LITTLE MASTER- PIECES

- I. THE SWEET MIRACLE
BY EÇA DE QUEIROZ.
II. POEMS IN PROSE
BY OSCAR WILDE.
III. HAND AND SOUL
BY DANTE GABRIEL ROSSETTI.

This new Series in its inception is one of the most attractive of Mr. Mosher's varied attempts in producing beautiful editions at a merely nominal price. The selections as shown by the above titles are along lines of the purest literary values, and will embrace poetry as well as prose.

Printed in Caslon 10-point old-style Roman, enclosed in rules, after an approved Chiswick format on a size and finish of Van Gelder hand-made paper made to order, THE IDEAL SERIES is unsurpassed in the attention bestowed upon technical details. Done up in Japan vellum wrappers with a special design in gold upon a ground work of green these little volumes possess an air of distinction which will appeal to the most fastidious booklover.

PRICE PER VOLUME, 40 CENTS NET.

II

A NEW "VEST POCKET" VOLUME.

A LITTLE BOOK OF NATURE THOUGHTS SE- LECTED FROM THE PROSE WRITINGS OF WALT WHITMAN BY ANNE MONTGOMERIE TRAUBEL

A very delightful little compilation made at the request of the publisher who believes that in Whitman's prose is discoverable a mine of nature lore of unsuspected richness; a wealth of utterance to be ranged alongside Jefferies and Thoreau and which will stand the test of unbiassed criticism.

Printed on Van Gelder hand-made paper of special size, the type set in old-style 8-point Roman (2¾ x 5½ in. page), with Chiswick ornaments and original cover design, these exquisite little books should not be confounded with any other so-called "just as good" Vest Pocket Editions.

A. S. Barnes & Company's Spring Books

Joseph C. Lincoln, MR. PRATT. A Novel. 12mo, cloth, illustrated, $1.50. (Ready in May.)

Mr. Pratt, clam digger, is confronted by two Wall Street men and their valet, who wish to lead the "natural life." They hire Mr. Pratt to help them do it. The result is astonishing. The love affair is equally delicious. The story, as simple as "Cap'n Eri," is a delightful comedy of misunderstandings.

Jane Grosvenor Cooke, THE ANCIENT MIRACLE. A Romance of the Northern Wilderness. 12mo, cloth, illustrated, $1.50. (Ready in April.)

Full of the mystery and charm of a great forest and the love of a great-hearted people. The story is alive with fascination and witchery.

Emerson G. Taylor, THE UPPER HAND. 12mo, cloth, $1.50. (Ready in May.)

In the Squire's house, in a New England village, there has been a tragedy. Later a piratical sea-farer appears and the village becomes a scene of strange adventure.

Ernest Poole, THE VOICE OF THE STREET. A Story of Temptation. 12mo, cloth, $1.50. (Ready in May.)

A great singer, born in a tenement house and lifted from obscurity by a wonderful voice, finds his place in the great life of New York. The gambling fever is in his blood. It is a story of temptation and conflict, of love and self-sacrifice, and of the feverish pulse of the metropolis ruled by the fever of chance.

Tudor Jenks, IN THE DAYS OF SCOTT. Small 12mo, cloth, illustrated, $1.00 net; by mail $1.08. (Lives of Great Writers Series.)

In sketching the picturesque period of the "wizard of the north," Mr. Jenks has done full justice to the earlier dramatic times of Jacobite uprisings which produced an atmosphere that influenced Scott peculiarly. He outlines the surroundings, influences and conditions of one of the most interesting periods in the history of English literature.

NICANOR

TELLER OF TALES

A Story of Roman Britain

By C. BRYSON TAYLOR

THE publication of a beautifully decorated romance by A. C. McClurg & Co. has now become an annual feature. The plan has been to provide a veritable gift-book at the price of a regular novel, and to keep alive the interest in mediæval romance of the greater kind—the kind first told in the sagas, and in legends and ballads, and made to live again in the pages of Malory and Froissart.

"Nicanor" belongs in this class. It is well-planned, well-written, and carried out in a broad heroic style. It has the true romantic quality, and the publishers have no hesitation in saying that in strength and interest it is equal, if not superior, to any of their previous successes of this especial kind.

The action occurs at the time when the Saxons were beginning their inroads upon the Romans, and this period presents splendid material for bold and picturesque treatment by the Kinneys. In the characteristic borders, headpieces, and initials in tint with which the book is enriched, and in the five full-page illustrations in color they have far surpassed their former work.

IN OUR TOWN

Q Who does not know this author's Court of Boyville and its record, full of wistful whimsicality of a Kansan boyhood? Combining a delicate humor, and a vein of genuine feeling, Mr. White suggests Barrie more than any other living writer, and it may be said of his new book that it does for the daily life of a modern Kansas town just what Barrie has done for a Scotch town in "A Window in Thrums." It is through a window also that Mr. White looks out upon the one street of "our town" to observe the current of life that passes there and to record its daily humors and tragedies. It is his sympathy that is Mr. White's most striking trait as a humorist, and that, linking him with Lamb and with Dickens, mellows and humanizes his humorous portrayal of village characters and oddities, making them real people with a real hold upon the heart.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THE AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY has added to its Library of Popular Fiction "The Girl and the Deal," by Karl Edwin Harriman.

THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY have just ready "The Edge of Hazard," a new story by George Horton, author of "Like Another Helen." The scene of the story is laid in Japan, Siberia and Russia, and the time is immediately preceding the Russo-Japanese war. The illustrations are by C. M. Relyea.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have brought out this week "Dynamic Factors in Education," by Professor M. V. O'Shea; volume v. of Professor Albert H. Smyth's edition of "The Writings of Benjamin Franklin;" the memoir of the late "Henry Sidgwick," which has been awaited with great interest; "The Breeding Industry: the Value to the Country and Its Needs," by Walter Heape; the second edition of the "Theory of Determinants in the Historical Order of Development," by Dr. Thomas Muir; and the large paper edition, limited to one hundred copies, of "Nero," by Stephen Phillips.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish on the 31st inst. "The Evasion," by Eugenia Brooks Frothingham, author of "The Turn of the Road." The story concerns the exclusive circles of American society with a plot which centres about a young girl whose beauty and attraction are compelling. Its action has to do with the prevailing fads and luxuries which are so dear to the so-called smart set of the country, and so eagerly read by outsiders. "The Evasion," however, is unique in its characterization. The underlying currents of religious and socialistic feeling, and the uncertainty as to which way these currents may turn add greatly to the interest of this novel of real flesh and blood.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS publish to-day "The New Far East," by Thomas F. Millard, who spent six years in the Orient and is thoroughly conversant with the questions of the day there and the conditions both past and present; "The Philippine Experiences of an American Teacher," by William B. Freer, described by us last week; a new edition of Augustus C. Buell's work on "Paul Jones: Founder of the American Navy," with an added chapter by General Horace Porter describing his search for and discovery of the body, with portraits and illustrations; a new and thoroughly revised edition of Dr. George P. Fisher's authoritative work on "The Reformation;" also, "Bob and the Guides," by Mary Raymond Shipman Andrews, describing the adventures of a lively and original small boy and some grown up people in the woods.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY will publish on the 29th inst. "Alton of Somasco," by Harold Bindloss, a romance of the wilderness, breakers of the Great Northwest, filled with strong passion, with the struggle of man against nature and of man against man; "Krausz's Practical Automobile Dictionary," in English, French and German, by Sigmund Krausz, containing upwards of 12,000 technical terms and words employed in connection with motor cars and motoring; "Childhood and Growth," by Professor Lafayette B. Mendel, of the Sheffield Scientific School, an essay on the growth and care of children, with an introduction by Horace Fletcher; also, "Humaniculture," by Dr. Hubert Higgins, an account of what is known as "Fletcherism," with new light on the economic nutrition of the body and a discussion of the medical sciences with special reference to this subject that will interest both layman and professional.

Study of æsthetics, dealing with the modes of thought and feeling in which the poetic faculty works. The author's aim is a practical one, in that he simply tries to make modern idealism more vitally effective. The discussion is grouped under the following headings: Impulse and song; Evolution of poetic spirit; The worth of life; The universal and the individual; The imagination; Aesthetic expression; Beauty and personality; Nature and poetic mood.

Alger, Horatio, jr. Joe's luck; or, always wide awake. N. Y., Street & Smith, [1906.] 3-244 p. D. (Medal lib.) pap., 10 c.

Bacheller, Irving Addison. Silas Strong, Emperor of the woods. N. Y., Harper, 1906. [Mr.] c. 5+360 p. map, D. cl., †$1.50.

The author of "Eben Holden," "D'ri and I," etc., here tells the story of "Uncle Silas," the "Emperor" of the Adirondack woods, a "one-word man" whose philosophy was only equalled by his dry humor. He fights the lumber interests and finally loses his life in a heroic attempt to rescue his sister from a forest fire started by his enemies. Two children figure in the tale, and a love story between a rich New Yorker and a wild daughter of the woods is introduced.

Baillie-Saunders, Margaret. Saints in society. N. Y., Putnam, 1906. c. '05. 3+423 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

This novel has won the $500 prize offered by Fisher Unwin, the London publisher, for the best novel from an unpracticed hand. Author is the wife of the chaplain of Marylebone Old Chapel, London.

It is a study of social problems in London contrasting the effect of sudden wealth, title and social success in a husband and wife, born of the people. Their different temperaments meet the temptations of worldly success and are tried as by fire.

Banks, C; Eugene. An American woman: a drama in four acts. Chic., Dramatic Publishing Co., (C: H. Sergel, Prest.,) [1906.] c. '05. 51 p. D. (Sergel's acting drama.) pap., 25 c.

Barr, Rob., ["Luke Sharp," pseud.] The triumphs of Eugène Valmont. N. Y., Appleton, 1906. c. '04, '05, '06. 5+330 p. il. D. cl., †$1.50.

Eugène Valmont was a French detective who had been dismissed from the French government service for political reasons and became a private detective in London. The book is made up of cases he worked on, described in the first person. The descriptions of the differences in French and English detective work add to the interest of the details given.

Baxter, W.; jr. Hydraulic elevators. Chic., Engineer Publishing Co., 1905. c. 3+145 +3 p. il. diagrs., 8°, cl., $1.

Bedford, Randolph. The snare of strength. Bost., Herbert B. Turner & Co., 1906. c. 3+365 p. il. D. cl., †$1.50.

An Australian story full of descriptions of nature, men and animals. Three intimate friends are men of great strength and fierce elemental passions. They work in mines and other Australian interests, but are generally unsuccessful by reason of their own natures. Their vast physical strength tempts them to force impossibilities. The love story chiefly concerns the strongest one of the three men characters, and the end is a runaway match on a fierce horse, ending in tragedy.

Beldam, G; W., and Taylor, J. H. Golf faults illustrated. N. Y., Scribner, [imported,] 1905. 140 p. il. 8°, cl., *$1.25 net.

Bouchard, C; Jacques. Letters on auto-intoxication in disease; or, self-poisoning of the individual; tr., with a preface and new chapters added, by T: Oliver. 2d ed., rev. Phil., F. A. Davis Co., 1906. c. 16+342 p. 8°, cl., *$2 net.

Bousset, W. Jesus; tr. by Janet Penrose Trevelyan; ed. by W. D. Morrison. N. Y., Putnam, 1906. 6+211 p. D. (Crown theological lib.) cl., *$1.25 net.

Author is professor of theology at the University of Göttingen. His work is a judicial consideration of the testimony of the gospels relative to Jesus' life and the forms of his activity, his teachings, and "The mystery of the Person." Under the latter heading he devotes a chapter to "Jesus and the Messiahship" and "The son of man." His conclusions are that Jesus made no claim to being the son of God, and that many of the biblical accounts "belong to the domain of legend."

Brady, Cyrus Townsend, D.D. The patriots: the story of Lee and the last hope; il. in col. by Walter H. Everett. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1906. [F.] c. 15+348 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A story of our Civil War, that aims to be impartial. The "patriots" are Washington, Grant, Lincoln and Lee. The first two are merely referred to; Lincoln appears but in one chapter, while General Lee is the hero of the story, which presents him in some of the supreme moments of his career. There is a double love story, and there are some vivid descriptions of battles, etc.

Brinley, C. A., ed. Russell Wheeler Davenport, (master of arts,) father of rowing at Yale; maker of guns and armor plate used by the U. S. government: [a biography.] N. Y., Putnam, 1905. c. 79 p. por. 8°, cl., **$1.25 net.

The subject of this biographical sketch was not a public man, but his accomplishments in certain directions enabled him to do eminent public service. He was the foremost oarsman of his day, and is known as "the father of rowing" at Yale. As a metallurgist, he rendered conspicuous service. He produced the forgings for the first six-inch, all-steel, built-up gun made in the United States. His skill found concrete expression in the offensive and defensive equipment of the vessels of the United States Navy that fought in the Spanish War, and in the last year of his life he began the reorganization of the shipyard in which many if not most of those vessels were constructed.

Brooks, Mary Wallace, ed. The magic ladder, and other stories, by the pupils of Washington Seminary; cover design and il. by Harriet Clark Scott. [Washington, Pa., Press of H. F. Ward, 1905.] c. 3+63 p. 12°, bds., 85 c.

Brown, E. Races of domestic poultry. London, E. Arnold. [N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co.,] 1906. 6+234 p. il. sq. O. cl., $2.

Opens with chapters on the origin, history, and distribution of domestic poultry and evolution and classification of breeds. Following are chapters on British, Asiatic, Italian, French, Spanish, Belgian, Dutch, German and other European races of fowls and American races of fowls; races of domestic ducks, geese and turkeys; external characters of poultry and their values and laws of breeding and their application. Three appendices: Nomenclature of races and sub-races of poultry; Judging on utility lines; Further notes on the origin of the turkey. Author is secretary of the National Poultry Organization Society of England.

Byrum, Isabel Coston. Favorite stories from the New Testament. Moundsville, W. Va., Gospel Trumpet Co., [1905.] c. 380 p. col. front., il. 8°, cl., $1.

Eyre, Archibald. The girl in waiting. Bost., J. W. Luce & Co., 1906. c. 325 p. front. D. cl., $1.50.

An English girl of good breeding and enviable social connections lives with her father in Mayfair. This father falls into bad habits after his wife's death and suddenly decides to marry again and chooses a woman to make him mind. The step-daughter leaves home and goes to her mother's sister, who keeps a little tea and bun shop in a small English town. Here she becomes "the girl in waiting." She meets some strange characters while dispensing tea and becomes involved in a detective case dealing with the loss of a diamond tiara. The girl is jolly and unconventional and is much criticized for her really wholly innocent pranks.

Friswell, Laura Hain. In the sixties and seventies: impressions of literary people and others. Bost., Herbert B. Turner & Co., 1906. 11+331 p. O. cl., **$3.50 net.

The father of Miss Friswell was the late English novelist and essayist, James Hain Friswell. Laura grew up in what is now an old-fashioned part of London, knowing the many famous writers, artists, actors, etc., of her day. Among those of whom she tells delightfully fresh anecdotes are George Cruikshank, Robert Brough, Charles Kingsley, Dickens, Gladstone, Du Maurier, William Black, Swinburne, Sir Henry Irving, Anthony Trollope, Toole, W. S. Gilbert, Madox Brown, and Sir Walter Besant.

Hale, Mrs. Louise Closser. A motor car divorce; with drawings by Walter Hale. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1906. [F.] c. 8+319 p. D. cl., *$1.50.

Mrs. Hale is well-known in dramatic circles as Louise Closser. Her novel has been running serially in The Bookman for several months. The tour through Europe in an automobile by Mr. and Mrs. John Ward was primarily undertaken to furnish evidence of "incompatibility of temper" and thus obtain a divorce. How the means fail is told with considerable humor. Mrs. Ward has advanced ideas about women, and had accepted George Meredith's theory, that marriage should be a ten year contract, easily broken. She has been married ten years and proclaims in her club her determination to demonstrate "her beliefs." Her husband listens to her arguments, and suggests buying an automobile.

Harry, Myriam. The conquest of Jerusalem: a tale of to-day. Bost., Herbert B. Turner & Co., 1906. 2+301 p. D. cl., *$1.50.

Story of wasted possibilities, a ruined life. A young French archaeologist comes to Jerusalem, filled with enthusiasm to use his knowledge to unravel the mysteries of antiquity. Sensuous, utterly uncontrolled, he lets himself lose touch with religion and reverts to paganism. Because his sedate Swiss wife does not respond to his passion, he solaces himself with other women, pitying himself always as a misunderstood man. Many scenes are laid in the Syrian desert, and there are glimpses of the strife of the religious sects in Jerusalem.

The aim of this little volume, the introduction says, is "to give the townsman who wishes to have a little place of his own in the country, true notions of the conditions in which even the smallest farm needs to be managed."

Hopkins, W. J. The clammer. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1906. [Mr.] c. 3-255 p. D. cl., †$1.25.

A quaint idyl concerning an eccentric, lonely man who finds his only solace digging clams. He meets the daughter of his rich neighbor, and their minds and hearts and souls at once prove congenial. They marry against the wishes of the mother of "a daughter of the rich" and the description of their first year of happiness makes the chief part of the prose-idyl of love of nature and love of love.

Hyde, W. De Witt, D.D. The college man and the college woman. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1906. c. 8+333 p. D. cl., **$1 net.

The president of Bowdoin College has for years contributed to our best magazines and has lectured on ethical subjects throughout the land. Much of this material he has now collected for the sixty thousand men and thirty thousand women in the colleges of the United States, to reveal to themselves and to the world what they are and what they may become. He considers the college man and woman among the great forces of the time. He dedicates his book to President Roosevelt to whose college education he traces his great capabilities in so many different directions.

Hyslop, Ja. Hervey. Enigmas of psychical research. Bost., Herbert B. Turner & Co., 1906. [Mr.] c. 9+427 p. D. cl., **$1.50 net.

Contents: The residues of science; The ancient oracles; Crystal vision—history; Crystal gazing—experiments; Telepathy; Dreams; Apparitions; Clairvoyance; Premonitions; Mediumistic phenomena; Retrospect and vaticination. This volume may be considered a supplement to Prof. Hyslop's "Science and a future life," as it goes more thoroughly into many of the subjects only touched upon there. The various experiences quoted are not for the purpose of scientific proof of a transcendental world, and much less as evidence of what such a world is, if the facts should prove it, but as evidence of something which needs further investigation. The author was formerly Professor of Ethics and Logic in Columbia University.

Indian tribal funds: the case for the Catholic Indians stated with the record made in Congress of debate by the Senate on the issue of the mission schools. N. Y., Marquette League, [1906.] 48 p. O. pap., gratis.

Permission was given several years ago by the authorities at Washington sanctioning the use by the Catholic Indians of their tribal funds for the support of their schools. These funds held by certain Indian tribes are their own, which have been paid to them by the government for lands they have ceded. The Catholic Indian Bureau had all along contended that an Indian parent should be allowed to spend his own money, in his own way, in the education of his own children in the school of his own choice. The whole question has been the subject of much misrepresentation—hence this pamphlet giving all particulars of the subject with the debates in Congress from its inception.

Inman, Herbert Escott. The saga of Jarl the neatherd: a fairy story of another land and time; written by H. Escott Inman. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., [1905.] c. 352 p. il. 12°, cl., $1.

Jaques, L. Curtis, comp. Intermediate French: translation and composition; selected and arr. by L. Curtis Jaques. Bost., Ginn, [1906.] c. 2+139 p. S. (International modern language ser.) cl., 40 c.

Contains typical passages from the great French authors of the last three centuries; designed to meet the recommendation of the committee of twelve of the Modern Language Association, for intermediate work. The matter for translation which the work provides is suitable for the elementary and advanced examinations for college. Compiler is instructor in French in the Volkman School, Boston.

Jayne, Mrs. Caroline Furness. String figures: a study of cat's-cradle in many lands; with an ethnological introd. by Alfred C. Haddon. N. Y., Scribner, 1906. c. 23+407 p. il. 8°, cl., **$4.50 net.

Bibliography. Information about all games played with a string loop.

Karishka, Paul, (pseud.) The twentieth century Christ. Bost., Lothrop, Lee & Shepard

Co., [1906. Mr.] c. '00, '06. 13+205 p. D. cl., **$1 net.

An effort to discover the philosophy of Jesus by an investigation of the four Gospels, regardless of theologies and dogmas, priests or church. Various systems of philosophy from the Greek to that of the modern evolutionist are contrasted or compared with the cult of Christianity. The author, who is a well-known lawyer, writing under a pen name, does not care when the Gospels were written nor by whom. His concern is simply their hidden meaning, the philosophy which Christ taught.

Keefer, Ja. H. Notary's point book: being a manual of the essentials in notarial practice, together with useful definitions and forms, written in succinct, non-technical language. Ossian, Ind., Ja. H. Keefer, [1906.] c. unpagcd, T. pap., 10 c.

Kirschner, Lola, ["Ossip Schubin," pseud.] Peterkins: the story of a dog; from the German of Ossip Schubin by Mrs. J: Lane; with numerous drawings by Cottingham Taylor. N. Y., J: Lane Co., (The Bodley Head.) 1906. 15+180 p. sq. O. cl., $1.50. As Mrs. Lane explains in the introduction, this is a translation of a story for children known as "Peter" in Germany, where it has created a sensation. It tells the pathetic adventures, ending in happiness, however, of a clever little white spitz dog. Ossip Schubin is a Bohemian, and her novels deal mostly with the Bohemian aristocracy.

Lamperti, G. B., and Heidrich, Maximilian. The technics of bel canto, by G. B. Lamperti with the collaboration of Maximilian Heidrich; tr. from the German by Dr. Th. Baker. N. Y., G. Schirmer, 1905. c. '06. 36 p. il. 8°, limp cl., $1.25.

Lee, Jennette, [Mrs. Gerald Stanley Lee, formerly Jennette Barbour Perry.] Uncle William, the man who was shifless. N.

Y., Century Co., 1906. c. 4+298 p. S. cl., $1.

Study of the character of a Nova Scotia islander, a tender-hearted humorous, old man of child-like faith, who is a benediction to all who meet him. A New York artist comes to the island to paint, and after having won Uncle William's interest, returns to New York, and later falls ill when success is just within reach. Uncle William is sent for to nurse him and becomes the good angel in his love affairs and fortune. A New York musical and a picture exhibition are heard and seen through Uncle William's eyes.

Prof. Mackinnon of St. Andrew's University, Scotland, author of "The growth and decline of the French monarchy," etc., thinks "that liberty is the free development of man, subject of course to the limits of such development inseparable from human life." In these two and succeeding volumes he traces the development of liberty as exemplified in modern history, the work being a history and not a philosophic disquisition, and dealing with man as a member of the State. Succeeding volumes will discuss the constitutional struggle in England and Scotland in the 16th century, the American and French Revolutions, and the revolutionary and progressive movements of the 19th century. Each volume separately indexed.

McLaws, Lafayette. Maid of Athens; il. from drawings by Harry C. Edwards. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1906. [Mr.] c. 6+286 p. D. cl., $1.50.

By the author of "When the land was young." Romance centering in Byron's love for a beautiful Greek girl, to whom he is supposed to have written "Maid of Athens, ere we part" and several other poems. His impetuous, daring wooing presents him in a most favorable light, and throughout the story he is more sinned against than sinning. Turkish plots separate him from his Greek love, while the story closes with his heroic death at Missolonghi in defence of Greek liberty. Glimpses are also given of Turkish harem life.

Macquoid, Percy. A history of English furniture; with pls. in col. after Shirley Slocombe and numerous il.; selected and arranged by the author. In 4 v. v. 1, The age of oak; v. 2, The age of walnut. N. Y., Putnam, 1905. f°, cl., per v., $15 net.

Covers from the beginning of Tudor times down to the last of the Georges. Issued in twenty folio parts, five to a volume. Each link in the chain of evolution in furniture has been carefully studied. This information on furniture adds considerably to the historical knowledge of the manners of our forefathers. The illustrations have been made specially for the work under the direction of the author.

Three characteristic French plays, suitable for rapid reading during the latter part of the first year or the early part of the second. Each play is interesting from a different point of view: "Vent d'ouest" for its limpidity, "La lettre chargée" for its rollicking humor, "L'été" for its grace and its fidelity to nature. The notes are by the instructor in French in the Central High-School, St. Louis, Mo.

Meriam, Junius Lathrop. Normal school education and efficiency in teaching; submitted in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in the Faculty of Philosophy, Columbia University. N. Y., Teachers' College, (L. F. Snow, Publication Bureau), 1905. 5-153 p. diagrs., 8°, (Teachers' College, Columbia University, contributions to education.) pap., 75 c. Bibliography.

Mighels, Philip Verrill. Chatwit, the man-talk bird; il. by the author. N. Y., Harper, 1906. [Mr.] c. 6+265 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The story of a white and black magpie, named Chatwit, who one day was caught by a small boy, and kept in captivity a long time, until, in fact, the bird learned to talk "man-talk." Escaping one day from his box, Chatwit goes back to the woods, and airs his accomplishment to his mates of the wild. His boastings have a bad effect, and he becomes the centre of much gossip, and endless conspiracies, in which all the wild creatures take part.

Rector of St. Augustine's (Episcopal) Church, Brooklyn, has written this book to refute the claims of the Seventh Day Adventists. His argument is that the ceremonial of the religious system, established in the Old Testament or Old Covenant, was abolished by and in Christ; hence, that the Sabbath of the Jews is no longer binding upon Christians as the Adventists claim. Sunday, the first day of the week, was the day chosen by the early Christians for worship and as it is necessary that there be uniformity in such observance, Sunday has since then been set aside as a rest day, a day for special religious observance; but the Old Testament restrictions and ceremonials concerning the Sabbath should in no degree be applied to this Christian Sunday.

Author is Canon of Westminster (Roman Catholic) Cathedral. The chapters of this book appeared substantially in a series of articles in The Tablet, at various dates between 1890 and 1899.

Munn, C: Clark. The girl from Tim's place; il. by Frank T. Merrill. Bost., Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co., 1906. c. 9-426 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Tim's place is a clearing in the Maine lumber region, which Tim Connor, an Irishman, had settled. "Chip," a pretty, ignorant girl of sixteen, is the maid of all work in this primitive hotel. One night, there is a quarrel at cards, and she hears her father, who is an escaped murderer in hiding, sell her to a repulsive half-breed. To escape a fate worse than death, she travels sixty miles of almost pathless Maine wilderness, and is saved by a camping party, who feed her and clothe her and take her home with them. Her father pursues her but is killed, leaving "Chip" an heiress; she only knows this, however, much later, when she has assumed her real name of Vera Raymond, and is a beautiful, well educated girl.

Neill, T: The first law of nature. Spokane, Wash., Press of the New Time, [1906.] 16 p. nar. T. pap., 5 c.

That self-interest is the first law of nature, is the writer's text, and he believes that when every man realizes that it is to his interest to vote against the present "capitalist system" and recognize the socialistic party as the representative of the interests of the wage earner, he will do so. He offers an argument and some statistics against trusts and the railroads.

Professor Pfeiderer of the Berlin University, one of the leading German theologians and philosophers, delivered the contents of this book in a course of public lectures in Berlin during 1905. His viewpoint of the origin of Christianity is purely historical. The book is divided into two parts, the first being devoted to the preparation and foundation of Christianity, showing the influence of Greek philosophy, and the Jewish-Greek school of Philo, the basis of Judaism, the achievement of Jesus, and the earliest group of Christian believers. The second section treats of The evolution of early Christianity into a church, as traced in the teachings of Paul, the three older Gospels, the gnostic movement, the meaning of the Gospel of John, and the establishment of church authority.

Ray, Anna Chapin. Hearts and creeds; il. from drawings by Alice Barber Stephens. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1906. c. 3+320 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A romance of the old gray city of Quebec, by the author of "By the good Sainte Anne," and other novels. The two races that divide Quebec socially and politically, the English and the French Canadian, also divide it in the matter of creeds. It is the marriage of Arline Lord, a Protestant girl highly connected, and Amédée Leleu, a Catholic, honored by all who know him, that is responsible for the story. The difference in religion causes great unhappiness, the marriage ending in almost complete disaster. The characters are very attractive. There are two cultivated Americans, a brother and sister, and two fine young Englishmen, the American girl winning the love of both the Englishmen. The conversations are bright and the scenes from the social life of the city animated and realistic.

Religion (The) of Christ in the twentieth century. N. Y., Putnam, 1906. c. 7+197 p. D. cl., **$1.50 net.

Author distinguishes between the Christian religion and the Religion of Christ—one a combination of ideas, the idea of ecclesiastical organization, the idea of doctrine, and as an adjunct the idea of the way of life. The religion of Christ, on the other hand, he characterizes as a way of life alone. The progress of the Christian church is traced, and three representative Christian organizations holding conflicting views are examined, viz., the Roman Catholic church, the Unitarian and the Anglican or Episcopal. This latter, the author thinks, is the middle way, the "reconciler of Christendom," though he points out the dangers confronting it. The last chapters analyze and explain the teachings of Christ on religion.

Richards, J: Morgan. With John Bull and Jonathan: reminiscences of sixty years of an American's life in England and in the United States. N. Y., Appleton, 1906. 16+308 p. il. pors. O. cl., **$4 net.

Mr. Richards was born in 1841 in Connecticut; his early life until 1867 was passed in the United States; thirty-eight years from 1867 to 1905 have been spent in England. His narrative is entirely personal, giving in pleasant outlines, sketches of those with whom he has had social or business relations. As he made many voyages each year to the United States, he had opportunities to compare not only methods of life, both social and commercial, but the advances made in every way by both countries. He gives reminiscences of many famous persons—Rev. C: Spurgeon, Dr. Jos. Parker, Beecher, etc., with numerous English and American actors and actresses. Mr. Richards was from 1894 to 1905 proprietor of the London Academy. His eldest child is Pearl Richards (Mrs. R. W. Craigie), the celebrated novelist and dramatist, better known probably under her pseudonym "John Oliver Hobbes."

Dr. Robinson, vicar of Allhallows, Barking by the Tower, London, and author of "The personal life of the clergy," describes the inception and growth of the Mission of Help to South Africa, suggested by Bishop Wilkinson of England and carried through by the bishops and clergy of the English church. In January, 1904, thirty-six missionaries sailed for South Africa and during the next nine months held missions in all parts of the country. The preliminary work is described as well as the satisfactory results, and there are additional reports brought together in the appendix.

Editor is Associate Professor of English at Vassar College. "The guiding principle in the preparation of this edition has been to put before the student as much Ruskin text as possible, dispensing with all comment or explanation that could conceivably be spared. The introduction has, accordingly, made use, wherever that was feasible, of Ruskin's own words; part of the preface of 1871 has been reprinted; the suggestions to teachers have proposed a considerable amount of supplementary reading in other works of Ruskin; and the notes have frequently cited parallel passages for the elucidation of the text in hand."—Preface.

Ruskin, J: Sesame and lilies; with introd. and notes by Mrs. Lois G. Hufford. Bost., Ginn, [1906.] c. '94, '95. 31+107 p. por. S. (Standard English classics.) cl., 25 c.

Mrs. Hufford is teacher of English literature in the High School of Indianapolis. She gives general introduction on life and work of Ruskin, a list of the collected works of Ruskin; bibliographical references to valuable studies of his life and writings; a list of quotations in Sesame and lilies; index to Scriptural allusions; and special introductions to the separate lectures "Kings' treasures" and "Queens' gardens." Notes explain briefly every obscure reference, but are not forced unnecessarily upon the pupil's attention.

- Dr. Shadwell, author of "Drink: temperance and legislation," states that this work is the result of study of "the growing pressure of international competition in industry, which is evidently going to be the warfare of the future." The work contains nothing about imports and exports, but examines "the conditions under which industries are carried on in the three leading industrial countries apart from tariffs." The industrial centres have been selected in each country which represent the textile and metal industries, are purely industrial and as nearly comparable as possible. Vol. 1 is devoted to selected towns in the three countries, with descriptive and historical notes on the rise of local industries, while vol. 2 deals with the conditions in factories, housing, cost of living, drink, trade unions, pauperism, education, etc.

- Lectures delivered at various times by former Bishop of Oxford and Regius professor of history in the University of Oxford. The Constitution under the early English and Norman Kings is described very clearly, and full explanations given of the technical terms which are used in the laws and charters of the Norman kings. The later lectures are upon general subjects connected with early English history. An account and comparison of early European constitutions, and discussions upon the character of the early ecclesiastical systems in Europe, of the origins of the European land system, and of the European law, represent but a few of the interesting and important topics treated of by the learned writer. The volume closes with a lecture upon the Beginnings of English foreign policy.

By the author of "Miss Petticoats." The Golden Greyhound is an ocean steamship, so named because it is transporting fifty millions of gold across the Atlantic to be used in floating a Russian loan. Among the passengers is a band of conspirators determined to get possession of the gold by means of forged wireless messages, a pirate yacht and a rascally captain. Three Americans, a wealthy New Yorker, his valet and a commercial traveller, most ingeniously foil their plot and unmask the villains. A love story is also interwoven.

Juan de Valdés, or, in its Italian form, Valdesso, was one of the most notable of the Spanish reformers of the 16th century. Correspondent of Erasmus, twin brother of the secretary of the Emperor Charles V., for a time chamberlain of the pope, he was only saved from persecution for his heretical opinions because of his influential connections. As it was he was obliged to leave Spain and spent most of his life in Naples, where he gathered together a company of spiritually minded men and women to whom these one hundred and ten "Divine considerations," or meditations on questions of doctrine and conduct are addressed. First published in Basle in 1550 in Italian, it came to the attention of Nicholas Ferrar, who translated it into English and submitted it for approval to George Herbert. This is the first complete edition since Ferrar's Oxford edition in 1638. Frederic Chapman writes an introduction; the original title page and prefatory note of the Basle edition are given, George Herbert's letter and Ferrar's introduction.

Weinel, H. St. Paul, the man, and his work; tr. by Rev. G. A. Bienemann and ed. by Rev. W. D. Morrison. N. Y., Putnam, 1906. 14+399 p. O. (Theological translation lib.) cl., *$2.50 net.

Author is professor extraordinary of theology in the University of Jena. He says in his preface: "This book forms a necessary supplement to my 'Jesus in the nineteenth century,' for it shows how the Gospel came to make that concordat with the 'world,' i.e., with the ancient state and its religion and morality, which we call 'church.' I have tried to show how necessary and how salutary this compromise was, by what pure motives it was animated, but also with what dangers it was pregnant for the Gospel itself. . . . One other object I have had in writing: I have wanted to make our people understand and love Paul."

Weininger, Otto. Sex and character; authorized tr. from the 6th German ed. N. Y., Putnam, 1906. 22+356 p. O. cl., *$3 net.

"This book is an attempt to place the relations of sex in a new and decisive light. It is an attempt not to collect the greatest possible number of distinguishing characters or to arrange into a system all the results of scientific measuring and experiment, but to refer to a single principle the whole contrast between man and woman. In this respect the book differs from all other works on the same subject. It does not linger over this or that detail, but presses on to its ultimate goal; it does not heap investigation on investigation, but combines the psychical differences between the sexes into a system; it deals not with women, but with woman."—Author's Preface.

Wilson, R. Lingua materna: chapters on the school teaching of English. London, E. Arnold. [N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co.,] 1905. 7+208 p. D. cl., *$1 net.

The author, who has written other books of a similar nature, having studied the methods of some of the best English teachers, tries to bring together in this work the results of his observations for the benefit of teachers. Grammar, word-study, composition, written and oral, reading and the study of literature as they enter into the curriculum of English secondary schools are successively considered.

Wood, W. The fight for Canada: a sketch from the history of the great imperial war. Definitive ed. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1906. 20+370 p. pors. map, O. cl., **$2.50 net.

Major Wood, who is president of the Literary and Historical Society of Quebec, treats the fight for Canada, the most famous episode of the Seven Years' War between France and England, as both a military and naval campaign in which sea power played a most important part in the British conquests. He describes the conditions in the American colonies and New France in the early years of the 18th century, the successes and defeats of the French and Indian wars and the campaign under General Wolfe in Canada culminating in the siege of Quebec, and the Battle of the Plains during which Wolfe and Montcalm were both mortally wounded. He uses authentic material that has been discovered since Parkman's histories. There are some thirty pages of notes, an index, and a 16-page bibliography.

The first volume of this important work was published in 1898, the last in 1905. The editor, Deputy Professor of Comparative Philology in the University of Oxford, was twenty-three years collecting the material for it, assisted by several hundred persons. The work is dedicated to Prof. W. W. Skeat, founder and president of the English Dialect Society. It is printed at the expense of the editor.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

As an indication of the lack of interest in bibliographic matters in this country the recent sale of the unique collection of book-trade catalogues and other bibliographic reference works that it took Mr. Wilberforce Eames the greater part of a lifetime to bring together, offers a fair example. The whole collection, comprising seventy-five numbers, including every important English trade catalogue, from Maunsell's unique catalogue, 1595, to the issues of the English reference catalogue, 1902, an almost complete series of the Term catalogues and the British Museum catalogue, went for a trifle over one thousand dollars; of this amount $550 was paid for the British Museum catalogue, a small price when the scarcity of the work in this country is considered. We doubt whether another such collection will appear again in an auction room, and it is to be regretted that it could not have been secured intact and deposited in some public library or in some such institution as the Grolier Club.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MARCH 24, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE COPYRIGHT CONFERENCE.

THE third series of sessions of the Copyright Conference held, at the Library of Congress, Washington, from Tuesday through Friday of last week, resulted in the settling of most of the important principles in the new copyright code, although it was not practicable, as some one said, to "solve quadratic equations in a town meeting," and deal with the details, and, especially, the phraseology of the bill. This will be done by the Librarian of Congress and the Register of Copyrights with the assistance of experts, especially the representatives of the American Bar Association and of the Bar Association of New York, Arthur Steuart and Paul Fuller, with the purpose of putting into legal form, for submission to Congress, the principles agreed upon by the Conference.

The gathering included representatives from over thirty associations, representing the producing interests—authors, dramatists, musical composers and artists; the reproducing callings—book and music publishers, printers, lithographers, etc., both on the employing and labor sides; and, thirdly, the outside interests—as the American Library Association and the Bar Associations. It was most gratifying that the seventy representatives present came to learn that all the organizations had a common purpose of making the law and the rights of authors specific and definite rather than of denying or limiting rights. There were differences of opinion as to principles and as to details, but on the whole the Conference was most remarkable for the spirit of comity and for the willingness to compromise on questions where there was difference rather than agreement.

The fundamental position reached was that publication itself should be recognized as the dividing point between common law right in an unpublished work and statutory protection of a copyrighted work, i.e., that copyright should date from publication. It was agreed between the representatives of the artists and of certain reproductive interests, however, that on works of art exhibited before publication some simple kind of copyright notice should be shown, that there might be no question as between works in the public domain and works protected or to be protected by copyright. It was also agreed that copyright protection should cover all component copyrighted or copyrightable parts of a work, so that there should be no need of repeating each copyright notice under each illustration or with each contribution, and that no material should be brought incidentally into the public domain because an illustration, for instance, had not been copyrighted previous to the copyrighting of the book of which it might be a part. The term of life and fifty years was favored for original works, and fifty years for reproductive works, with a shorter term of twenty-eight years for labels and prints, which the Patent Office insists on transferring to the Copyright Office. As to importations, an agreement was reached between representatives of publishers and of librarians by which public libraries and like corporate institutions were to be allowed the privilege of importation, without consent of the copyright proprietor, of books from the country of origin, or out-of-print books, or books forming parts of libraries purchased abroad. It was agreed that the copyright formalities should be reduced to the simplest terms, the deposit of copies within thirty days after publication and the inscribing of a simple copyright notice on all copies made for sale or use within the United States—the extra-territorial notice being carefully provided against; and that copyrights should not lapse, as now, for non-compliance with some formality, but that infringement suits could not be initiated or maintained unless the formalities had been complied with. Many other questions of principle or detail were brought before the Conference for discussion and, in most cases, tentative settlement—only Congress can make the final decision—but the most important are those above mentioned.

It was decided that no further conference should be had unless on receipt of the final draft a majority of the associations represented should desire such a meeting. Too much cannot be said of the tact, fairness and effectiveness with which the Librarian of Congress presided over the sessions, or of the service done by the Register of Copyrights in preparing the material for the Conference, and, particularly, the draft on which discussion and action were based. It is hoped that the final draft will be ready early in April, so that the measure may go before the committees of Senate and House within that month for the necessary consideration and hearing.

THE LIBRARIAN OF CONGRESS ON THE COPYRIGHT CONFERENCE.

A STATEMENT has been issued by the Librarian of Congress, Herbert Putnam, as to the work of the copyright conference which has been in session in Washington during the past week. It quotes from the President's message on the subject, refers to former meetings and to the work of this conference, but does not present its results in any formulated bill to be presented to Congress. Such a measure is to be prepared and submitted to the various organizations which participated in the conference, and when approved by them will be introduced in Congress.

The reference to the need for a general revision of the copyright laws, in the President's message to Congress, December 5, 1905, was as follows:

"Our copyright laws urgently need revision. They are imperfect in definition, confused and inconsistent in expression; they omit provision for many articles which, under modern reproductive processes, are entitled to protection; they impose hardships upon the copyright proprietor which are not essential to the fair protection of the public; they are difficult for the courts to interpret and impossible for the Copyright Office to administer with satisfaction to the public. Attempts to improve them by amendment have been frequent, no less than twelve acts for the purpose having been passed since the Revised Statutes. To perfect them by further amendment seems impracticable. A complete revision of them is essential. Such a revision, to meet modern conditions, has been found necessary in Germany, Austria, Sweden, and other foreign countries, and bills embodying it are pending in England and the Australian colonies. It has been urged here, and proposals for a commission to undertake it have, from time to time, been pressed upon the Congress. The inconveniences of the present conditions being so great, an attempt to frame appropriate legislation has been made by the Copyright Office, which has called conferences of the various interests especially and practically concerned with the operation of the copyright laws. It has secured from them suggestions as to the changes necessary; it has added from its own experience and investigations, and it has drafted a bill which embodies such of these changes and additions as, after full discussion and expert criticism, appeared to be sound and safe. In form this bill would replace the existing insufficient and inconsistent laws by one general copyright statute. It will be presented to the Congress at the coming session. It deserves prompt consideration."

Speaking of the three conferences, Mr. Herbert Putnam says: "They have been notable in many respects, but particularly in these: In the number of organizations participating. There were thirty-three in all, represented in the aggregate by nearly seventy delegates. In their representative character: They included not merely authors of all sorts, including dramatists, artists, painters, sculptors, architects and composers, but the publishers, including publishers not merely of books, but of periodicals and newspapers and music; and of artistic productions and reproductions, such as lithographs, photographs and others; printers, typographers, lithographers and others. These were represented by officers, but also in many cases by their legal counsel. In addition the conferences had the benefit of general legal counsel in specially appointed committees of the American Bar Association and of the Bar Association of New York.

"It is to be noted also that the conference included not merely the creator of the thing to be protected, and the copyright proprietor in general, but representation of the interests which are concerned with the use of material that may be in the public domain—that is, the reproducers. So that consideration was assured of the welfare of this part of the general public and its right to be safeguarded against trespassing innocently to its own cost.

"The June conference lasted three days, the November four, the March four—and each day included a double session lasting from five to seven hours; a total of eleven full days, or nearly seventy hours. This was merely the conferences themselves. It takes no account of incessant correspondence and discussion in the interim since last June.

"The temper of the conferences: There was not a perfunctory hour or quarter hour. Ordinarily in such affairs, or in committee meetings, delegates are apt to pull out and read newspapers or give other evidences of lack of interest in the matter under discussion. In the entire eleven days I recall but one instance, and that but for ten minutes, in which even a newspaper was in evidence. The consequence was that every subject brought up, although seemingly special and perhaps of peculiar interest to one group, was considered by all.

"The desire to be candid, and the disposition to be fair—this was particularly evident in the disposition to find some reasonable mean in question that necessarily involved extremes of opinion; and a reasonable compromise in questions where interests were diverse.

"The results: The conferences could not themselves frame a bill. This had not been expected of them. The most that had been hoped of them was:

"That they should establish some general principles.

"That they should bring forward into proper recognition particular hardships suffered under the existing law and appropriate measures of relief.

"That by frank expression, in a body so disposed to be conciliatory, they should furnish a practicable working basis between interests naturally diverse, or even adverse.

"Now they have accomplished all these things and accomplished them in a degree quite extraordinary and never predicted. They have established as the judgment of the groups represented certain general principles, for instance:

"That where there is publication, the protection of copyright should initiate from publication. This seems simple as stated, but the establishment of it affects in diverse ways the determination of innumerable provisions and clears away innumerable perplexities. It does not prevent special provisions for dramas and for works of art before publication or of which publication is not intended.

"That the copyright in a work should cover all the copyrightable matter therein. Equally simple as stated, but whose enunciation cleared away many embarrassments.

"That in the simplification of the copyright notice, some notice must be retained sufficiently identifying the object with the record.

"That the omission of mere formalities should not of itself invalidate the copyright, even though it should prevent recourse against innocent infringement. Under the present law, the deposit of copies is not merely a requirement, but an immediate requirement, the omission of which will invalidate the copyright, since the copies must be deposited on or before the date of publication.

"The substitution of penalties for invalidation of copyright, through omissions of formalities not indispensable to the protection of the public.

"A continuous term instead of renewals. The results: Varying terms for different classes of articles, instead of the present uniform term for all. Probably three groups, with three terms corresponding. For certain articles a term shorter than the present. The longest term, however, to insure that no author shall, within his lifetime, be deprived of the benefit of his copyrights, nor shall his immediate family be so deprived.

"The public is much interested in these principles, as it will be in the particular provisions of any bill that may be introduced, but they are not, as a whole, in a condition yet to be promulgated nor were they formulated for promulgation. They were simply for the guidance of those who are to draft the bill. Besides them, the framers of the bill will have for their guidance particular provisions, and even particular phraseology, proposed. And among matters to be dealt with were many concerning the direct administration of the copyright office, and, of course, penalties and legal procedure. Simplification of the latter with immunity from the production in evidence of matter that cannot be produced."

BEST-SELLING BOOKS IN ENGLAND.

THE books most in demand in England during February, according to the London Book Monthly, are:

The Gambler, by Katherine C. Thurston.
The Portreeve, by Eden Phillpotts.
The Smiths, by Kebel Howard.
The Dynasts, by Thomas Hardy.
Memoirs of Bishop Temple.
Porfirio Diaz, by Mrs. Alec Tweedie.
With the Empress Dowager in China, by Katherine Carl.
The Champagne Standard, by Mrs. John Lane.
The Scholar's Daughter, by Beatrice Harraden.
No. 101, by Wymoad Carey.

MRS. FREEMAN HAS NOT LAMPOONED METUCHEN.

MUCH excitement has recently been caused by the report that Mrs. Freeman drew the characters in her novel, "The Debtor," from living prototypes in Metuchen, New Jersey, the author's home. Interviews with citizens of the town reveal the fact that Metuchen does not take the matter to heart, because where they know Mrs. Freeman they know her to be incapable of such an act. As a matter of fact, Mrs. Freeman planned the story of "The Debtor" while she was yet Miss Wilkins, before she came to live in Metuchen; and although in a very general way Metuchen served as the model for the "Banbridge" of the novel, the characters, both principal and subsidiary, were sketched in detail some years ago. Mrs. Freeman denies most emphatically that she has put her friends into her work. "It would be dishonorable," she said. "I would never steal the purse or the personality of one I knew. I should regard either action in the same light." Those who know Mrs. Freeman declare that she would be incapable of making capital out of her friends, and are annoyed that such a silly report should have been circulated.

A VETERAN MAINE BOOKSELLER.

HALL L. DAVIS, on the 8th inst., celebrated the sixty-fourth anniversary of his establishment in the book and stationery business at 49 Exchange Street, Portland, Me. Mr. Davis, who is now seventy-six years old, has been continuously in business at this address, where his uncle, Hall J. Little, with whom Mr. Davis served his apprenticeship, established himself in 1824. Mr. Davis was born in Portland in 1829, and after leaving school entered his uncle's business, becoming a partner when he reached his majority. In 1866 the big fire which swept Portland destroyed Mr. Davis's building, but a year after the present building was completed, and with the exception of a few weeks, and now and then a day, Mr. Davis has been in his store all the year round. Some time ago Mr. Davis was asked to join the Aged Brotherhood of Portland, but he declined, saying he was not old enough and preferred to retain his membership in the Young Men's Christian Association.

HIGH PRICES FOR BOOKS AND MSS.

HAWTHORNE'S "PETER PARLEY'S UNIVERSAL HISTORY."—One of the rarest of first editions of Nathaniel Hawthorne's books was sold to Frank Maier for $90 at Anderson's auction rooms on March 14. It was "Peter Parley's Universal History on the Basis of Geography," square 12mo, original cloth, gilt, Boston, 1837. It is a clean copy, but the subtitle is torn and three of the flyleaves are missing. As this work was published for the use of school children, who, as a rule, handled it roughly, a perfect copy is almost impossible to get. Only two other copies have brought higher prices, the Bishop Hunt copy in 1904, $140, and the Arnold copy in 1901, $100.

Among other remarkable books sold on the same occasion were:

JOHN HAY'S "CASTILIAN DAYS."—A first edition of John Hay's "Castilian Days," 8vo, Boston, 1871, sold for $11. It was a presentation copy from the author to John A. Littlefield, and has an original tinted portrait of Hay and an autograph note.

JAY GOULD'S "HISTORY OF DELAWARE COUNTY."—Jay Gould's "History of Delaware County, N. Y.," 8vo, Roxbury, 1856, sold for $11, and "Le Costume Historique," by M. A. Racinet, for $81.

LORD NELSON'S "GENERAL MEMORANDUM."—The original draft in Lord Nelson's handwriting of the historical "General Memorandum" to his captains at the battle of Trafalgar was sold at auction at Christie's, London, for $18,000. The purchaser was a bookseller who was reported to be acting on behalf of an American collector, but he denied this and said he thought the document ought to remain in England, adding that he was ready to hand it over to the British Museum for $18,000. Otherwise he intended to sell it to the highest bidder. The competition was very brisk. The first offer was $1250, after which the bidding rose $500 or $1000 on each bid. The memorandum was supposed to have been lost, but was recently found in the possession of a private family living near Merton Abbey, the home of Lady Hamilton.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE ELECTS OFFICERS.

At a meeting of the Board of Managers of the Booksellers' League, held at the Café Thomas, East Twentieth Street, near Broadway, New York City, on the evening of March 21, the following officers were elected: first vice-president, A. Wessels; second vice-president, J. Barnes Pratt; secretary, Francis Gilman, and treasurer, Edward G. Lawrance.

President W. G. Preston appointed the following committees:

Employment Bureau.—Charles E. Bonnell, manager.

Entertainment Committee.—A. Wessels, E. Byrne Hackett, Myles Standish and F. Gilman.

Finance Committee.—Cass Richardson, Samuel Reis, J. B. Pratt, C. L. Bowman.

Printing Committee.—C. A. Burkhardt, E. G. Lawrance, F. D. Lacy, J. Macdonald.

Membership Committee.—A. Growoll, John A. Holden, J. A. Wirth, T. E. Schulte.

BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION OF DENVER.

THE BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION OF DENVER, Colo., recently met at dinner partly to enjoy themselves socially and partly to talk shop. The Denver Association differs from other local associations in that they demand no dues and have no written agreement, believing in the axiom that the importance of any rule is the spirit in it. They simply get together and agree to maintain prices, taking each other's word for it to do the things agreed upon. In the matter of special sales, each department manager uses his own judgment, avoiding, however, to conflict with anything agreed upon by the association. This arrangement has worked so satisfactorily so far and has inspired each one with so much confidence in the other's loyalty to the association that when a customer reports to any member that he can obtain certain books cheaper in his neighbor's store no concession is made; and it is generally found that such reports are either manufactured out of whole cloth or are made on a misunderstanding. The officers of the association are: president, Mr. Kendrick of the Kendrick Book and Stationery Co.; vice-president, H. Shields of the Denver Dry Goods Co., and secretary, Mr. Sabin of the Daniels & Fisher's Stores Co.

OBITUARY NOTES.

ROBERT OGDEN DOREMUS, the famous scientist, died on March 23, at his home in the Strathmore, New York. He was born in New York City January 11, 1824.

COLONEL JOSEPH KILLEBREW, author of "The Resources of Tennessee" and author of several works on agriculture, died at Nashville, Tenn., on March 17. Colonel Killebrew was born in Montgomery County, Tenn., May 29, 1831. He was at different times editor of the North Carolina University Magazine, The Union and American of Nashville and The Rural Sun.

ADELINE DUTTON TRAIN WHITNEY died March 21, in Boston, where she was born September 15, 1824. For nearly fifty years Mrs. Whitney's stories for young people, especially for girls, carried her name all over this country. She wrote but little in early life, although she contributed occasionally to magazines. But from 1860 onward her pen was exceedingly prolific. Among her many volumes may be mentioned: "Mother Goose for Grown Folks," "Boys at Chequasset," "Faith Gartney's Girlhood," "The Gayworthys," "Leslie Goldthwaite," "Patience Strong's Outings," "Hitherto," "We Girls," "Real Folks," "The Other Girls," "Sights and Insights," "Odd or Even?" "Bonnyborough," "Home-spun Yarns," "Ascutey Street," "A Golden Gossip," "Friendly Letters to Girl Friends," "Just How," etc. Her works in verse are: "Pansies," "Daffodils," "Holy Tides," "Bird Talk," "White Memories," "The Open Mystery," "A Reading of the Mosaic Story," "Square Pegs," "The Integrity of Christian Science," etc.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

TRUMBULL WHITE, editor of the Red Book, of Chicago, is to become editor of Appleton's Book Lovers' Magazine. James Barnes, who has had temporary charge of the magazine, will return to his regular work in the editorial department of Appleton & Co.

BLISS PERRY, editor of The Atlantic Monthly, has been appointed Professor of English Literature at Harvard. He will occupy a chair held by George Ticknor, Longfellow, and Lowell, and vacant since the retirement of Mr. Lowell in 1866. Mr. Perry will continue the editorship of The Atlantic Monthly, which he has held since 1899.

THE REV. JOHN WATSON, ("Ian Mac-laren,") author of "Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush," has been engaged as Lecturer Extraordinary for the Western Theological Seminary at Allegheny, Pa., and will deliver a course of lectures there. He will also act as stated supply for the First Presbyterian Church of Uniontown, one of the wealthiest churches in that part of the State.

A. B. WARD, the author "The Sage Brush Parson," just brought out by Little, Brown & Co., is Mrs. Alice Ward Bailey, of Amherst, Mass. Mrs. Bailey now confesses that she has never been in Nevada, where the scene of the story is laid, but gathered her impressions of the life and environment of a mining camp from a former resident of Eureka, in that State. This is not Mrs. Bailey's first adventure in literature, as her first story, "Mark Heffron," was published ten years ago, and she has also written several volumes of verse.

FRANCIS MILTOUN and his artistic collaborator, Miss Blanche McManus, are at present engaged on an elaborate illustrated work, dealing with the Mediterranean countries, Provence and the Riviera, after the manner of their successful "Rambles in Normandy" and "Rambles in Brittany," to be published by L. C. Page & Company. There is such a quantity of interesting and fascinating material which has not been incorporated in the books of travel of past generations that these travel books of Mr. Miltoun have filled a decided and definite want.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BOSTON, MASS.—Charles E. Lauriat Co. have removed to the new Washington Building, directly opposite the head of Franklin Street, after having been in their present location for nearly thirty-five years, originally as Estes & Lauriat and in later years as the Charles E. Lauriat Co.

CALDWELL, IDAHO.—C. E. Brown has succeeded A. R. Balderson, bookseller.

MILLERSBURG, O.—Julius Kuhn, bookseller, has sold out.

NEWBURGH, N. Y.—J. H. Horton has sold his bookstore to Dr. John Walch and his son George J. H. Walch. The latter, who has been employed by Mr. Walch for about a year, will manage the business.

NEW YORK CITY.—William Beverly Harrison, school book publisher, formerly of 65 East Fifty-ninth Street, has been granted a discharge from bankruptcy by Judge Holt. A creditor's petition in bankruptcy was filed against him on March 23, 1904.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y.—At a meeting of the creditors of Charles P. Penfield, bookseller, Walter P. Butler was appointed trustee, his bond being fixed at $10,000. Frank H. Grauley, Alvin Freeman and Frank M. Jenkins were appointed appraisers.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE contract for supplying books to the public school libraries of Oregon has been awarded by the Library Commission to the J. K. Gill Co., Portland, Oregon.

R. B. MARSTON, editor of The Fishing Gazette, St. Dunstan's House, Fetter Lane, London, will be glad to hear from any one possessing perfect or imperfect copies of the 1653 edition of Walton's "Angler."

THE LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD Co. have just sent to press for George Cary Eggleston a novel of New York life, entitled "Blind Alleys," which Mr. Eggleston regards as in many respects his most important work in fiction.

THE MORRISON I. SWIFT PRESS, New York City, have just published a new book by Morrison I. Swift, entitled "Marriage and Race Death," which is to be the first of a series of volumes on race problems. It is a study of the effects on the race of the existing location and distribution of wealth.

THE SHAKESPEARE PRESS, Westfield, N. J., have just ready "Love's Labors Lost," a comedy by William Shakespeare, with an introduction by Isaac Platt, containing the 1598 quarto text parallel with the First Folios text of 1623. This forms volume 21 of The Bankside Shakespeare, edited by Appleton Morgan.

THE CONSOLIDATED RETAIL BOOKSELLERS, New York City, have just brought out "The Other Mr. Barclay," by Henry Irving Dodge, a stirring Wall Street story, with a humorous narrative, of the corruption of a small town through "selling short" methods, much like "The Man Who Corrupted Hadleyburg," by Mark Twain. The book is illustrated by Nella Fontaine Binckley.

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO PRESS has just brought out a "Russian Reader," translated and adapted by Samuel N. Harper from the French work compiled by Professors Paul Boyer and N. Speranski. Mr. Harper is the son of the late President William R. Harper, who has spent some time in Russia and is now instructor in Russian language and literature in the University of Chicago.

THE JOHN MURPHY COMPANY, Baltimore, Md., has brought out for the Easter season and first communion a line of white books comprising "Key of Heaven" and "Child's Book." These may be had in leather and celluloid covers, either plain or with painted designs. They have also made especially for weddings an India paper edition of the Prayer Book, with marriage service and certificate.

THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING COMPANY, Akron, O., will publish within a month a new book for children by Dr. James Ball Naylor, entitled "Witch Crow and Barney Bylow." The story deals with the experiences of a farmer lad who yearns for city life, whose wish is granted by the "Witch Crow," who however perversely bestows upon him a magic penny, which, while it never grows less, also never increases.

THROUGH a misunderstanding of the announcement by A. C. McClurg & Co. the impression gained currency that their new edition of "Romola" is to be in Italian. This is an error; the edition is to be in English, and Dr. Biagi's principal part is the contribution of a most interesting collection of illustrations which present the historical background of the story in a manner never heretofore attempted.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. announce the publication for the Department of Economics of Harvard University of a series of monographs to be known as the Harvard Economic Studies. The first to be issued will be the David A. Wells prize essay of the current year, by W. H. Price, A.M., '02, entitled "English Patents of Monopoly, 1560-1640." This will be followed by a study of "The Lodging House Problem in Boston," by A. B. Wolfe, '02.

RAND, McNALLY & Co. have just brought out a new story of the South entitled "My Quaker Maid," by Marah Ellis Ryan, author of "Told in the Hills," etc. They also announce new editions of this author's other books—"A Flower of France," "In Love's Domain," "Merze," "Miss Moccasins," "A Pagan of the Alleghanies," "Squaw Elouise," "That Girl Montana," "Told in the Hills" and "Montana"—bound in cloth at fifty cents and in paper at twenty-five cents.

"THE CONFESSIONS OF A PRINCESS," the autobiography of the ex-Crown Princess of Saxony, has been suppressed in Germany but is now in press in England. It was originally published in Vienna in November last, and within one month 40,000 copies were sold. The confessions are written in the form of an autobiography, and pseudonyms are substituted for real names, but to an ordinarily well informed person the true identity of the characters is easily established.

THE OLIVER DITSON COMPANY have in preparation in their excellent Musician's Library "Shakespeare Songs," compiled and edited by Charles Vincent, who also furnishes an introduction, and "Early Italian Piano Music," compiled and edited by M. Esposito, with reproductions of photographs of obsolete musical instruments, etc. They also announce a new volume in their Music Students' Library on "The Training of Boys' Voices," by Claude Ellsworth Johnson.

DODD, MEAD & COMPANY will publish this spring "The Vicar of Bullhampton," in uniform binding and size with the previous volumes of their edition of Trollope's works. "The Vicar of Bullhampton" was written in 1868, and was probably the most discussed, at the time of publication, of any of Trollope's novels. As the years pass along, Trollope is read more and more. They announce that "Barbara Winslow, Rebel," by Elizabeth Ellis, which is on several lists of the best sellers, is now in its sixth edition.

MOFFAT, YARD & Co. have nearly ready Eleanor Talbot Kinkad's novel, "The Invisible Bond," with a frontispiece, in colors, by C. Allan Gilbert; "In Vanity Fair, a tale of Frocks and Femininity," by Eleanor Hoyt Brainerd, which is not a mere dissertation on fashion, though the origin of fashions is its theme, but more importantly a pen picture of the atmosphere and environment out of which the fashions grow; also, a new picture by W. L. Taylor, a wholly new interpretation of "The Nativity," reproduced in colors and in carbon.

JAMES POTT & Co. announce a new story by Douglas Sladen entitled "A Sicilian Marriage," a love story of unusual interest, the scene of which is laid in Sicily, where the author is on familiar ground; "Undistinguished Americans," the life story of people of various races who came to this country for different reasons and are now becoming good Americans; "The Foundations of the Republic," an inspiring message to young and old Americans, by Edward Everett Hale; also, a reprint of G. K. Chesterton's popular monograph on Robert Louis Stevenson.

GEORGE W. JACOBS & Co. have in preparation a work on "The Battles of Labor," by Carroll D. Wright, U. S. Commissioner of Labor, which deals very fully with the so-called labor problem; "The Rambles of an Idler," a charming volume for nature lovers, by Dr. Charles C. Abbott; a life of Frederick Douglass, by Booker T. Washington, a new volume in the series of American Crisis Biographies; also, a fifth edition of William Jasper Nicoll's "Coal Catechism," a complete manual on the subject of coal, its formation, production, cost, uses, varieties, future supply, etc.

THE REILLY & BRITTON COMPANY, Chicago, will publish in the fall "John Dough and the Cherub," to which L. Frank Baum put the finishing touches before sailing for Europe. The new "Baum book," while as full of quaint humor, novel fancies and surprising character creations as the books which have made Mr. Baum so popular a writer for children, is in other respects quite different from anything he has previously done. The illustrations, which will be in colors, are being made by John R. Neill, of Philadelphia, whose pictures for "The Land of Oz" so delightfully supplemented the text.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have in preparation a work entitled "Camp Kits and Camp Life," by Charles Stedman Hanks, ("Niblick") a practical handbook for the woods, entertaining as general reading and containing exact directions and suggestions for camping, shooting, cooking, etc., illustrated in a manner to be helpful to the tyro. They will have ready early in April "The Ordeal of Richard Feverel," "Diana of the Crossways," "Sandra Belloni" and "Vittoria," the first four volumes of a new pocket edition of the works of George Meredith, in sixteen volumes, uniform in make-up with the successful Biographical edition of Stevenson.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish some time late in the spring Margaret Deland's new novel, "The Awakening of Helena Richie," now appearing serially in Harper's Magazine. Mrs. Deland has done nothing finer than her portrayal of Helena Richie, the beautiful, case-loving woman who comes to a realization of her soul through her love for the little boy David. For some years before she began the new story Mrs. Deland had done no writing at all, and her style shows the vigor and freshness that sometimes come to an author after a complete rest from literary activity. They also announce a volume of poems by Louise Morgan Sill, entitled "In Sun and Shade."

ROBERT GRIER COOKE, INC., announce a little volume entitled "Travel in Europe," by Harriet Bernhard Clapp, which will prove useful not only to tourists, but to members of travel classes and to students generally, since it epitomizes for the sightseer in logical sequence the prime places and objects of importance throughout Europe, thus forming an invaluable accessory guide to any volume of travel. Moreover, the author has introduced suggestions for reading in connection with the various places and objects mentioned, unique in their selection, inasmuch as they are chosen from the literature that will invest the student with the spirit of the place rather than with mere descriptive facts thereof.

JOHN W. LUCE & Co. have just brought out "Whistler, Butterfly, Wasp, Wit, Master of the Arts, Enigma," by Haldane McFall," and Robert Louis Stevenson, by Eve Blantyre Simpson, the first two volumes of Spirit of the Age Series. They will publish on April 10 a careful review of the art of Sir Henry Irving, by Haldane McFall, with sixteen illustrations by Gordon Craig, to whose mother, Ellen Terry, the book is dedicated. Later they will bring out "Foolish Etiquette," by O. B. Hayne, humorous hints on correct and incorrect manners under all sorts of circumstances, with illustrations by Wallace Goldsmith; also, "Miss Dean's Double Log: a Yachting Fantasy," by "The Commodore," a book of humor and sentiment profusely illustrated.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish in a few weeks a work on "Practical Rifle Shooting," by Walter Winans. There are many excellent works to be had on the subject of rifle shooting at targets, but there has been next to nothing published on practical rifle shooting—that capacity, that is, to handle a rifle so that the user can confidently expect to stop a wild animal even if in rapid motion and charging, or a charging man. Mr. Winans's book is designed to furnish the beginner with a series of hints, by the use of which he may be enabled not only to put himself through a course of continuous and graduated training, but may also keep himself free of the tricks which impede progress, and which, if persisted in, will destroy his ability for any but the most artificial forms of shooting.

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have at last ready the long-delayed story of "The True Andrew Jackson," by Cyrus Townsend Brady, very fully illustrated. They have also just brought out a work on "Wireless Telegraphy," by Gustav Eichhorn, a simple and comprehensive treatment of the fundamental principles and working methods of modern telegraphy by means of electric waves; and a second revised edition of "Economic Entomology," by John B. Smith. They have in preparation a book on "Consumption, Its Relation to Man and His Civilization," by Dr. John Bessner Huber; also, two new novels—"Breakers Ahead," an American story of adventure, by A. M. Barbour, author of "That Mainwaring Affair;" and "The Colonel of the Red Huzzars," the first novel of a new author, John Reed Scott. The following books by well-known authors have just been added to Lippincott's Series of Select Novels: "Life's Trivial Round," by Rosa Nouchette Carey; "When Blades Are Out and Love's Afield," by Cyrus Townsend Brady; and "Marty," by John Strange Winter.

It appears that the First Folio Shakespeare, which once belonged to the Bodleian Library at Oxford and was sold as "superfluous" by the authorities in 1664, may possibly come to this country. Its present owner, a country gentleman and Oxford graduate, who inherited the book from his great-great-grandfather, would like to see it return to the Bodleian, and has not, therefore, closed with an American offer of $15,000. He gives the university until March 31 the opportunity to purchase the book, and the librarian of the Bodleian is trying to raise the necessary fund. Another First Folio, by the way, has turned up again in Scotland, making the second copy extant there which has escaped Sidney Lee's census. The book, it appears, has been for at least twenty-eight years in Glasgow, in the library of the late A. B. Stewart. It has the verses, the letterpress portion of the title, and the last two leaves in facsimile; but it is said to have satisfied a previous owner, Mr. Crawford (he had bought it from Pickering), who was fastidious. This brings the number of First Folios in Scotland up to four, two of them in Glasgow.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. have in preparation a work on "The Art of Garden Design in Italy," by H. Inigo Triggs, illustrating the planning and arranging, the architectural features of the old Italian gardens of the best periods, with an historical essay and descriptive and critical accounts of the principal gardens in Italy, illustrated with 128 plates, of which 73 are reproduced in collotype from photographs specially taken by Mrs. Aubrey Le Blond; "Industrial Efficiency," a comparative study of industrial life in England, Germany and America, by Dr. Arthur Shadwell; "Psalms for the Christian Festivals," by Elizabeth Wordsworth, principal of Lady Margaret Hall, Oxford; "Lectures on Early English History," by Dr. William Stubbs, edited by Arthur Hassall; the first two volumes of "A History of Modern Liberty," by James Mackinnon, treating of the Middle Ages and the age of the Reformation; "The Scientific Principles of Wireless Telegraphy," by Professor J. A. Fleming; "The History of English Rationalism in the Nineteenth Century," by Alfred W. Benn; also, the fourth volume of the "History of Intellectual Development," on the lines of modern evolution, by Dr. John Beattie Crozier, treating of "A Reconstruction of the Science and Art of Political Economy."

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. have in preparation "Lady Betty Across the Water," an Anglo-American story by C. N. and A. M. Williamson, author of "The Lightning Conductor," etc.; "In Our Town," sketches, from the editorial sanctum, of a small Western community, by William Allen White; "Pets and Other Critters," humorous animal tales, by Henry Wallace Phillips, author of "Red Saunders;" "The Four Million," stories of New York, humorous and otherwise, by O. Henry, author of "Cabbages and Kings;" "Pigs is Pigs," a farcical novelette, by Ellis Parker Butler, in which a pair of guinea pigs make trouble for a suburban Irishman and a slow-moving railway corporation; "More Stories of Married Life," by Mary Stewart Cutting, in which the author continues the delicious comedies and gentle tragedies of commuter life, so well described in her previous volumes; "Wayside Talks," a new volume by Charles Wagner, of whose "Simple Life," nearly 350,000 copies have been sold exclusive of the pirated editions; "Plays and Lyrics," by Cale Young Rice, the young Louisville poet, who will be remembered by his two dramatic poems, "David" and "Charles di Tosca;" "The Far Country," a book of poems by Florence Wilkinson, author of "Two Plays of Israel," etc.; "Enemies of the Republic," investigations in state government corruption, by Lincoln Steffens; also, a new edition of "The Complete Motorist," by A. E. Filson Young, who has brought his work up to date.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will bring out at once G. B. Lancaster's new story, "The Spur." Considerable interest attaches to this book because it is the first long story by the author of the group of virile New Zealand tales entitled "Sons of Men," which caused many discriminating critics to hail Lancaster as a "new Kipling." These were stories of the New Zealand sheep herders, and developed new ground in fiction. "The Spur" has the same background. The hero is a young New Zealand sheep shearer who is a literary genius. He sells his future to a man for the opportunity to prove himself. The scene shifts for a time to Samoa, where Severne, the hero, is war correspondent and where his love story begins and ends. The man to whom the hero sells himself proves a villain. It is said to be a story of unusual dramatic power, and to fulfill the promise of "Sons of Men." The mystery which still surrounds the identity of "G. B. Lancaster" lends another interest to "The Spur." It was at first believed that the author was a woman, and this fact was widely circulated. But recently Doubleday, Page & Co. received a letter from Andrew Melrose, the English publisher of Lancaster's books, who said: "The fact is, I do not know G. B. Lancaster myself, and I am no more persuaded that she is a woman than you are. I may tell you that my representative in Australasia, who covers Australia and New Zealand three times a year, has failed to meet anybody who knows her. 'Lancaster' has steadily declined to give photographs or personal information."

HENRY HOLT & Co. will publish next week Dr. and Mrs. George Wells Fitz's book, "Problems in Babyhood," an entertaining and instructive book on the care of the baby from the standpoint of constructive control of the development of the body and character during the period of most rapid growth, with some twenty decidedly attractive pictures of child types by Edward A. Bell; a "Practice Book in English Composition," by Alfred M. Hitchcock, who has devoted fifteen years to teaching the boys and girls of the Hartford (Conn.) Public High School how to write; also, Blochmann's "Luft, Wasser, Licht und Wärme," abridged and edited by Dr. F. W. Meisnest, of the University of Wisconsin. They will publish shortly a book for young people entitled "A Summer in the Apple Tree Inn," by Mrs. Ella S. P. Lipsett. The principal character of the book is the ingenious Japanese servant of some New England children, who brings into their more or less matter-of-fact life delicious bits from Japanese legends and strange glimpses of the wee fairy folk of the cherry blossom land. The four little Americans whom he amuses are hearty and vigorous children. Another feature of the book will be a charming out-door play suitable for performance by youngsters. They have just signed a contract with the popular writer for girls, Miss Marion Ames Taggart, for a new story which they and the author had some trouble in finding a title for, finally settling upon "Four Girls and More Girls." Miss Taggart may be remembered as the author of "Nut-Brown Joan," "Miss Lochinvar" and other books.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just brought out "The Title-Mart," Winston Churchill's play, which has already scored a considerable success on the stage. They announce "Black's Medical Directory," which to some extent will answer the oft-recurring question, "What's wrong," and which aims at giving a general view of medical science and treatment to the average reader; a color book of Wessex, that portion of southern and southwestern England which Thomas Hardy has described to the enchantment of thousands, with reproductions of seventy-five water colors by Walter Tyndale and descriptive text by Clive Holland; "Days with Walt Whitman," by Edward Carpenter, author of "Towards Democracy," who visited America in 1877 and again in 1884, and spent much time with Whitman; an "Anthology of French Poetry, from the time of Froissart up to the Beginning of the Present Century," compiled by Frederick Lawton, which claims to be fairly representative of French poetic literature, especially of its lyrical element, from the age of Villon down to the beginning of our own century; also, "The Life of Animals," by Ernest Ingersoll, in which the author of "Wild Neighbors," etc., portrays the life of the four-footed, furry creatures, their ancestry, their place in nature, their means of making a living, and their characteristics and accomplishments. Unavoidable delay has occurred in the publication of the Collected Library edition, in two volumes, of the poems and plays of W. B. Yeats; but it is now hoped that the edition can be made ready for issue in May.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

A strong love story of unusual interest, with the scene laid in Sicily, where the author is on familiar ground, as his previous books testify.

THE EVASION

BY

EUGENIA BROOKS FROTHINGHAM

Romance and reform, a point of honor weakly evaded and quixotically regarded, the life of the idle rich and the bitter problems of socialism are brought face to face in this brilliant novel. Miss Frothingham shows the actual drama existing in the lives of those people for whom bridge, motoring, and week-end parties are the principal entertainment. It is an extremely engrossing story—one not to be put down unfinished.

"The Turn of the Road," by the same Author, has gone through fifteen printings.

RECENT PUBLICATIONS OF SPECIAL INTEREST

The Life of John Wesley by C. T. Winchester

Professor of English Literature in Wesleyan University.

SECOND EDITION

"No novel ever interested me more. There is not a dull sentence from start to finish. What I particularly admire is the sane balance of opinion which characterizes the work. It is indeed eulogy, but it is discriminating eulogy. There is criticism, but the criticism is wise and restrained. I have felt myself brought into new touch with the real Wesley, and put aside the book with the mingled regret and satisfaction one experiences at the close of a fine concert. . . . It will be a pleasure to me to recommend Professor Winchester's 'Life of Wesley' to my League and young people and friends generally."—S. P. Rose, Pastor Centenary Methodist Church, Hamilton, Ontario.

Illustrated with portraits. Cloth, 8vo, $1.50 net (postage 15 cts.)

Saints in Society

By MARGARET BAILLIE-SAUNDERS. Crown 8vo, $1.50.

This novel won the prize offered by Mr. T. Fisher Unwin, for the best novel by an author who had never before had a work of fiction published. It is a story of the effect upon a young printer and upon his wife of sudden accession to wealth, title, and social success. In their changed circumstances each meets a "kindred soul," and the perilous relations of the four characters result in an absorbing entanglement of plot.

WHAT THE CRITICS SAY:

A story of the kind of love none but cynics ever scoff at, a story of struggle and passion, stirring incident, and the nobler womanhood.
—New York Times

An excellent story, with more than usual skill in analysis of motive and description of character. The heroine is a true and charming woman.
—The Outlook.

Sincere and deep in purpose, beautiful and artistic in style.
—Chicago News

This all-absorbing tale, well named "The Quickenings," for the action grows faster and faster all the way through.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THE AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY have added to their Library of Popular Fiction a paper-bound edition of "My Lady Cinderella," by Mrs. C. N. Williamson, co-author of "The Lightning Conductor," etc. "My Lady Cinderella" is a story with many an unexpected turn to its very original plot, the scene of which is laid in London among the fashionables of Mayfair and the middle class of the East End.

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. will bring out on April 7 O. Henry's new book, "The Four Million," stories of New York, humorous and otherwise, which give a strangely vivid picture of the real metropolis of 1905; also, "Pigs is Pigs," a farcical novelette, by Ellis Parker Butler, with illustrations by Will Cranford. They will publish some time during the summer in book form "A Sailor of Fortune," being the brief life history of Captain B. S. Osborn, which began in the August number of Pearson's Magazine, and will be completed in July.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. will publish early in April "Three Men in a Motor Car," by Winthrop E. Scarritt, former president of the Automobile Club of America, to which C. N. and A. M. Williamson have contributed an introductory chapter. Besides giving a delightful description of a European automobile trip, the book will be valuable to automobilists going abroad. In addition to this there are many hints on automobiling that will be interesting to all devotees of the sport. They will publish in two weeks the correspondence of "Robert Browning and Alfred Domett." This is the first glimpse that has been given of Browning in his friendships, and presents the poet in an attractive light.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. publish to-day Eugenia Brooks Frothingham's new story, "The Evasion," "Lincoln—Master of Men," by Alonzo Rothschild, a keen and brilliant study of that feature of Lincoln's character and personality which gave him power to master different types of men as well as himself; "Cattle Brands," fourteen cowboy stories, by Andy Adams, author of "The Log of a Cowboy," etc.; "Bird and Bough," by John Burroughs, the first collected edition of the poems of nature which this loved author has been contributing to the American magazines for many years; also, "Memories of a Great Schoolmaster," by James P. Conover, interesting personal reminiscences of Dr. Henry A. Coit, by one of his associates, with a portrait and other illustrations.

DODD, MEAD & Co. publish this week "Cowardice Court," a story full of love and adventure, by George Barr McCutcheon, author of "Graustark," etc., with illustrations in color by Harrison Fisher and decoration by T. B. Hapgood; "My Sword for Lafayette," by Max Pemberton, a dramatic and thrilling story of the adventures of a friend and companion of the Marquis de Lafayette, with illustrations; "The Scholar's Daughter," by Beatrice Harraden, a charming love story, one of the principal characters in which is an old scholar who is ambitious to write a dictionary; "The Happy Christ," by Harold Begbie, an earnest and strong argument for a happy Christian life; "The Vicar of Bullhampton," by Anthony Trollope, the second of the series of The Manor House Novels, of which "Orley Farm" was the first; also, "How to Prepare for Europe," by H. A. Guerber, full of information on a variety of subjects which may interest the European traveller, explained with illustrations, maps and tables.

The author has endeavored to deal with the problem more comprehensively than has been done heretofore. The extraordinary points are considered in the relation to the Greek palæographical dots, and to the Jewish preoccupations, both textual and exegetical, prevailing at the time of their origin. Every pointed passage is, besides, studied in the light of textual criticism. Finally, due emphasis is laid on the data of Jewish tradition as preserved in Sifre, the Talmud, the Midrash, and the Massorah. The conclusion which is presented to the reader is derived from all these sources combined, and offers all the guarantees of being what the author has tried to make it, strictly scientific. Comparison of the mediæval and modern systems concerning the soul and its faculties. Psychical dispositions "are but the faculties modified in such a way that they no longer need for the exercise of their activity any stimulation from external objects: an inner stimulus alone is sufficient. This inner stimulus is an idea which bears a relation of similitude or contrast to the former idea which it recalls." This thesis was submitted to the faculty of the Catholic University in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the degree of doctor of philosophy. Author is a Frenchman who has since 1893 studied in this country. Is now professor of philosophy in Marist College, Washington, D. C. Bibliography (3 p.)

Rich and poor in the county of Essex, England, loved Dick Penreath. He lived alone with the ancient family housekeeper on his dead parents' estate, slowly becoming less with Dick's ineffectual farming. Until he was twenty-five he had never thought of girls or marriage. He fell in love, the girl gave him up and he immediately married an uneducated, ignoble woman, to the despair of his friends. The details of Dick's troubles make a quiet, old-fashioned English novel. End is cheerful.

Hume, Fergus W. Lady Jim of Curzon Street: a novel. N. Y., G: W. Dillingham Co., [1906.] c. 519 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The chronic impecuniosity of a London couple, possessed of little honor or conscience—the husband the younger son of a duke—is the propelling cause of a plot against an insurance company. A Russian doctor, in love with "Lady Jim," engages to produce a body that shall be accepted as that of Lord James Karines. "Lady Jim's" husband, Lord James goes into hiding, and his counterfeit is buried and the insurance paid. Before the money is even handed Lord James's father and brother are lost at sea, and Lord James is the Duke. It is now to his interest to be proved alive, and a long series of plots and counterplots follow, in which each actor in the original plot is seeking safety for himself alone. "Lady Jim" is a heartless woman, with a biting tongue and keen intelligence, the prime mover in all the wickedness.

Dr. Lyman's parents, newly married, sailed from New Bedford in November, 1831, as missionaries to the Hawaiian Islands. After almost six months' voyaging in a small whaleship around the Horn, they reached Honolulu, and were assigned to duty at Hilo, on the island of Hawaii. There Dr. Lyman was born and spent all of his early life until he came to the United States to enter college. His book is a picture of island life before it had been affected by modern civilization. He tells of childhood play and work, of chance visitors, and native customs, as well as the experiences of the devoted band of missionaries, their struggles and successes.

This dictionary is the outcome of about twelve years desultory reading of Middle- and early Modern-Irish books and manuscripts. The author explains that if from the outset he had made his excerpts in a systematic and methodical manner his lexicon would have been more complete. The vocabulary of no single book or manuscript is fully represented. Words established by Windisch in his "Wörterbuch," or by Atkinson in the glossary to his "Passions and homilies," have been omitted, but words from the smaller glossaries used in accompanying editions of separate texts have been included. There are thirty pages of addenda and corrigenda already for this volume, which show the scholarly and untiring work that has been put into this lexicon.

Introduces the same characters as in the author's automobile detective story, "The motor pirate." That incredibly wicked and resourceful pirate Mannerer comes to life again seven years after his plunge from the cliffs of Land's End. He and his rival, Jim Sutgrove, are again pitted against each other, only this time the action takes place on the ocean, mostly in motor boats. But at the conclusion of the story the pirate's fate is again a mystery; his crimes still unpunished.

Author is a well-known journalist and traveller, as well as author of "Tomorrow in Cuba," also member of the Permanent Pan-American Railway Committee. The purpose of this work is to consider and describe the effect of the Panama Canal on the west coast countries of South America since 1905. Accordingly, he limits himself to industrial, fiscal and political information, subordinating the historical and purely descriptive. He shows the industrial and commercial possibilities in the diversion of trade routes; describes the harbor and other public improvements already begun in South American towns; points out the opportunities for American business expansion, and emphasizes the new relation of the west coast countries to the United States and to Europe. Travel hints are given and one by one the several west coast countries are brought under consideration.

The son, a graduate of Princeton, wishes to study for the ministry. His father points out to him that the profession of theology is on the wane, but he argues that this present phase of neglect of religion is only temporary. Then follows the long argument on hell, the father showing that hell is a mental condition only, and that an absolutely just God could not sanction the realization of that Christian dogma. The son decides to become a preacher and uses much of his father's common sense in the pulpit.

The author has for years been the Washington correspondent of the New York Times and Philadelphia Public Ledger, and has had opportunities to study facts which he has set down without fear or favor concerning men who make the United States Laws and are much talked of and often but little known. Thirty-two portraits add interest to the book. Begins with a frank study of the contrasting elements of character of President Roosevelt, and includes a sketch of Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, who was so long the dean of the diplomatic corps. Though not "party leaders" these have greatly influenced life in Washington.

Thurston, Mrs. Lucy Meacham. Called to the field: a story of Virginia in the Civil War. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1906. [Mr.] c. 9+340 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

The young Virginia girl, who tells the story, had only been married a few months when the war between the North and South opened by the firing upon Fort Sumter. Her husband enlists in the Confederate army, and afterwards her father, and she is left alone with a few negro servants. The incidents are such as fell to the lot of many stay-at-homes on both sides, and are so realistically pictured that the story reads like a personal record of a real experience. Mrs. Thurston is the author of "A girl of Virginia" and other stories of the South.

[N. Y., New York Co-operative Society, 1906.] 13+262 p. il. D. cl., gratis.

This anniversary celebration was suggested by the board of trustees of the Congregation Shearith Israel of New York, the oldest Jewish congregation in the United States. The special event to be commemorated was the grant of settlement of the Jews in New Netherland by the Dutch West India Company, 1655. Arrangements were made for a public celebration at Carnegie Hall, New York, and for services and exercises on that day and Saturday and Sunday previous in synagogues, lodges, etc., throughout the country. This volume contains selected addresses, including those by ex-President Cleveland, Governor Higgins, Bishop Greer, Mayor McClellan, and President Roosevelt's letter, delivered at Carnegie Hall; and others by speakers at the Boston, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Chicago, and other meetings. Also selected editorials from various newspapers, correspondence, lists of committees, order of services, etc.

Watts-Dunton, Theodore. The coming of love: Rhona Boswell's story, and other poems. N. Y., J. Lane Co., (The Bodley Head,) 1906. 35+302 p. por. D. cl., *$2 net.

Although the 7th English edition, this is the first one issued in the United States. The title poem, first published in 1897, is a sequel to "Aylwin," though published earlier. It tells the love story of Rhona Boswell, the English gipsy, and Percy Aylwin. The second long poem, "Christmas at the Mermaid," introduces Ben Jonson, Raleigh, Drayton Chapman, and other choice spirits of the Elizabethan era, members of the Mermaid Club, while listening to the story of David Gwynn, who as a galley-slave crippled the great Armada before it reached the Channel. The last third of the book is made up of miscellaneous poems.

Wayland-Smith, F. Materialism and Christianity. Kenwood, N. Y., F. Wayland-Smith, 1906. c. 36 p. S. pap., 25 c.

Author believes that the great change for the worse which has taken place in America within the past few decades, in regard to its standards of morality, social, political, and commercial, is due to a change in our religious beliefs. The theory of evolution has fostered the growth of materialism, while Higher Criticism of the Bible, advocated by leading men in all branches of the church, has undermined our faith. The author makes a plea for a return to old beliefs, in a personal God, a personal devil, and a literal interpretation of the Bible.

Welch, Ja. W. The achievements and abilities of the blind. Columbus, O., Press of F. J. Heer, 1905. c. 3+518 p. pors. D. cl., $1.50.

By a graduate of the Ohio Institution for the Blind. Tells of his experiences during the seventy odd years of his life as piano tuner, horse breaker, travelling concert player, school teacher and lawyer. Also contains sketches of other blind men and women who have wrested success from adverse conditions. Addresses delivered at commencements and alumni meetings by noted educators of the blind are given, discussing possibilities of the education of the blind and fields of labor open to them.

Similar in purpose to the author's "Old tales from Greece." Tales are founded on the legends and fables of Rome, as related by Virgil, Livy, and Ovid. Pt. 1 tells the story of Aeneas from the fall of Troy to the founding of Lavinium; pt. 2 continues the story through the early years of Rome till the expulsion of the kings, a period when fable becomes history; pt. 3 is made up of tales, some of Italian origin, others belonging to Greece and Asia, but all retold by Roman poets.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MARCH 31, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

BUYING OLD BOOKS.*

THE most difficult task of the dealer in second-hand books is the buying of stock. An unscrupulous dealer, of course, has little trouble in driving sharp bargains with the ignorant owner of small collections inherited from some bookworm of the family, in browbeating the poverty-stricken collector, or in taking advantage of those whom he suspects of having come, through dishonest means, into possession of the books they offer for sale. The honest and conscientious dealer, however, being above these practices, must weigh carefully the values of the books brought before him, and, while in many cases his verdict may be a disappointing one to the owner of books—in most cases the exaggerated hopes of those who desire to sell books will never be realized—the bookseller's verdict will no doubt be just, and based upon an almost exact knowledge of values of the books and of the probable demand for them. Bidding on small lots is an easy matter, because books that are offered daily in the bookshops generally consist of ordinary material, the current value of which is a matter of common knowledge. In purchasing such books it is natural for the buyer to acquire his stock at as low a price as possible, because it frequently happens that even those books that are most in demand to-day, for some unknown reason are not wanted to-morrow at any price. In buying, the bookseller must consider whether it is likely that he can again dispose of the book; if so, how long will he be obliged to keep the book in stock, and at what price will he be able eventually to sell it; is the book offered the latest edition? is a new edition likely to be published shortly? has the book been reduced in price by the publisher since it was first published? what is the publisher's net price? is it in stock? is the book in good and saleable condition, etc. According to the answers the bookseller may be able to give to these questions will his offer be high or low, or will he decline to buy it at all. For books in demand it is the practice of most booksellers to offer a third or a quarter of their original price, in some cases a higher price will be paid, but as a rule less will be offered, especially by those ignorant booksellers, who, to be quite on the safe side, buy books "by heft," weighing the books in their hands and offering the price per pound of old paper for the lot regardless of its value.

It is a good rule, in buying small lots of books, for the bookseller to induce the owner to put a value on his collection rather than to make a price for him. In following this course the bookseller will get an idea—it is immaterial whether the idea is right or wrong—of the expectations of the person with whom he is dealing, whether he is inclined to sell his books at a reasonable rate, or whether his expectations are extravagant. In case the seller expects more than his books are worth in the market it may be possible to convince him of the error of his thinking; but if he is reasonable and asks about what the bookseller would have offered, then the conscientious buyer is in a dilemma, for if he agrees to pay without demur what is demanded the seller is apt to reason that he has been too modest and that the bookseller has taken advantage of him, whether that be the case or not. Some booksellers, therefore, as a matter of business, always offer less than the price demanded, in order, we imagine, to impress those with whom they are dealing with the idea that their knowledge of the values of books is superior. Whether this is good ethics, we confess it would be perplexing to decide. It would depend upon circumstances whether it would even be good business to treat in this way a chance customer who is offering something desirable, as the bookseller would be taking a risk that a well-informed owner might go elsewhere with his books. In considering the purchase of rare and precious books the date, condition, binding and former ownership must also be taken into consideration. In such cases the booksellers' memory, knowledge and experience may assist him in making a suitable offer; if not he must resort to his reference library.

*Continuation of the series of "The Profession of Bookselling." A list of authorities quoted will be given on conclusion.

The bookseller should avoid making offers in the presence of other customers, as it frequently happens that a bystander becomes interested in the new purchases, and, knowing the cost price, would be disinclined to pay even a reasonable profit on such books. The bookseller also should make it an inflexible rule never to buy expensive works from minors. Even when buying such works from adults it is always well to take such precautions as to require the name and address of an unknown person and to try to discover how he came into possession of whatever of value he may be offering. A little tact and knowledge of human nature may help the bookseller in such cases to protect himself; and yet, in only too many cases, will all the efforts of the bookseller to safeguard himself against loss be fruitless, and the only satisfaction that he may take to himself will be the consciousness that he has done his utmost to protect himself and the community against fraud and theft. When doubts are aroused as to the honesty of a person offering rare or expensive books it might be well under some pretext to detain the person or his books until his statements can be verified; if that is not possible, or the suspected person acts in a way to confirm suspicion of his honesty, it might be well to give him an inkling of the feeling entertained towards him, to pass a word of caution to the neighboring booksellers, and to warn the trade through the trade journals against the person suspected. It need hardly be pointed out that no honest bookseller would be so foolish as to entertain an offer to buy from an irresponsible person for two dollars a work which he knows is worth five times as much. He might find it to his loss and discomfiture that it is not always wise to buy too cheap. Nor would he buy quantities of recently published books from any one, young or old, not properly accredited, or without making personal inquiries of the references given, as it frequently happens that such books are in most instances dishonestly acquired.

THE "book buying" circular of the American Library Association Committee on Book Buying, for March, 1906, suggests that there should be greater carefulness on the part of the committee. For example, reference is made to an amended rule of the American Publishers' Association "governing sale of fiction published by members after February 1," quoted as from "Booksellers' Bulletin, January, '06"—which is the well-known rule under which fiction has been sold since January, 1902, as the rule was adopted January 8, and was printed in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for January 11 of that year. This is the rule under which the $1.50 "big sellers" are sold commonly to the public at $1.08 and to libraries at $1, and furnishes a very fair illustration of the factitious nature of the "advertised price" on such books. Reference is also made to "The Political History of England," in twelve volumes, in course of publication by the Longmans, in London and New York, with the statement that the London price is $20 and the New York price to libraries $25. As a matter of fact, the London price is 7s. 6d., net, per volume, or £4 10s. the set, and a special price of £4 the set is made to advance subscribers. We are informed by the New York branch of the house that a special price of $20 is also made to libraries in America ordering in advance and furnishing the necessary authority to import duty free. The $25 price quoted was for ordinary orders from stock, without reference to the special privilege of libraries. It would seem that in fairness correction to this effect should be made by the committee.

A THIRD reference may also be misleading. Miss Hapgood's "translation of Turgenev," in sixteen volumes, an American translation, is published by the Scribners in a subscription edition at $2 the volume, with a 5 per cent. discount for cash. Of this edition 250 sets were sold to Dent in London for the English market exclusively, and we find no record of the English price nor can the American publishers inform us on this point. Whether the book was published at a lower price in London, or whether it did not succeed there and the "remainder" was sold by Dent to one of the so-called "remainder booksellers," we cannot at this writing say. We may return later to this general question of English prices for American books.

WORK OF THE AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY.

At the annual meeting of the American Tract Society, held in Washington, D. C., on March 25, the field secretary, the Rev. Judson Smith, of New York, in his report on the work of the society, showed that the periodical circulation for the past year was 2,858,900, making a grand total since its organization of 754,956,946 volumes, tracts and periodicals. The society's work in connection with the immigration problem was described at some length, including its system of colportage at Ellis Island, which not only cares for immigrants on arrival, but visits them at their homes. In the sixty-four years this branch had been established its colporters had paid 15,500,000 family visits and distributed 16,500,000 volumes.

TO MOVE SECOND-CLASS MAIL FASTER.

IN regard to the proposed plans for expediting the movement of second and third class mail matter in New York, Postmaster Willcox is reported to have said that he had been considering the matter ever since he took office and had recommended to the Postmaster-General certain changes in the laws now governing the handling of mail matter.

According to the present postal regulations, matter taken from publication offices direct to the mail trains is not properly mail, although weighed by Government inspectors, because it is not transported by regular mail carriers. Postmaster Willcox has recommended to the Postmaster-General that an amendment be added to the postal regulations allowing all periodicals to be weighed by Government inspectors, and providing that "catch tickets" be issued for them and that they shall then be considered mail. The proposed amendment would also grant to the wagons carrying such matter the full privileges of regular mail wagons.

These regulations would do away with the present cumbersome system of handling these periodicals twice, and they have the unanimous indorsement of local publishers.

The annual postoffice statement for the year 1905, just issued by Postmaster Willcox, shows that the average weight of second, third and fourth class matter disposed of in one day was 739,620 pounds, and of letters 32,813 pounds. What is needed to keep pace with this ever-increasing bulk and weight of mail, Mr. Willcox says, is rapid means of transportation to keep the mail moving, and at no point is it so much needed as in New York's central or main office, from which all the foreign money order business of the country is distributed, as well as the registered, domestic and city letters. Subway connections, as well as pneumatic tubes, he says, should be supplied to solve properly this important problem.

GOVERNMENT PRINTING REFORM.

A PRELIMINARY report on the subject of public printing was presented on March 26 to the Senate by Chairman Platt, of the Joint Congressional Committee on Printing.

The committee also submitted two joint resolutions, with the object of carrying into effect their recommendations for reform in two directions. The first is in regard to the distribution of documents by Senators and Representatives. Under the existing system each member of either body is allotted the same number of copies of a publication, without the slightest regard to the needs of his constituents.

Thus the North Dakota Representatives have the same quota of reports on citrus fruits as have the Florida members, and the members from the thickly populated districts of New York City have the same quota of reports on irrigation or beet culture as the member from Nevada. The result is the accumulation of unused documents, there being now stored in Government warehouses 9538 tons of such matter, and this regardless of the fact that thousands of tons have been sold in recent years to junk dealers.

Without changing the number allotted to each Senator or Representative, the committee recommends that the first edition of any given document be limited to the number that would actually be used, and if that is exhausted another edition be printed.

As illustrating the point, the committee refers to the printing of 10,642 copies of the impeachment proceedings against Judge Swayne, which cost $5729, and to the fact that 7100 copies remain undistributed, with no probability of a future demand. To print a second edition would cost only $85, and the saving would have been $2684.

The bound Congressional Records for the second session of the Fifty-eighth Congress comprised 93,100 volumes, costing $122,323, of which 61,565 volumes are undistributed. A second edition would entail an extra cost of $1225. This saving would be $75,115.

The second recommendation of the committee is that the printing for the various executive departments over which there is no supervision be placed under control of the public printer, as a sound business proposition which would result in a great saving.

The joint resolution was passed by the House; also one relieving the appropriation for Congressional printing from being charged with the cost of any department reports or documents, except for that portion of the edition distributed by Congress. This, it is expected, will work a very substantial decrease in the amount of printing ordered by the several departments.

UNAUTHORIZED CANVASSERS FOR MAPS.

THE director of the United States Geological Survey, in an official circular, warns the public against persons representing themselves as canvassers for the sale of survey maps. Persons taking orders in Brooklyn and Rochester, N. Y., for maps of parts of the State of New York, to be sold for $2 each, have represented themselves as authorized canvassers for the sale of maps prepared and published by the United States Geological Survey. The Federal Survey publishes no State maps and employs no canvassers. Booksellers, stationers and other business firms throughout the country have consented to act as agents for the sale of the Survey's topographic atlas sheets. These agents are authorized to sell at prices slightly in advance of the regular rate, in order to repay them for the trouble and expense of handling the maps. The price of single sheets sold to everybody by the Survey is 5 cents; if agents ask 10 or 15 cents, most people are willing to pay the difference for the privilege of examining and selecting the maps before purchasing them, and for avoiding the delay incident to ordering by mail.

FICTION IN DEMAND IN FEBRUARY.

CHARLES E. LAURIAT COMPANY TO CHANGE QUARTERS.

THE proposed removal of the Charles E. Lauriat Company from their old stand at 301 Washington Street, Boston, opposite the venerable Old South, is an event that calls for more than the mere mention we gave it last week, when through a misapprehension we anticipated the event by at least six weeks. It was in 1872, just three months before the historic fire, that the firm of Estes & Lauriat, the predecessors of the present firm, began business in the store at 299-301 Washington Street. The great fire came, and stopped at the very threshold of their store. Indeed, their stock was badly damaged by the blowing out of the front of their building in the efforts to halt the progress of the fire, and by the removal of a large part of their fine books to a place of safety. Notwithstanding the discouragement occasioned by this calamity, the firm proceeded to carry out their plans. Steadily the business grew in both directions—in the publishing and in the retailing of miscellaneous books—until it was found necessary, in 1890, to erect a special plant, the Estes Press Building, on Summer Street, to house the publishing business, and to give the retail business an opportunity of spreading out at the old stand on Washington Street. Again, in 1898, it was deemed advisable to separate the two branches of the business entirely, and then the senior member of the firm, under the name of Dana Estes & Company took over the publishing business, Mr. Lauriat continuing the miscellaneous business under the firm name of the Charles E. Lauriat Company.

Step by step the retail business developed and grew until it finally literally outgrew its present accommodations, and the necessity of a change confronted the firm. Besides this, changes in traffic have been going on quietly for a number of years, and the trend of retail trade has been steadily toward the south, so that the Lauriat Company have felt themselves getting to be farther away from the shopping district than they once were. The W. B. Clarke Company were the first to realize this, removing to the Brimstone Corner and more recently to the Kimball Building on Tremont Street. The Old Corner Bookstore next followed to Bromfield Street. Now it is rumored that De Wolfe, Fiske & Co. will move into Bromfield Street, and that Little, Brown & Co. are also contemplating removal. If this be true, it will mean that in three years every large bookseller in Boston has shifted his quarters.

In their new quarters at 385 Washington Street, directly opposite the head of Franklin Street, in the new Washington Building, to which they expect to remove in May, they will have not only a larger, but a better lighted and better equipped establishment, with better facilities for showing their stock than was possible in the old store. They propose to move only a minimum of their old stock, hoping to close it out during the next few weeks through sales at prices unusually favorable to the purchasers.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' COPYRIGHT LEAGUE.

THE annual meeting of the American Publishers' Copyright League will be held on Friday, April 6, 4 P.M., at the Aldine Association, 111 Fifth Avenue. A report will be given concerning the progress of the work that has been done, as a result of the three conferences, in the revision of the copyright law. Instructions will also be required for the representatives of the League who are to be present at the International Congress of Publishers to be held in Milan in June.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—The Niel Morrow Ladd Book Co., of 646 Fulton Street, having outgrown their present quarters, have leased the adjoining store, and will combine it with their present store as soon as alterations are completed.

CLEVELAND, O.—The Arthur H. Clark Company, publishers and booksellers, will remove on April 2 to larger and more convenient quarters on the second floor of the Caxton Building.

HOUSTON, TEX.—Henry W. Gammel, who for ten years has been connected with his father's store at Austin, has become manager of the Houston Book Company, dealers in new and second-hand books and periodicals, at 1211 Congress Avenue.

NEW YORK CITY.—Florence E. Bate, well known to the trade through her connection with McClure, Phillips & Co., etc., has opened a studio shop at 114 East Twenty-eighth Street, (Room 307.) where gifts, including special editions of books and fine stationery, may be found suitable for birthdays, commencements, engagements, weddings or for any occasion when an attractive present is desired.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Educational Publishing Company have removed their New York offices to 18 East 17th Street.

NEW YORK CITY.—Grosset & Dunlap are now in their new quarters at 52 Duane Street, where they have part of the floor formerly occupied by the Federal Book Company. They have in preparation many desirable additions to their list, and have added to their force W. B. Hadley, lately connected with H. S. Stone & Co.

NEW YORK CITY.—C. S. Hammond & Co. have removed from 163 Broadway to the building nearly opposite, 152 Broadway, where they have enlarged and improved facilities for their map and atlas business. This concern reports an extensive sale of their modern atlas of the world, which has, within one year from its first publication, passed through four large editions. They have just issued their new catalogue of map and atlas publications, in which are included full descriptions of their new school maps.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Rohde & Haskins Company have acquired the stock, fixtures, lease and goodwill of the firm of Rohde & Haskins, booksellers, stationers, importers and publishers, at No. 1 Cortlandt Street. The business was originally established in 1886 as McHale & Rohde at No. 9 Cortlandt Street. Mr. McHale withdrawing in 1898, the business was continued by Rohde & Haskins, and in 1902 removed to the present location at 16 Cortlandt Street. The progressive policy and enterprise inaugurated by Rohde & Haskins will be developed on a larger scale by the new company, whose officers are L. C. Lathrop, president; William Rohde, vice-president and general manager; Henry Stanley Haskins, secretary and treasurer. The company has a long lease and will have their store altered and much improved.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—T. & J. W. Johnson & Co., law publishers, have been incorporated, and will be conducted as the T. & J. W. Johnson Company.

PINE BLUFF, ARK.—John R. Stanton has opened a bookstore here.

SALEM, MASS.—C. M. Duren, bookseller, at Everett, Mass., has opened a bookstore here at 97 Washington Street.

SCRANTON, PA.—Plans are being prepared by the International Textbook Company to build an extensive addition to its printing plant. The addition is made necessary on account of the vast increase in business.

SEDALIA, MO.—M. L. Starr, bookseller, has closed out his business.

WATERBURY, CONN.—George N. Ellis, bookseller, died a week ago.

WATERTOWN, N. Y.—The bookstore formerly owned by W. H. Halladay, adjoining the bookstore of E. N. Smith & Co., was opened a week ago by the Powers Book and Stationery Company, which now controls both stores and will run them under one management. The officers of the new company are: I. P. Powers, president; E. N. Smith, vice-president; George Miner, secretary, and J. H. Bradley, treasurer. The store formerly owned by E. N. Smith & Co. will be controlled as formerly by Manager J. H. Bradley, while George Miner, who was for several years with W. H. Halladay, will manage the store just opened.

OBITUARY NOTES.

COLONEL HARVEY KING SHACKLEFORD, the creator of the "Fred Fearnot" series of stories, died at Atlanta, Ga., March 25. He was born near Greenville, Ga., in 1846, and he began to write about thirty years ago. Although the demand was great his facility as a writer enabled him to keep up the supply. Colonel Shackleford, his secretary says, would dictate a 10,000-word story at one sitting, only stopping occasionally to take a cup of strong coffee.

PROFESSOR JAMES MILL PIERCE, the ranking professor of Harvard University and the author of several important works on mathematics, died at Cambridge, Mass., March 21. Professor Pierce was born at Cambridge, May 1, 1834, and was graduated from Harvard twenty years later. Since 1854 he had been connected with the faculty, becoming university professor in 1869 and Perkins professor in 1885. His published works are "Text-Book of Analytic Geometry," "Three and Four-Place Tables," "Elements of Logarithms," and "Mathematical Tables Chiefly to Four Figures."

PERSONAL NOTES.

CASS RICHARDSON sailed for Europe on the 23d inst., to search the market for rare books and sets for E. P. Dutton & Co.

DESMOND FITZGERALD is representing John W. Luce & Co. in New York as well as in the principal cities of the United States.

HENRY DEXTER, one of the founders of the American News Company, on March 14 celebrated his ninety-third birthday. In spite of his advanced age Mr. Dexter is still active and keeps in touch with the affairs of the American News Company, as well as with numerous other interests.

OLD BOOK NOTES.

THE manuscript of Burns's poem "To Mary in Heaven" was sold at auction on March 27 at Sotheby's for $760, and that of Dr. Brown's "Rab and His Friends" for $200.

A FIRE on March 25 partly destroyed the home of Julian Hawthorne, the son of Nathaniel Hawthorne, at Yonkers, N. Y. Fortunately all the valuable manuscripts were rescued, only a few of them being damaged by water.

HENRY THORPE, while cataloguing a collection of books for the Merwin-Clayton Company on March 23, caught a real live book-worm in an old volume of Shakespeare's works. The worm had made its way through a portion of the book, and died shortly after he was found.

LORD STRATHCONA and Mount Royal, the Canadian high commissioner, has come to the assistance of the Bodleian Library of Oxford University, with a gift of $2500 to complete the total sum which was necessary to secure the first folio of the works of Shakespeare, for which an American collector offered $15,000.

JOSEPH BAER & Co., of Frankfurt-a.-M., offers for sale a copy of the Mainz Psalter of 1457, the last that is likely to come into the market. The copy, which was once the property of the Westerholt family of Austria, is said to be unusually well preserved. The price asked for it is $19,200, a mere bagatelle, no doubt, for the American who is actually bargaining for the treasure, but a source of great tribulation to our colleagues in the Fatherland.

THE London Telegraph says that the hitherto unknown seller of Lord Nelson's "General Memorandum" to his captains at the battle of Trafalgar is a London omnibus driver, whose father was a servant of an unnamed admiral, who gave him an old desk containing the historical document. The driver who inherited the desk did not know the paper was valuable. He only learned that it was worth money through a chance conversation with a passenger on his omnibus. He has invested the $18,000 which the document brought recently at an auction at Christie's, and continues driving the omnibus.

A GENUINE fourth edition copy of Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress," with the rare portrait of Bunyan dreaming, by R. White, was bought at Sotheby's on March 27, on American orders for $505. The fourth edition of "The Pilgrim's Progress" is so rare that the sale of only one other copy in recent years can be traced. That one, which was without the portrait and was otherwise defective, brought $60 in 1894. The portrait is interesting, too, because, the book having been pirated, the publisher of the fourth edition put on the back of the portrait this notice: "The fourth edition hath, as the third had, the author's picture before the title, and hath more than twenty-two passages of additions, pertinently placed quite through the Book, which the counterfeit hath not."

MILD excitement was raised last week among collectors and dealers in old books by the report that John Boyd Thacher, ex-mayor of Albany, N. Y., had received something like $10,000 for a copy of a New England Primer purchased recently by him for a trifling sum at an auction sale. Is it possible that a copy of the "unseen" edition printed by R. Pierce for Benjamin Harris between 1687 and 1690 has come to light "unseen" and so was knocked down in an auction room unknown? Of course, such things have happened; but that was in an age when Bay Psalm Books and New England Primers were not so well watched as in this generation. Until Mr. Thacher returns from Europe and reveals, the Book Marines will no doubt repeat this story with bated breath.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY have just ready for the trade "The Challenge," by Warren Cheney, a romance of life among the Russian traders and trappers in Alaska, with illustrations by N. C. Wyeth.

LINCOLN STEFFEN's new book, dealing with corruption in State governments, which was announced as "Enemies of the Republic," has been renamed "The Shame of the States," thus making it uniform in title with Mr. Steffens's earlier book, "The Shame of the Cities."

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just published the latest contribution to medical literature by Dr. Alfred C. Cotton, entitled "Cotton's Diseases of Children." The work is fully illustrated with new half-tones and skiagrams from photographs, and will no doubt be widely used as a work of ready reference by practitioners.

THE UNITED STATES RECORD COMPANY, 114 Fifth Avenue, New York, announces "The Encyclopædia of the United States," which, when completed, will fill thirty octavo volumes of about 1000 pages each. The first volume, the one on New York, will be ready next August. The editor-in-chief of the work is William Montgomery Clemens.

F. M. BUCKLES & Co., 18 East Seventeenth Street, New York City, have just brought out in two neat volumes "The Poems of Oscar Wilde," which, we understand, is the first complete collection of Wilde's poetry to appear either in this country or in England. They have in preparation the last novel written by Guy Boothby, entitled "The Race of Life."

DODD, MEAD & Co. will bring out next month a volume entitled "Magazine Articles I Have Read," by Burton Emmett, a blank book arranged for records under subject classification, with spaces for title, author, name of magazine, date, volume and remarks of such stories, poems and other magazine articles as a reader may wish to note for future reference.

IN response to 516 blanks sent out by Secretary R. J. Smith, of the National Association of Stationers and Manufacturers, 242 have been returned, showing 171 votes in favor of June. As probably the majority who will answer have sent in their votes, it is likely that the date will be set for the middle of June, and then, as the poet has it, "there'll be a hot time in our town."

ROBERT GRIER COOKE has nearly ready a volume of caricatures by Signor Caruso, the famous tenor, which will be entitled "Caruso's Book." The volume will contain nearly 200 hand-colored studies in character of people in and of the Metropolitan Opera House. Henri Pène du Bois furnished an introduction to the book, each copy of which is autographed by the artist.

THE FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY have just published a biography of Dr. John Witherspoon, by his great-grandson, David Walker Woods, Jr. Dr. Witherspoon, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, was a lineal descendant of John Knox, the founder of Scotland's religious freedom, a statesman of first rank, an educator of wonderful ability, and a theologian who may be said to have been the real founder of Princeton College.

SISLEY'S, LTD., London, are following up their success in publishing the Cameo Classics, a collection of the world's best books, well printed, bound in cloth, at sixpence, with a new series entitled The Panel Books, bound in cloth, at 2s. 6d net, in half leather, at 3s. net, and in full leather at 3s. 6d. net. They have also started a series of books for young people, The Children's Classics, bound in cloth, and each illustrated with eight plates in color, at sixpence net.

THE JOHN LANE COMPANY publish this week in their Crown Library "The Reformation in England," by Samuel Roffey Maitland, edited, with an introduction, by the Rev. A. W. Hutton. The book is illustrated with a number of old portraits. They have also just ready in the Country Handbook series a work on "The Country Cottage," by George D. Morris and Esther Wood, which aims to help those who intend to build, and keeps closely to the practical problems by illustrating the general discussion with references to striking and successful instances of cottage design.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish on April 4 Rex E. Beach's novel, "The Spoilers," a story of the northern gold fields, the plot of which turns on a gigantic conspiracy to dispossess the original owners of their rich mining properties, with some striking illustrations from drawings by Clarence F. Underwood; "Alice in Wonderland," "Through the Looking-Glass" and "The Hunting of the Snark" by Lewis Carroll, with illustrations by Peter Newell, three new volumes in the Young People Series; also, the new volume of poems by Louise Morgan Sill, entitled "In Sun or Shade."

At a recent meeting of the London Chamber of Commerce it was voted to include Esperanto, the new universal language, in its examinations. The rules for examinations will be the same as for French, German and Spanish, tests being the student's ability to translate, compose and converse, and, as early as May 30 of this year diplomas will be awarded. Simplicity itself is the principal characteristic of this new international language. Its text books are published in this country by Fleming H. Revell Company, and include a grammar, Esperanto-English and English-Esperanto dictionaries and some small primers.

THE WEBB PUBLISHING COMPANY, St. Paul, Minn., will publish shortly a work on "Evergreens, How to Grow Them," by C. S. Harrison, of York, Neb., which covers the subject of the growth of evergreens from nursery stock or seed. They will publish in May a work on "Farm Windbreaks and Shelterbelts," by Professor Samuel B. Green, of the Minnesota State Agricultural School, author of "Vegetable Gardening" and "Amateur Fruit Growing and Forestry in Minnesota." In his new book Professor Green treats of the growth and care of deciduous trees from forest tree seedlings or nursery stock, covering the subjects of ash, elm, willow, maple, etc.

THE Syndics of the Cambridge University Press have arranged to publish a comprehensive "History of English Literature," on a scale and plan more or less resembling that of "The Cambridge Modern History." The work will be published in about twelve royal octavo volumes of some 400 pages each, and will cover the whole course of English literature from "Beowulf" to the end of the Victorian age. The action of foreign influences, and the part taken by secondary writers in successive literary movements will receive a larger share of attention than is possible in shorter histories, in which lesser writers are apt to be overshadowed. Each volume will contain a sufficient bibliography, and the whole will be edited by Dr. A. W. Ward, Master of Peterhouse, and A. R. Waller.

A. S. BARNES & COMPANY announce for spring publication a novel by Ernest Poole, entitled "The Voice of the Street." Mr. Poole's magazine articles on "tenement life" have brought him prominently before the thinking public and this, his first novel, is awaited with much interest. They will bring out in the Great Writers series a volume by Tudor Jenks, entitled "In the Days of Scott," a companion volume to his Chaucer, Shakespeare and Milton, in the same series, all of which have been exceedingly well received both by the general reader and by teachers and students of literature in the schools. Mr. Jenks has succeeded in sketching the surroundings, influences and conditions of the picturesque period of the "Wizard of the North," and given a charming life story of Scott and his work.

G. E. STECHERT & Co. have just brought out Part I of the first volume of Kuno Meyer's "Contributions to Irish Lexicography," the outcome of about twelve years' desultory reading of middle and early modern Irish books and manuscripts, which is another monumental demonstration of Teutonic scholarship and endurance. Already the addenda and corrigenda under the first three letters of the alphabet comprised in this volume make thirty pages, a proof of the untiring watchfulness of its compiler. Other new books that can be furnished by this house include "Illustrated Guide to Athens and the Environs," made up from the handbooks of Baedeker and others; "The Roman Forum, Its History and Monuments," by Christian Huelsen, translated from the second German edition by Jesse Benedict Carter; also, Baron Friedrich W. Bissing's "Monuments of Egyptian Sculpture," just started by Bruckmann in Munich, of which there will be twelve large folio parts in portfolios, the first of which is now ready.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. will publish next week a book of travel entitled "Ten Thousand Miles in a Yacht," by Richard Arthur, a young man of letters not unknown to magazine readers in this country and in England. The ten thousand miles described (and illustrated with over a hundred and fifty exceptionally good half-tones) were those traversed by the steam yacht Virginia on the record cruise organized by Commodore Benedict, which the well-known vessel made last winter round the West Indies and a thousand miles up the Amazon River. The pictures of the Amazon country, and parts of the story are calculated to make a particular appeal to those interested in India rubber, one of the objects of the cruise being to investigate the sources of the supply of Brazilian rubber. W. M. Ivins, who made such a lively campaign as the Republican candidate in the late New York mayoral election, was one of the cruising party, and he has written a characteristic introduction to Mr. Arthur's book.

T. WERNER LAURIE, London, has just brought out a charming volume on "Fishing for Pleasure and Catching It," by Edward Marston, of the firm of Sampson Low, Marston & Co., to which his son, R. B. Marston, has added two chapters on "Angling in North Wales." The book treats mainly of fish and fishing from the standpoint of an expert fisherman, but always most entertainingly, and incidentally describes with the touch of a poet and true lover of nature the localities and scenes through which this particular fisherman and his friends passed, which makes it worthy of a place on the shelf besides the work of that master piscator, Walton. The author in his preface to his latest volume, which completes a round dozen of books by his hands, thinks that "now surely the time has arrived for me to cry off." His friends, however, will not agree with this, and hope that the "Amateur Angler" may be spared the strength to write many another such good book as this. Charles Scribner's Sons have an edition for the American market.

L. C. PAGE & Co. will publish early next month "The Voyage of The Arrow," by Captain T. Jenkins Hains, which, like his "Wind-jammers" and "Black Barque," is a strong and realistic story of life on the high seas, written with that attention to correct detail and skill in narration that stamps all his work. Captain Hains comes of a long line of distinguished British and American naval and army officers. His grandfather, Thornton Jenkins, was read-admiral of the United States Navy; his cousin, Sir Robert Jenkins, K.C.B., was vice-admiral of the Royal Navy. Both rendered valuable service in the suppression of the slave trade. His father, General Hains, was secretary of the Lighthouse Board, with Captain (now Admiral) Dewey as naval secretary, while both his brothers are officers in the United States army. They announce a new edition of "The Sandman, More Farm Stories," by William J. Hopkins. The New York State Board of Education has recently included Mr. Hopkins's two "Sandman" books in their list of publications recommended for children's supplementary school reading, or for kindergarten use.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY publish this week "Municipal Ownership in Great Britain," by Professor Hugo Richard Meyer; "Wessex: Painted by Walter Tyndale, Described by Clive Holland;" "Brief Literary Criticisms," by the late Richard Holt Hutton, selected from the Spectator, and edited by his niece, Elizabeth M. Roscoe; "The Arbitrator in Council;" "The Little Cyclopædia of Common Things," by the Rev. Sir George W. Cox; "A Declaration on Biblical Criticism," by 1725 clergy of the Anglican Communion, edited by Hubert Handley; volume II. of "The Works of Francis Beaumont and John Fletcher," in the Cambridge English Classics; "Studies in Roman History," by E. G. Hardy; "Summary of English History," by Norman L. Frazer; "Religions of the Past and the Religion of the Future," by "Senex;" "Plutarch's Lives," translated by W. R. Frazer, in the New Classical Library, edited by Dr. Emil Reich; and "The Writers' and Artists' Year-Book, 1906." Mr. George P. Brett, president of the Macmillan Company, who has just returned from England, reports that he has made arrangements for the publication in this country of the following books of special interest: Bram Stoker's "Life of Sir Henry Irving;" "Life of Lord Leighton," in two volumes, by Mrs. Russell Barrington, who wrote the biography of G. F. Watts that appeared last fall; "Vacation Rambles in London," by E. V. Lucas, uniform with "A Wanderer in Holland," by the same author; the authorized life of the late Walter Crane, which will contain many interesting illustrations not before reproduced; "Harold," the next drama to come from the pen of Stephen Phillips, whose "Nero," written last year, is just published; Muther's "History of Modern Painting," in four volumes, revised and enlarged; "The Fair Hills of Ireland," by Stephen Gwynn, delightfully illustrated by Hugh Thomson; a new edition of the "Novels of Ivan Turgenev," in fifteen volumes; and a new and cheaper edition of "Main Currents in Nineteenth Century Literature," by George Brandes.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

 In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

 Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

Superb Illustrations in Color by
BESSIE COLLINS PEASE

Verses by
EDMUND VANCE COOKE

A well-known buyer says: It is without question the best and most beautiful baby record on the market.

One readily falls in love with the beautiful baby pictures, so irresistible in their sweetness, with which Miss Pease has decorated the pages.

The verses by Edmund Vance Cooke add much to the charm and interest of the book.

"The wee, wet kiss against my lips,
The warm head in its shoulder nest
The little legs across my chest,
The froward little finger tips;

Choose as you will! My choice is best;
The little life across my breast."

Important Announcement

My Lady Cinderella

By MRS. C. N. WILLIAMSON

Co-author of "The Lightning Conductor," etc.

ISSUED AS No. 37 THE LIBRARY OF POPULAR FICTION

"My Lady Cinderella" is a really thrilling story with many an unexpected turn to its very original plot and brimming full of stirring incidents.

The scene is laid in London, among the fashionables of Mayfair and the middle class of the East End.

The story runs swiftly, is brilliantly written, full of many dramatic moments.

THE JUNGLE By UPTON SINCLAIR

"There isn't a doubt about it—you have written the great book. It is wide and deep as the spaces between the stars. It takes a man down into hell and up into heaven. There is the shock and terror of things that have been, and the beauty of things to be. It drives a man almost to despair; then stirs in him such hopes as come only in dreams. It has brought together in my mind all the nameless things—things that I cannot find words for. No other man on this side the water has come within reach of you.

"For three years (1897-1900) I was pastor in Chicago, during which time I preached in Plymouth church Sunday mornings, and gave my evenings to mission work in the district which you describe. Having lived most of my life as a working-man—five years of that time, on and off, as a common sailor—I had the workman's point of view and found myself in full sympathy with him. Men will say that you have overdrawn the thing; it is not so. You had the novelist's rights, of course, but you have not misused them. Your book is true—true as life—true as death. Men who do not know should keep still. Men who do know, and deny it, are liars. Men who know, and say nothing, are cowards.

"Tolstoy, Zola, Gorky—these are the men with whom I compare you. None of them has done anything greater; at least, more significant. You have a surer hold upon the raw facts of life, as deep a vision, and that rare witchery of treatment that creates a new world out of chaos. In 'The Jungle' one feels how unutterably tragic is the life of the oppressed poor—how much of beauty and joy they miss. The man who can read it without being moved to the depth of his being may know that judgment has been passed upon him. Already he is a dead soul. From chapter to chapter the story unfolds with the inevitableness of fate. I can compare it to nothing but the full sweep of the tide. It is strong and fine—fine in every detail. You are true to facts, you are sure of your material, but above all, you get down into things that cannot be defined. Already I am crying it from the housetops. I shall preach on it when the time comes. Some of the University men have promised to read it. One man—economics—has told the men in his classes to get it. People must read it. Those who know what you have done must take hold and lift. Here is the chance we have been waiting for. Men may rejoice in, or hate, 'The Jungle,' but they will never look at the social question, after reading it, in quite the same way again."

LINCOLN: Master of Men

By ALONZO ROTHSCHILD

In restricting his treatment to one aspect of Lincoln's greatness,—his mastery over men,—Mr. Rothschild has opened up a field of biography which is distinctly novel. The eight chapters take up successively Lincoln's physical, intellectual, and early political prowess in his relations with Douglas, Seward, Chase, Stanton, Frémont, and McClellan. They may be read either independently or consecutively, and taken as a whole afford a most entertaining and instructive account of Lincoln's life. With notes, bibliography, and 8 portraits. $3.00, net. Postpaid, $3.17.
